Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a new feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Helbig Jewelers

One of Oakland's oldest family-owned business, Helbig Jewelers, opened their doors for business last month in their new building at 223 East Alder Street in downtown Oakland. Established in 1946, the business specializes in a full line of jewelry, watches and diamonds. They offer an extensive repair service and engraving, as well as plaques and trophies.

Donald E. Helbig and his wife, Margaret, opened their first Oakland store across the street from their new location (now Oakland Optical) in 1946. At a later date, the store moved next door in the same building to its well known former location. In 1987, the second generation of Helbigs, Donald L. and Patricia, became the owners, and the four family members, along with employee Mabel Nethkin, continue the family business tradition.

Another continuing tradition at Helbig Jewelers are the interior fixtures, which were built in 1917 for a Wheeling, W.Va. jewelry store, purchased by Donald E. Helbig for his first store, and moved to each of their new locations.

The new store offers more much-needed space for fine jewelry and gifts, and is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. The store can be reached by calling 334-2610.

Other Oakland merchants are excited about the look the new building lends to the downtown area. GOBA President Jack Jones said, "In this extremely tight monetary time, it's exciting that two new businesses can build new buildings (speaking of Helbig's and Presentations). These strong, viable businesses now take the place of two unlivable slum buildings, and in addition to the increased business traffic these businesses will bring, new residences in the form of affordable apartments are located upstairs in the Helbig's building." He concluded by saying this prime commercial lot sat empty for 10 years. It saw a change of ownership in 1988 leading to the present development, and the property was then purchased by Donald L. Helbig in 1991. "It's projects like this," Jones said, "which are necessary for downtown revitalization to make our town a better place for businesses, residents, offices and youth."

A FACE LIFT FOR HELBIG JEWELERS AND DOWNTOWN OAKLAND -- The new Helbig Jewelers building at 223 East Alder Street now holds the family-owned and operated business established in 1946. The antique fixtures, below, were built in 1917 and have been relocated as well, to give the new store a traditional look.

How To Save Up To $35,507.25 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save a substantial amount of interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage, new from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make ½ a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that ½ a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments—or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly, meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing two checks a month instead of one.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	10.00% A.P.R. (Fixed)
Term:	15 Years
Monthly Payment:	$806.25
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$403.13
Total Paid (Monthly):	$145,125.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$131,823.51
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$13,301.49

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 YEARS AND 7 MONTHS, INSTEAD OF 15!

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	8.00% A.P.R.* (Adjustable)
Term:	30 Years
Monthly Payment:	$550.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$275.25
Total Paid (Monthly):	$198,180.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$162,672.75
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$35,507.25

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 22 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS INSTEAD OF 30!

The annual percentage rate is subject to change after consummation.*

Find out how much you could save on your mortgage by choosing a First Federal Bi-Weekly Mortgage instead of a traditional mortgage plan. Call today for current rates and an estimate on your possible interest savings.

Correction Noted

In a feature story about massage, which appeared in last week's issue of The Republican, it was incorrectly stated that Jimmy Railey, a local triathlete, was helped by massage therapy, received from Linda Theriot of Grantsville, in his performance at the Ironman Triathelon event.

In fact, Railey was referring to his performance at a triathelon event held this past summer in Baltimore (since he was not yet acquainted with Theriot at that time.)

Sherry Frantz, author of the feature, regrets the error.

A SOFTER RIDE is in store for the residents of Goodwill Home in Grantsville, thanks to a newly acquired wheelchair with pneumatic tires front and back, which make for easier riding and pushing outdoors. Pictured, home administrator Henry Diller explains the advantages of the chair to residents Olga Sarfino, left, and Loretta McLaughlin. The chair was donated through the mutual efforts of Grantsville Rotary Club, Mt. Top Chapter No. 29 DAV, Glade Mennonite Church, Sunday school classes from Springs Mennonite Church, Oak Grove Mennonite Church assisters, Salisbury Lions Club, and Alta Yoder. The gift was also made possible by a substantial discount in the purchase price by Mid-State Medical, Inc., Marlin Bender, technical director.

Tax Offices To Be Open Monday

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said state income tax officials are fielding many calls from taxpayers asking about Form 1099G, which his office mailed to 858,000 taxpayers during the last two weeks of January.

"We're going to remain open on Washington's Birthday, Monday, February 17, to help answer those and other state income tax concerns," Mr. Goldstein said. The hours of assistance are 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Maryland Income Tax Division is required by federal law to send the 1099G information forms to taxpayers who itemized deductions last year and received a refund from the state of Maryland, reminding them to report that refund as income on their 1991 federal return.

"Many of the calls we're receiving are from taxpayers who didn't receive a refund check last year. However, Form 1099G indicates if any or all of the refund was applied to estimated taxes, as a donation to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund, or a host of other offsets and credits," he said.

The form also reflects all Maryland refunds credited to the taxpayer during 1991, including not only an original tax refund for 1990, but also refunds from any amended returns for 1990 or prior years.

Federal law states that taxpayers receive the benefit of a refund even if the refund was applied to some other purpose and they did not physically receive a refund check.

Taxpayers who still have questions after they check their records should call the refund section at (410) 974-3701, the income tax division's toll-free number, 1-800-MD TAXES, or any local state income tax office.

The comptroller urged taxpayers to take advantage of the extended service on February 12 and 17. Assistance is also provided Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

"Our state tax experts will answer any questions, provide the necessary forms and even complete your Maryland income tax return free of charge, if you like. Just be sure to bring along a completed copy of your federal return and all W-2 statements," Goldstein said.

The addresses and telephone numbers of all Maryland income tax offices are listed on the back of the state tax packet and in most local telephone directories. The toll-free number for free state tax assistance is 1-800-MD TAXES.

HEARING AIDS
DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?
This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.
We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".
Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE OAKLAND ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, better known in recent years as Center Street School, was built in 1895, partly by funds appropriated for teaching, when a proposed bond issue was voted down. The school term that year lasted just six weeks. In the fall of 1922, the building was badly damaged by fire and the classes had to be held at various locations around town, such as the Knights of Pythias building, the Catholic Church, and Oakland City Hall. The building was restored and occupied shortly thereafter. This photo, from the collection of Freda Pennington, is published courtesy of The Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Latest Personal Income Data Shows Maryland Struggling With The Recession

The latest release of quarterly personal income data by the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis shows Maryland being hit harder by the recession than by neighboring states as well as the U.S. as a whole. However, the worst for Maryland may be over.

According to Ronald Kreitner, director of the Maryland Office of Planning, whose office analyzes the data, "total personal income, adjusted for inflation and seasonal factors, declined 1.7 percent for the third quarter of 1991 compared to the same quarter in 1990." (The year-to-year changes in quarterly personal income are shown in Chart 1.)

This drop, characteristic of a severe recession, was much sharper than the 0.8 percent decline for the entire country as well as declines in the neighboring states of Pennsylvania, also 0.8 percent, and Virginia, which experienced a drop of 1.1 percent. In fact, among the 50 states and the District of Columbia, only eight states -- California, Connecticut, New York, Vermont, New Jersey, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island -- had declines in personal incomes greater than Maryland's. Of these eight states, all but California are located in the Northeast where weakened financial institutions and commercial and residential real estate markets have been principal factors in the severity of the recession.

On a quarter-to-quarter basis, the data indicated that the recession started to really take affect locally during the July-September period of 1990 when the state experienced its first decline in personal income - $214 million, or 0.2 percent. The last three months of 1990 saw the largest drop of the current recession, nearly 1.2 billion, or -1.3 percent.

On an encouraging note, positive growth in personal income resume during the second quarter (April-June) in 1991 with a gain of $257 million, or 0.3 percent. Although preliminary numbers for the following three months of 1991 indicate a decline of $221 million, or 0.2 percent, the one quarter of positive growth followed by a relatively small decline may be viewed as a hopeful sign that perhaps the worst is over.

"Almost all sectors of the economy are experiencing the effects of the recession, but two sectors, construction and manufacturing, are being hit the hardest," according to Kreitner. For construction, total earnings are down 14.5 percent in the third quarter of 1991 compared to the same time period for 1990, much worse than the 8.8 percent decline for the U.S. In manufacturing, the decline was 6 percent, nearly double the 3.2 percent drop for the entire country.

Overall declining economic activity, along with plunging interest rates, has also led to drops in non-wage components of personal income. For instance, from the third quarter of 1990 through the third quarter of 1991 there was a 5.4 percent decline in the "dividends, interest and rent" category in Maryland.

The one major increase registered among the components of personal income in Maryland is really a negative indicator on the performance of the economy. Transfer payments, which include both unemployment insurance and general public assistance payments, as well as retirement benefits, were up 924 million, or 7.9 percent, between the third quarter of 1990 and 1991. For the unemployment insurance benefit portion of the transfer payment sector, the $222 million gain represented a dramatic 94 percent increase.

First United Reports Strong 1991 Performance

"This past year has proven to be a challenge for many financial service providers," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, President and chief executive officer of First United Corporation, Oakland. "However, I'm pleased to announce, despite the economic downturn in 1991, First United posted its second highest earnings year since its inception."

A primary measure of First United's performance, the Corporation posted a 1.37 percent return on average assets. This represents net income of $4.77 million, or $2.81 per common share. These figures compare favorably with the previous years return on assets of 1.34 percent. The net income for 1990 was $4.67 million, or $2.75 per common share.

Stanton continued, "Our earnings results for 1991 are impressive in comparison to peer banks. They place us among some of the top performing banks in the nation. And, it is especially gratifying when many institutions are struggling to reach a return on assets of one percent."

The First United chairman added, "Our mission statement clearly outlines that we will not sacrifice profits for the sake of growth alone. Our 1991 performance reflects this maxim, showing consistent profits with little growth. Our First United philosophy is to look toward strategic or longer-term planning, rather than striving for short-term results. This has provided us with a strong track record, despite temporary changes in the economic climate."

Although deposit and loan growth was relatively flat for 1991, both Trust department assets under management and its related income had a significant growth. Trust assets grew to $80.5 million, a 17 percent increase over the $68.8 million in assets for 1990. Trust department income was posted at $.60 million at year-end, a 12 percent increase over the previous year.

"A community bank's bottom line is often a direct effect of the level of their loan quality and volume," Stanton stated. "At First United we continue to stress the quality of our loan portfolio and enhance our already strict credit review procedures. I believe this is one of our strengths which will continue to service us well in future years."

First United's 1991 nonperforming loans stood at $3.76 million or 1.55 percent of gross outstanding loans. A slight increase over the 1.07 percent of gross outstanding loans for 1990, Stanton attributed the manageable upturn to worsening economic conditions.

Posting a 1991 return on shareholders' equity of 13.65 percent, the Corporation showed an increase in both stock price and cash dividends. Beginning the year with a high ask price of $30.00 per share, the price increased to $31.00 per share by year-end. First United paid cash dividends to shareholders of $1.37 per share as compared to $1.15 per share in 1990. The $.22 per share increase was primarily attributable to a special dividend, based on strong earnings, paid in December of $.21 per share. The total dividend payout for 1991 reflected a 19.13 percent increase over the dividends paid to shareholders in 1990.

In reviewing the stock performance of First United Corporation, Stanton noted historical strong returns for investors. "Over the past decade, our shareholders have enjoyed an annual return of 13.42 percent when one considers the appreciation of the stock and the steady stream of dividends," he said. "For example, if an individual had purchased 100 shares of our stock on January 1, 1981, he would have invested $5,000.00. Today, he would own 449 shares at an average price of $30.00 per share and would have received dividends of $4,139.09. The increase in shares is due to our stock splits and stock dividends.

Stanton concluded by saying, "as we enter 1992, our goals are primarily to fine-tune our current strategies. The successful financial institutions in the 90's will be those that closely monitor their net interest margin, while looking inward to enhance cost containment strategies. They must also be a pioneer in product innovation. And, it is becoming more apparent everyday that the high achieving companies will empower and continually provide high quality training to their greatest asset - their staff members. County Native Seeking U.S. Senate Seat

Following over 14 years as an anti-drug political activist, Joyce Friend-Nalepka, a native of Friendsville who currently resides in Silver Spring, has announced she will battle seek the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate in an effort to unseat incumbent Barbara Mikulski.

Friend-Nalepka has taken on the Carter administration, Senator Ted Kennedy, former Congressman Newton Steers and others in her fight to stop the relaxation of marijuana possession penalties, and has been credited by U.S. attorneys, counselors, parents and politicians for the success she's had in that area, according to a press release.

Friend-Nalepka has spearheaded the effort to close drug paraphernalia shops in Maryland and led the movement to close shops in 37 other states. She has also testified in local, state and national legislatures and is well-known on Capitol Hill as a volunteer lobbyist and anti-drug activist.

"No effort to revitalize the economy, the health care system the insurance industry or the nation's schools will be successful until the systemic drug problem that is overwhelming our communities is addressed," she stated, continuing, "We can wait no longer. We need the same all out cooperation and enthusiasm in solving the drug epidemic that we experienced during the Gulf War. We must focus the same attention and funding on prevention that we now spend on treatment and law enforcement."

Friend-Nalepka stated that she will work to strengthen schools and neighborhoods, will champion equal rights and women's rights, and will work to protect Maryland's lands and waters. In her own neighborhood, she worked to save 28 homes from destruction during subway construction in the Forest Glen area of Montgomery County.

Also, according to the press release, she "will put America first; will fight for jobs for Marylanders; will support welfare reform, health care cost containment, and will work to ensure a life of dignity for Maryland's elderly."

Married and the mother of two sons, Friend-Nalepka is requesting that families who have been hurt by the drug epidemic join in a telephone networking of the state of Maryland, by calling their friends and relatives and informing them they now have a candidate who understands the drug issue and will be "their diligent voice in the U.S. Senate."

Friend-Nalepka founded the Interstate Movement Against Dangerous Drugs and was a founding member of the National Federation of Parents for Drug-Free Youth. In addition, she organized two White House conferences that reportedly forced the Carter Administration to drop its efforts to decriminalize marijuana.

C&P To Place Cable Over I-68 Sunday Morning

As part of a major construction project to improve service in Western Maryland, C&P Telephone Company will be placing an aerial fiber optic cable over I-68 this Sunday, February 16, according to spokesman Al Boyer.

"For approximately 15 minutes, around 9 a.m. on Sunday morning, eastbound and westbound traffic on I-68 will be stopped near the top of Martin's Mountain. Stopping traffic for this short period of time will enable our employees to work safely and quickly, and will cause a minimal interruption to traffic," Boyer explained.

Motorists may experience minor delays when traveling over I-68 for that short period of time Sunday morning.

Klima Seeking Mikulski's U.S. Senate Seat

Stating that she was "proud to make this campaign a fight for the taxpayers of Maryland," Maryland District Nine Delegate Martha S. Klima recently launched her bid for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate seat currently held by Barbara Mikulski.

"Liberals like Barbara Mikulski in Washington and William Donald Schaefer in Annapolis are taxing and spending the greatness out of Maryland," said Klima, a three-term delegate from Baltimore County. Klima criticized Mikulski for being "terribly out of touch with Maryland," and noted that her voting record reveals she has "time and again voted for higher taxes and more government spending."

A member of the House Appropriations Committee, Klima stated that she has consistently voted against higher taxes and "runaway spending."

A life-long resident of Maryland, Klima resides in Lutherville with her husband and three children. She is a member of the Maryland State Planning Commission; state chairperson of the American Legislative Exchange Council; member of the Maryland Special Olympics Board of Directors; and past vice-president of the Women Legislators of Maryland, among many other involvements on state committees and boards.

She is the recipient of the "Women of Excellence - 1990" award; the Award of Appreciation and Dedication from the Baltimore Metropolitan Chapter of the Associated Builders and Contractors; a citation from the governor in appreciation of outstanding services to the citizens of Maryland, and many more.

Klima stated, "Mikulski is vulnerable in 1992, and I'm in this race to win. She can be defeated. And I'm the right Republican to pull it off."

Actively involved in her community, Klima has served the local PTA and the Maryland Congress of PTA's, has worked with the Central Maryland Health Systems Agency, and has worked as a member on the board of the Center for Prevention of Child Abuse in Maryland.

She has helped transform Montgomery County into a high-tech corridor which, she says, "has provided many good-paying jobs. Not that long ago, I remember a Western Maryland where companies like Fairchild in Hagerstown provided good jobs and built the A-10 that made us so proud in the Desert Storm operation."

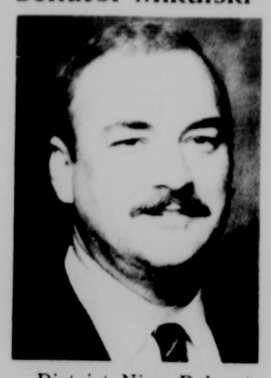
Klima continued, "I decided to step forward to fill a vacuum in the Republican field. As I enter this race, I see it as wide open for the nomination. I'm confident of victory because there is no other challenger with my proven record of winning for taxpayers and winning for the Republican party."

First Federal Savings Bank Notes Conversion

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland announced Monday the completion of the conversion of its subsidiary, First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, from a federally chartered mutual savings bank to a federally chartered stock savings bank.

As part of the conversion, 1,380,000 shares of First Financial Corporation were issued at a price of $10 per share. Shortly after receiving approval from the appropriate regulatory agencies and closing of the transaction, trading in First Financial's stock is expected to begin trading under the symbol "FFWM," according to Richard Deckerhoff, chairman and chief executive officer.

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, headquartered in Cumberland, operates through eight full-service offices, six of which are located in Allegany County and one each in Garrett and Washington counties. The bank also operates two drive-in facilities in Allegany County and a loan production office in Garrett County. On October 31, 1991, the Bank had $337.2 million in assets and following conversion its consolidated stockholders' equity will amount to approximately $32.0 million.



GOP Central Committee To Meet Feb. 14

The Garrett County Republican Central Committee will hold a dinner meeting Friday, February 14, at 6:30 p.m., at J.G.'s Restaurant, located at the intersection of Rt. 219 and Mayhew Inn Road, south of Deep Creek Lake.

Speaker for the evening will be Alan Keyes, Republican candidate for U.S. Senate and former ambassador in the Reagon administration.

The public is invited to attend. More information may be obtained by calling Wayne Wilt, chairman, at 334-9200.

Bishop Announces Plans To Unseat Senator Mikulski

District Nine Delegate John J. Bishop recently announced that he has filed for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate seat currently held by Barbara Mikulski, stating, "After surveying the field of candidates, I decided that I possess unique qualifications that make me the only Republican able to win statewide over Barbara Mikulski."

Citing his positive accomplishments over the last six years, such as his legislation to create a Maryland Commission on Efficiency in Government, to reform Maryland's campaign finance and election laws, to create a Maryland Center for Chronic Juvenile Offenders, and to establish fair congressional and legislative redistricting plans, Bishop stated that he will "continue in Washington, as I have in Annapolis, and to engage in the public policy debate in a positive fashion . . . proposing solutions, not simply pointing out deficiencies."

After serving as a volunteer for numerous campaigns dating back to 1966, Bishop was elected to the Baltimore County Republican Central Committee in 1982. In 1984, he was elected as a Reagan/Bush delegate to the National Convention, and in 1988, he was elected as a Bush/Quayle delegate.

For each of the five years prior to Maryland's fiscal crisis, he sponsored legislation that would have created a Maryland Commission on Efficiency in Government, similar to the Grace Commission. "Had the Democrats who control state government heeded my calls," he stated, "we just might have avoided many of the painful budget cuts we are experiencing now."

Bishop's congressional redistricting plan was considered to be "the most fair and equitable plan before the General Assembly," according to him, that it was used by Anne Arundel County lawmakers as the basis for their lawsuit, which will be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Bishop cites his accomplishments "to demonstrate that John Bishop is not the kind of legislator who simply opposes what others are doing, but rather engages in the public policy debate in a positive fashion with the intention of bringing about positive change," and he says he will continue with this approach if elected to the U.S. Senate.

He was endorsed by every major newspaper in the Baltimore City and Baltimore County area during his 1990 House of Delegates election and, because he had the second highest environmental rating of the Baltimore County House Delegation, he earned the endorsement of the Maryland League of Conservation Voters and the Sierra Club.

A resident of Parkville and a life-long resident of Maryland, Bishop is married and has two daughters. As a father, he is concerned that "Congress is writing checks that my children, your children and grandchildren will have to cash. This cannot be allowed to continue."

March Of Dimes Reading Champions Effort Underway

Nearly 800 elementary and middle school students in Garrett and Allegany counties are Reading for Healthier Babies in the March of Dimes Reading Champions program underway since February 1.

Garrett County schools participating are Accident, Bloomington, Grantsville and Red House elementary schools. Students also are enrolled from Zion Christian Academy, Grantsville.

Participating students become Reading Champions by completing their commitment to read books and collect pledges to promote the goals of the March of Dimes Campaign for Healthier Babies -- prevention of birth defects, low birthweight and infant mortality -- and to earn medals and other individual and school awards.

Reading began February 1 and will continue through February 29. Deadline to postmark pledges collected is March 16. Individual and school medals and awards will be presented in assemblies in the schools in April.

The 1992 Reading Champions Honorary Chair is Karen Goetschius, who teaches at South Penn. Contributions from 1992 Reading Champions co-sponsors, Twigg Plumbing & Heating and Lowe's of Cumberland Inc., help defray cost of presenting the program.

For more information about this or any other March of Dimes program, persons may contact the local office at 301-722-5818.

LOCAL RESIDENTS ASSISTS RUSSIAN VISITORS - A Garrett County resident was one of the national coordinators for a recent visit of a delegation from the Russian Orthodox Temperance Fellowship from Moscow. Dr. Terry Webb, Deep Creek Lake, traveled with the Russian visitors who were on a mission to study methods of treatment and prevention of drug and alcohol abuse. "Our focus was on the effects of alcoholism or other drug addiction on the family," Dr. Webb said. "We tried to help them realize the need to reach out to spouses and children in families where one of the parents is affected by the disease." She said the Russian delegation learned on their visit that the church and the 12-step approach to recover are compatible. The photo above was taken during their stop at the Greenbriar Treatment Center in Washington, Pa. Pictured left to right are: Sister Valentina Grushkovskaya, Dr. Andrey Vendeniapin, Archbishop Vladimir, Igor Vasilenko, and Father Irinarkh Grezin.

Miner's Lamp Given To History Group

Mrs. Helen Graham Schroyer, pictured above, and her brother, Paul Graham, presented an ancient miner's lamp to the Rev. John Grant of "Coal Talk: Dialogues With Western Maryland Coal Communities." The lamp was given to the group in memory of their father, Paul Graham. It had been a piece of coal mining memorabilia which Mr. Graham had obtained years ago.

Beginning in June, the lamp will be displayed with other objects at the Garrett Historical Society's museum in Oakland.

The "Coal Talk" group was organized and had its first workshop this past summer at Garrett Community College. Since that time, the members of the group have been conducting interviews with area people who were associated with the coal mines in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Locally, Dr. Gail Herman is director of the oral history group, with the Rev. John Grant as co-director. In addition to conducting the interviews, the group is collecting photographs and objects associated with the coal mining industry in the two counties.

ARC Announces Funding Initiative For Education

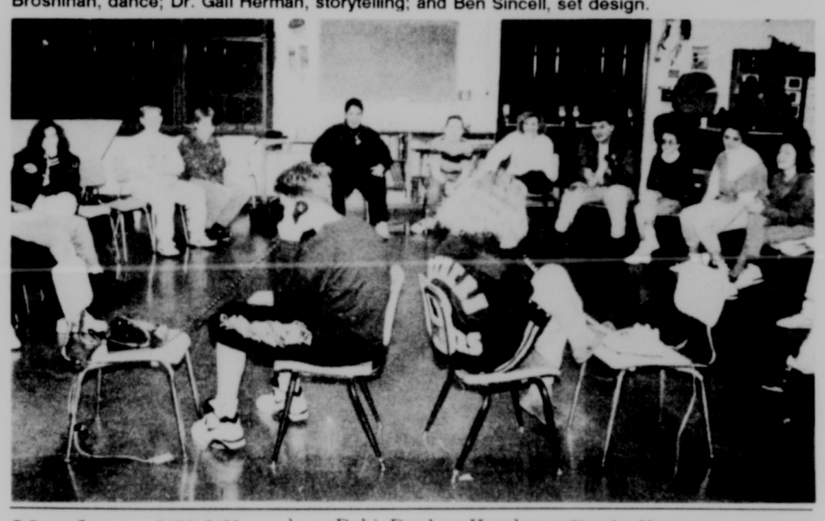
The Appalachian Regional Commission, meeting in Washington last week, announced a region-wide initiative, "Excellence in Education," to be undertaken jointly with the Southern Governors Association.

The initiative will provide the 13 Appalachian states with special funding for education improvement projects ranging from initiation of Town's County, Georgia's, first pre-school program to upgrading training for math-science teachers in Maryland's three westernmost counties to a South Carolina public-private partnership that will provide literacy training for adult workers at Michelin Corporation factories.

The Commission meeting was attended by ARC Federal Co-Chairman Jacqueline L. Phillips, ARC States' Co-Chairman William Donald Schaefer of Maryland, and the governors of eight other Appalachian states. The meeting was held at the J.W. Marriott Hotel in conjunction with the winter conference of the National Governors Association.

Immediately following the ARC meeting, Federal Co-Chairman Phillips, Governor Schaefer, SGA Chairman Governor Carroll A. Campbell Jr., of South Carolina, Governor Zell Miller of Georgia, Governor Kirk Fordice of Mississippi, Governor Douglas Wilder of Virginia and Governor Gaston Caperton of West Virginia held a press conference to release details of the individual states' projects.

The education initiative grew from a resolution approved by the Appalachian governors affirming the Commission's support for National Education Goals set by President Bush and the nation's governors at the Education Summit in Williamsburg, Va., in 1989. Subsequently, ARC and the Southern Governors Association agreed to cooperate in supporting local projects within the SGA states and the 13 Appalachian states.



A total of more than $2 million, including $1.16 in special ARC funding, will be provided to assist 17 state projects designed to meet at least one of the following National Education Goals: education readiness; adult literacy and lifelong learning; math-science education; and dropout prevention and increased graduation rates. There are four areas that ARC has consistently addressed in its efforts to improve education and job training throughout the Appalachian Region.

At the meeting, the Commission also approved interim allocations for FY 1993 program funding and the states' plans and investment programs for FY 1992. Also approved was a resolution providing for an updated cost estimate on completing the Appalachian Development Highway System, which is now 70 percent complete or under construction.

Besides Governor Schaefer, other governors attending the meeting were: Governor Zell Miller of Georgia, Governor Brereton Jones of Kentucky, Governor Kirk Fordice of Mississippi, Governor Jim Martin of North Carolina, Governor Carroll A. Campbell Jr., of South Carolina, Governor Ned McWherter of Tennessee, Governor Douglas Wilder of Virginia and Governor Gaston Caperton of West Virginia.

A FINE ARTS AND COMPOSING WORKSHOP was held last week at Camp Hickory near Northern High School for members of Sue Harkins' eighth grade gifted and talented class from Northern Middle School. The program, funded by the Garrett County Arts Council, included visits from five guest instructors, and combined a study of the fine arts with journal writing activities. Above, Dr. Gerry Snelson, a member of the faculty of Frostburg State University, conducts a session on puppetry, while below, Jane Avery, drama teacher at Southern High School, leads the students in an acting/theatre workshop. Other local professionals leading similar sessions were Brenda Brosnihan, dance; Dr. Gail Herman, storytelling; and Ben Sincell, set design.

Supporters Of Libraries Attend Legislative Day

Supporters of all types of libraries, including public and academic libraries and school media centers, went to Annapolis, January 23, from around the state for Library Legislative Day, a time to let legislators know how important libraries are to them and to ask their legislators to sustain and improve library funding.

The delegation from Districts 1, 2, and 3 included: from Garrett County, Sybilla Sharps, president of the Board of Trustees of the Ruth Enlow Library; from Allegany County, Robert Neal, director of the county libraries, and Dr. David Gillespie, director of the library at Frostburg State University; and librarians from Washington and Frederick counties.

During a luncheon meeting with the senators and delegates from these Western Maryland districts, the advocates of the libraries stressed the important role libraries play in education, in providing information and in improving the quality of life for the citizens of Maryland. More than three million Maryland citizens are registered borrowers.

According to Mrs. Sharps, Maryland ranks number one nationally in per capita borrowing of library materials. She said libraries are among the heaviest used and least funded of government agencies, as public libraries perform their duties using just .0014% of the State's budget. In Garrett County, only 0.64% of the county budget goes toward libraries." In tough economic times citizens depend more and more on their libraries," Mrs. Sharps said.

Sponsors of Maryland Library Legislative Day were Citizens for Maryland Libraries, Congress of Academic Library Directors, the Maryland Association of Public Library Administrators, the Maryland Educational Media Organization, and the Maryland Library Association.

PARTICIPATING IN LIBRARY LEGISLATIVE DAY held in Annapolis, January 23, were Senator John J. Hafer (District 1), left, Delegate George C. Edwards (District 1A), and Sybilla Sharps, trustee of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County.

Apply Eye Medicines With Care

Prescription medicines intended for application to the eye are frequently prescribed for such conditions as infection, glaucoma inflammation, and irritation. Nonprescription medicines are intended for mild and self-limiting conditions such as eye dryness brought on by changes in the normal production of tears or exposure to dry air. Eye drops and eye ointments are some of the most commonly used eye medicines.

Eye Drops: Two types of eye drops include solutions (clear liquids) and suspensions (cloudy liquids). When placing eye drops into the eyes, wash your hands first, tilt your head back and pull out the lower lid of the eye to make a pouch and drop the correct number of drops into the pouch. Close your eye gently and try not to blink for 1-2 minutes. Place one finger between the eye and your nose to prevent drainage of the medicine. Do not contaminate eye drops by touching the eye drop container when the top is removed.

Eye Ointments: Using a similar procedure apply eye ointment in your own eyes while looking in a mirror or having someone apply the ointment for you. Apply a thin strip of ointment (or gel) to one or both eyes. Close your eyes and roll your eyeball in all directions. Never share your eye ointment or solution with someone else.

Christmas Sales Yield More Tax Than In 1990

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said sales and use tax revenue received the January, 1992, which reflects December, 1991, retail activity, totaled $169,157,841, up 3.3% from the same period a year ago.

"The January sales and use tax revenue, which includes Christmas sales, was the second month in a row that revenues exceeded the same month of the prior year," Goldstein said. "Sales and use tax revenue began to decline from prior year levels in October, 1990, and we hope this turnaround continues into the spring." The Board of Revenue Estimates remains cautious and will review February income tax revenue, which includes employer withholding payments for December and January, before revising any of the estimates it presented on December 5, 1991.

Goldstein said he has advised Governor William Donald Schaefer that sales and use tax revenue continues to come in below estimates, but cautioned that February income tax receipts will determine if further budget reduction are necessary for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1992.

"The reason February is so important is that so much income tax withholding comes into the state treasury from employers during the month," he said. Employer withholding payments, representing money withheld from employee paychecks, account for 75% of all income tax revenue.

"December employer withholding payments must be postmarked by January 31, so much of that money is actually received in early February. The month of January's payments are due February 15," he noted, "so February is extremely important in analyzing the true financial picture."

For the first six months of fiscal year 1992, sales and use tax revenue totaled $819,913,124, slightly below estimates, while state individual income tax revenue amounted to $1,451,911,092, slightly above estimates.

Comptroller Goldstein said he has told the governor that the Board of Revenue Estimates, which also includes State Treasurer Lucille Maurer and State Budget Secretary Charles L. Benton, will review the February revenues and report to him in early March.

Potomac Edison Schedules Home Buying Seminars

The Potomac Edison Company's Third Annual Home Buying Seminars will be held in Cumberland on Feb. 21 and 22 at the Cumberland Holiday Inn. The seminars, which assist customers in making wise decisions when building or buying a new home, attracted 620 customers from across Potomac Edison's service area last year.

Western Division Manager Nancy Neff said, "Potomac Edison would like to help customers live smart and build smart. They can enjoy a lifetime of affordable comfort when energy-efficient appliances, proper insulation and thermal treatment are considered at the time a home is built."

Ms. Neff added that Robbie Robison of RS Agency, David Mathews of First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, Charles Goebel of First National Bank of Maryland, John Murphy of Foxcraft, and Wayne Hosselrode of Potomac Edison will all make presentations designed to help home buyers become aware of options available and assist them in making wise decisions when buying.

"These professionals will also be available to answer any questions potential home builders and buyers might have. Last year's participants agreed that the seminars were very useful in helping them learn the ins and outs of today's home market," Ms. Neff said.

Admission to the seminars is free. They will begin promptly at the Holiday Inn on South George Street in Cumberland. The Feb. 21 meeting will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and the Feb. 22 meeting will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Reservations are not necessary, according to Ms. Neff, but if customers know they will definitely attend, they may call 1-800-654-3317 to indicate their interest.

Center Schedules Volunteer Training

The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center, Mtn. Lake Park, will be holding a volunteer training day for those who are interested in becoming volunteers on March 7.

The training will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Center, located at the corner of Rt. 135 and G Street. Persons desiring more information may call 334-1058.

Carl Belt To Spearhead Scout Council Effort

For the second consecutive year, area businessman Carl O. Belt Jr. has been named Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, Sustaining Membership Enrollment (SME) Chair, Council Executive Brad Burr announced recently.

"I believe the programs of the Boy Scouts of America offer the kind of values that enable our young people to make the right decisions when confronted with moral choices," Belt said. "Because of this belief, I have accepted the challenge of Chairmanship of the 1992 Sustaining Membership Enrollment Campaign for Potomac Council. I am, therefore, asking you to join with me and support the Potomac Council Boy Scouts with your financial contribution."

Belt will lead over 100 captains from throughout the six counties served by Potomac Council in raising some $84,000 to provide continuing programs and services to the nearly 2,000 youth active in Scouting locally.

SME-level contributors will be invited to the annual "Friends of Scouting" dinner, to be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine in the spring.

Belt, a lifelong resident of Allegany County, has served as president of Carl Belt Construction Company since 1977. He served as president of Western Maryland Contractors Association from 1979 to 1980.

Active in community life, Belt is past president of the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce, Cumberland Jaycees, and Cumberland Rotary Club. He is a member of East Gate Lodge AF&SM, BPOE 63.

He is a member of the Cumberland Country Club and serves as a director of Liberty Trust Company of Maryland. He is also an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Cumberland and serves on the boards of directors of Allegany Community College, the Rocky Gap Foundation, and the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. In October 1990, he was appointed to the President's Board of Advisors at Frostburg State University.

He and Carl Belt, Inc., are contributors to the Cumberland YMCA, Port Center of Westernport, and other charitable organizations. He is a past member of the executive board of Potomac Council.

Belt and his wife, Jane, are the parents of two daughters, Eleanor and Meredith.

L. Scott Rush Among Top 40 Bankers In Nation

L. Scott Rush, senior vice president and planning and control manager for First United Corporation, was recently recognized as one of the nation's 40 top bankers under 40 years of age. This distinction was made by the widely read national banking publication, American Banker, in its January 23 issue.

"We certainly have realized that Scott is one of the best and brightest men in our organization for some time, but it is quite an honor to see him noted among top bankers in the nation," stated Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president and chief executive officer for First United Corporation. "First United has seen many changes over the past two decades. We believe we have been well-positioned to take advantage of these opportunities due, in part, to the efforts of well-educated and qualified senior level managers such as Scott. He has been instrumental in developing and instituting some of our most successful strategies, such as Asset/Liability Management."

Rush is active not only in local banking issues, but also with the Maryland Bankers Association. Since 1984 he has served on the Young Maryland Bankers Committee of the organization. Last year, as vice chairman for the Committee, he also served as Maryland's Personal Economics Program (PEP) Chairman. During his tenure as head of this statewide banking education in the schools effort, Maryland's PEP program was recognized as the National PEP Service Award winner for the year. This honor was given by the American Bankers Association. Currently, Rush serves as chairman of the Young Maryland Bankers Committee, and therefore, maintains a seat on the Board of Directors of the Maryland Bankers Association.

Rush began his First United banking career in 1975 when he joined the staff as a management trainee. He was named auditor for the bank in 1979 and was promoted to assistant vice president and cashier in 1981. A year later he became First United's vice president and controller. He has served in his current position, senior vice president and planning and control manager, since 1987.

Rush recently graduated "with distinction" from the American Bankers Association's Stonier Graduate School of Banking. The Stonier curriculum, designed to mid-level to senior-level bank officers, provides the knowledge base, analytical techniques and management concepts needed for effective bank management. Rush graduated among the top 21 students out of a class of 251 bankers from around the nation.

Rush is a magna cum laude (high honors) graduate of Frostburg State College with a bachelor of science degree in mathematics and computer science. During his tenure with First United, he received his professional designation of Chartered Bank Auditor from the American Bankers Association in 1981. In addition, Rush graduated with a 4.0 grade point average from Garrett Community College with an associate degree in business administration. He earned both the Basic and Standard Certificates from the American Institute of Banking, and he graduated with honors from the three-year Maryland Banking School in 1986. Most recently, he has passed the certification requirements to sell life, accident and health, as well as property and casualty insurance products.

While making concluding comments about Rush's recognition, Stanton stated, "Banking in the 90's poses many challenges for all financial institutions. I look forward to having someone on our senior level team who brings with him the enthusiasm, education and experience to meet these challenges."

Rush is a member of the White United Methodist Church, where he serves on the Board of Trustees. He is active in local youth athletics and civic organizations. He and his wife, Barbara, have two children, Jason and Mandy.

Unemployed May Be Eligible For Extended Benefits

Maryland's unemployed workers may now be eligible for an additional 13 weeks of emergency unemployment insurance benefits, according to Thomas S. Wendel, executive director of the Office of Unemployment Insurance (OUI), Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED).

The extension of benefits funded by the federal government, combined with the previous extension made available in November 1991, allows for up to 26 weeks of emergency benefits for Maryland's unemployed workers. Claimants may be eligible to receive a total of 52 weeks of unemployment insurance benefits while attempting to find employment.

People currently receiving extended benefits are NOT required to report to their local offices for the latest extension of benefits. The added benefits will automatically be made available as long as the claimant continues to meet eligibility requirements. Instructions will be included with their next check or claim form on how to file for the additional benefits to which they may be entitled.

Those claimants who are now exhausting their regular, or first 26 weeks, of benefits should report to their local offices to file extended benefit claims.

Wendel emphasized that all claimants, while receiving unemployment insurance benefits, are required to look for work, keep a record of work search contacts and accept any job offer which pays more than the weekly benefit amount and which exceeds the minimum wage.

"We are grateful for the availability of these additional benefits for Marylanders out of work," Wendel said. "We look forward to implementing the requirements of the federal legislation immediately."

This latest extension of benefits will add over $50 million to the Maryland economy. Maryland already has paid over $35 million in emergency benefits to 27,000 Marylanders since the first extension in November 1991.

REALTORS CONDUCT FOOD DRIVE - The Garrett County Board of Realtors recently conducted a food drive to support the House of Hope in Oakland. Members collected over $600 in cash and 24 boxes of food to help supply the pantry of the House of Hope, where the need has been greater than normal because of the current recession, according to Catholic Sisters Joanna and Mary Ann. Pictured above, left to right, are: Don Moreland, of Century 21 - Country Squire Realty; Goldie Shugars, of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty; Cindy Evans, of A&A Realty/Better Homes & Gardens and project co-chairperson; Dottie Pritts, of Bernard Realty; Sister Joanna, House of Hope; and Denise Sanders, A&A Realty and co-chairperson.

Several Attend PLT Leadership Training Workshop

James Allen and Ann Wellham, both of Garrett Community College, Wade Dorsey, DNR-Forestry Div., Alice Hevner, Cooperative Extension-4-H, Karin Miller, Project Wild Facilitator, and Louise Upole, DNR-Forestry Div., have all completed Project Learning Tree Leadership Training. The PLT Leadership workshop was held at Green Ridge State Forest on February 7 and 8.

These individuals are now able to conduct workshops for Garrett County teachers who would like to be able to use PLT resource materials and activities in their classrooms. "The ultimate goal of Project Learning Tree is to help students in grades K-12 become aware of their presence in the environment, their impact upon it, and their responsibility for it, and to develop the skills and knowledge to make informed decisions regarding the use and management of the environment -- and the confidence to take action on their decisions," Allen said.

Ms. Hevner added, "Educators will benefit from a PLT workshop because they will gain information on over 175 activities that help teach science, mathematics, language arts, social studies, humanities, and other subjects." She continued, "The PLT Activity Guide is a ready-to-use resource that actively involves students in the learning process. And that PLT activities work with a variety of teaching and learning styles."

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board is sponsoring a Project Learning Tree Workshop on May 2 and again in the fall for Garrett County teachers. Teachers interested in attending a PLT Workshop should contact Mike Kozier at 334-1901 or Wade Dorsey at 334-3296.

Farm Bureau Backs Bill To Encourage "No Net Loss" Of Private Lands

The federal government does not need to own any more land, especially in the western states, the American Farm Bureau Federation told a House Interior subcommittee.

Testifying in support of a measure (H.R. 1439) that would limit the ability of the federal government to acquire additional property in states dominated by federal lands, Jon Doggett, an AFBF assistant director of national affairs, said the bill "is a good first step in reversing a serious trend toward public ownership of property."

Under the bill, introduced by Rep. Craig Thomas (R-Wyo.), the federal government would be required to dispose of an equal amount of land when it acquires property in states with 25 percent or more of its total acreage controlled by the U.S. government.

Doggett noted that America's lack of competitiveness has been a key issue in this election year. "This lack of competitiveness is aggravated by unreasonable restrictions placed on the use of both private and federal property. Farm Bureau feels that this nation could gain by first limiting and then reducing the amount of land the federal government owns and mismanages."

Doggett told the subcommittee, Farm Bureau members oppose further expansion of federal land ownership and support a policy of "no net loss of private lands."

Doggett said Farm Bureau does not support returning land back into private ownership that is within: the National Park System; the National Wildlife Refuge System; Indian trusts; wilderness areas; Wild and Scenic River designations; national or historic trails; national conservation areas; and other congressionally designated areas.

"However, there exists a great deal of land in this nation that does not fall into any of these categories, and Congress should examine closely the many benefits to society that would be provided by transferring much of this land to the private sector," Doggett said.

Garrett FFA Chapters To "Face Off" At Donkey Basketball Game Feb. 22

Plenty of hilarious action and a good crowd is expected to keep Southern High gym buzzing during a Donkey Basketball Tournament between Southern FFA and Northern FFA on February 22, at 7:30 p.m.

Advance tickets are still on sale at Southern High FFA Building, Little Sandy's, Oakland Southern States, Hometown Market, and Northern High School Ag Department by contacting Larry Deal, FFA advisor. Advance tickets are $4.00 for adults, 13 and over, and $2.00 for students, 12 and under. Tickets at the door will be $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for students. Proceeds will go to Northern and Southern FFA for judging events, leadership camps, and field trips.

Donkey Basketball is played with four donkeys and four riders on each team. One of the donkey teams is comprised of Beatle Bomb, Super Stupid, Elvis, and Rigor Mortis. The other team is formed by Thunder Ball, Snuffy, Kilroy and Honey Pot, the world's buckin'est donkey.

Rules are necessary to all sports, but since the donkeys can't read, and the players will be too excited to remember them, they will be announced before the game for the benefit of the fans and hope someone on the basketball court will know what is happening.

All interested persons are invited to attend; refreshments will be served. Anyone with questions may call the Ag Department at 334-1580.

Jersey Production Averages Reach New High

The appeal to produce more protein, outlined by The American Jersey Cattle Club Board of Directors in 1989, is being met with enthusiasm. It was during their winter meeting three years ago that the board set a goal of 650 pounds protein mature equivalent as a breed average by the year 2000. As multiple component pricing becomes a reality for more dairy producers, Jersey breeders are striving to meet market demands for protein. At the same time they are witnessing rapid production increases.

During 1991, Jerseys enrolled in Dairy Herd Improvement Registry (DHIR) averaged 14,544 pounds milk, 680 pounds fat, and 542 pounds protein, shattering record averages set the year before. These mature equivalent (M.E.) averages are based on a total of 48,867 lactations for milk and fat with 48,846 lactations for protein. This production shows an increase of 3.4 percent protein, 3.2 percent milk, and 2.7 percent fat over 1990 figures. These figures clearly show the greatest production increase was in protein, demonstrating the success Jersey breeders are having in their quest for higher protein levels.

At the current rate of increase -- 11.8 pound protein and 273 pounds milk per year -- the Jersey breed will reach its goal of 650 pounds protein in the year 2000 and boast a 17,000-pound milk average.

In addition to a record-high average for the Jersey breed, the 1991 DHIR lactation averages brought good news for individual herds. Two herds surpassed the 20,000-pound level for average milk production this year. This marks the first time in history a Jersey herd has reached this level of production.

As production levels for Jerseys continue to climb, the increase in numbers of Jerseys is also evident. At the end of 1990, 156,288 Jerseys were enrolled in Dairy Herd Improvement (DHI) testing programs. This is an increase of 2.6 percent over the previous year and a 17 percent increase in the last five years.

Semen sales also confirm that Jersey popularity is on the rise in the United States and around the world. Domestic semen sales increased almost 12 percent from 1986 through 1990. According to figures from the National Association of Animal Breeders, Jerseys also led the way in growth of exported semen, showing an increase of 106 percent since 1986.

Bush Health Plan Includes Provision For Farmers

President Bush's health care plan contains some sound and positive concepts, most notably a proposal to allow the self-employed to deduct 100 percent of the cost of their health insurance premiums, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

AFBF President Dean Kleckner said the tax deduction for the self-employed represents an important reform for a group that has been hard hit by spiraling health insurance costs. "This is an issue that is extremely important to farmers and ranchers, and we will continue to work hard to see that full deductibility is made permanent," Kleckner said.

The self-employed are currently allowed only a 25-percent deduction, a provision which is set to expire June 30. (The president's budget, unveiled January 29, proposed extending the 25-percent deduction to December 31.)

Kleckner noted that Farm Bureau will study Bush's overall proposal more closely to determine its impact on rural Americans, but "in general, we feel the administration's overall effort is worthy of our support. We agree with the market-oriented approach he has proposed."

Farm Bureau is concerned, Kleckner said, about the methods earmarked to finance the plans proposed by Bush and several members of Congress.

Kleckner hailed the Bush plan's opposition to a national health care system such as Canada's and to a "play or pay" system in which employers would be offered the choice of providing insurance coverage for their employees or paying a tax to fund a government insurance plan.

Both plans, said Kleckner, would mean, "more government involvement in medicine at astronomical costs to taxpayers."

Registration Incentive Yields 41.7% Increase

The results of the Registration Incentive Program announced by The American Jersey Cattle Club in October testify to the growing enthusiasm for the Jersey breed. The program, which allowed breeders to register animals at 20 to 60 percent savings over regular fees, helped bring in the largest number of registration in almost 40 years.

A total of 76,816 registrations were received in the AJCC office during 1991. This is the highest number since 1953, and an increase of 41.7 percent over last year. This overwhelming response shows the confidence Jersey owners have in the future of the breed. A total of 57,627 registrations were recorded during the year.

The AJCC staff has been working hard to keep up with the quantity of registrations that have poured into the office in the last three months. As many as 17,871 applications were received in a single day. The AJCC asks participants to be patient as the Registration Department sorts through and completes applications. Work will be processed in the following order: transfers first, followed by registrations received with proper fees. Those who took part in the deferred payment plan and did not send money will be processed third, after proper fees are received.

Those who participated in the Registration Incentive Program took a positive stop toward increasing the value of their herd, said Carol Dreisbach, director of information for the AJCC.

Loving Memories of Sadie C. Detrick
Born January 22, 1916, and passed away February 15, 1987

She never closed her eyes in sleep
Till we were all in bed,
On party nights till we came home
She often sat and read.
We little thought about it then,
When we were young and gay,
How much our mother worried
When we children were away.
We only knew she never slept
When we were out at nights
And that she waited just to know
That we'd come home all right.
Why sometimes when we stayed away
Till one or two or three;
It seemed to us that mother heard,
The turning of the key.
For always, when we stepped inside,
She called and we'd reply;
But we were all too young back then
To understand just why.
Until the last one had returned,
She always kept a light,
For mother couldn't sleep untill
She'd kissed us all good-night,
She had to know that we were safe
Before she went to rest;
She seemed to fear the world might harm
The ones she loved the best.
And once she said:
"When you are grown to women and to men,
Perhaps I'll sleep the whole night through,
I may be different then."
And so it seemed that night and day
We knew a mother's care
That always when we got back home
We'd find her waiting there.
Then came the night that we were called
To gather 'round her bed;
"The children all are with you now,"
The kindly doctor said;
And in her eyes there gleamed again
The old-time tender light
That told she had been waiting.
Just to know we were all right.
She smiled the old familiar smile
And prayed to God to keep Us safe from harm throughout the years,
And then she went to sleep.

Another Tax Relief Plan

While President Bush is again pushing for a reduction in capital gains tax, Senator David Boron (Okla.) has already introduced his own Bill to address the issue. Senator Boron proposes to reduce the capital gains tax rate on long-term investments, which would provide substantial relief to farmers wanting to sell land. His Bill provides a five percent exclusion on capital gains for assets held at least two years. That increases to 25 percent for assets held more than 10 years. "As a result," Boron says, "the heavy tax burden farmers have to deal with when they sell their land will be substantially decreased."

Alfalfa Weed Control - Dormant Sprays

Last year's drought gave the unwanted weeds a good opportunity to get established in your alfalfa fields. The major problem we have with spring applications of herbicides is that the regrowth comes faster than expected; therefore, you have to keep a close check and be ready to spray at the right time. Some of the sprays you can use are as follows:

Gramoxone Extra 2.5CL - May be used on seedling or established alfalfa. It is good on winter annuals such as Cheat, Chickweed, Henbit and Mustards. Use 12.8 to 24 fluid ounces for seedling alfalfa and 1.5 to 2 pints for established stands. Apply this spring before new growth exceeds one inch. Be sure to use a surfactant with the Gramoxone application.

Lexone or Sencor 4L (Metribuzin) - May be used on established stands of alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures. They are effective on winter annual broadleaves and some grasses. Apply this spring before regrowth at 3/4 to 2 pints per acre. The lower rate is good on Cheat, Chickweed and Shepherdspurse. Higher rates give suppression of Dock. Rates above one pint/acre may reduce forage grass stands.

Sinbar sow - May be used on seedling or established alfalfa. Sinbar is effective on winter annual broadleaf weeds and some grasses. Apply before regrowth starts. The reduced rates of 1/3 to ½ pounds for seedling stands is good on Chickweed and Henbit. The rate for established stands is 3/4 to 1.5 pounds per acre. Do not replant treated areas to any crop within two years of application.

Velpar 2L - May be used on established alfalfa. Velpar is effective on winter annual broadleaves, some grasses and will suppress Dandelions. Apply 2-6 pints before the new spring growth exceeds two inches. The higher rate should be used for Dandelion suppression.

Remember! Always read the label on the pesticide container and follow directions very closely. There is little room for error on these spring applications.

Farm Bureau Offers Economic Growth Prescription To Treat "Economic Pressure"

Fundamental changes in economic policy are needed because families and businesses are "under tremendous economic pressure" stemming from increased federal spending, higher taxes and expanding regulations, the American Farm Bureau Federation today told the House Ways and Means Committee.

Without a reversal of those trends, said AFBF President Dean Kleckner, any economic recovery won't last. In addition, federal spending will continue to spin out of control and the deficit will worsen.

"The facts of the matter are that households and businesses, which include all of Farm Bureau's membership, are under tremendous economic pressure from ever-growing federal spending and tax burdens and an explosive growth in federal regulations," Kleckner said. "Businesses and households need permanent relief if we are to return to a long period of economic growth and private sector opportunity."

Kleckner said recent history points out the correct course. During the past 12 years, he said, only 1981 brought positive change in tax policy. But it was followed by nine years of tax hikes and growth in federal spending.

"The economy grew for the rest of the 1980s because the 1981 tax changes favored the private sector, the Federal Reserve resolved to reduce inflation and all government regulations were under intense administrative review for their potential negative economic impact," Kleckner explained.

"The demise of the 92-month economic recovery of the 1980s was assured when Congress passed the 1990 budget agreement, with White House help, to raise taxes," Kleckner noted.

Instead, said Kleckner, "Congress must begin to do what businesses and households do each year -- adapt its spending to a level of tax revenue which a growing economy can support without impairing future economic growth."

In addition, he said, Congress should enact long-term economic growth tax incentives and not fiddle with them to provide certainty in the tax code.

Farm Bureau supports all policy alternatives that have the "net impact of reducing the tax and regulatory burdens on businesses and households," Kleckner told the committee.

Kleckner said specific measures that Farm Bureau supports include: adjusting capital gains for inflation and cutting the capital gains tax rate; changing the depreciation schedules; cutting Social Security taxes; increasing the personal exemption for income taxes; placing a two-year moratorium on all federal regulations; freezing all federal outlays; passing a constitutional amendment requiring Congress to operate on a balanced budget; giving the president line-item veto authority; and reinstating a permanent investment tax credit.

Wheat Price Rises As Supplies Dwindle

A sharp reduction in U.S. wheat production in 1991, coupled with increased exports to the republics of the former Soviet Union and less than optimistic prospects for the 1992 winter wheat crop, is boosting the U.S. wheat market, according to David Miller, director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's feed grains, soybeans and wheat department.

Miller said wheat prices have climbed to the level seen after the 1988 drought. From a harvest-time low of $2.80 per bushel, cash wheat prices at Kansas City have risen over $1.70 per bushel as millers, processors and exporters compete for dwindling supplies. USDA now projects ending stocks of wheat will drop to 390 million bushels, the lowest level since the 1973-74 marketing year.

"U.S. farmers harvested nearly 25 percent less wheat in 1991," Miller explained. "A severe freeze in the Pacific Northwest, dry weather in parts of Texas and North Dakota, and excessive moisture in the Midwest and South reduced yields for many farmers."

In addition, a 15 percent set-aside requirement in 1991 prompted wheat farmers to cut harvested acreage in 1991 by more than 10 percent. This resulted in a wheat crop that was just 10 percent larger than the drought-plagued crop of 1988, according to the Farm Bureau grains analyst.

"Export shipments continue to be strong this year with the former Soviet republics taking a large share of the wheat," Miller said. "U.S. wheat exports are up over 28 percent compared to a year ago and prospects are good that export shipments will remain strong this spring."

According to Miller, USDA has been an aggressive user of the export enhancement program funds, and recent statements by Secretary of Agriculture Edward Madigan indicate USDA will continue to use EEP aggressively to pressure the European Community during the GATT trade negotiations.

Wheat prices were also given a recent boost when USDA indicated that, despite a reduction in the ARP (set-aside requirement) from 15 percent to five percent of base acres, total winter wheat acres planted this year actually declined by 500,000 acres.

"Extremely wet weather in Texas prevented many producers from getting any wheat planted this year," Miller said. "Three years of conditions which have led to severe quality problems in the soft-red wheat production area also contributed to significant reductions in planted acreage this year."

Growing conditions have been less than desirable for much of the wheat crop also. The Missouri Department of Agriculture reports that 31 percent of that state's wheat crop is in poor to very poor condition and that the remainder is in only fair condition.

Reports from producers at the recent National Association of Wheat Growers meeting indicate that lack of snow cover and dry weather have left many more acres very susceptible to wind damage. Although conditions could yet improve and yield prospects brighten, the odds now favor some reduction in wheat production again this year. This could lead to a very tight supply situation in the coming year.

International wheat supplies are not in quite as short supply as in the United States, Miller said. Both Canada and the EC had very good wheat crops in 1991. In contrast to the U.S., the EC could end up with the largest ending stocks of wheat in recent history.

Market watchers are also concerned that the El Nino weather pattern in the Pacific could further reduce crop prospects of not only the United States in 1992, but also of Argentina and India.

"Farmers should not get overly optimistic about additional price strength at this time," Miller cautioned. "Credit problems in the former Soviet republics and ample supplies in major exporting countries such as Canada and the EC are likely to limit the ability of the U.S. wheat market to move much above the $4.50 level in the near term."

Also, with prices above $4 per bushel, it is likely that some increase in spring wheat acres will be seen. Miller urges farmers to use the current strong market prices being offered for new crop wheat to lock in some profits for the coming year.

Calendars Carry Dairy Nutrition Message To Public

A new advertising vehicle carrying the milk and fitness message to nearly a million consumers is now in most major supermarkets throughout the Mid-Atlantic area.

"Cynthia's Everyday Workout Planner" is a 12-month calendar/advertisement for milk and dairy products that is full of health, exercise and fitness tips designed to keep the consumer coming back to it 365 days of the year.

The message being sent to consumers is that exercise is the safe and effective way to weight control rather than reducing or eliminating certain foods in their diets. This message is reinforced throughout the 12-month planner and is on track with the latest findings from studies being done in the relationship of exercise to weight control.

A recent Stanford University study showed that both men and women who followed current dietary recommendations and exercised regularly lost more weight, reduced their heart disease risk and LDL (bad) cholesterol and increased HDL (good) cholesterol, than those who dieted, but did not exercise.

The planner features Cynthia Kereluk, the host of television's "Everyday Workout" seen each morning throughout the United States, Canada, Great Britain and throughout Europe.

The exercise show is now in its seventh year and has made Ms. Kereluk an internationally known fitness expert. She began her work for dairy farmers two years ago as a spokesperson for the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA).

The planner was created to capitalize on the success of Ms. Kereluk's recent media tour conducted by MAMMA. Since August when the tour began, "The Milk Lady" as she quickly became known as, has been featured on most major television and radio stations in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Baltimore, Washington and in many other stations throughout the MAMMA marketing area. Interviews with major newspapers have coincided with her radio and television appearances.

During her interviews Ms. Kereluk educates consumers about the benefits of regular exercise and eating right -- from the Four Food Groups which includes milk and dairy products.

The bright, colorful and cheerful calendar captures Ms. Kereluk's positive attitudes about health and fitness and emphasizes the importance of calcium to all consumers, young and old, male and female, but especially to women, because women continue to be the primary shoppers and the person most likely to make the purchasing decisions in the grocery store.

Each month a food illustration reminds the consumer to drink milk with meals and it also suggests dishes that include dairy products. An exercise routine created by Ms. Kereluk, along with suggestions to improve cardiovascular fitness, are included and each month a new exercise is featured.

MAMMA's "Better Body Book," a health and fitness guide distributed in early 1991, was applauded by doctors, nurses, educators and other leaders in the health fields. The planner has taken this same popular health and fitness theme and created an innovative advertising vehicle that keeps the milk-is-fitness message in front of the consumer for full 12 months.

Governor Seeks Cigarette Excise Tax Increase

Governor William Donald Schaefer held a news conference last Thursday to discuss the proposed 25-cents-a-pack increase in the excise tax on cigarettes and to demonstrate the support the proposal has received from health-related groups in Maryland.

"Maryland has the highest number of cancer deaths in the nation, many of which are smoking induced," said the governor. "When California became concerned, as we are now, a tax was levied to pay for a smoking-related cancer program. There are excellent indications that the program in California worked and I hope we can say the same for Maryland in a couple of years."

Estimates suggest that the extra tax could raise approximately $100 million, a portion of which would be earmarked for cancer education, prevention and treatment programs.

"We want to save lives," said Nelson J. Sabatini, secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. "We hope the passage of this legislation will discourage people -- especially young people -- from beginning a lifelong smoking habit."

The state of California, with revenue from a 25 cents excise tax on cigarettes, established a tobacco cessation program that included an advertising campaign and a school-based education effort. In three years, according to a recent study, the number of people smoking dropped by 17 percent.

"We are delighted that Maryland is joining California in becoming healthier by taking steps to reduce tobacco addiction," said Carolyn Martin, chairperson of the Tobacco Education Oversight Committee which guided California's efforts. Mrs. Martin, of Sacramento, is a teacher and also a volunteer worker with the American Lung Association.

Groups such as the Governor's Council on Cancer Control, the Maryland chapters of the American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, and the American Lung Association support the proposed increase.

"Cancer caused by smoking is 100 percent preventable," said Christian H. Poindexter, chairman of the Governor's Council on Cancer Control. "The lives of hundreds of our citizens could be saved if we are successful in convincing them to not smoke."

Pedestrian Hit In Three-Car Mishap Friday

A McHenry man and his wife were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Friday where they were treated and released following a three-car mishap, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital.

Injured were Richard Condon Browning, 68, a pedestrian checking on an earlier accident, and his wife, Alberta L. Browning, 63, a passenger in a 1987 Subaru GL that had been operated by Mr. Browning.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that the accident occurred when Huron B. Wright, 18, Frostburg, operating a 1981 Plymouth Horizon, was traveling north on U.S. Route 219, lost control on the icy roadway, and crossed into the southbound lane, striking a 1991 Plymouth Voyager, operated by Edward A. Eckenrode, 30, Frederick. After striking the Voyager, the Wright vehicle continued on and struck Browning's vehicle, finally striking Browning before coming to rest against an embankment.

Neither Wright nor Eckenrode nor passengers in the Eckenrode vehicle, Pamela S. Eckenrode, 28, and Chelsey Bolter, 5, both of Frederick, were reportedly injured in the 10:36 p.m. mishap.

The Brownings were taken to the local hospital by the Northern Garrett

A VIEW FROM THE OUTBACK? -- Most of us expect to see birds like this emu only in a National Geographic special about the Australian Outback. But this bird and the rest of his flock is living right here in Garrett County (an area thought of by some as "Maryland's Outback"). Emu, ostrich and rhea are becoming a popular domestically raised bird in the United States since there is a market for every part of the bird, they adapt well to many areas, and are relatively easy to care for. The inquisitive bird above is probably looking through the fence at our photographer, Craig Phillips, wondering just what species of bird he is. Additional photos of this local flock, all by Craig Phillips, can be seen in this week's farm section, page C-2.

Public Hearings Held On 911, Recordation Tax

Two public hearings were conducted this week by the Garrett County Commissioners to seek input on the proposed increase of the county recordation tax and an increase in the 911 user fee.

The authority to increase the recordation tax was one of the many pieces of legislation proposed by the county commissioners in a pre-legislative meeting with District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer in December. The legislation was not introduced, however, because it was learned that the county already has that authority.

The proposal is to increase the tax from $2.20 to $2.50 per $500 of value.

A proposal to increase the 911 user fee from 30 cents to 50 cents per month was brought to the commissioners by Garrett County Director of General Services Gary Mullich, who indicated that the money generated from that increase would be used solely by the 911 Center.

The fee appears on the C&P Telephone bill every month.

No citizens attended either of the Tuesday afternoon hearings, according to Commission Chairperson Brenda Butscher, who stated that the record would be held over for one week for public comment and a decision would be made by the board of commissioners next Tuesday.

Commissioners Lukewarm On Less Restrictive Growth Control Measure

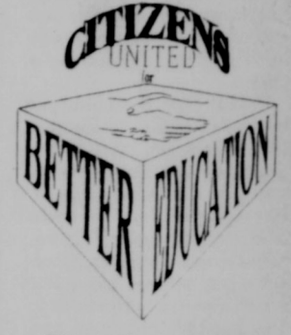
While legislation that seeks to control growth and protect the environment in a significantly less restrictive manner than last year's growth control bill (commonly known as "2020") is currently under review by the Maryland General Assembly, the Garrett County Commissioners recently voiced unanimous opposition to the measure.

After an update on the bill and further interpretation, however, Commissioner John Braskey stated he would support the bill if, indeed, county-wide zoning was not included as a requirement. Commissioners Brenda Butscher and Elwood Groves each stated they would need more time and information before they could render a decision.

When questioned about why they were originally opposed to the bill, Braskey stated, "It looked like a move to force us to go to county-wide zoning."

Groves replied that he agreed with that reason, adding that those kinds of decisions need to be made at the local level.

Commissioner Butscher stated, "We just don't like the state telling us what to do."



Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson has been attempting to interpret the measure and to keep the commissioners up to date on the proposal, which was submitted by the Schaefer administration and is entitled, "The Economic Growth and Resource Act of 1992."

Nelson reported to the commissioners this week that the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) has given the bill its support. Commissioner Braskey stated that he had also been in touch with some officials at MACo. "They told me we should support it because they don't want us to fuel the fire for environmentalist," said Braskey.

Environmentalists are reportedly concerned that the bill does not come close to addressing the growth and environmental protection problems facing Maryland, and that it is questionable that officials in local jurisdictions can be counted on to effectively curb the sprawling growth now taking place throughout the state.

Meet Candidates Program Slated By CUBE Group

Citizens United for Better Education (CUBE) will sponsor a "Meet the School Board Candidates Night" next Tuesday, Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. at the McHenry Fire Hall.

A spokesman for CUBE urges all members of the public to attend the program so they "will be able to make an informed decision about the people affecting the future of our Garrett County students."

Candidates for the Board of Education include: Helen C. Fitzwater, Wayne R. Johnson, Charlotte Sebold, Hannah W. Sincell, Russell T. Sines, and Charles Teets. Voters will be given the opportunity to vote for two of the candidates in the March 3 primary election. The top four vote-getters will then run in the general election in November, from whom two will be elected.

Board Of Education Convenes, Discusses Variety Of Items

The Garrett County Board of Education met last week to discuss a variety of items on their agenda.

Tobacco Use in the Workplace

Dr. Rex Archer, chief health officer of the Garrett County Health Department, gave a report on the effects of tobacco use on nonsmokers as well as smokers. According to Archer passive tobacco smoke poses a greater health risk than all other air pollutants combined.

Of the roughly 350 deaths per year in Garrett County, 50 are the result of tobacco use. Archer stated that more people were lost to tobacco use in this country last year than have died in all the wars in the history of the United States.

Statistically four out of ten nonsmokers reach the age of 85 and only one out of ten smokers will live to 85 years of age. One of ten nonsmokers will die by age 65 while three of ten smokers will die by age 65.

Archer says 20,000 to 40,000 deaths in the United States each year are the result of heart disease developed by passive smokers (nonsmokers who breathe in other people's smoke).

According to Archer poor ventilation in most buildings allows for unacceptably high levels of cigarette smoke pollutants to continually recirculate through the air. Smoke from designated smoking areas thus affects people in an entire building.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, noted that currently the schools have designated smoking areas in each building. He questioned the morale problem that could result from the Tobacco Free Schools Plan. Dr. Archer stated that he could not weigh the risk of death against what he predicted would be a small morale problem. Archer noted that most people will endorse regulated smoke-free buildings and stated that generally the program is even more popular once it is in place.

Rodney Durst, board member, stated "We spent millions of dollars to get rid of asbestos. In view of this evidence, we don't have any choice but to do the right thing."

Mikal Moomau, board member, concurred, but added that employees would need a lead time to prepare for such a program. Archer supported this idea.

The board agreed to involve the Wellness Council in the implementation of this program.

Revision to Hearing Procedure for Appeals

Attorney Leonard Eiswert drafted a new procedure for bus stop appeal hearings that is similar to the procedure previously used by the board. The major change is the provision of an informal procedure that would allow for the strict formalities to be dispensed with in certain circumstances.

Eiswert noted that the 15 minute time limit could be waived only by the request of the board before the start of the hearing. Otherwise people will be notified before the hearing that informal procedures are to be used and will be informed of their 15 minute time limit.

Red Cross Shelter Agreement

The school board will consider designating area schools as emergency shelters for use by the American Red Cross. Chief concerns of board members centered around the board's potential liability and the question of reimbursement of any cafeteria food used.

Red Cross representative Beachy stated that Red Cross insurance covers only Red Cross personnel; it does not cover persons being served by the organization. The school board would need to pick up the additional insurance liability.

In regard to the food, the law allows the Red Cross to use USDA products. Morris recommended that the board allow only the use of these products.

The board is considering these recommendations.

National School Counselors' Week

Local school counselors were on hand to give progress reports and call for a signed proclamation designating the previous week as National School Counselors Week. Moomau noted, "We all strongly support the counseling program."

Local school counselors carry heavy work loads. For example, there are only three elementary school counselors in the county. Each serves three schools with an average student population of 750 students per school.

Recognition of Society's Seedlings Publication

Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of elementary education, noted the Garrett County Historical Society,

Extension Office Officials Ask For Funding Reassurances From County

Representatives from the Garrett County Extension Service this week met with the Garrett County Commissioners to present an update on programs provided by the office, the effects of state restructuring at the local extension office, and to request that all possible budget considerations be given to the agency in order to maintain state funding.

Alice Hevner, Garrett County extension director and extension agent for 4-H, explained to the commissioners that, as part of the University of Maryland system, the cooperative extension service has now become equal in status to 13 campuses around the state, complete with its own president.

Known as the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources (MINAR), the agency provides four major programs including Agriculture and Aquaculture Profitability; Nutrition, Diet, Health and Food Safety; Natural and Environmental Resources; and Youth Development Education.

The agency, however has suffered with other agencies in the area of state funding over the last year. As a result, said Hevner, the Garrett County office will lose one of the four county professional positions, and the duties included in that position will be divided among the remaining professionals.

With the probability of more state budget cuts, the office needs the continued local financial support, said Hevner. "The state has indicated that any county extension service funding that drops below its share of what is needed to operate the office, will no longer receive state funding," she stated. In other words, the state is not going to fund the county's share.

Jim Simms, Garrett County extension agent for agriculture, was also on hand at the meeting to provide the commissioners with an outline of his duties, including counseling services to farmers who, he said, are now having to master the art of "pushing pencils" along with all the other managerial skills needed in today's farming industry.

"Less than five percent of farmers in Garrett County have accounting systems" beyond the checkbook, said Simms, adding, "We're working with farmers to emphasize farm management practices."

Simms noted that farming is still a major industry in the county and will remain so, and although sales exceeded $30 million last year, a slight decrease has been experienced "mostly because of the drought conditions and a slump in prices."

That price slump, he said, applies most severely to the milk industry, which has recently experienced plummeting prices. The farmer has no control over milk prices, since it is a government regulated industry.

"Farmers are struggling to make a profit, and we're working with them to help identify any individual prob-

Absentee Ballot Deadline Noted

Tuesday, February 25, is the deadline for receipt of non-emergency absentee ballot applications by local election boards for the Maryland Presidential Primary Election, according to the Maryland State Administrative Board of Election Laws.

Registered voters quality for absentee voting if they will be out of their county or Baltimore City on election day; are disabled; are 65 years of age or older and their polling place is inaccessible; are full-time college students residing on campus; or are confined to an institution.

Qualified persons may phone, write, or go to their local election board to request an application.

An emergency absentee ballot may be obtained after the deadline if one finds out that he must be absent from the county or Baltimore City where registered; a sudden illness or accident; or a death or serious illness in the immediate family.

For further information, local persons may contact the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors or the State Board at 1-800-222-VOTE.

Local Dentist Tests Negative In HIV Test

To dispel a vindictive rumor that has been circulated throughout Garrett County, an Oakland dentist has elected to publish test results confirming that he is HIV-negative.

Dr. Dave Sheets, who practices at 4000 Thayer Center in Oakland and has been a resident of the county for 12 years, was tested for the virus January 28 at the Allegheny County Health Department in Pittsburgh and the results came back negative. A copy of the results is on file at his office.

HIV is the virus that usually leads to the fatal disease, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS.

Dr. Sheets said that the guidelines set by the American Dental Association for a clean dental environment are practiced by him at his office. He said gloves and mask are routinely worn, instruments are sterilized via steam heat autoclave, and countertops and other surfaces are regularly scrubbed down with disinfectants.

Because of the AIDS crisis, Sheets says he believes all health professionals should be tested on a routine basis.

"It can only serve to ease everyone's mind," he said, adding that the patient also has an obligation to be honest when filling out the medical history form and when questioned by the doctor about medically-related health information. "By doing so, a good doctor-patient relationship is established and everyone benefits," he said.

Dr. Sheets said he regrets "the pain and suffering" the rumor about him have caused his patients and their families and friends, as evidenced by the number of telephone calls he has received at his office.

"Hopefully, by publication of this article, the false rumor will cease," he said.

He said that those patients who have left his practice are "more than welcome" to return and, as always, new patients are being accepted. Appointments can be made by calling 334-1111. Evening hours are also available.

Boat Designer Sandy Douglass Dies In N.M.

by Martin Heise

Gordon K. "Sandy" Douglass, boat designer/builder, racing champion, and civic leader, died Wednesday, February 12, 1992, of a stroke in Albuquerque, N.M.

Born into a sailing family in Newark, N.J., on October 22, 1904, Sandy was the son of the late Irene M. and George P. Douglass. Sandy's father was one of the foremost small boat sailors of his day.

Sailing was recreation for Sandy, to be fitted in with studies at Collegiate Prep School and Dartmouth College. After graduating with an academic degree, Sandy searched for a career in such fields as selling automobiles for Buick Motor Company, studying art, painting in oils, and selling art reproductions.

Although sailing was a hobby, Sandy was achieving renown as a keen competitor in canoeing, canoe sailing, sailboat racing, and iceboating. In 1936, Sandy decided to combine a trip to Europe as a member of the Canadian Olympic Paddling Team with a challenge to a race to win back the International Cup for sailboat racing. The cup had been wrested from the United States by England in 1933, a year more noteworthy to Sandy because in May he married Mary A. Taylor, then fellow student of his sister, Katherine, at the Dalcraze School of Eurythmics in New York City.

Pedestrian Hit In Three-Car Mishap Friday

A McHenry man and his wife were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Friday where they were treated and released following a three-car mishap, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital.

Injured were Richard Condon Browning, 68, a pedestrian checking on an earlier accident, and his wife, Alberta L. Browning, 63, a passenger in a 1987 Subaru GL that had been operated by Mr. Browning.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that the accident occurred when Huron B. Wright, 18, Frostburg, [illegible] Plymouth

Public Hearings Held On 911, Recordation Tax

Two public hearings were conducted this week by the Garrett County Commissioners to seek input on the proposed increase of the county recordation tax and an increase in the 911 user fee.

The authority to increase the recordation tax was one of the many pieces of legislation proposed by the county commissioners in a pre-legislative meeting with District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer in December. The legislation was not introduced, however, because it was learned that the county already has that authority.

The proposal is to increase the tax from $2.20 to $2.50 per $500 of value.

A proposal to increase the 911 user fee from 30 cents to 50 cents per month was brought to the commissioners by Garrett County Director of General Services Gary Mullich, who indicated that the money generated from that increase would be used solely by the 911 Center.

The fee appears on the C&P Telephone bill every month.

No citizens attended either of the Tuesday afternoon hearings, according to Commission Chairperson Brenda Butscher, who stated that the record would be held over for one week for public comment and a decision would be made by the board of commissioners next Tuesday.

Extension Office Officials Ask For Funding Reassurances From County

Representatives from the Garrett County Extension Service this week met with the Garrett County Commissioners to present an update on programs provided by the office, the effects of state restructuring at the local extension office, and to request that all possible budget considerations be given to the agency in order to maintain state funding.

Alice Hevner, Garrett County extension director and extension agent for 4-H, explained to the commissioners that, as part of the University of Maryland system, the cooperative extension service has now become equal in status to 13 campuses around the state, complete with its own president.

Known as the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources (MINAR), the agency provides four major programs including Agriculture and Aquaculture Profitability; Nutrition, Diet, Health and Food Safety; Natural and Environmental Resources; and Youth Development Education.

The agency, however has suffered with other agencies in the area of state funding over the last year. As a result, said Hevner, the Garrett County office will lose one of the four county professional positions, and the duties included in that position will be divided among the remaining professionals.

With the probability of more state budget cuts, the office needs the continued local financial support, said Hevner. "The state has indicated that any county extension service funding that drops below its share of what is needed to operate the office, will no longer receive state funding," she stated. In other words, the state is not going to fund the county's share.

Jim Simms, Garrett County extension agent for agriculture, was also on hand at the meeting to provide the commissioners with an outline of his duties, including counseling services to farmers who, he said, are now having to master the art of 'pushing pencils' along with all the other managerial skills needed in today's farming industry.

"Less than five percent of farmers in Garrett County have accounting systems" beyond the checkbook, said Simms, adding, "We're working with farmers to emphasize farm management practices."

Simms noted that farming is still a major industry in the county and will remain so, and although sales exceeded $30 million last year, a slight decrease has been experienced "mostly because of the drought conditions and a slump in prices."

That price slump, he said, applies most severely to the milk industry, which has recently experienced plummeting prices. The farmer has no control over milk prices, since it is a government regulated industry.

Commissioners Lukewarm On Less Restrictive Growth Control Measure

While legislation that seeks to control growth and protect the environment in a significantly less restrictive manner than last year's growth control bill (commonly known as "2020") is currently under review by the Maryland General Assembly, the Garrett County Commissioners recently voiced unanimous opposition to the measure.

After an update on the bill and further interpretation, however, Commissioner John Braskey stated he would support the bill if, indeed, county-wide zoning was not included as a requirement. Commissioners Brenda Butscher and Elwood Groves each stated they would need more time and information before they could render a decision.

When questioned about why they were originally opposed to the bill, Braskey stated, "It looked like a move to force us to go to county-wide zoning."

Groves replied that he agreed with that reason, adding that those kinds of decisions need to be made at the local level.

Commissioner Butscher stated, "We just don't like the state telling us what to do."

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson has been attempting to interpret the measure and to keep the commissioners up to date on the proposal, which was submitted by the Schaefer administration and is entitled, "The Economic Growth and Resource Act of 1992."

Nelson reported to the commissioners this week that the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) has given the bill its support. Commissioner Braskey stated that he had also been in touch with some officials at MACo. "They told me we should support it because they don't want us to fuel the fire for environmentalist," said Braskey.

Environmentalists are reportedly concerned that the bill does not come close to addressing the growth and environmental protection problems facing Maryland, and that it is questionable that officials in local jurisdictions can be counted on to effectively curb the sprawling growth now taking place throughout the state.

Meet Candidates Program Slated By CUBE Group

Citizens United for Better Education (CUBE) will sponsor a "Meet the School Board Candidates Night" next Tuesday, Feb. 25, at 7 p.m. at the McHenry Fire Hall.

A spokesman for CUBE urges all members of the public to attend the program so they "will be able to make an informed decision about the people affecting the future of our Garrett County students."

Candidates for the Board of Education include: Helen C. Fitzwater, Wayne R. Johnson, Charlotte Sebold, Hannah W. Sincell, Russell T. Sines, and Charles Teets. Voters will be given the opportunity to vote for two of the candidates in the March 3 primary election. The top four vote-getters will then run in the general election in November, from whom two will be elected.

Absentee Ballot Deadline Noted

Tuesday, February 25, is the deadline for receipt of non-emergency absentee ballot applications by local election boards for the Maryland Presidential Primary Election, according to the Maryland State Administrative Board of Election Laws.

Registered voters qualify for absentee voting if they will be out of their county or Baltimore City on election day; are disabled; are 65 years of age or older and their polling place is inaccessible; are full-time college students residing on campus; or are confined to an institution.

Qualified persons may phone, write, or go to their local election board to request an application.

An emergency absentee ballot may be obtained after the deadline if one finds out that he must be absent from the county or Baltimore City where registered; a sudden illness or accident; or a death or serious illness in the immediate family.

For further information, local persons may contact the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors or the State Board at 1-800-222-VOTE.

Local Dentist Tests Negative In HIV Test

To dispel a vindictive rumor that has been circulated throughout Garrett County, an Oakland dentist has elected to publish test results confirming that he is HIV-negative.

Dr. Dave Sheets, who practices at 4000 Thayer Center in Oakland and has been a resident of the county for 12 years, was tested for the virus January 28 at the Allegheny County Health Department in Pittsburgh and the results came back negative. A copy of the results is on file at his office.

HIV is the virus that usually leads to the fatal disease, acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS.

Dr. Sheets said that the guidelines set by the American Dental Association for a clean dental environment are practiced by him at his office. He said gloves and mask are routinely worn, instruments are sterilized via steam heat autoclave, and countertops and other surfaces are regularly scrubbed down with disinfectants.

Because of the AIDS crisis, Sheets says he believes all health professionals should be tested on a routine basis.

"It can only serve to ease everyone's mind," he said, adding that the patient also has an obligation to be honest when filling out the medical history form and when questioned by the doctor about medically-related health information. By doing so, a good doctor-patient relationship is established and everyone benefits," he said.

Dr. Sheets said he regrets "the pain and suffering" the rumor about him have caused his patients and their families and friends, as evidenced by the number of telephone calls he has received at his office.

"Hopefully, by publication of this article, the false rumor will cease," he said.

He said that those patients who have left his practice are "more than welcome" to return and, as always, new patients are being accepted. Appointments can be made by calling 334-1111. Evening hours are also available.

Pedestrian Hit In Three-Car Mishap Friday

A McHenry man and his wife were both transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Friday where they were treated and released following a three-car mishap, according to a nursing spokesperson at the hospital.

Injured were Richard Condon Browning, 68, a pedestrian checking on an earlier accident, and his wife, Alberta L. Browning, 63, a passenger in a 1987 Subaru GL that had been operated by Mr. Browning.

Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, reported that the accident occurred when Huron B. Wright, 18, Frostburg, operating a 1981 Plymouth Horizon, was traveling north on U.S. Route 219, lost control on the icy roadway, and crossed into the southbound lane, striking a 1991 Plymouth Voyager, operated by Edward A. Eckenrode, 30, Frederick. After striking the Voyager, the Wright vehicle continued on and struck Browning's vehicle, finally striking Browning before coming to rest against an embankment.

Neither Wright nor Eckenrode nor passengers in the Eckenrode vehicle, Pamela S. Eckenrode, 28, and Chelsey Bolter, 5, both of Frederick, were reportedly injured in the 10:36 p.m. mishap.

The Brownings were taken to the local hospital by the Northern Garrett

A VIEW FROM THE OUTBACK? -- Most of us expect to see birds like this emu only in a National Geographic special about the Australian Outback. But this bird and the rest of his flock is living right here in Garrett County (an area thought of by some as "Maryland's Outback"). Emu, ostrich and rhea are becoming a popular domestically raised bird in the United States since there is a market for every part of the bird, they adapt well to many areas, and are relatively easy to care for. The inquisitive bird above is probably looking through the fence at our photographer, Craig Phillips, wondering just what species of bird he is. Additional photos of this local flock, all by Craig Phillips, can be seen in this week's farm section, page C-2.

Public Hearings Held On 911, Recordation Tax

Two public hearings were conducted this week by the Garrett County Commissioners to seek input on the proposed increase of the county recordation tax and an increase in the 911 user fee.

The authority to increase the recordation tax was one of the many pieces of legislation proposed by the county commissioners in a pre-legislative meeting with District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer in December. The legislation was not introduced, however, because it was learned that the county already has that authority.

The proposal is to increase the tax from $2.20 to $2.50 per $500 of value.

A proposal to increase the 911 user fee from 30 cents to 50 cents per month was brought to the commissioners by Garrett County Director of General Services Gary Mullich, who indicated that the money generated from that increase would be used solely by the 911 Center.

The fee appears on the C&P Telephone bill every month.

No citizens attended either of the Tuesday afternoon hearings, according to Commission Chairperson Brenda Butscher, who stated that the record would be held over for one week for public comment and a decision would be made by the board of commissioners next Tuesday.

Commissioners Lukewarm On Less Restrictive Growth Control Measure

While legislation that seeks to control growth and protect the environment in a significantly less restrictive manner than last year's growth control bill (commonly known as "2020") is currently under review by the Maryland General Assembly, the Garrett County Commissioners recently voiced unanimous opposition to the measure.

After an update on the bill and further interpretation, however, Commissioner John Braskey stated he would support the bill if, indeed, county-wide zoning was not included as a requirement. Commissioners Brenda Butscher and Elwood Groves each stated they would need more time and information before they could render a decision.

When questioned about why they were originally opposed to the bill, Braskey stated, "It looked like a move to force us to go to county-wide zoning."

Groves replied that he agreed with that reason, adding that those kinds of decisions need to be made at the local level.

Commissioner Butscher stated, "We just don't like the state telling us what to do."

Garrett County Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson has been attempting to interpret the measure and to keep the commissioners up to date on the proposal, which was submitted by the Schaefer administration and is entitled, "The Economic Growth and Resource Act of 1992."

Nelson reported to the commissioners this week that the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) has given the bill its support. Commissioner Braskey stated that he had also been in touch with some officials at MACo. "They told me we should support it because they don't want us to fuel the fire for environmentalist," said Braskey.

Environmentalists are reportedly concerned that the bill does not come close to addressing the growth and environmental protection problems facing Maryland, and that it is questionable that officials in local jurisdictions can be counted on to effectively curb the sprawling growth now taking place throughout the state.

Board Of Education Convenes, Discusses Variety Of Items

The Garrett County Board of Education met last week to discuss a variety of items on their agenda.

Tobacco Use in the Workplace

Dr. Rex Archer, chief health officer of the Garrett County Health Department, gave a report on the effects of tobacco use on nonsmokers as well as smokers. According to Archer passive tobacco smoke poses a greater health risk than all other air pollutants combined.

Of the roughly 350 deaths per year in Garrett County, 50 are the result of tobacco use. Archer stated that more people were lost to tobacco use in this country last year than have died in all the wars in the history of the United States.

Statistically four out of ten nonsmokers reach the age of 85 and only one out of ten smokers will live to 85 years of age. One of ten nonsmokers will die by age 65 while three of ten smokers will die by age 65.

Archer says 20,000 to 40,000 deaths in the United States each year are the result of heart disease developed by passive smokers (nonsmokers who breathe in other people's smoke).

According to Archer poor ventilation in most buildings allows for unacceptably high levels of cigarette smoke pollutants to continually recirculate through the air. Smoke from designated smoking areas thus affects people in an entire building.

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County Schools, noted that currently the schools have designated smoking areas in each building. He questioned the morale problem that could result from the Tobacco Free Schools Plan. Dr. Archer stated that he could not weigh the risk of death against what he predicted would be a small morale problem. Archer noted that most people will endorse regulated smoke-free buildings and stated that generally the program is even more popular once it is in place.

Rodney Durst, board member, stated "We spent millions of dollars to get rid of asbestos. In view of this evidence, we don't have any choice but to do the right thing."

Mikal Moomau, board member, concurred, but added that employees would need a lead time to prepare for such a program. Archer supported this idea.

The board agreed to involve the Wellness Council in the implementation of this program.

Revision to Hearing Procedure for Appeals

Attorney Leonard Eiswert drafted a new procedure for bus stop appeal hearings that is similar to the procedure previously used by the board. The major change is the provision of an informal procedure that would allow for the strict formalities to be dispensed with in certain circumstances.

Eiswert noted that the 15 minute time limit could be waived only by the request of the board before the start of the hearing. Otherwise people will be notified before the hearing that informal procedures are to be used and will be informed of their 15 minute time limit.

Red Cross Shelter Agreement

The school board will consider designating area schools as emergency shelters for use by the American Red Cross. Chief concerns of board members centered around the board's potential liability and the question of reimbursement of any cafeteria food used.

Red Cross representative Beachy stated that Red Cross insurance covers only Red Cross personnel; it does not cover persons being served by the organization. The school board would need to pick up the additional insurance liability.

In regard to the food, the law allows the Red Cross to use USDA products. Morris recommended that the board allow only the use of these products.

The board is considering these recommendations.

National School Counselors' Week

Local school counselors were on hand to give progress reports and call for a signed proclamation designating the previous week as National School Counselors Week. Moomau noted, "We all strongly support the counseling program."

Local school counselors carry heavy work loads. For example, there are only three elementary school counselors in the county. Each serves three schools with an average student population of 750 students per school.

Recognition of Society's Seedlings Publication

Dr. Brenda McCartney, director of elementary education, noted the Garrett County Historical Society,

Extension Office Officials Ask For Funding Reassurances From County

Representatives from the Garrett County Extension Service this week met with the Garrett County Commissioners to present an update on programs provided by the office, the effects of state restructuring at the local extension office, and to request that all possible budget considerations be given to the agency in order to maintain state funding.

Alice Hevner, Garrett County extension director and extension agent for 4-H, explained to the commissioners that, as part of the University of Maryland system, the cooperative extension service has now become equal in status to 13 campuses around the state, complete with its own president.

Known as the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources (MINAR), the agency provides four major programs including Agriculture and Aquaculture Profitability; Nutrition, Diet, Health and Food Safety; Natural and Environmental Resources; and Youth Development Education.

The agency, however has suffered with other agencies in the area of state funding over the last year. As a result, said Hevner, the Garrett County office will lose one of the four county professional positions, and the duties included in that position will be divided among the remaining professionals.

With the probability of more state budget cuts, the office needs the continued local financial support, said Hevner. "The state has indicated that any county extension service funding that drops below its share of what is needed to operate the office, will no longer receive state funding," she stated. In other words, the state is not going to fund the county's share.

Jim Simms, Garrett County extension agent for agriculture, was also on hand at the meeting to provide the commissioners with an outline of his duties, including counseling services to farmers who, he said, are now having to master the art of "pushing pencils" along with all the other managerial skills needed in today's farming industry.

"Less than five percent of farmers in Garrett County have accounting systems" beyond the checkbook, said Simms, adding, "We're working with farmers to emphasize farm management practices."

Simms noted that farming is still a major industry in the county and will remain so, and although sales exceeded $30 million last year, a slight decrease has been experienced "mostly because of the drought conditions and a slump in prices."

That price slump, he said, applies most severely to the milk industry, which has recently experienced plummeting prices. The farmer has no control over milk prices, since it is a government regulated industry.

"Farmers are struggling to make a profit, and we're working with them to help identify any individual prob-

Boat Designer Sandy Douglass Dies In N.M.

by Martin Heise

Gordon K. "Sandy" Douglass, boat designer/builder, racing champion, and civic leader, died Wednesday, February 12, 1992, of a stroke in Albuquerque, N.M.

Born into a sailing family in Newark, N.J., on October 22, 1904, Sandy was the son of the late Irene M. and George P. Douglass. Sandy's father was one of the foremost small boat sailors of his day.

Sailing was recreation for Sandy, to be fitted in with studies at Collegiate Prep School and Dartmouth College. After graduating with an academic degree, Sandy searched for a career in such fields as selling automobiles for Buick Motor Company, studying art, painting in oils, and selling art reproductions.

Although sailing was a hobby, Sandy was achieving renown as a keen competitor in canoeing, canoe sailing, sailboat racing, and iceboating. In 1936, Sandy decided to combine a trip to Europe as a member of the Canadian Olympic Paddling Team with a challenge to a race to win back the International Cup for sailboat racing. The cup had been wrested from the United States by England in 1933, a year more noteworthy to Sandy because in May he married Mary A. Taylor, then fellow student of his sister, Katherine, at the Dalcraze School of Eurythmics in New York City.

Oakland Man To Serve One Year At Md. D.O.C.

An inmate in the Garrett County Jail has been sentenced to serve one year in the Maryland Department of Corrections, according to court records filed at Garrett County District Court.

George Talbot, 44, had been found guilty of malicious destruction of property in January 7 court proceedings. Judge Jack R. Turney sentenced Talbot last week. Talbot was also ordered to pay $100 in restitution to Gloria Miller.

Charges of disorderly conduct on private property, burglary, and breaking and entering were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney's Office.

Talbot had been charged by Gloria Miller who stated that Talbot had come to her residence on December 9, 1991, on the Fairview Road. She alleged that he upset her refrigerator, stove, microwave oven, kitchen table and an end table. She said there were witnesses to the alleged breaking and entering.

In other court news, Ellen M. Moore, 35, Swanton, was found guilty of making a false statement to police. She was handed a six-month jail term, fined $200, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Moore had reportedly told Maryland State Police in December of last year that she had been raped in July of 1987. She then allegedly admitted on January 4 that she had made a false report of a crime to "get back at" a family member who had been trying to break up her marriage for the past 10 years.

Richard Railey, 39, Frostburg, was sentenced last week after he had been found guilty of malicious destruction of property in court proceedings last month. He was given a 60-day suspended jail term and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. The fine was waived.

Railey had been charged on August 8, 1991, by Mary Hayes who stated Railey had removed two top screws and bent the cover on a fuse box on her property.

Terri Jo Fazenbaker, 21, Oakland, pleaded not guilty and was found not guilty of disturbing the peace on private property and petty theft.

The charges against Fazenbaker had been filed by Nancy Fazenbaker, who stated that Terri Jo had come to pick up her son and removed a sign from the front door and began "screaming and cursing."

Various charges against Michael J. Miller, 20, Meyersdale, Pa., were not prosecuted because the victim in the case refused to testify. He had been charged with two counts of trespassing on private property, battery, and harassment by Wilford S. Leasher, Grantsville.

In his complaint, Leasher said Miller came to his residence and was escorted away by the Maryland State Police and told not to come back. He allegedly returned the next day and a scuffle ensued between the two.

Charges of assault and reckless endangerment were also not prosecuted against Wilford S. Leasher, 51, Grantsville, because the victim refused to testify.

Charges had been filed by the Maryland State Police on Rt. 495 at the Jennings Road when Leasher allegedly pointed a 12-gauge shotgun at Kerry A. Miller, Meyersdale, Pa. The incident reportedly occurred when Miller went to Leasher's residence to pick up belongings of Wendy J. Frickey.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Brandon M. Wolf, 19, Oakland, who was found guilty of trespassing on private property. He was found not guilty of being disorderly on private property.

Charges against Wolf were filed by Tammy L. Skiles, Mtn. Lake Park, who stated that Wolf came onto the property on January 2 June of 1991. Wolf also allegedly threw stones at the windows of the house.

James W. Maule, 62, Oakland, was found not guilty of battery. He had been charged on January 4 by Charles E. Friend who stated that he had been drinking at Maule's residence and that Maule had cut his left arm with a knife.

At a sentence revision hearing, Eugene T. Sullivan, 42, Fredericksburg, had his guilty verdict for trespassing revised to probation before judgment. He was fined $100 and placed on 90 days of unsupervised probation.

Sullivan had been charged by Ranger Bill Donnellan of the Army Corps of Engineers at Jennings Randolph Lake last July. Sullivan allegedly fished within a restricted area and ignored posted "no trespassing" signs in the area.

Oakland Couple Sentenced On CDS Charges

An Oakland husband and wife received separate sentences in Garrett County Circuit Court this week after being found guilty on various CDS (controlled dangerous substance) charges.

Robin L. Stillwagon, 27, received 30 days in the Garrett County Jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. He was originally charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, conspiracy, common nuisance, possession of marijuana, and drug paraphernalia. All other charges were not prosecuted.

Patricia D. Stillwagon, 23, received five days in the Garrett County Jail after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana. She was originally charged with possession of marijuana, conspiracy, common nuisance, possession of marijuana, and drug paraphernalia. All other charges were not prosecuted.

The Oakland couple was arrested on the charges on August 14, after the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force executed a court order search warrant signed by Judge Fred A. Thayer. A search of the residence allegedly revealed marijuana in sufficient quanities to indicate an intent to manufacture, dispence, and distribute.

John R. Toston was the defending attorney in each of the cases.

Dr. Harvey Joins The Vision Group At Thayer Center

J.W. Chip Harvey II, O.D., has begun his practice of optometry in association with the Vision Group, Thayer Center, Oakland.

Dr. Harvey is a recent graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Optometry, Philadelphia. He has completed clinical externships in ocular disease and surgery co-management at the Omni Eye Services of Baltimore and at Azar Medi-Vision, Baton Rouge, La.

Dr. Harvey will provide full-scope optometry services at the Vision Group, including pediatric and geriatric eye care, and contact lens treatment.

A native of Cumberland, Dr. Harvey received his Bachelor of Science degree from Frostburg State College. Dr. Harvey's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Jack Harvey, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harvey, were longtime Garrett County residents.

Accident Town Election Slated For March 3

The Town of Accident will hold its municipal election on Tuesday, March 3, to fill two vacancies in the office of town councilman. The polls will be open from 4 to 8 p.m. at the Town Hall, Accident Municipal Building.

Nominated at the February 4 Town Convention to fill the two councilmen vacancies were Richard Carlson, Michael Smith, and Richard Younkin. Those councilmen whose two-year terms of office are expiring are Richard Carlson and Fred Kahl. In mid-term are Mayor Wayne Fratz and councilmen Hobert Bowser and Thomas Georg.

The Town holds open voter registration. Eligible residents who have not already registered to vote should contact the Town Manager Marjorie Fratz. Qualified voters unable to come to the polls because of illness, disability, military duty, or absence because of business, travel, or school attendance on the day of election may obtain an absentee ballot by contacting the Town Manager, telephone 746-8060.

A state law implemented in January 1990 established a system for universal voter registration. Eligible residents may also register with the Board of Supervisors of Elections at the County Courthouse for municipal, as well as county, state, and federal elections.

Blood Donors Advised How To Enter Armory

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be collecting blood at the National Guard Armory in Oakland this Friday, Feb. 21, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and donors are being advised of some exterior work that is being done at the armory that will necessitate some alterations in entering the building.

Cindy Kutchman, Garrett County Red Cross Chapter executive, said that the sidewalk that leads from the armory parking lot to the front door of the building is under excavation. She said persons may still park in the lot, but should use the door at the north end of the building beside the large garage door to enter. Persons may also park along Eighth Street and High Street and use the front and south side sidewalks to enter the front door, as usual.

PTA Council To Host Board Budget Meeting

The Garrett County Council of PTA's will host the Education Superintendent's 1992-93 Proposed Budget Hearing Thursday, on February 27, 7 p.m., at Southern Middle School. At this meeting Dr. Ryscavage, superintendent of schools, will present his proposed budget for the 1992-93 school year to the public. The members of the Board of Education will be present to hear the concerns and reactions by the public to the proposed budget.

"This is the public's opportunity to hear and be heard," stated Council President Charlotte Sebold. "If you have concerns or questions you are urged to attend this meeting."

The Garrett County Commissioners will receive an invitation to the meeting from the Council in order that they may be familiar with the concerns of the public.

"Public input is vital in all areas of our educational system; become involved and make a difference for the students of Garrett County," Sebold said.

Clarification

In a story that appeared in last week's issue of The Republican, a Michael A. Harsh, 35, of Aurora, W.Va., was named as one who was found guilty in Garrett County District Court on two drug charges. It should be noted that this is not the same Mike Harsh who is employed in the kitchen at Southern High School. While the Mr. Harsh at Southern High is also from Aurora, his real name is Willard W. Harsh and Mike is a nickname.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

DOWNTOWN ACCIDENT, featuring some of its earlier citizens, is pictured above in this photo from the collection of Dora Schlossnagel, currently held by Earl Haenftling, Accident. Out for what may have been a Sunday "drive" were, pictured left to right, Frank Georg, Nell Kaese Friend, Dora Schlossnagel, Harry Schlossnagel, and his twin sister, Prema Schlossnagel Haenftling. One should note the piles of sand in the background on the right, probably placed there in preparation for the paving of what is now U.S. Rt. 219. The paving was completed in 1915. The deteriorating building at the left was the blacksmith shop once operated by the Menhorn family. This photo is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. Persons interested in joining the Historical Society (dues $10 per year) may obtain more information and membership applications at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Oakland Citizens Reminded Of Town Election March 9

Oakland residents are reminded that the municipal election will be held Monday, March 9, with polls open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the City Hall. A mayor, treasurer, and three council persons will be elected.

Residents wishing to file as a candidate for one of these offices must do so by Friday, Feb. 28. The deadline for obtaining absentee ballots is Monday, March 2.

Residents who have not registered to vote in Oakland municipal elections may do so at City Hall during regular office hours. Those who have registered with the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors after January 1, 1990, are already qualified to vote in the municipal election and need not register at City Hall.

Terms of current office holders that expire are Mayor Asa McCain, Council persons Margaret Jamison, Andrew Mance, and Mary Lou Stemple, and Treasurer Carol Gregg. Holdover council persons are Willard Ringer, Harvey "Jay" Moyer, and Arthur Naylor.

Marianne Green -- Another GCC Success Story

Like a number of Garrett Community College graduates who transferred to Frostburg State University to complete their educations, Marianne Green has pursued a successful career as a teacher in the Garrett County schools. At the present time, she is language arts and reading teacher at Southern Middle School, and is in her 16th year of teaching.

About her education at GCC, Ms. Green now remembers the "excellent, dedicated instructors" who were committed to student success. "GCC changed my life and that of my family," she says. "Being a wife and mother, I could not have sustained four years of commuting to Frostburg. The availability of GCC allowed me to make my dream of being a teacher come true."

Attesting to her success as a teacher, Green taught the Gifted and Talented program for ten years and was the recipient of the A.F.T. John Dewey Award as "Teacher of the Year." She has authored and received numerous grants, including some from the Maryland Humanities Council, and one from the Richmond Foundation to research the history of the Deer Park Hotel. At GCC, Green was the recipient of the Smouse Memorial Award.

Green is the wife of Ed Green, administrator with the Garrett County Board of Education and former principal of Northern High School, and the mother of Kelly Green-Twigg, who attended GCC, and Mike Green, who graduated from GCC.

Oakland Elks Lodge Honored For Contribution

Oakland Elks Lodge 2481 was recently recognized by the Elks National Foundation for its contribution to the Foundation's Principal Fund in the amount of $1,000.

The Lodge received a certificate naming it an honorary founder and a permanent benefactor of the National Foundation's philanthropic projects.

The letter that accompanied the certificate read in part: "May we acknowledge, with sincere thanks, the receipt of your generous gift . . . to the Principal Fund of the Elks National Foundation . . . We want to express the appreciation of the Elks National Foundation Board of Trustees for the kind thought and generous donation."

With the exception of the Federal government, the Elks Foundation gives more scholarships than any other organization in the country. In addition, the Foundation sponsors other programs, such as the Youth Hoop School, Most Valuable Student Awards, Elks National Home, drug awareness programs, and Eagle Scout scholarships.

Charles "Jake" Powles is the local Lodge's chairman for the Elks National Foundation.

with the aid of the Reverend John Grant, has distributed the Society's Seedlings publication to every fourth grade student in the county for the past two years. The donation has cost the Historical Society $2,000 per year.

The school board passed a resolution of appreciation for this donation.

The publication exposes the students to a variety of local history.

Sebold Urges Legislative Support

Charlotte Sebold, president of the County Council of PTAs spoke during the public comment portion of the meeting urging citizens to lobby against House Bill 1026. The bill would shorten the school year to less than 180 days.

Sebold also urged people to lobby against HB 1119, a voucher plan that would allow parents a certain sum of money to enroll their children at the school of their choice. Sebold stated that this could take funding from public schools and place it in private schools.

She also spoke out against House Bill 1118, designed to reduce construction costs to the state.

She also noted HB 1049, which would cut back on state funding for driver's education.

According to Sebold, the PTA also supports a 25 cent cigarette tax. The organization is also currently lobbying against corporal punishment.

Bus Stop Appeal Decision

The school board voted to uphold Sines' recent decision to remove a bus stop located on Cove Road, near Old Morgantown Road.

The state recently inspected this site and found that it did not conform to the required one-quarter mile space between stops. Sines assessed the area and found that there were not sufficient safety factors to keep the stop in place.

Members of the public appealed this decision in a lengthy hearing last month.

Durst voiced frustration with the situation, but stated, "As my hands are tied, I'm not dissenting." He added, "We don't have the power to put the issue at rest and I think the people think we do."

Durst was referring to the fact that in the 1970s the school board designated the stop. He voiced frustration at the state's recent intervention. "When it comes to issues of safety, the state is tying the local board's hands."

Bloomington and Finzel Residents Present

A large number of Bloomington and Finzel residents were on hand during the public comment session to plead with the board to strongly consider allowing student residents of these areas to continue to attend Allegany County Schools. Several persons read statements urging board members to consider the needs of the students in this current fiscal crisis. Carol Clark, school board president, thanked the advocates for their presentation and stressed that the board has not considered bringing these students back into the county school system at this point. She noted that residents will be notified if the board considers this alternative in the future.

lems they might have," said Simms, who added that the demand for such workshops and services among farmers is high.

Simms also noted that plans are being made to expand the locations for the Mtn. Fresh Producers' tailgate market this summer.

Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Garrett County Extension Agent for Home Economics, also attended the meeting, reporting to the commissioners that "you cannot put a dollar figure on the worth of working with families" in the areas of financial counseling, food and nutrition, and homemaking.

Koscielniak also explained that she is currently organizing a program in gerontology to accommodate the growing number of senior citizens in the area.

Hevner told the commissioners that working with 4-H and youth groups is also a significant part of the extension service, and stated that many workshops have been held and many teaching and preparatory hours have been spent by the staff at the Extension Office to benefit the youth groups. "4-H teaches life skills, diversity of cultures, and science and technology," she said, adding, that the most important thing it teaches is self esteem.

Upon the conclusion of the information presented by Hevner, Simms and Koscielniak, the county commissioners assured them that every possible consideration would be given their office during the budgetary process. They also indicated their appreciation for the service provided to the county by that office.

Campaign Comments...

Now that the primary elections are underway, we decided to make some observations, comments, and possibly a prediction or two on the 1992 race for the U.S. presidency.

First of all, it irritates us to some extent that the voters of New Hampshire always have such a major say in determining the leading candidates in the presidential race. If, for example, a Pennsylvania voter were a staunch Jerry Brown supporter (there are probably one or two), he will most likely not be given the opportunity to cast a vote for his candidate. By the time the Pennsylvania primary election rolls around (in April), Jerry Brown will no longer be in the race.

Because New Hampshire is the first state to hold a primary, the voters there also have a greater opportunity to hear and study all of the candidates, who spend so much time in that state just prior to the election since it is so crucial. No other states will have that "luxury." Of course, if one were to ask a New Hampshire voter about this, he might consider us the lucky ones.

It's true, someone has to be first in the primary system, but perhaps it should not always be New Hampshire.

In commenting on the results of the Republican race between President Bush and Pat Buchanan, it is extremely unnerving to think about the fact that nearly 40 percent of New Hampshire Republicans voted for a man who has, to our knowledge, never held an elected position in his life. We assume, and hopefully we are correct in that assumption, that the votes for Mr. Buchanan were simply protest votes against President Bush by Republicans who are frustrated with the economy. New Hampshire has been among the states hardest hit by the recession.

It's interesting that former Senator Paul Tsongas is currently the leading Democrat candidate, a man who may have some good ideas, but possesses about as much charisma as Mr. Green Jeans. Unfortunately, charisma is a vital ingredient to winning the presidency.

Finally, our assessment and prediction, for what they're worth, are that the Democrats do not have and will not have a strong candidate, Pat Buchanan will fade from the Republican side within the next few primaries, the state of the nation's economy will move in a positive direction as 1992 progresses, and George Bush will serve four more years as our president.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

When Charles E. Pariseau called recently to say he was sending me a letter of apology for hanging up the phone while his wife was responding to my questions, I never expected it to take the form it did in The Republican's letters-to-the-editor section last week.

Before launching into a wholesale attack on the findings of my six-month investigation of the Ferrell-Ford case published in The Public Eye, Mr. Pariseau said he couldn't comment on the specifics because of his exaggerated "professional" involvement in the case. What he failed to note, however, is his personal interest. The reason I was interviewing his wife, after all, was that she was a principal witness in the trial of Paul W. Ferrell.

But that was only one of over a thousand interviews I conducted with people in 19 states and the District of Columbia. Those interviews and the contents of numerous previously undisclosed documents serve as the basis of what I report in The Public Eye.

While the substance of my reporting may not have impressed the jaundiced eye of Mr. Pariseau, it did impress the producers of a top-10 network television program, which will be taping a segment on the case in the near future.

As for Mr. Pariseau's charge that The Public Eye is mere "yellow journalism," I have found in my 20-year career that those who make that charge usually have red faces while they are doing so.

Furthermore, it is not I who make the most serious charges against Garrett and Grant county officials for their handling of the Ferrell-Ford case. Those making the charges are numerous local residents who had the courage to speak out so that such abuses of power won't happen again. They deserve gratitude, not criticism, for doing so.

Sincerely,
Martin Yant
Columbus, Ohio

To the Editor:

Time is ticking away and we only have seven weeks until the first Community Walk for Multiple Sclerosis will be held. How time flies. I am looking forward, with much anticipation, to a great walk in Oakland.

This walk will begin at Dennett Road School with registration at 8 a.m. at which time donuts, fresh fruit, and coffee will be available to walkers. The walk then will continue on Dennett Road to Broadford Park. Walkers will enjoy an early morning stroll through Broadford Park and then back to Dennett Road.

I am pleased to have Pizza Hut as a local sponsor and to have them with us for this worthwhile fund-raiser. I am sure the walkers will be happy to hear the Pizza Hut will be serving them lunch at the finish.

Even though the economy has not been what we would have liked this year, multiple sclerosis doesn't go away. Our clients and friends still need your help, now more than ever.

So please join in the group, round up your friends, neighbors and co-workers, and celebrate spring with a delightful walk for a very worthy cause. If you need a brochure for yourself or a friend, please contact me at 334-4880, and I will personally see that you get what you need. Believe me, your efforts and donations are very much appreciated. Only with your help will MS soon stand for Mystery Solved.

To the Editor:

I have always been a positive person, therefore looking on the good side of everyone and everything. An incident which took place on January 11, 1992, definitely revealed a very negative side.

My wife is legally blind, and has other major ailments, and has had a cast on her left foot and leg for 14 months. Surgery was performed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital on December 27, 1991. She was discharged from the hospital on January 3, 1992. The surgery was due to a diabetic ulcer causing the metacarpal to collapse. Her surgeon advised her to be transported home via ambulance, so the Terra Alta Ambulance Squad was called to the hospital.

We have been members since September 1982 after moving here from the Washington, D.C., area.

My wife was to return to the hospital emergency room on January 14 for examination and cast replacement. The ladies who brought her home on January 3 assured us that they would take her back for her appointment and contacted a member about the arrangements for the transportation and gave them the necessary date of January 10. I was advised this would be taken care of.

On January 11, my wife received a call from Kathy Lewis advising her they would not transport her to a doctor's office. She was informed it was to be to the emergency room. A friend of ours contacted the president of the Ambulance

Gov. Schaefer Speaks Out

REPORTING FROM THE EFFICIENCY HOTLINE

By Governor William Donald Schaefer

Last month the state opened an Efficiency Hotline to give Marylanders a chance to call with suggestions about how to cut waste in government and provide services more economically. The hotline is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday, and the phones are staffed by volunteers. I am pleased to see such an overwhelming response from our citizens. We have received hundreds of calls on the line since it opened January 27, with all kinds of suggestions. I promised at the start to look into every constructive suggestion, and we are doing just that.

Why set up a hotline? As you know, for more than a year Maryland has grappled with an ever-widening budget deficit that was created when tax revenues failed to keep up with growing demands for welfare, public safety, and educational programs. To keep the budget balanced, and cover deficits of $675 million in the 1991 fiscal year and another $671 million in 1992, we have gone through six rounds of spending cuts in the past year, reducing the state payroll, eliminating programs, and generally rethinking the way we provide government services -- including looking for ways to economize. During that time, I regularly heard from citizens that the solution to the budget problem was government "fat," and that if we would only cut the fat, we could balance the budget. I set up the hotline as part of my challenge to Marylanders to help identify the fat.

Many of you have taken time to call, and I appreciate the thoughtful suggestions. Recommendations have ranged from reducing the number of lightbulbs used in state office buildings to revamping some programs. Unfortunately, one of the problems is that Maryland's shortfalls have exceeded $1 billion in the past year, and we face another $1.2 billion deficit for the 1993 fiscal year that starts July 1. We would have to find a lot of fat to make up shortfalls of that magnitude. While many of the suggestions provided to the hotline are helpful, the total projected savings would save only a few million dollars, certainly not the billion dollars needed to continue providing basic services.

It's important to continue looking for ways to economize, and I am pledging to continue during that. But we cannot expect the Efficiency Hotline to solve our budget shortfalls. Only through a combination of budget reductions, tax increases, and continued economizing can we guarantee the citizens of Maryland decent housing, a cleaner environment, and strong schools.

Let me give you an idea of some of the suggestions we've received from the hotline that would not be practical for saving money. One caller suggested that everyone in Maryland be allowed to carry a gun, while another recommended that we simply execute everyone immediately on death row. Others suggested we should stop putting down chemicals or salt on snowy roads, presumably allowing the roads to clear on their own. Still another caller said the state should eliminate welfare altogether. Residents of Western Maryland would be startled to hear that one caller's cost-saving idea would be to let West Virginia annex Garrett and Washington counties so they would no longer be part of Maryland.

In a few weeks, I plan to share with you some of the really good ideas that we have followed up on, because we have enjoyed seeing some practical suggestions. In the meantime, please call the hotline if you have a good idea about how Maryland can economize. If you are calling from Baltimore, dial 225-1037. From anywhere else in the state, call 1-800-677-8969. We're looking forward to hearing from you.

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week and offer only two menu selections per week.

Planting Roses
by Edith D. Browning

Celebrated in pagan, Oriental and Christian religions, adopted as the symbol of the Mother of Christ, loved more that any other flower since ancient times, roses existed before man. There are many species, ranging from the weedy types to the delicate and lovely tea roses. Some of those hardy to Garrett County are: Mr. Lincoln tea rose, Sea Foam shrub rose, Blossom-time climber, Austrian Copper climber, New Blaze climber and The Fairy floribunda. These tried and true roses seem relatively trouble-free and are good bloomers. Most are still available from rose nurseries.

Roses prefer a sunny, protected location, though some will tolerate some afternoon shade. They grow best in rich, slightly acid soil. Good drainage is necessary, with plenty of water, and food available. Bare-root roses should be planted only in the spring, after danger of frost is past, but container plants can be set out any time during the summer. The hole must be large enough to accommodate the dirt ball easily, usually two feet wide and one foot deep. Spread the planting mixture of peat moss, leaf mold or well-rotted manure mixed with soil one inch deep in the hole.

Before planting, bare root roses should be soaked overnight in water; roots must not dry out. Cut back any dead or damaged canes, or stems, to live wood. Cut out the old tap root, and trim away any damaged roots, or roots too long for the hole. Mark the soil level by laying a stake across the prepared hole. In this "hard-struggle country" of Garrett County, it seems best to place the union, (where the plant is grafted to its root) one or two inches below the soil level. Add planting mixture over the roots and fill about two-thirds of the hole, making sure soil is well sifted among the plant roots. All roses require firm planting; to do this, tread the soil around the roots then water slowly to soak to eliminate any air pockets. Fill the hole and soak again. Mound soil over the newly planted canes until late spring when buds begin to swell. At that time, gently remove the mounded dirt and look forward to lovely blooms.

It is interesting to note that even when properly planted, how well your roses will do may depend on factors such as planting location, amount of sun, and exposure to winds and snow. Other factors in rose-growing including feeding, pruning and mulching. The new and revised Reader's Digest Complete Garden Book is a good source for more information on rose culture.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

Home Rule Charter Public Meeting Scheduled

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will host a public meeting on the home rule charter for Garrett County, Monday, February 24, 7:30 p.m., at the Oakland Town Hall.

A charter is a written document which provides the basic form of government for the county such as the written constitution does for the nation or the state. The charter will, over the years, express the principles by which the citizens of Garrett County wish to be governed. It contains the fundamental rules and principles for conducting the affairs of local government.

The charter accomplishes these purposes by establishing in writing the basic powers, organization, and administrative practices of county government.

The objectives of the proposed charter now being written are to provide the citizens of Garrett County with the advantages of local self-government and home rule. These advantages are to include the following: local authority to pass local laws; local public hearings on all proposed local laws; power of referendum, increased elected representation in county government; more citizen participation in local government; tighter controls over use of public funds; public disclosure of county revenues and expenditures; improved budget preparation and financial management; availability of public information; and effective ethical and conflict of interest standards.

A copy of SYNOPSIS (Overview with Rationale) is available at the league office, 202 East Alder Street Oakland.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

ELECTION

With the Primary Election on Tuesday, March 3, 1992, don't forget that the Town election will be held on Monday, March 9, 1992. Voting will take place from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., at City Hall, 109 South Third Street. If you have lived in Oakland for the past six months, you are eligible to vote, and may still register at City Hall until February 28. If you have been a resident for the past two years, you may want to consider running for one of the five offices that will appear on the ballot. They are: Mayor, three council seats, and Town Treasurer. If you have any questions, stop by or call Oakland City Hall at 334-2691.

BRADLEY MANOR

The project is active in court. The judge has given the parties 30 days to come up with a plan for affordable housing for Oakland. The plan to be presented to the court can be seen at City Hall. It calls for the demolition of all the existing units, and restructuring the property into three separately accessed uses. The first section would be a 32 unit elderly structure similar to the Underwood South Project. The second section would include 32 brick townhouses for rental. The third section would provide for a complete community recreation center to replace the Center Street playground.

STATE ROAD PROJECTS

Beginning at 8 p.m. on March 2, 1992, during the regular Town meeting, we welcome public inquiries into the following projects: 1. The resurfacing of U.S. Route 219 and Oak Street between the Town limits; 2. The installation of a traffic signal at Memorial Drive and Route 219; 3. The replacement of the Route 39 Bridge over the railroad tracks near the Rescue Squad Building; and 4. The Route 219 by-pass of Oakland.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

WHO PAYS FOR OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS?

Everyone who pays local, state, or federal taxes contributes in some way to the support of our public schools. In Garrett County, the largest contributor to every $1 spent on our public schools comes from the State of Maryland - they pay about $.53 of each dollar. The next largest contributor is the local government, which contributes about $.38 of each dollar. The federal government contributes about $.07, with the remainder coming from other sources. This breakdown is very different for the state as a whole, however, as most other counties in Maryland contribute at least $.56, the State contributes $.39, and the federal government $.05.

The greatest share of state funding is sent to us as basic aid (currently about $9 million of a total amount of $12.8 in state funding). We can use this funding for any purpose from teacher salaries to fuel oil to computer paper. The remainder of the state funds is categorical in nature - that is, we can only spend them for specific purposes such as transportation, special education, driver education, etc.

Unless the county commissioners allocate the funds for specific categorical purposes, the Board of Education can budget local funds as they best see fit to meet the needs of the school system. This year the Garrett County Board of Education budgeted about $9.3 million in this fashion, however, the commissioners withdrew $527,000 of these funds in November due to state's financial crisis. Withdrawal of these funds has caused significant impact upon the school system this year.

All federal funds, or approximately $1.7 million, have to be spent on specific programs. Programs such as Chapter I, Vocational Education, and Drug-Free Schools are examples of such programs. Over the past four years we have seen a significant decline in the proportion of these type funds.

At this time the outlook for funding our public schools is difficult to predict in that a major issue has to do with whether the State of Maryland is going to address the growing disparity in State funding between the richer school districts and the poorer ones like Garrett County. Since we rely much more on state funding than most other jurisdictions, this issue is very important to us as we look to the future. This factor coupled with the state's continuing financial crisis will put even greater pressure on the county to contribute more funds to compensate for any losses at the state level.

What's happening in our school?

* Mr. Lowell Leitzel, French teacher at Southern High School, along with 15 of his French students, will be returning home to Garrett County on Wednesday, February 26, after a three-week French exchange trip to Vannes, France.

* The superintendent will be presenting his FY 1993 budget request on Thursday, February 27, beginning at 7 p.m. at Southern Middle School. All members of the public are cordially invited to attend.

* At Grantsville Elementary School, Mrs. Thompson will be taking her fourth grade class to the Hickory Environmental Education Center on Thursday, February 27, and Mrs. Evans will take her fifth grade class to the Center on Friday, February 28.

Squad, and he advised her to contact Kathy Lewis, she would make the necessary arrangements. Also, we were entitled to two free trips per year. Again, Kathy said they would not take her and that we would be charged for the trip home on January 3.

I am a charter member of a rescue squad and have been for over 27 years and we never refused service to anyone.

We have used the ambulance for emergency service and they charged extra for it. So, just what is the purpose of the squad if you are unable to receive service when needed? Further more, I was not asking for a free trip. I have never asked for charity in my 66 years and am not asking for it now. So, what is the advantage of being a member, if you cannot receive service?

To the Editor:

Michael E. Sines should be getting the message that the people in Garrett County want him to leave his job at the Board of Education.

What's so shocking is that no one from the Board of Education, like Mr. Sines, or Mr. Morris, would come to the meetings that have been held at the Deep Creek fire hall. This shows that the Board of Education isn't concerned at all about the safety of our children. Why would Mike Sines want little children walking from one bus stop to another where there are big trucks, log trucks and speeders?

Mike Sines, let someone else have your job. We want our bus stops back.

Mr. William J. Coviello told me that the State Department of Education in Baltimore has nothing to do with the bus stops in Garrett County. This is handled through the local Board of Education.

Mr. Sines, think safety for our children in Garrett County. Reinstate all bus stops you took away, before someone gets hurt.

I want to thank Richard Thomas for standing up to Mike Sines. Richard, keep up the good job. We are behind you 100 percent.

To the Editor:

As I understand it, a short time ago the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland unilaterally agreed to purchase .49 acres and a building at 15 South Third Street for $220,000, at five percent interest over the next 20 years. In addition, since the building will have to be remodeled into the new "Town Hall," another $100,000 will have to be spent. This amount, with interest, to over a half million hard earned taxpayer dollars at a time when most of us cannot afford to buy food for the family.

And all of this was done without public approval, without public knowledge, and without benefit of a public hearing to express either concurrence or disapproval.

For the last several weeks, the Mayor and Town Council have run ads in your newspaper to sell both the current Town Hall and the Town Garage. I have not, however, seen a notice of public hearing to discuss disposition (sale) of corporate assets.

I also understand that nearly $150,000 has been spent recently on a new backhoe and new cars and trucks for the Town, and that we even have a new five-wheeler ATV and a bass boat for our employees at the sewage treatment plant to play with.

I don't know about you, but I am tired of this kind of abuse of power. I cannot afford much more of this prosperity.

Do you remember in November 1987 when The Republican newspaper ran a blistering editorial alleging that the Mayor and Town Council were holding clandestine meetings on the proposed renovation of Bradley Manor? That they were operating in secrecy and conspiracy to resurrect Bradley Manor against the public's wishes?

Yes, we held a meeting. We gave audience to a man from Baltimore who had a proposal to remodel Bradley Manor. That man was accompanied by the (then) State Secretary of Housing who was in attendance on behalf of the Governor of the State. We explained to our guests (who I might add parenthetically pressured us for an immediate decision) that absolutely no formal action would be taken before we collected the wishes of our citizens at a public hearing. Bottom line: we held the hearing and consequently voted down the proposal. Insofar as the meeting being secretive is concerned, I submit for your consideration that the meeting was held in broad daylight, at Town Hall, with members of Town Council, County Commissioners and Delegate George Edwards in attendance. Sounds pretty hush, hush, doesn't it?

While on Council myself, I cannot truthfully remember how many public hearings we held on different matters. I know there were a lot of them. Partly, because we wanted to gather public opinion prior to taking action, but mostly because it happens to be the law.

In the years I served Oakland Town Council there were arguments, debates, compromises, disappointments, disagreements, wins and losses. But we never broke the law, or misused the public trust, or abused the "Sunshine Law" either directly or in spirit.

Today the Mayor and Town Council have public hearings on a very "convenient" basis. If it's convenient, they have one. If it isn't, they don't. When they seem to want the public to know something, or need public support, they host a hearing. Conversely, when they want to conceal an expenditure which has put the Oakland taxpayer in debt another half million dollars, they don't. Why bother the public (they seem to say) with trivial and mundane matters of state, when we can decide things for them?

In my business as a building contractor, I do not spend other people's money without their permission. Usually their permission is expressed in the form of a signed legal contract. While I am not advocating that a written agreement be formally executed for every dollar the Mayor and Town Council spends, I am certainly suggesting that the same general policy of public awareness and approval be adopted and strictly adhered to. The policy and practice of the Mayor and Town Council in recent months seems to fly in the face of law, propriety, and common sense.

The criticism I had two years ago of the Mayor was: poor judgment. Today I am adding new charges: abuse of power and public trust.

I would now like to give you, Sir, my editorial.

This community faces several unresolved issues in the near future. Our water lines need replaced in most parts of Town. Our sewage treatment lagoons need to become fully operational. Many of our city streets need repaired. These capital improvement projects will cost several million dollars. And while our capital improvement projects continue to grow, our income from outside sources (State and Federal grants, revenue sharing, etc.) are drying up. Just as the County's budget has been cut by the State, so too has the Town's. Where is this "new" money coming from?

We are, unfortunately, in a recession of national proportion and magnitude. We ought probably to act like it at the local level. We cannot spend our way out of recession; we cannot buy our way out of debt; we cannot continue to mortgage the future of our children. And we absolutely cannot afford at this time the liberal spending, deficit financing, high rolling practices of the current administration.

While I will not pretend to hide my disappointment with the actions of (some) of the Council, I believe the members are honorable, capable people who are trying very hard to do a good job for us. My concern is with the complete absence of leadership, direction, and responsible judgment. The efforts of capable people should be recognized, encouraged, and harnessed, if you will, into productive activity and noble achievements, not misled into the abuse of power and public trust. The efforts of capable people should be joined by similar leadership and united in the pursuit of common goals, objectives and political agenda. The Mayor, as Chief Executive Officer, has primary respon-

I Have The TIME...

I am retired from a 23-year career at Sincell Publishing Company and can therefore devote the time that is necessary to be an effective member of the Board of Education.

I Have The INTEREST...

I am the mother of five children, all of whom were educated in the Garrett County School System and all of whom went on to earn a total of eight bachelor's and master's degrees among them. Seven of my eight grandchildren are now attending Garrett County's elementary and middle schools.

I Have The COURAGE...

I will not hesitate to ask the tough questions of the school administration, to investigate the various controversies involving the Board of Education, and to voice my position boldly on the critical issues that must be addressed by the Board.

I Have The CAPABILITIES...

Because of my role as a mother, my education, my career with the local newspaper, and my recent inquiries into Board procedures and issues, I am confident that I am well informed and "have what it takes" to be a competent, productive, forceful member of the Board of Education.

Once Upon A Time

Once upon a time
in a land not far away,
A little girl we called Alicia seemed to be with us to stay.

She was so unselfish, always wanting to give.
Tracing life's pattern for us to cut out and live.

Ready to take a big hug,
or give a warm hug away.
That was her way to show love to those who came her way.

This little girl was friendly waiting-eager to learn.
Letters, numbers, reading & playing were her main concerns.

Six years were the limit to those wonderful things.
She without warning
went to be with the King!

Let us not cry, or try to understand.
Alicia's happy in heaven's land.
The little hillock where she lies means there's another angel in the sky.

Where there is no sickness, always peace, joy and laughter.
She's trying on her bright new halo,
And will live happily ever after.

Living for Christ Conferences has announced that there is still opportunity to register for the sixth annual conference, "Mountaintop '92," to be held March 6-8. All attendees will stay at the meeting site, lakeview Resort, in Morgantown, W.Va.

This get-away weekend for men and women will feature will-known Christian author, Rebecca Manley Pippert, presenting the five-session conference, "Hope Has Its Reasons."

A special event planned is "A Festival in Celebration of God's Faithfulness," headlining award-winning pianist and vocalist Richard Allen Farmer.

Other features of the weekend include the seminars: "The Deity of Christ," practical help to support this belief, and "Faith Through Adversity," survival when difficulties try one's faith. Also included will be special music by the vocal group Covenant and pianist Bruce Ensinger; the film Joni; "Mountaintop Bookstore;" Jazzercise aerobic workouts; fellowship times; and the facilities at Lakeview Resort and the Fitness Center.

Forestry Program Now Available For Landowners

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., has announced the opening of the Stewardship Incentive Program for Maryland landowners. The federally-funded national tree planting initiative is administered in Maryland through DNR's Forestry Division. Landowners may sign up for the program beginning Monday, February 24.

"The goal of the Stewardship Incentive Program (SIP) is to enhance management on private lands through a long-term commitment to stewardship," Dr. Brown said. "Available to rural non-industrial private landowners, SIP seeks to protect, manage and enhance all forest resources in a manner consistent with the landowner's objectives," he added.

Eligible landowners who have an approved management plan and a signed non-binding stewardship creed can qualify for a cost-share allowance on approved activities like stewardship plan development, tree planting, timber stand improvement, windbreak and hedgerow establishment, soil and water improvement, riparian and wetland improvement, fisheries habitat enhancement, wildlife habitat enhancement and recreation enhancement. A 10-year commitment to the program maintains and protects SIP-funded practices.

DNR offers Marylanders a regionally-based network of forestry professionals who will assist landowners in managing their forest resources. Citizens who wish to learn more about the Stewardship Incentive Program may contact their regional forestry office. The western region number in Cumberland is (301) 777-2137.

Why

Why am I a candidate?
Well . . . I really don't know,
Perhaps it was a dream
I had long ago.
A dream of a land
with children galore,
All hungering for knowledge
In inquiring minds to store.
A dream to help children
On their climb to the sky,
To reach their goal
Same as you and I.
Or maybe my dream
Went even farther yet;
It encompassed so much . . .
I nearly forget.
Why am I a candidate?
Now . . . I really do know,
It's all because
I love children so.

Douglass Dies

In spite of being disqualified for the Canadian Olympic Team because of his U.S. citizenship, Sandy still went to Hayling Island near Southampton, England, to compete with Roger de Quincey for the International Cup. Sandy left the cup with the British, but her returned home enriched by his experience and with the idea to build boats as a career.

At first he built boats designed by other people, notably ones based on the work of Uffa Fox, whose boat design for the English was so critical a factor in their International Cup victory. During a stint in the mold loft of the American Shipbuilding Company in World War II, Sandy designed and built the prototype for his own boat, The Thistle.

By winning a dramatic race under extreme weather conditions in Put-lor Bay, Mary and Sandy demonstrated the ability of this unconventional-looking boat to a skeptical public.

After the war, a partnership was formed with Ray McLeod in Grand River, Ohio. Sandy and Mary continued to race, winning the Thistle National Championship five times. A larger sailboat, the Highlander, was designed by Sandy and added to the Douglass & McLeod line in 1949.

It was in 1956 that Sandy and Mary found themselves possibly without a home because their house and lot were appropriated for highway construction. Without a company, because differences in temperament and business philosophy necessitated dissolving the Douglass-McLeod partnership, Sandy retained no rights to build his own design.

He responded to the challenge by designing the Flying Scot, a 19-footer, the thought of which had intrigued him as far back as 1948. He commenced production in 1956 on a trial-and-error basis with the new material of molded fiberglass, just as he had experimented with the then-novel molded plywood construction of The Thistle in the 1940's.

A satisfied customer and friend (as so many Scot purchasers became), Earl Zepp, interested Sandy and Mary in relocating to Oakland in 1958. They bought the Zepp house on Pennington Street and remodeled the former Pontiac Garage on U.S. Route 219 to fit the requirements of the Gordon Douglass Boat Company. Sandy, Mary, and their son, Alan, continued to promote the Flying Scot and won seven Flying Scot North American Championships, a record yet to be equalled.

Sandy soon became involved in community activities in his new home. He fought indefatigably for the construction of Garrett Community College. As an Oakland town councilman, he adopted the development of Broadford Lake as his special project. In his spare time, he sang in barbershop quartets and was a member of Rotary International.

After his retirement from active participation in the Gordon Douglass Boat Company in 1972, Sandy devoted much effort to the House of Hope and Habitat for Humanity. Memorials to Sandy could be directed to his favorite charities.

Mary and Sandy joined their son, Alan, in Albuquerque in October of 1988, where Mary and Alan still reside. Also surviving is Mrs. Katherine Haskell, a sister.

In his memoirs, Sixty Years Behind the Mast (McClain Publishing House, Parsons, W.Va.), Sandy summarized his life and outlook by saying, "Some people are born lucky. Born in 1904, my life has encompassed most of the twentieth century which may prove to be the golden age of western civilization. It is not that everything has gone to my complete satisfaction. To the contrary, my life has had its ups and downs, but on the whole has been interesting and challenging."

sibility. Without his approval none of the above actions could have been taken.

Like many people of this community, I come from humble beginnings. I am not ashamed to admit that I have gone to bed hungry. Neither am I embarrassed to tell you my children haven't. The reason is, I like to think, that I know and appreciate the value of a dollar. End of Editorial.

Could it be, Mr. Editor, that the People's Watchdog over big government operations has been napping?

Please, Mr. Editor, tell me I'm wrong. You should enjoy that.

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Joe Heatherman, president of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers, requested it appear in this column.

Mr. Heatherman,

I am a resident of the area where you feel it is such a burden for the Garrett County school system. I don't understand why you single out three individuals, when in fact you are attacking two complete communities with your one-sided stories.

First of all, I attended the meeting concerning the transfer of our children from Allegany County to Garrett County which is more than what you can say! The only thing you seem to want to do is sit behind your typewriter and fill the people with half of the facts as you see them and not the whole picture.

You conveniently forgot to tell the readers the additional cost of teachers, transportation, and the need for larger classrooms if our children are forced to attend Northern or Southern schools. I think if you are going to print such a letter you should at least tell the whole story.

I have lived in Garrett County for more than 30 years which included my attending eight years in what I consider to be one of the best elementary schools in the area. Then I was given a choice of what high school I wanted to attend and I picked the Allegany County schools for many reasons.

I, too, pay tax dollars to Garrett County and I feel that there are a lot more things to look at in the school system such as the Driver Education course still being offered by G.C.B.E. for FREE when other counties have already removed this cost from their budget as a means for saving money. This to me is just one alternative the board should consider for budget savings.

I am sure we all can think of ways to save money, but I don't think that printing half-truths in the paper for our children to read and become upset about is the proper way of doing this. Mr. Heatherman, if you are as concerned as you say for the pupil, I think you should look more carefully at what you say and not try to upset them this way. This is their future and lives you are knocking around!

To the Editor:

The votes are in, and George Herbert Walker Bush will become another single term president in November.

What votes are they you say; why my wife of almost 40 years, and my own. Now listen to this: Every time my wife and I have agreed on a presidential candidate since 1952, that candidate has either won the election; or should have. New Hampshire Primaries, watch out!

The premise, like so many political truths, may be a little flawed, but the finding is like money in the bank.

Until recently, I truly believed that the only thing George Bush needed to be re-elected was an economic recovery clearly in evidence by Labor Day. This opinion prevailed, despite the fact that I, as a Reagan/Bush supporter and registered Republican, probably was the very first to warn him that his decisions were sowing the seeds that could very well preclude a second term.

Quote, from my letter to him dated Oct. 15, 1989, and subsequently published in the Oct. 26 edition of the Cumberland Times/News. "Dear Mr. President:

I fear you are about to make another mistake that will haunt you for the balance of his presidency and probably deny you a second term. It will decimate the Republican Party and fracture the delicate bonding of "Reagan Democrats," such as myself, who are now registered Republicans."

What "mistake" was I referring to? "Aye, there's the rub;" there have been so bloody many...take your pick.

'Down with King George ... up the people!

To the Editor (and Oakland area residents):

The Terra Alta Youth League has been informed that some of your youth, for whatever reasons, do not get to participate in your local little league program.

Our Board of Directors voted at our January meeting to invite players from the Oakland area to join our program. Please understand, this is not a slam against the Oakland Little League program. We do not mean to hurt your program in any way. We should all respect and appreciate the volunteers who put in the hard work and long hours so the community can have a respectful youth league.

We understand from talking with several of your residents that you do not have the facilities to accommodate all who want to play in your program. This is where we hope we may be of service to the youth in your area.

Every child, regardless of his or her talent, should have the opportunity to perform in an organized program. We can offer this invitation because of a new field that will be ready by spring.

By offering you this opportunity, we hope that we are helping the youth in your area. We are not after your superstars. In God's eyes, all children are superstars. We welcome any child, who for whatever reason, could not participate in your league.

We will accept as many players as our facilities allow us to accommodate.

We hope we can be of help to the youth of your community.

Sincerely,

Garrett Big Brothers, Sisters Bowl-A-Thon Set

The Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of the Alleghenies will hold its third annual Bowl For Kids' Sake at the Par-Matt Lanes on March 28.

Bowl For Kids' Sake is a bowl-a-thon that raises funds to support Big Brothers/Big Sisters services in the community. Last year the event raised over $10,000 and according to Dan Seib, local coordinator, all funds raised stay in Garrett County and are used to further the services of Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

League and non-bowlers can help by signing up sponsors, and then taking part in the festivities. Pledge sheets are located at Par-Matt Lanes or persons can call the local office at 334-3591 or 1-800-400-0735 for information.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is a youth-serving organization that matches adults with school-age children from primarily single-parent homes. Seib explained that professional staff supervise the "matches" and volunteers provide guidance and support for the children. "The friendships developed through this one-to-one relationship can make a big difference in the lives of these children," Seib said.

The Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers/Big Sisters currently has 16 children accepted into its program. Seven of these children are matched with their prospective Big Brothers or Big Sisters.

The Bowl For Kids' Sake is the major fund-raising event of the agency for the coming year. "It is the one time we really need the community's support," Seib said. "We have accomplished quite a bit in the last year, and the demand for our services continues to grow."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters also offers a Corporate Sponsorship for companies or organizations that would like to contribute as a group. Persons may contact Seib for details.

Huskies Rap Mountaineers Before Losing To Wildcats In Overtime

The Northern High Huskies split a pair of games this past week as they defeated Beall on Friday, 67-54, on the Mountaineers' court in Frostburg and then fell to Westmar in overtime, 56-55, Tuesday night at the Cove. The split left Coach Harv Speicher's squad with a 12-8 record.

The Huskies led by one point at the end of the first period against Beall, 17-16, and the score was tied at 29 at halftime. Then the Huskies went on a 23-12 run in the third stanza to lead 52-41 going into the final eight minutes.

Rob Speicher led Northern's offensive effort by recording 14 points, Dave Hinebaugh and Jon Houser each scored 13, and Brian Kamp finished with 10. Speicher, Houser, and Mike Fike each scored six points in the third period.

Greg Hostettler paced Beall with 14 points, Darrell Bush hit 13, and Jon Winebrenner recorded 12. The loss dropped the Mountaineers to 3-15 on the season.

The Northern junior varsity won the preliminary game, 55-34. John and Tim Hinebaugh each scored 12 points for the Huskies, while Tim Newmark led the Beall jayvees with 12 points.

A free throw by Justin Kiddy with just three seconds left in overtime gave Westmar their second close win of the season over the Huskies Tuesday evening.

The Huskies had trailed by eight points, 48-40, at the end of the third period and came back to tie the score at 53 on a three-point bucket by Hinebaugh at the buzzer.

In the overtime period, Northern went on top 55-53 on a bucket by Doug Brenneman, but those would be the only Husky points scored in the extra period.

Kiddy tied the score at 55 with a basket and then hit the front end of a one-and-one with just three seconds left to win the game. The Huskies attempted to get one last shot off in the final three ticks, but were unsuccessful.

It was the second nail-biting loss of the season by Northern to Westmar, as the Wildcats won by two points, 53-51, on a shot at the buzzer back in December.

Scott Garey led the Mountaineers with 16 points, Chris Shockey finished with 14, and Alan Bosley scored 11.

Speicher led Northern's scoring with 12 points and six assists.

The Northern junior varsity had no trouble disposing of the Beall jayvees in the preliminary game, as Tim Hinebaugh led the Huskies to a 66-32 win. Hinebaugh finished with 18 points, while Mac Sloan paced Westmar with 16.

The Huskies, who are still in first place in the Mid-Appalachian League, will play a League game at Oldtown this Friday.

Rams Continue To Roll With Wins Over Tucker County, Beall

The Southern Rams continue to dominate the area standings in boys varsity basketball, as they padded their record with two more wins this past week.

Coach Tom Bosley's team topped visiting Tucker County Friday evening, 75-60, and then ripped hapless Beall Tuesday night, 86-49, in Frostburg.

The 17-2 Rams will wrap up their regular season with a pair of road games this coming week, as they travel to Petersburg this Friday night and then visit Frankfort next Friday. Because of their top ranking in the Region I Class 2A standings, they will undoubtedly be the host team for one and possibly two regional tournament games the following week.

Brett Rice also padded his area-leading scoring average by scoring 30 points against Tucker County and 26 at Beall.

Mike Duling led the Rams in the first quarter of their game against the Tucker Mountain Lions, as he scored nine of his team's 16 points in that period, which concluded with a 16-9 Southern lead.

Then Rice took over the scoring thrust in the second stanza as he hit 10 points to help the Rams build a 38-21 halftime advantage.

Rice recorded 12 points in the third period and the Rams led 56-43 going into the final quarter. They led by as many as 20 points during the final eight minutes.

Coach Bosley was also impressed by the defensive play of Nathan Dixon, whose assignment was to keep Tucker's top scorer, Shawn Cutright, in check. Cutright finished with 13 points.

Also reaching double figures for Southern were Jeremy Bosley and Duling with 18 points each and Britten Martin with 10. Bosley also had 10 steals and 10 assists.

Scott Wamsley scored 13 and Adam Cassidy netted 12 for the Lions.

The win gave Southern a 5-0 mark in the Potomac Valley Conference standings.

Mark Elliott scored 20 points and Mark Dawson recorded 15 for the Southern junior varsity in the preliminary game, which the Rams won, 54-39. Leading the Tucker jayvees was David Helmick with 12 points.

Three other players besides Rice reached the double figure level in the game against Beall Tuesday night. Bosley scored 16 and Mike Duling and Dave Kurtz each netted 10.

The Rams held comfortable leads at the ends of the first two quarters, 23-14 and 44-25, and then erupted for 30 points in the third period to take a commanding 74-30 advantage into the final quarter. The Mountaineers scored only five points in the third stanza.

Greg Hostettler was the only Mountaineer to reach double figures, as he finished with 12 points. It was the 16th loss in 19 games for Beall.

The Southern junior varsity, which came into the preliminary game with a 12-4 record, was defeated by the Beall jayvees, 52-49, as Beall's Phil Cook pumped in 29 points. Brian Ritchie added 14 points to Beall's total, while Elliott and Jeremy Sanders netted 15 and 11 points, respectively, for Southern.

Laker Women Conclude Season With Three Losses, Two Victories

The Garrett Community College women's basketball team wrapped up its regular season with a busy schedule this past week, as the Lakers played five games, of which they won two.

Coach Dennis Gibson's young team lost to arch rival Allegany Community College last Thursday, 86-40, fell to the new Community College of Baltimore on Friday, 49-43, defeated Howard CC on Sunday, 64-47, topped Anne Arundel CC Monday night, 53-50, and then dropped their final contest of the regular season last night to a strong Mount Aloysius team, 85-49, in Cresson, Pa.

The Lakers were simply no match for the ACC Trojans last Thursday, a team they nearly defeated just about two weeks prior (64-58).

The teams played evenly during the early minutes of the first half, but the Trojans began to pull away midway through the half and held a 36-20 advantage at halftime. Trojan Coach Linda Mellon got a strong performance from her second team players, particularly Lisa Caton and Dawn Singleton, who led a scoring surge in the second half to put the game out of reach for the Lakers.

Kelly Shatzer scored 18 points and pulled eight rebounds for ACC, while Lisa Green netted 15 points, Marcie Wildman finished with 14, and Michelle Clise hit 13. Singleton and Wildman each pulled 11 rebounds and Green dished out seven assists.

Heather Shepherd paced the Lakers with 16 points and five assists. Kenyatta Brown finished with seven points and nine rebounds.

The win upped the Trojans' overall mark to 19-4 and 14-1 in the JUCO standings.

Against the new Community College of Baltimore Friday, the Lakers played much better, but the Red Devils went on a 12-4 run in the final minutes to preserve their lead and win the game.

Garrett scored the first six points of the contest before Baltimore came back to assume the lead for good by halftime, 16-14. The Devils then scored the first six points of the second half to take a 22-14 lead before the Lakers chipped away at the advantage and cut the lead to two points, 32-30, midway through the half.

Then Baltimore scored 12 of the next 16 points and held on for the win. The Lakers cut the lead to six points, 46-40, when Brown hit a three-pointer with just over a minute to play. Then Yetisha Mackey missed the front end of a one-and-one and Shepherd responded with her third three-point bucket of the night to cut the Devils' margin to three points, 46-43, at the 1:00 mark. But Garrett could get no closer.

The Lakers had to play without the services of Tracy Feather, who was sidelined with an injury. Shepherd led GCC with 16 points, while Kathy Gibson finished with 10.

Monica Dailey and Kim Hunsucker each scored 20 points to pace the Devils.

Shepherd led the Lakers again Sunday afternoon in their win at home over Howard CC, as she poured in 24 points, grabbed eight rebounds, and recorded six steals and five assists.

Brown and Kim Mackall finished with 14 and 13 points, respectively.

The Lakers dominated the contest from the beginning and led 33-16 at halftime.

Sam Khouri led Howard and all scorers as she finished with 20 points.

Shepherd again spearheaded the Laker offense on Monday against Anne Arundel by scoring 27 points, while Gibson recorded 10 points, seven rebounds, and four assists.

The score was close throughout most of the contest, however the Lakers led the entire game. There were on top 21-19 at halftime.

Brown had nine rebounds for the Lakers and Mackall was credited with four steals. Tiffany Clayton paced Anne Arundel (12-10) with 14 points.

Garrett was ultimately no match for nationally ranked Mt. Aloysius last night, although they stayed reasonably close in the first half. The home team took an 8-0 lead in the first minutes of the game before the Lakers cut the lead to five points, 14-9. Mt. Aloysius was on top at intermission, 34-21, and steadily pulled away in the second half.

Four members of the winning team reached double figures, as Grace Blake finished with 20 points, Roxanne Williams netted 17, Keya Gorham hit 16, and Jacinda Alston chipped in 10.

Shepherd led the Lakers with her per game average of 16 points. She also had five assists and three steals, while Brown recorded 11 points, seven rebounds, and five assists. Gibson also scored 11 points and pulled down seven rebounds.

Southern Coach Terry Kendall said that the next competition for all area wrestlers will be the Region I Class 1A and 2A Tournament, to be held Feb. 28-29 at North Hagerstown. He said a meeting will be held Sunday to determine which wrestlers will advance to that competition, as selections are based upon a season point total system.

Kendall noted that two of his team members who have been out with injuries, Jason Burgess (112) and Gary Sweitzer (119), may be healthy in time to compete in the regional tourney.

Lakers Conclude With Loss To Devils; To Play In JUCO Tonight

Although the Garrett Community College Lakers, both young and few in number, wrapped up their season with a losing record, they proved Friday night in Baltimore that they can be competitive with the strongest teams in their conference, as they nearly upset the new Community College of Baltimore.

The Lakers trailed the Red Devils by as many as 18 points in the second half and rallied to take a one-point lead at the 2:56 mark, but couldn't quite complete the comeback and lost by one point, 88-87. Baltimore was ranked second in the Maryland JUCO Conference American Division behind nationally ranked Allegany CC.

The loss dropped the Lakers' season mark to 10-16 overall and 2-10 in the division. They will compete this weekend in the JUCO Conference Tournament at Hagerstown Junior College.

The Lakers took a 15-10 lead in the first seven minutes of the game before the Devils went on an 8-0 run to take the advantage. They held a 37-33 lead at halftime.

Baltimore stretched its margin to 63-45 with 12:49 remaining in the game before GCC's Curtis Shepherd recorded 13 consecutive points to close the gap to 63-58. A bucket by Nick Gray at the 2:56 mark gave the Lakers a 75-74 lead.

Baltimore went back on top by three before Gray hit a rebound follow at the nine-second mark to make it 85-84. Garrett was forced to foul and Brian Brooks hit both shots to ice the game for the Red Devils. Shepherd responded with a three-pointer at the buzzer, but it was not enough.

Shepherd paced the Lakers' scoring with a career-high 37 points, as he hit four three-pointers out of his 14 buckets and made good on five of seven free throws. He also had five assists. Gray finished with 19 points and Scott Newman recorded 16, with four of his shots also coming from three-point range.

Warren Wright paced the Red Devils' scoring with 29 points, while Brooks finished with 21.

Laker Coach Dennis Gibson was disappointed with the loss, but encouraged by his team's effort. "We had good games against both Baltimore and Hagerstown on the road," he said. "This puts us in a good position for the tournament this week.

The Lakers will play again this evening in an opening round game of the Maryland JUCO Tournament, as they are slated to face Prince Georges Community College. Garrett is seeded last in the 12-team tourney, while the PG Owls are seeded fifth; however in their two regular season meetings with the Owls, the Lakers were narrowly defeated both times.

Allegany Community College, currently ranked sixth in the nation, is the top seeded team in the JUCO tourney.

Southern Girls Upset Westmar, 65-58, Then Flatten Fort Hill

Although the Southern High School girls' varsity struggled during the middle of their season, it could be that they are peaking right now, just in time for next week's regional playoffs. The Rams recorded their biggest win of the season Saturday at home by upsetting Westmar, the area's top-rated Class 1A team, 65-58. They took that same momentum to Cumberland Tuesday night and crushed the Fort Hill Sentinels, 54-24.

The victories upped Coach Don Stemple's team's record to 10-7. The Rams will wrap up their regular season Friday evening at home against Bishop Walsh.

The Southern defense held area scoring leader Dawn Sloan of Westmar to just 12 points as the Wildcat offense connected on only 35 percent of their shots from the floor.

The Rams hit 51 percent of their shots and out-scored the Wildcats 16-10 in the third quarter after the two teams played almost evenly in the first half. Westmar, 17-2 on the year, was up by one at the end of the first period, 19-18, and the Rams led by one at halftime, 36-35.

Michelle Duling, also one of the area's top scorers, led the Rams with a game-high 24 points, Shelli Cannon finished with 18, and Carrie Newcomb recorded 13 points and 11 rebounds. Alayna Harkins dished out eight assists and Cannon was credited with six.

Julie McGowan paced the Wildcats' scoring with 15 points and Janet Muir contributed 10.

In the preliminary contest, the Southern junior varsity girls rolled over the Westmar jayvees, 41-25, behind a 17-point effort by Aaron Buser. Maria Marsh scored 10 to lead Westmar.

The Rams were sluggish in the first quarter against Fort Hill Tuesday night and trailed at the end of that period, 9-6. However, they caught fire in the second stanza and went on a 21-4 run to build a 27-13 halftime advantage. They were on top by 20, 38-18, by the end of the third period.

Cannon led the Rams' scoring as she finished with 24 points, while Duling netted 15 and Newcomb grabbed 13 rebounds. Sherri Adams pulled down seven boards for Southern.

Janet Twigg and Kara Goldsworthy each scored eight points to lead the 5-12 Sentinels, who made good on only 15 percent of their shots from the floor. Sonja Smith had seven rebounds.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious again in the preliminary game, topping the Sentinel jayvees, 45-34. Crystal Warner scored 10 points and Josie Coviello and Buser each netted nine in a balanced offensive effort by the Rams. Krista Smith and Carrie Beeman netted 16 and 11 points, respectively, for Fort Hill.

Heather Savage Participating In Ski Coaches Clinic

Heather Savage was selected to participate in the USSCA (United States Ski Coaches Association) Elite Coaches Clinic, being held this week at Hidden Valley, N.J., in conjunction with the North American Championship Series Men's Slalom.

Only 20 coaches in North America were selected to attend this clinic. They are training with the U.S. Olympic "B" Team (ski team) and the team's coaches. The selected coaches are observing and participating in the team's "on-snow" training curriculum and will learn about their dry-land and off-season program. The clinic consists of both classroom and on-hill training.

Ms. Savage, who is the head coach of the Wisp Racing Team, said she was looking forward to incorporating the U.S. Olympic Team's program into her own practice sessions.

"I feel very honored and privileged to be selected for such a great opportunity," she said. "My main objective in my coaching is to help my athletes achieve and maintain health and fitness. After that, we can build the strength, endurance, and attitude necessary to become a world class athlete. By incorporating the U.S. Ski Team's curriculum with an already solid program, the chances of sending many of our young racers to further organized competition in the near future greatly increases. We have a lot of talent on the team this year, and I have high hopes for their success in the future."

Ms. Savage is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W.G. Savage, Turkey Neck. She is a graduate of Southern High School and is currently completing her senior year at Frostburg State University. She has been a lifetime ski racer at Wisp Ski Area and has been nationally ranked with the NASTAR program. She is pursuing a career in coaching and sports medicine.

Sure times are tough. And cutting your advertising budget may seem like a good way to deal with the economic crunch you're experiencing.

But there's one important thing you should keep in mind: The 'hide-your-head-in-the-sand' approach only succeeds in hiding your business from customers and potential customers...until you're soon forgotten! (And wouldn't your competition love that!)

The fact is, when you cut your newspaper advertising budget thinking you'll save money, you end up cutting your best opportunity to:

- Generate customer traffic
- Improve customer awareness
- Increase sales
- And most importantly...MAKE MONEY!

Newspaper advertising helps keep your business going, no matter what the economy.

COUPLE HURT

A Bowie couple sustained injuries in a Monday afternoon mishap and were treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Injured were Otis Handley Jr. 58, and Connie Handley, 54, when Mr. Handley was operating a 1986 Ford Tempo on Interstate 68, west of the Amish Road, and fell asleep at the wheel. The vehicle reportedly ran off the right side of the highway and struck an embankment causing the vehicle to overturn.

The Handleys were transported to the Cumberland hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated the 2:45 p.m. mishap and charged Handley with changing lanes when unsafe to do so.

DWI ARREST

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) and with failure to drive on the right side of the roadway Saturday following a single-vehicle accident on the Sand Flat Road.

Police said the accident occurred when Robert D. Lewis Jr., 23, was operating a 1979 Ford Bronco on the Sand Flat Road, just south of the Spring Glade Road, hit his brakes when he spotted a wrecked vehicle along the road. His vehicle reportedly skidded across the center line and struck an embankment before coming to rest in a ditch.

Neither Lewis nor his passengers, Hayward Baker, 24, Aurora, W.Va. and DeWayne Lewis, 25, Swanton. were injured.

Tfc. W.E. Dixon investigated for state police.

MORE DWI ARRESTS

Four additional motorists were apprehended for DWI by state police this past week.

A DWI charge was lodged against Frederick H. McKinney Jr., 40, Mtn. Lake Park, on February 12 by Tfc. D.W. Broadwater.

Rodney J. Smith, 38, Meyersdale, Pa., was charged with DWI on Sunday by Tfc. S.H. Anderson.

Barbara A. Conway, 42, Terra Alta, W.Va., was stopped for DWI on Sunday by Tfc. W.E. Dixon.

Commissioners

State planning officials have predicted that Maryland's population will increase by one million in the next 30 years from its present 4.8 million population. Those officials also warn that if development is not made to be less sprawling, another 626,000 acres of agricultural and forest land could be lost by 2020.

According to Nelson, HB 1195 deals mostly with the protection of sensitive areas, including stream buffers, steep slopes and endangered species habitat. The major difference in this and last year's sweeping 2020 bill, however, is that this one reportedly gives authority to the local jurisdictions for defining and designating those sensitive areas.

One requirement of the bill, he noted, is that the county growth plan would have to be updated by 1997, a project the Garrett County Planning Commission had already planned to undertake.

"There is a sensitive balancing act going on -- politically," stated Nelson, adding, "If the bill fails, next year's bill could come back stronger."

Nelson also emphasized to the commissioners that a related bill, HB 1003, is a bill that "has teeth." That bill seeks to withhold economic development funding from the local governments if compliance with HB 1195 is not met.

Silver Tree Supporting Heart Month

The Silver Tree Inn Restaurant will be featuring "heart smart" dinners during the month of February in recognition of the American Heart Association's Heart Month. Each time a featured dinner is selected, the Silver Tree Inn will donate a dollar to the American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division.

Recipes for the dinners were taken from the American Heart Association's Low-fat, Low-Cholesterol Cookbook. The book is designed to be a guide for those individuals who want to keep track of their daily fat and cholesterol allowance.

"The Silver Tree Inn is proud once again to make diners aware of the many opportunities for exciting dining, while maintaining a healthy diet," stated Elaine McDonald, part-owner of the Silver Tree Inn, pictured above left. "The Silver Tree always strives to meet the dietary needs of its public having regular heart smart meal menu items, but during February which is heart month, we feature different heart smart meals as specials each week of the month. In addition, we donate one dollar to the American Heart Association when a diner selects a featured item."

McDonald added that the proceeds will go to the AHA's research and programs. Last year 27,000 individuals in Allegany and Garrett counties were reached by these programs.

Information on the promotion or on how to obtain a cookbook can be obtained at the Silver Tree Inn, and free pamphlets on diet and nutrition can be obtained by calling the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division, at (301) 334-5865.

4-H Club News

BITTINGER
by Brooke Brenneman, reporter

The February meeting of the Bittinger 4-H Club was held at the Bittinger Fire Hall on February 3. There were 13 members and four leaders present.

Patty Lohr called the meeting to order, while Cody Brenneman led the pledges. Dawn Lohr read the roll call, the old business, and requested any new business. We discussed a donation to the Bittinger Fire Dept. for the use of their building. We turned in our record books and Mrs. McKenny held a demonstration with crafts. We talked about goals for this years Bittinger 4-H.

Judges were Dorothy Bernard and Ellen Friend. The members also presented their collage on wildlife and did a forest recipe. Project books were also handed out.

Refreshments were served by Kim Green, Luella Friend and Sandy Schmidt.

The club collected for the American Heart Association on Saturday.

Next month's meeting will be March 11 at 7 p.m. All members are to give a report on wildlife.

SHEPHERDS
by Christy Hoalcraft, reporter

The February meeting was called to order by Vice President Bridget Miller. Amanda Miller called the roll with nine members present. Members answered by naming their favorite foods. Jeremy Miller led the salutes.

Under old business, the sled riding party at Millers was discussed and it was decided that we would go, snow permitting, on Monday, February 17. Members will each bring a snack and a sled.

Achievement Night, April 4, was discussed and members were urged to think of creative ideas for name tags and door prize drawings since Shepherds Club has that assignment. County 4-H roller skating was announced to be either the 7th or 14th of March. Ski Night was set for February 14.

Jeremy Miller gave a demonstration on marksmanship. Erin Hoalcraft gave a demonstration on rabbits.

Members discussed habitat and wildlife needs and for "Exploring Wildlife" activity created "Forest Recipes," which they hope to exhibit during National Wildlife Week.

The agenda for the March meeting includes the Lamb Dinner, Achievement Dinner, "Exploring Wildlife" exhibit, and reviewing CPR with Keith Cannon.

Sand Mound Cert. Course Scheduled At GCC Campus

A Construction of Sand Mound Sewage Disposal System Course and Certification Examination will be offered by the Individual Septic Systems and Wells Program of the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) in cooperation with the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College (GCC).

This one-day course and exam is designed for contractors who are interested in installing sand mound sewage disposal systems. Anyone interested in installing sand mounds or other innovative septic systems in Garrett County must attend this course. The course may also be used to renew certification. The course is scheduled for March 20 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Room CE-310 of GCC's Center for Community and Continuing Education, McHenry Campus.

"State of Maryland COMAR requires those installing sand mound sewage disposal systems to complete a course of study and pass an examination in the practice of sand mound construction," said Barry Glotfelty, R.S. of MDE. He continued, "The course is specifically aimed at helping contractors understand all aspects of sand mound construction, and to pass a certification exam to be given at the conclusion of the course. Topics to be covered include interpretation of plans, required equipment and materials, site preparation and construction techniques."

Tom Kierstead, program coordinator at GCC, said, "I am extremely pleased that the college and MDE have been able to work cooperatively to bring this course of instruction to Garrett County. In addition to the skills update and certification opportunity, our local contractors will avoid hours of travel and the associated costs."

For those interested, but unable to attend the session at GCC, there are also courses scheduled for Hagerstown on March 2, Cambridge on March 24, and Baltimore on March 31.

For additional information and to pre-register, persons may contact Ms. Janice Ebersole at (410) 631-3652. Because of limited space, pre-registration in necessary. Participants will be assessed a registration fee of $3, payable to GCC the morning of the course. Coffee, tea, and doughnuts will be included at no additional cost. Other interested parties may call Garrett County's Office of Environmental Health Services at 334-8980.

8 veal cutlets (about 1 pound)
2 cups plain dry bread crumbs
½ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 (26-ounce) jar Di Napoli (Tomato & Basil) or Di Parma (Four Cheese) Pasta Sauce
Grated Parmesan cheese or shredded mozzarella cheese

In medium bowl, beat eggs, water and garlic salt. Dip veal in crumbs then in egg mixture and again in crumbs. In large skillet, over medium heat, melt butter with oil; brown veal on both sides. In medium saucepan, heat pasta sauce. Arrange veal on linguine; top with pasta sauce. Garnish with Parmesan cheese. Refrigerate leftovers.

In Italy, the finest food is not found in glittering restaurants, but in small family run "trattories." Menus are unnecessary in these small neighborhood eateries, as patrons know exactly what to order to please their palates. Excellence is guaranteed, as the dishes always include locally raised meats and vegetables and a distinctive shape of the Italian main-stay, pasta.

This same authentic Italian goodness can be honored at the tables of Americans when premium Classico® Pasta Sauces and Creamette® Pasta are served. It is from these trattories, that bustle during mid-day when all other work has gone silent, that regionally favorite dishes have emerged to inspire the creation of Di Sicilia (Ripe Olives & Mushrooms), Di Napoli (Tomato & Basil), Di Roma Arrabbiata (Spicy Red Pepper) and D'Abruzzi (Beef & Pork) Pasta Sauces—the first line of premium pasta sauces that reflects the regional differences among Italian cooking styles.

It is said that an Italian meal is a story told from nature. There is no land in the world where nature is showcased more fully than in the richness, flavor and perfume of the vegetables and fruits grown on the island of Sicily, where two thousand years of occupation by many peoples have brought a fusion of cultures to the local cooking. Sicily is the land of feasting and family, a continual celebration of the joy of living. This robust spirit and medley of Mediterranean flavors is captured in Di Sicilia, an authentic pasta sauce full of plump tomatoes, ripe olives and succulent mushrooms. In Vermicelli With Sicilian Fisherman's Sauce, this hearty pasta sauce enriches an inventive combination of scallops, eggplant, peppers and squash, currants, and the region's versatile pignoli (pine nut), all served over vermicelli.

The symbol of Campanian cooking with its culinary center, Naples, is the bright red, sun-ripened tomato. This luscious fruit is the inspiration for the delicate-tasting Di Napoli (Tomato & Basil) Pasta Sauce. Simply pour this savory sauce over veal and linguine to treat family and friends to a special taste of sun-blessed Italy. The subtle taste of Di Napoli Pasta Sauce blends superbly with innumerable Southern Italian specialties.

As one travels north to Rome, in the heart of the Lazio region, a variety of regional delights come together—from the humblest rural fare to the most elegant and cosmopolitan. From this region arose the all-time family favorite Chicken Roman Style (or Chicken Cacciatore), a dish that's perfectly seasoned when made with the spirited Di Roma Arrabbiata (Spicy Red Pepper) Pasta Sauce.

The wild and rocky landscape of the Abruzzi region stretches from the Adriatic to the highest peaks of the Apennines; it is from these rugged pastures that the finest pork delicacies can be found. As a tribute to the rustic mountain cooking characteristic of this area, D'Abruzzi (Beef & Pork) Pasta Sauce was created. In Manicotti Villa Santa Maria, named for the Abruzzi village where many of Italy's best chefs have come from, cheese and prosciutto-stuffed manicotti are crowned with generous spoonfuls of this rich hearty sauce. Finish this satisfying and unpretentious entree with a sprinkling of Parmesan cheese.

Today, the popularity of pasta has grown in concert with the consumer's preference for authentic regional foods. As Americans continue to pursue meals that provide Old World warmth, with modern day convenience, they have rediscovered that the timeless Italian combination of pasta and pasta sauce provide the best of both.

DENTAL X-RAYS FIND TROUBLE QUICKLY

At most every regular dental examination, your dentist may first want to take a series of X-rays. These X-rays can pinpoint trouble spots before they get to the stage where extensive work is needed or where a painful toothache results.

Even when work is required, the new anesthetics and high speed equipment make it fast and with hardly any discomfort. Many dentists will prescribe a tranquilizer for a patient before their appointment and a pain reliever for use when the anesthetic has worn off. We fill many dental prescriptions and keep the medications they need on hand.

Love . . . like life itself . . . either exists or it does not. It is constant and unchanging. From day to day, moods and attitudes may change according to circumstances . . . but not love, if truly it is love.

We do not choose love. Love chooses us. It finds us in the most unlikely places at the most unusual times. Suddenly, that which was considered idealism magically becomes realism.

Upon studying God's Word each Sabbath, we find love elevated to the highest plane when, in 1 John 4:08, we are told that "God is love". In 1 Corinthians 13:13, it is said, "So faith, hope, and love abide . . . but the greatest of these is love."

Where love is involved, no obstacle is insurmountable. It has been stated that "faith can move mountains." Could it be that truly faith does move mountains . . . thus to reach love?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

When to Sing the Hallelujahs!
February 23, 1992

Background Scripture:
Revelation 15:2-4, 19:1-8.
Devotional Reading:
Colossians 1:9-20.

There is a cartoon by Stan Hunt that I clipped from The New Yorker some years ago. The scene is inside a church. The congregation is standing and singing. Turning to her husband who appears to be singing lustily, a wife says: "Easy of the hallelujah, Harry."

I guess it is possible to get carried away with hallelujahs, but the problems with lots of us is just the opposite: too little, not too much of them. In our church we sing the Hallelujah Chorus by Handel twice a year, at Christmas and Easter, and these, of course, are appropriate occasions. Most of Handel's great work is based upon the Book of Revelation and its great panorama of God's ultimate victory, especially Revelation 19.

WHAT WE NEED

I've often noted that on these occasions, regardless of what else may be happening in our personal lives -- tragedy, sorrow, depression and so forth -- the Hallelujah Chorus feels "right" because the great significance of Christmas or Easter overshadow our own personal concerns. That is, blessed with the vision of God's ultimate triumph, we see our own personal situations in perspective and we realize that, no matter how painful they may be, the promise of God's victory is greater.

Of course, what we're talking about here is not the singing of the Hallelujah Chorus but the victorious faith upon which it is based. The word Hallelujah comes from the Hebrew meaning, "Praise Yahweh," or, as we'd say it today, "Praise God!" That is what we could have a lot more of in our lives.

The interesting thing about praise and thanksgiving is that, although we assume it is something that God wants from us, it is much more something that God wants from us, it is much more something we need than God does. What is missing from the lives of many people today -- both inside and outside the churches -- is the experience of praising and thanking God in a manner that goes somewhat beyond the perfunctory. Paderewski the great Polish pianist, used to say that if he missed practicing one day, he knew it. If he missed several days, the critics knew it. And if he missed a week, everyone knew it. In a sense, that is what happens to our lives when we fail to give God our Hallelujahs.

SOMETHING TO CELEBRATE

Why are Hallelujahs in such short supply in our lives? In my own case, I waste too much time waiting for something to celebrate -- Christmas, Easter, a birth in the family, a book of ours published, something good happens to a friend and so forth. In other words, we reserve our Hallelujahs for those times when we obviously have something to celebrate. But, as the writer of Revelation indicates, we always have something to celebrate. Hallelujahs are always appropriate in our lives because we live by the assurance that ultimately God's purpose will be fulfilled and the great scene in the Book of Revelation will become a reality.

So, no matter what happens to us in our daily lives, we focus, not upon our defeats and disappointments, but upon our promises, singing or saying: "Hallelujah! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God, for his judgements are true and just" (19:1b). And when we take the time and effort to praise God in the midst of our lives no matter what the circumstances may be -- we gain the power to meet those challenges and go on to the ultimate victory.

"Hallelujah" gives us the power to live victoriously here and now. So when is the right time to sing Hallelujah! When all is going well, when all is not going well, and for every situation in between.

COVER STORY

John Glover likes to play 'kind of quirky guys'

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

"Grass Roots," the NBC miniseries airing Monday, Feb. 24 and Tuesday, Feb. 25, is something of a political "Perils of Pauline."

Corbin Bernsen stars as Will Lee, a highly principled candidate for the U.S. Senate. But he keeps running into these problems. His mentor, Senator Ben Carr (Henry Jones), suffers a debilitating stroke, and his mentor's loopy sister (Katherine Helmond) endorses his opponent. A local judge (Raymond Burr) appoints him to represent the defendant in a controversial criminal case, and his primary defense witness makes a pass at him. He has to keep his relationship with his girlfriend (Mel Harris) a secret because of a potential conflict of interest with her job, and a nosy reporter asks innuendo-filled questions. His campaign manager (Christopher Murray) commits suicide. Meanwhile, there's a white-supremacist assassin (John Glover) on the loose, and it's only a matter of time before he trains his cross hairs on our intrepid candidate.

And you wondered why there's a dearth of quality candidates for elective office.

John Glover

"It's pure entertainment; it's not important drama," says John Glover good-naturedly. "I don't mean that derogatorily, but it is an entertainment piece."

Glover provides the dark shadow that hovers over the miniseries. He couldn't find anything to like in an assassin like his character, Perkerson, but he tried not to show it in his performance.

"I learned that lesson twice," Glover says. "Fred Zinneman taught it to me when I did 'Julia,' where I played this kind of smarmy jerk. He said, 'You know, this man thinks of himself as a hero.' Then when I was doing the TV movie 'David,' where I played the father who burned his son in a motel-room fire, John Erman said, 'It's not that you have to like this man, but you can't comment on him.' But it's difficult sometimes. Perkerson in this piece is such and out-and-out amoral villain."

It's easy to see why Glover was cast in the role, though. In projects like "Drug Wars: The Cocaine Cartel" and "An Early Frost," Glover has proven adept at playing misfits.

"Even when I play a heroic kind of role, they are bizarre people," he laughs. "But I like a quirky kind of a guy to play."

He does sometimes wish fewer of them were villains, though. "That's the thing that I get most tired of -- being stereotyped as a villain," he says. "And I guess it should be in my power to stop it. Perhaps I shouldn't have done 'Grass Roots.' But it interested me, I'd worked with this director before, the time fit, and I'm an actor who likes to work."

John Glover, Corbin Bernsen, Mel Harris and Reginald VelJohnson (l. to r.) star in "Grass Roots." The NBC miniseries airs Monday, Feb. 24, and Tuesday, Feb. 25.

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

EARLY AUTRY - I've been a fan of Gene Autry almost my entire life. I've spent many hours listening to his old recordings, and my children, who are all grown, have become his fans by listening to my records and my stories about him and watching his old films. I'd like them to know something about his early years. Can you fill in the gaps for us? - T.McC., Grandview, Mo.

Gene Autry

Gene Autry was born Sept. 29, 1907, in Tioga, Texas. He was taught to play the guitar by his mother, and while he was still in high school he joined the Fields Brothers Marvelous Medicine Show, in which he displayed his musical talents by playing the saxophone. When he graduated from high school in 1925, Autry became a telegrapher with the Frisco Railroad at Sapular, Okla. Autry returned to music after being encouraged to do so by Will Rogers during a chance meeting. In 1929, he went to New York City, where he began his recording career with Victor and Columbia records. In 1930, Autry dubbed himself "Oklahoma's Singing Cowboy" and took a job at a radio station in Tulsa. He graduated to the "WLS Barn Dance" program out of Chicago, and in 1931 he recorded "Silver-Haired Daddy of Mine," which he co-wrote. It sold over 5 million copies. Autry headed for Hollywood, where he appeared in the Western "In Old Santa Fe." He wound up making more than 80 movie Westerns between 1934-54. Autry has also written more than 200 songs, including "Here Comes Santa Claus."

'CAPE' CRUSADE - When was the movie "Cape Fear" first made, and who had the Robert De Niro part? - K.S., Newport, R.I.

The original version of "Cape Fear" was released in 1962 with Robert Mitchum in the role of the vengeful ex-convict. Gregory Peck and Polly Bergen also starred.

MR. ROGERS - Where is Tristan Rogers from? When did he join the cast of "General Hospital"? - G.E., Carlisle, Pa.

Rogers, who is a native of Melbourne, Australia, joined the cast of "General Hospital" in 1981 as Robert Scorpio. He left the daytime drama in 1985, but he returned one year later. He has quit that show once again to pursue other roles.

SPORTS CALENDAR

20th Iditarod begins; College hoops heats up

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The annual Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race really can't be counted among the most widely followed sporting events on the calendar, but we have to confess an ongoing fascination with this extreme endurance test of dogs and humans in the fierce sub-Arctic environment of Alaska.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, ABC's "Wide World of Sports" airs a preview and live coverage of the start of the 20th annual running of the nearly 1,200-mile race, and over the next two weeks, the award-winning sports anthology show will include updates on the race's progress.

Rick Swenson

The Iditarod is run along an old overland mail route between Anchorage, at the base of southern Alaska's Kenai Peninsula, and Nome, about 125 miles south of the Arctic Circle on the south shore of the Seward Peninsula in western Alaska. Temperatures on the trail can fluctuate from 50 degrees in the daytime to 50 below zero at night.

In the past, the Iditarod has taken between 11 and 21 days to complete. Last year, Rick Swenson, who has won the race a record five times, broke an eight-year drought when he took 12 days, 16 hours, 34 minutes and 39 seconds to cover the distance. Susan Butcher, a four-time winner who finished third last year, set the course record in 1990: 11 days, 1 hour, 53 minutes and 23 seconds.

Both mushers plan to be back on the trail this year, and they'll be joined by 83 others, 16 of them women.

• The XVI Olympic Winter Games conclude Sunday, Feb. 23, on CBS. The final day of the games includes the men's and women's alpine skiing exhibition, the gold-medal hockey game and the closing ceremonies from the temporary stadium in Albertville, France. All that remains is for Olympics chronicler Bud Greenspan to put it to film: "16 Days in Albertville."

• With pro football long gone, baseball on the distant horizon and the Winter Olympics ending, college hoops is the sport of choice for a nation of viewers. A couple of the more interesting matchups among the week's televised games are Georgetown-Syracuse and Indiana-Ohio State. Both games air Sunday, Feb. 23, on CBS.

Coming into February, Syracuse and Georgetown were 2-3 in the somewhat disappointing Big East, hot on the tail of first-place Connecticut and just ahead of Villanova. Over in the Midwest, Indiana and Ohio State began the month 1-2 in the Big Ten and ranked in the top 10 nationally.

Bertinelli shines as an eager lawyer

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

Valerie Bertinelli stars in "What She Doesn't Know" (NBC, Feb. 23) as a recently graduated Harvard lawyer who forgoes a more cushioned and better-paying appointment at a firm for the opportunity to get her hands dirty in the New York City district attorney's office. Molly Kilcoin (Bertinelli) finds friction as an Ivy League rookie, both at her new job and with her father (George Dzundza), a New York detective reluctant to see his daughter working so close to the mean streets. Detective Kilcoin finds that providing a child with a Harvard education can come back to haunt you, as Molly begins investigations into the Rackets Division and several police precincts - including her father's. Bertinelli turns in - thankfully - a low-key and persuasive performance in this well-paced, good guy/bad guy drama. It has a standard premise but nevertheless manages to look fresh.

Valerie Bertinelli

• The outcome of an airline-crash docudrama, unlike a horror film, which relies on similar jolts of shock and disaster, never comes as much of a surprise. "Crash Landing: The Rescue of Flight 232" (ABC, Feb. 24) is no exception, sticking to a formulaic pattern and sustained by corny melodrama and crass sentimentality. At times, "Crash Landing" borders on parody, partly because of Charlton Heston at the captain's controls. Members of the Sioux City, Iowa, disaster crew (led by James Coburn and Richard Thomas), who saved many lives in the 1989 crash, are portrayed as a hulking mass of drill sergeants. Those of us from the "if you've seen one plane crash, you've seen 'em all" school will regard this as one crash epic viewers can stand to miss.

• Set in Atlanta, "Grass Roots" (NBC, Feb. 24 and 25) is a two-part miniseries starring Corbin Bernsen as a politically ambitious lawyer burdened with a court-appointed defense of a white man accused of murdering a black woman at the same time the attorney is trying to run for the Senate. Bernsen pretty much carries the drama as the ethical lawyer in a cast of minor stereotypes - a shrewd local judge (Raymond Burr), a bigoted sheriff (Claude Akins) and a smattering of white supremacists. Less thick-skinned Southerners could be insulted by the way so many dramas set in the South prominently feature cartoon-style white supremacists. But then entertainment this engrossing is rarely realistic. Mel Harris also stars.

THIS WEEK

Wayne Newton

NEWTONIAN Slapsticks: Mr. Las Vegas, Wayne Newton himself, appears on "Perfect Strangers," Saturday, Feb. 29, on ABC. In the episode, Balki wins a trip to Las Vegas, and Larry comes up with a unique plan for his cousin to meet the singer. • On Sunday, Feb. 23, "National Geographic Explorer" presents "Tides of War" on cable's TBS. It examines the ecological damage wrought by the release of oil into the Persian Gulf during the Gulf War. • Robert Guillaume guest-stars as Rollins' father on the episode of NBC's "L.A. Law" airing Thursday, Feb. 27. • Steve Allen is the "guest voice" on "The Simpsons," Thursday, Feb. 27, on Fox. • Country star Randy Travis guests on "Matlock," Friday, Feb. 28, on NBC. • "Sightings: Ghosts," a Fox special, airs Friday, Feb. 28. • CBS premieres three new series this week. "Scorch," which revolves around a family living with a dragon, and "Fish Police," an animated series about a piscine law-enforcement agency, premiere Friday, Feb. 28. Wilford Brimley and Richard Farnsworth star in "The Boys of Twilight" as lawmen in a Western town that has become a chic resort. It premieres Saturday, Feb. 29.

SOAP SCOOP

Megan faces the end of her 'One Life to Live'

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Over the last few years, death has lost its sting on daytime soaps, as character after character treks back from the grave. Given the very voluntary and supposedly "permanent" leave-taking of Jessica Tuck (who plays Megan Gordon Harrison), the writing and production team at "One Life to Live" decided not only to have Megan suffer a really stinging death (from a combination of lupus and kidney failure) but to stage it as a major media event.

Jessica Tuck

Hey, why not? After all, the death would fall during February sweeps, and no one is hipper to promotion than ABC.

So the cassettes of the two episodes of "OLTL" leading to Megan's death went out to prime-time TV editors (who just love soaps), and the soap press was invited to a special screening. Small packages of tissues were given to both groups, a good clue that we were all in for a melodramatic - and manipulative - ride.

In the death episodes, "OLTL" showcased itself with exactly the same attributes and faults it has exhibited since "Dirty Dancing" producer Linda Gottlieb and novelist Michael Malone took over the show last June as executive producer and head writer. The episodes were exquisitely produced and well-written, as always. To keep Megan alive, mother Viki Buchanan decided to recount stories from her (and the show's) past.

Oh, what a treat to see the old clips (ca. 1979) of Viki being introduced to cowboy husband Clint (played by Clint Ritchie) and of the couple's wedding (ca. 1982)! But what did Megan's death have to do with the most memorable clip in soap history, in which housewife Karen Wolek (played by Judith Light, who went on to star in "Who's the Boss?") shatteringly broke down on the witness stand and confessed she had also secretly been a hooker (ca. 1979)? Was the usage of these clips just another promotional and publicity device?

Just before Megan died, besotted priest Andrew Carpenter (Wortham Krimmer, in a wonderful performance) rescued Megan's long-lost husband, Jake (played by Michael Landon look-alike Joe Lando) from his jail cell in the Middle East. The couple's deathbed reunion was touching but somewhat marred by Lando's limited acting abilities. If Megan had died instead in the arms of her mother (played by acting dynamo Erika Slezak), perhaps "OLTL" could have achieved the ultimate soap-opera moment it was so clearly reaching for.

The critically praised drama airs on NBC.

Dustin Hoffman (pictured, l.) is an institutionalized autistic savant whose illness leads him to alternate between profundity and vacuity, and Tom Cruise (r.) is his wheeler-dealer younger brother determined to win his sibling's guardianship, and thus secure his father's inheritance, in 1988's "Rain Man," airing Sunday, Feb. 23, on ABC. New Horizons Program Submits Interim Report

Garrett Community College's New Horizons Program recently submitted its interim report to the State Department of Education for fiscal year 1992, completing 11½ years of program operation at GCC.

New Horizons is a program that provides special services to single parents, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant women. The program provided services to 1.82 individuals so far this funding year, which is 91% of total anticipated clients. Seventy-eight of these individuals are displaced, or 42.8% of total served. Services included peer and career counseling, decision making, career testing, skills identification, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in both credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

Seventeen new program participants enrolled in a five-week Career Planning class where they received much career and interest evaluation in order to compile a career profile to enable them to make better decisions regarding the career field of their choice and to enroll in training according to their areas of interest.

The Holland Code Self-Directed Search was administered to 18 clients, the Career Assessment Inventory was administered to twenty (20) clients, the GATB was administered to 17 clients, "Please Understand Me," a computerized personality evaluation, was administered to 16 clients, and "Visions" was used by seven program participants. All evaluations done assisted at least 20 clients to narrow their focus in their career interests.

Thirty-nine programs participants enrolled in non-credit vocational training and 67 enrolled in credit classes, which is a total of 106 program participants enrolled in education 21 classes, which is 58.2% of total clients served to December 31, 1991.

New Horizons helped participants meet training costs. Twelve program participants enrolled in credit classes at Garrett Community College received tuition/book assistance through New Horizons, which is 6.6% of total clients, and 57 participants received Pell Grants. In addition, the 39 clients who participated in non-credit vocational training at Garrett Community College received complete tuition assistance and a prorated amount of assistance for their books, which is 100% of total clients enrolled in non-credit.

Twenty-four clients were assisted with child care and/or transportation expenses to date, which is 13.2% of total program participants or 22.6% of total clients enrolled in classes.

The program's Outreach/Job Awareness Specialist, Mary Kirkland, has worked with 39 participants in job referrals during the first half of the funding year. Thirty-three program participants have become employed during the first half of FY92, which represents approximately 18% of total clients served to December 31, 1991.

Persons interested in learning more about the New Horizons Program and eligibility requirements are encouraged to call New Horizons at 387-6666, ext. 171, Monday through Thursday, between 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000, are made available to the program through Career and Technology Education, which is 89% of the total program budget, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,600, which is 11% of the total budget.

GCC Building Trades Class To Start In March

A specialized training program designed to meet the need for productive, skilled employees in the construction trades will soon be underway at Garrett Community College.

According to a GCC spokesman, the training is designed to prepare students with the capabilities they'll need to assume positions as carpenter helpers, electrician helpers, or carpenters. They will also be equipped to function effectively in retail sales associated with building materials as well as in service, remodeling and maintenance positions.

This 14-week class, schedules to start in March, is offered in cooperation with the Western Maryland Consortium.

Tuition for the class is funded by the Job Training Partnership Act, so it is free to those who qualify economically. Financial help is also available to meet related expenses.

Students who range in age from 18 to 59 will begin their studies by learning trade terms, blueprint reading, and retail selling fundamentals. They will then progress to "hands-on" learning activities in frame carpentry. This includes learning how to frame walls, ceilings and roofs, as well as how to build steps and do repairs. Their final learning will involve specializing in eight-week sessions in either masonry, plumbing, electrical wiring, or finish carpentry.

Upon completion of the course, each student will have achieved specific competencies in frame carpentry as well as in his individual specialty area. Students also will have been trained in appropriate work habits, getting along with co-workers, and employer-employee relations. In the summer, those students who have demonstrated a high level of competency in all areas, will be ready to join the building trades work force, the spokesman said.

The college is currently recruiting students for the new class. Those wishing more information about enrollment should call Lynne or Sandy immediately at 387-6666, ext. 180.

Norma Dankulich Re-Scheduled As Aglow Speaker

Norma Dankulich, Mtn. Lake Park, will be the guest speaker at the Oakland Aglow first anniversary fellowship meeting on Saturday, February 22, at 9:30 a.m., at the Mtn. Lake Park Campground dining hall, located off Md. Route 135. The meeting was postponed last month because of bad weather.

Ms. Dankulich was instrumental in organizing the local Women's Aglow Chapter. Following major surgeries and the removal of an extremely large tumor at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., she believes that her recovery was "because of the prayers of friends, family, and the support of the Aglow."

Although she stated that she had "great respect" for her doctors, she gives credit for her recovery and positive attitude to the "Great Physician."

Ms. Dankulich's hobbies are art and poetry. While in the hospital, she wrote a poem about her life-threatening surgery. The poem was published by Poetry Corner. Consequently, she won the Golden Poet Award for 1991 and was nominated to Who's Who in Poetry. She has one son, John. He and his wife, Kim, are both students at Fairmont State College.

More information about the meeting may be obtained by calling 387-9352 or 334-8891.

Women's Aglow is an interdenominational Christian women's organization committed to Jesus Christ, according to a group spokeswoman. The group meets monthly and is open to any interested women.

AUTO DEALERS DONATE TOYS -- The Oakland area New Car Dealers Association, consisting of Oakview Motors, Shaffer Ford, and Team One, have become a "Partner in Education" with Sheila Edwards, educational consultant with Discovery Toys, by donating Discovery Toys products to elementary schools in Southern Garrett County. Bob Stuck of Oakview Motors, speaking for the association, said that they were impressed with the toys and were glad to be able to donate them. The Association wanted to provide the students with some toys and games to help them have fun while learning. With budget constraints an ongoing reality, they felt that these toys might not otherwise be available. Discovery Toys, which include books, games, and puzzles, are not only for play at home, but over two-thirds of the product line can be used in a classroom setting including grade level use, library/office checkout, and rotation through the grades. Pictured above, left to right, front row, are: Ms. Edwards, Clark Sharpless, principal at Dennett Road; and Stuck. In the back, same order, are: Greg Shockey, Team One; Rick Shaffer, Shaffer Ford; and Tom Fowler, principal at Broad Ford. Not present for the photo was James Morris, principal at Kitzmiller.

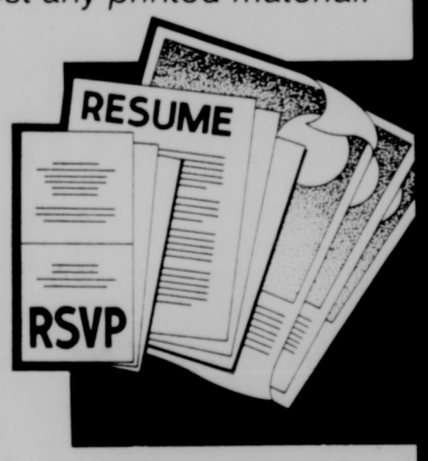
Annual Scout Show Scheduled At LaVale Mall

Potomac Council's annual Scout Show will take place all day this Saturday, February 22, at the Country Club Mall, LaVale. This year's theme, according to Brad Burr, Council executive, is "Scouting - The Tradition Lives On," which provides opportunity for scouts of all levels and ages to demonstrate to the public the "fun and challenges" Scouting presents to youth in the 90's, he said.

Last year over 800 boys and 200 adult volunteers participated. This year more than 30 units from throughout the tri-state region are scheduled to participate. Among the displays and demonstration will be: a complete model campsite, "Recycling: The Future is Now," pioneering, and Indian lore.



Cub Scout Pack activities include: flight, space derby, adventure trail, western town, and Pioneer Days, by Pack 49, Grantsville. At most booths passersby can actually participate in the activity demonstrated.

At Centre Court, scout leaders will be "jailed" to raise money for the summer camp scholarship program at Camp Potomac. Persons are invited to stop at the Council Booth to view Scouting materials or to talk with adult Scouters about how a boy can become a Scout or how an adult can volunteer. "Lost" Eagle Scouts can get re-acquainted with Scouting at the Eagle Committee booth and anyone with a special skill or interest can put that talent to work by volunteering to be a merit badge counselor.

Potomac Council, made up of Nemocolin Trail, Tri-Valley and Deep Creek Districts, BSA, serves more than 2,000 youth in Allegany and Garrett counties, Maryland, and Mineral, Hampshire, Grant and Hardy counties, West Virginia.

HEARING AIDS
DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?
This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.
We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".
Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

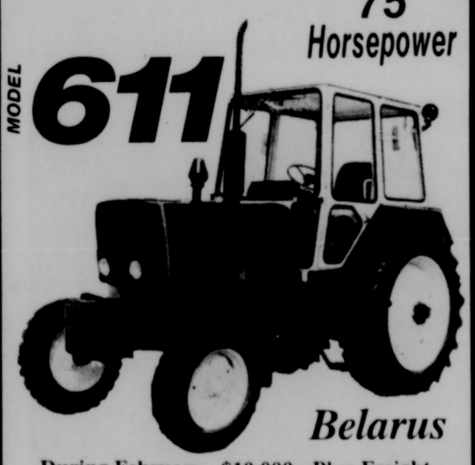
Oakland FFA Members Attend Made For Excellence Seminar

Elaine DeBerry, Jim Rhodes and Denise Bee of the Oakland FFA Chapter recently attended the National FFA Organization's Made for Excellence (MFE) seminar in Westminster.

The two-day MFE personal development program helped students learn techniques for dealing with peer pressure and on how to set and achieve goals. The conference also featured an attitude workshop designed to help members achieve "gold medal" success in life. This year's theme was "The Olympic Challenge" and a portion of the registration fee will be donated to the 1992 United States Olympic Team.

MFE conferences, which began in 1987, will be held in 29 states during the 1991-92 school year. Thirty-four conferences have been scheduled. More than 5,500 junior high and high school students are expected to attend. FFA advisors attended an MFE for teachers seminar held in conjunction with the MFE program for students.



"Made For Excellence is an exceptional opportunity for many FFA members to participate in a national conference without the expense of leaving their home state," said Kipling Godwin, MFE program manager. "These conferences bring out the very best in the students and advisors who participate."

MFE program staff members are college students who are former state or national FFA officers. Many staff members have also worked as counselors for the Washington Conference Program, FFA's national leadership seminar held in Washington, D.C., each summer.

FFA is a national organization of 382,748 members in 7,744 local chapters preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills acquired through agricultural education. FFA members strive to develop agricultural leadership, cooperation and citizenship.

Farming In Maryland ..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Nutrient Management, A Key To Profitable Farming

Garrett County farmers met last Thursday, February 13, at Pleasant Valley Community Center to hear reasons why nutrient management means more profit to the farmer, and what the practical applications might be for their farm.

The frmers were welcomed with coffee and donuts rovided by Potomac Valley Farm Credit. Farm Credit also provided rain guages which were given as door prizes.

Opening the meeting was District Conservationist Garry Morfoot, who discussed ways farmers can work with the Garrett Soil Conservation District to conserve plant nutrients and soil. Morfoot described the District's roll and involvement with farming, and stated that soil conservation is a voluntary program, a fact that's more important now than ever.

Morfoot explained the history of Soil Conservation Districts, stating that the "Soil Erosion Service" was organized in the 30s with its mission being to work with farmers after the dust bowl, to teach them how to protect their soil from wind and water erosion. In the 1940s, Conservation Districts were formed. "Today," he said, "the number one priority of Soil Conservation Districts still is working with landowners to keep the soil in place."

He emphasized, "Our priority is to use the land, to produce what we want to produce, but to keep the soil profile there for our children and grandchildren. We can see environmental pressures coming (from the government). and our best defense against these pressures is a strong voluntary Soil Conservation Program. There are people who want regulation. They think farming should be regulated. They think everything causes an environmental impact." He added, "This is a shadowy group of people watching us, and they are a real threat to the voluntary program." For this reason, he said we need a strong voluntary program, "so we don't give special interest groups fuel for their fire."

Morfoot went on to explain that most of these special interest groups are not conservationists but preservationists. "We must protect the land," he said, "but we can't just look at the long term. You've got to survive this year and next. You've got to make a living now while protecting the land long term for the future."

He said one way to protect both the land and the voluntary program is for farmers and to have a current and updated conservation plan for their farm. Speaking of the conservation plans, he said, "We don't try to make everything 100% by the book. We don't try to make every farm a text book example. We make something the landowner can deal with and use." He then went into the specifics of strip cropping, spring development, rotational grazing, woodland management, and manure management.

land Nutrient Management Program is being implemented in Garrett County. He said that fertilizer companies are cooperating with the program, and that the capacity in the county will be 30 farms per year.

Simms continued into his presentation on Manure, Nitrogen, Fertilizer and Weed Control. Manure, he said, means money and fertilizer. He asked the farmers attending how they felt about the reliability of manure as fertilizer. He continued to say that once farmers were afraid to use manure as a valid source of fertilizer. Now, he said, manure can be analyzed, and because of the way it's stored, it makes good fertilizer. He asked the farmers attending who of them knew how many tons of manure a cow produced per year, and offered to reimburse the cost of lunch for the person coming closest to the correct answer. Larry Sebold's lunch was free because his answer of 43,700 tons was close to the 44,895 tons per year statistic.

Nitrogen testing is extremely important for a balanced fertilizer program, Simms said. Soil samples must be taken for nitrogen testing. "It takes a good soil sample for nitrogen testing," Simms said. "Balance the fertilizer ration to meet the need of your plants at least cost," he advised. "Get away from putting the same fertilizer analysis on year after year, it saves money, too." He said that bulk blend dealers are seeing the need to blend what is needed from the results of a soil test.

Using chemicals, Simms said, is a balancing act - chemical pest control versus environmental factors and economics. He advised farmers to select specific chemicals for specific pest problems; increase their knowledge and skills; and to keep records and use them. Integrated Pest Management (IPM), he said, involves scouting, a knowledge of economic thresholds, resistant crops and cultural management.

For information on nutrient management, nitrogen testing, and weed control, those interested may contact Simms at the Garrett County Extension Office, 334-1990.

December 1991 Slaughter Reported

For December 1991, the Maryland-Delaware cattle slaughter totaled 4.3 million pounds, calf slaughter totaled 596,000 pounds and hog slaughter totaled 6.0 million pounds. This poundage was six percent below last year for cattle, but up 23 and 10 percent for calf and hog total liveweight slaughtered. Maryland-Delaware slaughtered 3,600 cattle, 1,500 calves, and 26,100 hogs in December of 1991, compared with 3,800, 1,200 and 24,200 respectively for 1990.

The United States: Total liveweight of cattle slaughtered totaled 3.30 billion pounds compared with 2.81 billion for December 1990. Total liveweight of calves slaughtered was 46.6 million pounds compared with 42.9 million pounds last December 1990. Hog total liveweight slaughtered was 2.01 billion pounds compared with 1.85 billion pounds for December 1990.

Local Entrepreneurs Raise Ostriches Here In "Outback Maryland"

THE WORLD'S LARGEST BIRDS COME TO GARRETT COUNTY -- The dictionary defines an entrepreneur as a person who operates and assumes the risk for a business venture. Entrepreneurs, then, seems to be the ideal term to use when describing the local family raising these Australian, African and South American birds here on the mountain top. Pictured above, left to right, are members of the flock. The two birds standing deep in discussion in the far left photo, and the bird strutting along in the middle photo is an Ostrich. This flightless species is native to Africa, and is characterized by a long, bare neck and powerful legs with two-toed feet. Our entrepreneur says his Ostriches stand over six-feet tall, but the species has the potential of reaching eight feet and weighing 300 to 400 pounds. These birds may not fly, but they can jump high fences and run 40 miles per hour. The Ostriches, he says, are like any other bird raised domestically, just a little on the wild side, and when the birds are protecting their nest, it's wise to avoid their powerful legs, which they've been known to use as a weapon - kicking out in front to ward off danger. The Emu, above right, are a little smaller, but still have the potential to reach six feet and 100 to 125 pounds. These flightless birds can reach speeds of 30 miles per hour, and are native of the Australian grasslands. A little tamer than the Ostriches, the Emu have a better disposition, according to the local owner, and are very inquisitive. The Rhea, below left, are the smallest of the birds, and are native to South America. They are also flightless and resemble the Ostrich, although they have three toes instead of two. Pictured below, right, for size comparison are an Ostrich chick, approximately two weeks old, and a Bantam chicken (lower left corner of photo). The eggs weigh between one and one-and-a-half-pounds. The Ostrich and Rhea eggs are white to tan in color, but the Emu eggs are dark green. The birds lay every third day, nesting inside in the straw. In the wild, these birds would lay 12 to 18 eggs in a community nest. They would then be hatched by one of the males. Here in Garrett County, though, the eggs are gathered to keep them from freezing, and incubated. It takes approximately 38 days for Rhea eggs to hatch, 45 days for Ostrich eggs and 52 days for Emu eggs. Our entrepreneur says the birds have adapted well to Garrett County and seem to like the snow. "They don't seem to mind the cold and snow a bit," he said, and added that he's seen the birds with an inch of snow on their backs which proves to him that they have good insulation under their feathers. Most of the birds raised in the United States can be found in Texas and California, but quite a number are now being raised in Lancaster, Pa., and Garrett County can now boast over 70 birds, too. The extended family of entrepreneurs has a mixed flock consisting of 11 Ostriches, 38 Emu, and 22 Rhea. And the flock is growing all the time. Why raise Ostriches? We're told there is a market for almost every part ot the bird. The meat is low in fat, low in cholesterol, high in protein and tastes like beef. Oil from the birds is used to make cosmetics, and of course, there is a market for the plumage and the skin. The birds eat a rabbit pellet feed, or a commercial Ostrich feed available from a Lancaster, Pa., feed mill. The goal of the local entrepreneurs is to raise a breeding flock large enough to begin harvesting sometime in the future. So, if you're lucky enough to see these birds as you are driving around the county, remember, it's not "Outback Australia" you're in, it's "Outback Maryland," Garrett County.

Weights/Measures Week Set For March 1-7

National Weights and Measures Week has been proclaimed during the week of March 1 through 7. This is the 156th Anniversary of the National Office of Weights and Measures which was created by Congressional resolution requiring each state receive a standardized set of weights and measures.

"The Weights and Measures Section of Maryland's Department of Agriculture works daily to protect Maryland consumers," Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker said.

"Everyone who enters into an economic transaction uses some sort of measurement. I am proud of the weights and measures officials at our department who protect the pocketbooks of every Maryland citizen," Walker said.

Each year Weights and Measures officials from the Maryland Department of Agriculture inspect and test thousands of weighing and measuring devices such as motor fuel dispensers, home heating oil and liquid propane gas delivery trucks for accuracy. Also inspected are scales of all sizes ranging from small scales in supermarkets to large vehicle scales and railroad track scales with a weighing capacity of 400,000 pounds.

"Our job is to make sure citizens get what they pay for whether it be a quart of milk, gallon of gasoline or a pound of hamburger," Walker said.

"National Weights and Measures Week is a good time to remind ourselves of the crucial role weights and measures play in the vitality of the Maryland economy," said Walker.

Maryland Department of Agriculture weights and measures inspectors examine millions of prepacked products to make certain that their net contents conform to the weight indicated on the package level. These commodities include food, fuel and raw materials.

The world's first organized automobile-racing organization, the Automobile Club de France was established in 1885.

Dairy Board Confronts Its Problems

Faced with a mini-revolt among its producers and a changing industry, the National Dairy Board has a big communication problem. The NDB has allowed the BST controversy to backfire on its image, and dairy farmers don't understand how and why it spends its money. The board believes BST will be approved for farm use, and when it is, consumers need to know the milk supply won't be affected. Many farmers think that means NDB supports BST, which they deny. To help get its message across to farmers, NDB has hired J. Charles Garrison from the National Livestock and Meat Board to run an industry relations office.

Growing Field Corn On Ridges

I'm sure most of you have heard of or read about the Ridge-Till Method of growing corn. As far as I know this method has not been used in Garrett County. I think our soil types are very well suited for Ridge-Till. Farmers using Ridge-Till are experiencing cost savings of $30 to $50 per acre. Here are some points on Ridge-Till:

Weed Control: Building ridges means the ridge top warms up faster in the Spring and dries out quickly to aid in early planting. This allows the corn to get ahead of weed growth. Two cultivations are normally used and this substitutes for some of the herbicide, which can be banded to save 50 percent or more of the herbicide cost.

Fertility: Based on research conducted by the University of Minnesota and South Dakota State, the phosphate and potash rates can be reduced 40 percent to 50 percent by banding them in the ridge.

Fuel: Most ridge-tillers with good records show a savings of 40 to 50 percent in fuel with Ridge-Till, resulting in another savings of $3-4 per acre.

Machinery: Since fewer tillage tools are needed and horsepower requirements for Ridge-Till are less than in conventional tillage, many operators have reduced their machinery and power costs by $15 per acre or more.

Yields: Ohio State University shows some significant yield increases with Ridge-Till on heavy soils such as ours. Also, because the soil warms up and dries out quicker, we can plant earlier. Also, you can plant slightly later maturing varieties to gain an additional yield advantage. Ridge-Till conserves water and soil.

I believe Ridge-Till is not just another passing system. The advantages are sound.

W.Va. Corn Producers Invited To Attend Nutrient Management Class

All farmers want to save money on corn production. Terry Hauser, former Vo-Ag instructor of the former East Preston High School, has organized two Nutrient Management Adult Farmer classes for Preston and surrounding counties.

Hauser has invited Joe Hatton, NPS Environmental Specialist-WVSSCC, to discuss the Preston County Nutrient Management Program. Hatton will be discussing the '91 Penn State nitrogen quick testing which analyzed nitrogen in Preston County corn fields. Results of this testing, along with the procedure for testing, will be discussed. The nitrogen test kit will be demonstrated and sign-ups for the '92 corn fields will be taken. The Penn State Nitrogen Testing Kit has proven to be a valuable dollar saver for corn growers in Preston County. More than $8,000 on 14 farms was saved during the '91 corn season. This was very important during the drought experienced last year. Those interested in saving dollars for fertilizer should attend one of the classes and learn how.

The classes will be held at the Eglon Memorial Building on February 24, and at the Bruceton Mills Vo-Ag Room on February 25, at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Terry Hauser, farm manager, Thomas' Dairy, Bruceton Mills, W.Va., phone (304) 379-9321, or Joe Hatton, NPS Environmental Specialist, 300 Tunnelton St., Kingwood, WV, phone (304) 329-1922.

Maryland Crop Production Value Up For 1991

Increased value of production in fruits and nuts and commercial vegetables offset a decrease in the value of production of field and miscellaneous crops resulting in an overall increase in the total value of principal crops in Maryland. The value of production of major crops in Maryland is estimated at $393.9 million for 1991, up $7.6 million from 1990. Of the major crops in Maryland, corn, rye, hay, and potatoes had higher average prices for 1991 while soybeans, tobacco, wheat, barley, and oats had lower prices. Despite the higher prices for corn and hay, their value of production was down due to lower production for those crops.

United States crop production value has also increased. The value of production increased for all major crop categories in the United States. Field and miscellaneous crops increased $589 million, fruits and nuts increased $537 million, and commercial vegetables increased $262 million, for a total increase of $1.39 billion in the value of production of principal crops in 1991.

Annual Dept. of Ag Open House To Be Bigger And Better

The annual "Open House" at the Maryland Department of Agriculture is going to be bigger and better than ever with new things for the public to see and do on Saturday, March 21, according to Department spokesmen. Last year, the event drew over 5,000 visitors.

As in the past, the event will start off with the "Maryland With Pride" 10-K Run set up by the Annapolis Striders, starting at 9 a.m.

Again this year will be laboratory tours in the Department's new wing featuring labs that do work on animal feeds, household cleaning products, fertilizers, pesticides and even a lab which checks weights down to a millionth of a pound for accuracy.

Farming means food and there will be no shortage of cooking and food sampling demonstrations put on by many Maryland food commodity organizations ranging from apples to seafood and fish farming.

There will also be a number of activities for children: a farm coloring contest, face painting, and an always popular petting zoo stocked with fuzzy, furry and friendly animals.

The public is asked to mark their family calendars for this fun filled and free event which will be held at the Department's headquarters building, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis. Additional information can be obtained by contacting Desiree Mundell at (410) 841-5770.

Governor Notes New Initiatives For Home Buyers

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced two new initiatives as part of his "Maryland Goes to Work" campaign. One initiative will make available to Marylanders $75 million in special home purchase financing and the other will increase to $127,500 the maximum mortgage amount the Maryland Housing Fund (MHF) insures through its Revitalization Program.

"These changes will help many Marylanders buy homes," said Governor Schaefer during a conference last week on affordable housing. "We want to encourage home buying to help the housing market boost the economy and provide more work for our citizens."

Under the first initiative, the Community Development Administration, a division of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), will provide $75 million in special mortgage funds through its Maryland Mortgage Program (MMP). The purchase price and income maximums for the program have been temporarily raised in an effort to stimulate the economy and make more Marylanders eligible to buy homes through state programs.

The maximum purchase price for newly constructed or existing homes is now $124,875 in urban and suburban areas, and $95,000 for homes in rural counties, including Garrett County. This amount is up from about $80,000 on existing homes to $85,000 on newly constructed homes. In addition, the annual income limit for all families regardless of size, is $47,100.

ATTEND INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE - Seven representatives from Coldwell Banker/Deep Creek Realty recently attended an International Business Conference held in Las Vegas. The four-day conference was hosted by noted business persons and movie and television personalities. Those attending from Garrett County were first row, left to right, Mary Jo Lyons, Goldie Shugars, and Diane Robeson; and second row, same order, were Ruth Huebner, Barbara Kirkham, Robert Huebner, and Joyce Smith.

Funds from the MMP initiative can be used to finance newly constructed or existing single family homes. These include townhouses, detached or semi-detached homes and condominiums. Terms of the MMP loans are 8 percent interest payable over 30 years, and interested home buyers can apply for an MMP loan at a participating lending institution.

"Our Maryland Mortgage Program helps families, usually first-time buyers, find homes with mortgages that they can afford," said DHCD Secretary Jacqueline H. Rogers. "With this special funding, we expect to assist about 750 home buyers. A portion of this funding will, for the first time, be available to help previous homeowners who in the past could not be served.

The second initiative heralds an increase in the maximum mortgage amount insured through one of the State's housing insurance programs. MHF previously insured mortgages for up to $60,000 for properties bought "as is" or purchased and rehabilitated through MHF's Revitalization Program.

The program insures mortgages funded by private lenders who agree to lend in areas of the state suffering from decreased home ownership, and the economic and social instability that often accompanies this decrease. The new cap of $127,500 will allow the MHF to insure more properties and increase the availability of affordable housing in these areas.

The Revitalization Program represents one of DHCD's efforts to work with private lenders, insure their mortgages, and help more Marylanders afford housing. There are currently more than six lenders participating in the program.

"Because of climbing house prices, $60,000 was no longer an adequate amount of money to buy or buy and renovate a house in many parts of the state," said DHCD Deputy Secretary Patricia J. Payne. "The new maximum amount is much more realistic in today's housing market and allows us to work better with private lenders."

To obtain a list of lenders and a Maryland Mortgage Program brochure, persons may contact DHCD's Home ownership Programs at (410) 514-7514. For information about the Maryland Housing Fund and its Revitalization Program, persons may contact Stan Sanders at (410) 514-7318.

Constipation and the Elderly: What to Do

A preoccupation with the number and frequency of bowel movements is a common occurrence in many elderly individuals. Often the concern centers around misconceptions about normal bowel function and the mistaken belief that serious health problems can result if the bowel is not evacuated every day. Some of the more common causes of constipation in the elderly include lack of fiber in the diet, lack of exercise, not enough water or fluid intake, side effects of certain medicines such as the narcotic pain relievers and aluminum-containing antacids, and certain health problems such as diabetes and mental depression.

Nondrug Lifestyle Changes: Prevention of constipation is best accomplished by correcting the causes. For example, if there is little or no fiber in the diet, the older person should try to eat more fiber-rich foods such as potatoes, beans, bran cereals, fresh fruits, and whole grain bread.

Laxative Use in the Elderly: Usually laxatives are not needed. However, if laxative medicines are recommended, stool softeners such as docusate and the bulk-forming laxatives such as psyllium hydrocolloid are considered the safest for the elderly. The stimulants (castor oil and bisacodyl) and the saline-type laxatives (magnesium sulfate) generally have more side effects than the other laxative types.

Local Leaguers Join Educational Lobbying Effort

Connie Margison and Donna Aspinall, members of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County (LWVGC), joined others from across the state to meet with state senators and delegates as part of "Education Day in Annapolis" to promote adequate and equitable funding of primary and secondary education in Maryland.

"We must no longer accept that some children, because of the jurisdiction in which they happen to live, are destined to receive less than an equal opportunity for quality education," said Aspinall. According to Maryland Department of Education figures, the disparity between the lowest and highest spending districts last year amounted to over $87,000 per classroom of 30.

Organized by the Metropolitan Education Coalition, the lobby day focused on proposals to reform public school finance in Maryland. The proposals, called "APEX" (Action Plan for Education Excellence) and "A New APEX," provide equal opportunity for educational success for all children in Maryland regardless of where they live. Moreover, the New APEX calls for an increased investment in education aid to all jurisdictions, tied to school-by-school performance improvement plans; and "adequacy floor" of funds so each school can meet state standards; a weighted formula to distribute aid based on student needs; and a larger portion of state aid depending on local ability to pay.

OAKLAND SENIORS CELEBRATE - The Oakland Senior Center, currently located in Mtn. Lake Park, celebrated Valentine's Day Friday with a party and selecting Edna Friend, pictured center, as the Oakland Senior Sweetheart. Runners-up for the designation were Bob and Helen Henline, also pictured. Father Martin Feild was present and gave a message on love and providing musical entertainment were Eileen and Paul Steyer.

The LWVGC had organized a local coalition under the "Child First" banner in October and November of 1991. The group traveled to Hagerstown in December to give its testimony at a statewide legislative hearing. Group members insisted that elected officials follow their own lead and leave the already mandated APEX funding in place as promised. The LWVGC, American Association of University Women, Greater Oakland Business Association, PTA, Citizens United for Better Education, and Students Supporting teachers presented their individual testimonies reiterating the importance of APEX. It was this testimony that the league took to Education Day.

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards (House Appropriations Committee) and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer (Senate Judicial Proceeding Committee) scheduled appointments with the coalition, making themselves available for any member. Both legislators assured Garrett County leaguers that they do support the APEX plans, but indicated their doubt about its full funding, given the state's fiscal crisis. They added that the county commissioners are the ones who should be lobbied more heavily.

The Garrett County leaguers also met with District 1 Delegate Betty Workman (House Constitutional and Administrative Law Committee), Delegate James Rosapepe (House Ways and Means Committee), and Senate President Mike Miller. Child First testimony was left with aides at the following offices of those not available or called away: Senator Laurence Levitan, chairman, Senate Budget and Taxation Committee), Senator John Derr (Senate Judicial Proceeding Committee), and Speaker of the House, Delegate R. Clayton Mitchell.

"We know these are tight economic times," said local league President Connie Margison, continuing, "But that is when you need to start building a foundation for future economic growth by investing in kids. A skilled future workforce is a key to economic competitiveness."

The Metropolitan Education Coalition is a broad alliance of persons and organizations supporting a common mission to educate, organize and encourage action for improvement in the quality of education throughout the metropolitan region.

The effort involved a 16-hour round trip for Garrett Countians.

Thank You

To my husband and family for their prayers, care and concern since my accident. Thank You to the Northern Rescue Squad, emergency room staff, nurses and staff on the 2nd floor of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the excellent care during my hospitalization. A special thanks to Dr. Dona Alvarez, who fixed my broken bones. Thanks also to my neighbors and friends for their prayers, visits, food and beautiful cards.

Transmission Repair Tests Set At Southern High

The Automatic Transmission Rebuilders Association (A.T.R.A.) will hold written examinations for automatic transmission Rebuilders, R&R technicians, and Service Writers at Southern Garrett County High School in Oakland on April 7 at 7 p.m. as part of its national Certification Program. Thomas M. Powers teacher at Southern High School, will serve as proctor.

A.T.R.A. is a non-profit organization dedicated to the improvement and welfare of the automatic transmission repair industry. With over 3,000 affiliates, it is the world's oldest and largest network of independent transmission firms.

Each year, A.T.R.A. sponsors over 500 proficiency tests throughout the country to encourage technical competency and professionalism in the industry. According to A.T.R.A.'s Executive Director, G. Steven Gray, a major goal of the Certification program is consumer protection.

"Consumers should look for a Certified shop when they need automatic transmission repair work," he said. "A.T.R.A. Certification helps identify which shops are capable of competently diagnosing and repairing automatic transmission problems."

Because transmission technology has become extremely complicated over the past decade, A.T.R.A. member shops are required to recertify every two years. Gray says experienced technicians usually have no trouble passing the test ". . . if they've kept their knowledge and skills current."

The tests are free to A.T.R.A. members. Non-members, however, are required to pay a fee of $20 to help defray the cost of the program.

Those wishing to register for the tests or who want additional information about the Certification Program should contact Marilynn Gray at the A.T.R.A. Headquarters, (805) 654-1700.

Sobhani Seeks GOP Nomination For U.S. Senate

"America cannot afford another day of career politicians," stated Rob Sobhani, Rockville, who is currently seeking the Republican nomination for the Maryland Senate, adding that America has "become hostage to the career politician."

Sobhani, a Georgetown University professor and businessman, stated during the announcement of his candidacy that Mikulski is another example of the career politician, who is part of a "bad system" that allows politicians to accept money from political action committees and cater to special interest groups. Of Mikulski, he said, "She never met a program she didn't like and never met a tax she didn't hike. We must stop the out-of-control spending binge that Mikulski and her friends in Congress are on. It is time to give power back to the taxpayers of Maryland."

Describing himself as a "moderate Republican," Sobhani stated that he would rather speak his true feelings about the issues than to "prostitute myself," adding that "we need to bring decency back into the system."

Born in Kansas, and of Persian descent, Sobhani moved to Maryland in 1978 with his family. He completed his education at Georgetown University, and holds a bachelor's degree in foreign service, a master's degree in economics and a Ph.D. in international relations.

His experience includes lecturing at Georgetown University in the Department of Government/National Security Studies Program and the Liberal Studies Program; working as an aide to Congresswoman Connie Morella; working as a senior consultant to a number of multinational energy and environmental companies, and as an investment officer at a leading banking institution where he managed a multi-million dollar portfolio. He is also recognized as an expert on U.S. foreign policy affairs, and has been a frequent guest analyst for CNN, NBC News, Associated Press, Fox TV, and others.

Sobhani is also active in his community, having been a Sunday School instructor at Holy Cross Church, a Republican grass-roots activist, and a Lombardi Cancer Center volunteer.

He believes that Maryland needs new leadership in order to compete in the international business community. He explained that many of Maryland's goods and services are not being properly marketed in the international trade world. Fluent in five languages, Sobhani said he has the "tools" and the "vision" to help turn Maryland's economy around. "The opportunities for Maryland are available; the leadership is just not taking advantage of them," he said.

"Mikulski has no vision," he said, explaining that "in her own backyard" 650,000 employees were laid off.

He noted that a one percent increase in Maryland's import business would create 7,000 to 10,000 jobs. He also stated that if only one ship were built in Baltimore's port, between $50 million and $70 million would be generated. "We need to create jobs -- not raise taxes," he said.

Regarding the nation's economy, Sobhani stated that he is opposed to the capital gains tax. Japan and Germany have shown themselves to be economically strong, he said, because capital gains are reinvested in business in those countries. If elected to the U.S. Senate, he would also call for a balanced federal budget and line item veto authority for the president.

In addition, Sobhani would work to create a maternity tax credit. "We need to bring the American family back together," he said. He would also seek to return many of the medical deductions that have been eliminated over the years, as well as allowing a deduction for the purchase of an American-made vehicle.

On the issue of health care, he has stated, "If the United States can guarantee every criminal a lawyer, then we must guarantee every sick child, woman and man adequate health care." He supports President Bush's proposal to increase funding for preventive health care for such things as breast and cervical cancer screenings for women, efforts to reduce the infant mortality rate, and drug abuse prevention programs. But Sobhani stated he is not necessarily calling for a particular national health care plan. "I don't have all the answers. I would listen and then submit a bill," he said.

He does, however, criticize President Bush for what he calls "band-aid cures" for some health care issues.

He noted that people should be able to deduct insurance premiums from their taxes, and that the insurance industry should convert to a free market system.

Sobhani's stance on abortion is that the decision should remain the right of the woman, and not be placed in the hands of government. He stressed, however, that the stance is one which places a high value on life and on the family unit.

He favors the death penalty for drug king pins and murderers, and favors certain forms of gun control. "If America could liberate Kuwait from Saddam Hussein, then we must liberate Maryland from the drug lords and punks who go around shooting innocent bystanders -- just for fun."

He added, "I am not afraid of the NRA -- I'll say it -- there are simply too many guns out there and they must be put away."

Sobhani also stands firm in his commitment to education, noting that budgets have been cut too severely for Marylanders to enjoy the quality education they deserve.

In his campaign speech, Sobhani stated, "From my father, I learned the value of education -- that education is an investment of a lifetime. I also learned from him the value of family unity -- that the best safety net is not the welfare line but one's family. He impressed upon me the importance of public service -- that there is no higher good than to serve one's country."

He continued, "From my mother, I learned the importance of faith in God. That it matters not whether you pray in a synagogue, a mosque, or in a church, but to have faith in God. She taught me the importance of honesty, both to oneself and to others."

Recently, Sobhani placed second to Alan Keyes, the favored Republican candidate (according to reports), in straw polls conducted by the Prince George's County and Montgomery County Republican clubs.

"This is a confirmation that my campaign is reflective of the voters of Maryland. They don't want career politicians like Alan Keyes, and that's why my message is getting across," he said.

Termed a "political outsider," Sobhani is making his first bid for office. He has stated that Keyes is "a right wing extremist -- he is against a woman's right to choose and against gun control -- he is out of touch with the voters of Maryland," said Sobhani.

Sobhani stated in his campaign announcement speech, "I take great pride that I am not a career politician -- and I will win because in 1992 Maryland will say no to business as usual. They will say no to career politicians like Barbara Mikulski."

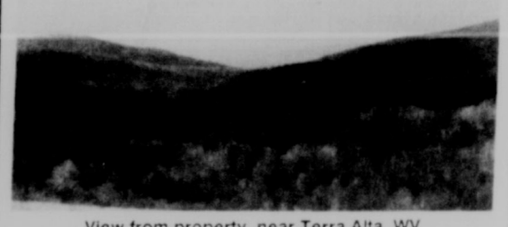
Gershwin! To Be Presented At FSU

The sassy, sophisticated, and serious works of American musical theatre composer, George Gershwin, will be celebrated in the next Frostburg State University Theatre production, Gershwin! Performances by an FSU ensemble will be Thursday through Saturday, March 5-7, at 8:15 p.m. and a Sunday matinee, March 8, at 2 p.m. in Compton Auditorium.

According to director/creator Linda McCulloch, the show is designed to be fast-paced, moving "very, very quickly from one song to another."

McCulloch says she has long been fascinated with Gershwin and the degree to which music has been influenced by his work. "If you were to ask rock groups today if they were influenced by him, they'd say no, and yet with the evolution of musical styles there's no way to get away from it, especially if you look at jazz, rhythm and blues, anything with ethnic undercurrents. He paved the way," she said.

Gershwin succeeded in three distinct styles of music --concert compositions, popular songs and opera -- said Ms. McCulloch, and she has included examples of all three in the revue.



The 13-member ensemble is a group of five musicians and eight cast members. The cast members are Matt Bittner, an FSU graduate and teacher in Allegany County; Maria Dolan, music major from East New Market; Accident's Greg Holschneider; Michaela Linn, Frostburg; theatre major Michael DeGarmo, Ellerslie; physical education major Tammy Frazier, Cumberland; Pasadena's Douglas Kotula, a recent transfer to FSU; and Germantown's Helena Pechacek.

The musicians are pianist/conductor Kim Andrews; Dr. Robert Pusey, woodwinds; Frostburg's Red Ogden on banjo; J.D. Close on bass; and Emerson Miller, percussion.

Artistic collaborators are musical director, Karen Soderberg; choreographers Claudia Palumbo and Carole Wiedebusch.

Tickets for Gershwin! can be purchased at the FSU ticket office, or persons may call 689-4145 weekdays between 1 and 4:30 p.m. to reserve tickets.

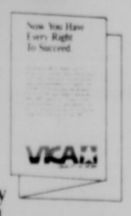
"Know Your Rights And You Can Start Your Career Right Out Of School."



Sometimes people forget that a diploma may get you a job interview, but having the job skills, and the right attitude, is what gets the job. To start our careers, and a lifetime of working in our communities, we need both the education and the skills to get ahead. The good news is we're doing just that through VICA in our technical education programs.

We believe all students have rights — the right to a world-class academic education; to learn from competent academic and vocational instructors; and to really be prepared for work when we graduate.

Of course, with all rights come the responsibilities to take full advantage of the opportunities we've been given.

If you'd like to know more about the Students' Bill of Rights and what it means to the people of our community, contact our local VICA chapter or National VICA, P.O. Box 3000, Leesburg, VA 22075. Or call (703) 777-8810.

Evangelical Free Church Welcomes Pastor R. Bonser

The congregation of Faith Evangelical Free Church, Mtn. Lake Park, will welcome its new pastor and his family this month. Pastor Robert Bonser, his wife, Suzanne, and their two children, Laura, 6 and Bobby, 4½, arrived this week from McKeesport, Pa., where Pastor Bonser served for three years as the assistant pastor of the First Evangelical Free Church of McKeesport.

Bonser is a native of Livonia, Mich., a suburb of Detroit. After graduating from Stevenson High School in 1975 he joined the U.S. Air Force and was eventually stationed in Great Falls, Mont. It was there he met his soon-to-be wife, Suzanne.

Robert and Suzanne were married in the Base Chapel in March 1978. They finished their time in the service and returned to Michigan where Robert pursued a four-year degree in religious studies and eventually went on to complete seminary studies with a Masters of Divinity degree at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in Deerfield, Ill.

Among Pastor and Mrs. Bonsers, experiences in ministry was a six-month stay in Vienna, Austria, as missionaries.

The Bonsers said they were "looking forward" to the move to Garrett County.

Pastor Bonser said, "I have been here several times over the last few months." "Every time I have come, I love it more. The people in the church and community have been very warm and friendly toward us. We are really looking forward to what God has in store for Faith Evangelical Free Church and the whole of Garrett County."

Fire Marshal Gabriele Notes 1991 Statistics

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the departmental statistics for the Office of the State Fire Marshal for calendar year 1991.

During 1991, the office recorded a significant increase in total investigations. The agency performed 5,209 fire and explosive investigations last year, as compared with 4,412 in 1990 for an increase of approximately 18 percent. Additionally, investigation man-hours increased by 17.6 percent in 1991 as compared with 1990.

The overall increase in investigations included a dramatic 95.2 percent increase in explosive investigations, and a 212.7 percent increase in the number of initial explosive investigations. There were 1,867 initial explosive investigations performed last year by the fire marshal's 10-member bomb squad, as compared with only 597 such investigations in 1990. Approximately 85 percent of all explosive investigations occurred between January and June 1991, during the peak of security precautions due to the Persian Gulf War.

Deputy state fire marshals conducted 1,350 initial fire investigations statewide in 1991. Of the 1,350 fire investigations, 592 were determined to be arson. A total of 159 individuals were arrested for arson in 1991, an increase of 8.2 percent in arrests over 1990. Additionally, arson convictions also increased last year, with an increase of 32.4 percent over 1990 figures.

The Eastern Regional Office area, consisting of Queen Anne, Caroline, Dorchester, Talbot, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties, led the agency with 52 individuals arrested for arson. The Metro Regional Office area, which includes the counties of Carroll and Howard, recorded the second highest number of arson arrests with 34.

The office conducted a total of 14,660 inspections throughout the state during the year. This was a decrease of 1.3 percent from the 14,848 inspections performed in 1990. However, the number of initial inspections increased by approximately 2.5 percent last year, with 11,196 inspections produced in 1991, as compared with 10,926 in 1990. April was the busiest month for inspections, with 1,548 recorded.

The properties receiving the most frequent inspections by the fire marshal were multi-family residential and educational occupancies, with 2,466 and 4,801 inspections conducted respectively. The number of inspections of educational facilities increased by 82.1 percent in 1991 over 1990.

Gabriele said the primary reason for this dramatic increase was an influx of family day-care inspections which are classified as educational occupancies. The agency also recorded a 12.9 percent increase in the inspection of health care facilities such as nursing homes and hospitals last year.

The Fire Protection Engineering Bureau, which is primarily responsible for the technical review of building, construction, and sprinkler system plans, conducted a total of 3,926 such plan reviews in 1991.

The Office of the State Fire Marshal, which is an agency of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, is required by law to perform fire safety inspections, to investigate fires and explosions, and to suppress arson among its many duties and responsibilities.

Commenting on the year-end statistics, Gabriele stated, "1991 was an extremely busy and productive year for the men and women of the agency. Their commitment to serve the people of the State of Maryland during these very difficult budget times, speaks volumes of their dedication and exemplary performance as state employees."

GOBA HELPS PROMOTE FBLA - Oakland area business persons, all members of the Greater Oakland Business Association, recently assisted the members of Union High School's (Mt. Storm, W.Va.) Future Business Leaders of America Chapter by conducting "interviews" of students. The goals of the FBLA are to promote competent leadership, understand American enterprise, establish career goals, encourage scholarships, promote financial management, develop character and confidence, and facilitate transition from school to the workplace. The Union High School students will participate in the Eastern Sectional Conference March 13-14 at Canaan Valley. In the photo above, David Moe, of TCI Computer, Inc., Oakland, interviews students under the watchful eye of teacher Mary Ann Nicely, pictured right. Connie Margison, of Marvin's Men's Wear, Oakland, conducted interviews at another location at the school.

Cross-Lites says:

"Forgiveness is the flow from the heart as water is from a brimming stream."

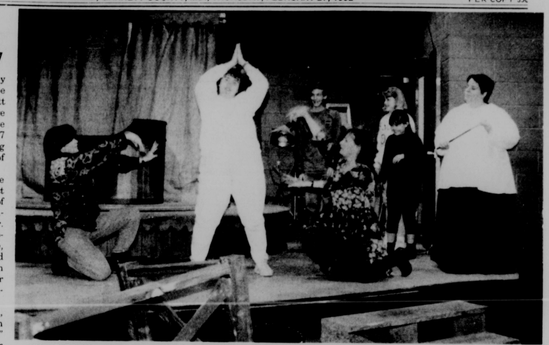
"Elephant Man" To Be Presented March 5, 6, and 7

"The Elephant Man" by Bernard Pomerance will be presented by the Garrett Community College theatre department in the college auditorium March 5, 6, and 7 at 8 p.m. The play is being produced with permission of Samuel French.

Members of the cast have been in rehearsal for the past month under the direction of Micki Selvitella, and experienced professional director. Ben Sincell, associated professor of speech and theatre, is serving as set designer and technical director, with Joan Sussman, associate professor of English, in charge of costumes.

Set in Victorian England, the play is about John Merrick, the "elephant man," whose disfiguring disorder has caused him to be ostracized by society, and who, though outwardly grotesque, is inwardly a beautiful, sensitive person. Merrick's relationships with other characters in the cast show the human perspective of other people.

Sincell noted that the play is for mature audiences and parents should use some discretion about bringing youngsters.



In the lead role of John Merrick is Alex Hicks, GCC student who has appeared in several previous productions. Richard Hill, who played Don Quixote in last year's production of "Man of La Mancha," will play the role of Dr. Treves, and Susan Bell, who has appeared in numerous local productions, will be the female lead as Mrs. Kendal.

Other members of the cast are Jane Avery as Nurse Sandwich; Bob Leatherbury as Ross; Wes Lovelace as Mr. Gomm; Bob Hicks as Lord John; Nathan Blatchley as CERTIFICATE OF COMMENDATION--Maryland Natural Resources Police Captain Edward M. Frere, of the Southern Region, recently recommended and presented former Officer Steven Kirkwood an award for his "outstanding and commendable performance of duty in a life threatening emergency." On August 6, 1990, while on patrol in Mattawoman Creek, Officer Kirkwood observed a small child fall from a pier into the water. The child struggled to swim but was unable to stay above the surface of the water. Unable to reach him, Kirkwood entered the water, fully uniformed, in an attempt to grasp the child who gone under. Still unable to reach him, he climbed back in the boat and requested assistance which he received from James Chase. Kirkwood's medical evaluation of the boy showed him to be in good condition and in need of no further medical attention. Because of Kirkwood's dedication to duty, courage and instant response to the emergency, the child's life was saved. Kirkwood began as a cadet in Allegany County in June 1987 and attended the Natural Resources Police Academy in July 1988. Later he was assigned to a Mobile Enforcement Team (MET) on the Potomac River in Southern Maryland. In 1990, Steven Kirkwood resigned from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police and began a new career as a security officer for Westvaco. He now resides in Midland with his wife, Bobbi Ann. Pictured above, left to right, are Capt. Edward M. Frere, of the Southern Region; Steven Kirkwood; and Sgt. Tim Doolan of Allegany and Garrett Counties.

Frostburg Woman Given Probation Before Judgment In Drug Case

A Frostburg woman was given probation before judgment after pleading guilty to one count of possession of marijuana by Judge Jack R. Turney at a sentencing hearing in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Susan L. Davis, 42, had pleaded guilty to the possession charge in court proceedings on December 13. At that time, the judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation in the case. Davis was fined $100 and ordered to serve one year of unsupervised probation.

Three additional drug possession charges, one possession with intent to distribute charge, and one drug paraphernalia charge against Davis were not prosecuted. According to the State's Attorney's Office those charges were not prosecuted because of a plea agreement. However, one source indicated that no other drugs found at the Davis residence were determined illegal. The source indicated that one of the alleged drugs was actually potpourri.

Davis had been arrested on November 5, 1991, after an investigation by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and Federal Postal Inspectors. Susan Davis's husband, Jeffrey, was also arrested at that time after court-ordered search revealed four grams of marijuana and allegedly revealed 15.5 grams of marijuana seeds, 8.1 grams of psilocybin mushrooms, and 23 Percocet tablets in a hospital blister pack.

In other court news, John R. Harmke, 21, McHenry, pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a vehicle. A second charge of felony theft against him was not prosecuted.

The judge handed Harmke a six-month suspended

GCSO Probes Theft Valued Over $20,000

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is investigating the theft of a black and silver 1991 Chevrolet Suburban-Tailgate 4WD, from Team One. The vehicle was removed from the lot sometime between February 10 and 13, and is valued at $23,000.

There are no suspects at this time. Anyone with any information should contact the Sheriff's Office or Garrett County Crime Solvers.

In other Sheriff's Office news, a 17 year old female was arrested and charged with possession of marihuana, and possession of LSD.

The arrest was a result of a traffic stop on Oakland Drive, Mtn. Lake Park, at which time a search of the vehicle allegedly revealed the drugs.

The case has been referred to Juvenile Services.

Eugene W. Shiflett, 26, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested on the strength of a warrant charging him with child abuse and battery.

Shiflett is incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail awaiting a bond hearing.

Sunday Sales Bill Amended

Companion House and Senate bills recently submitted by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer to provide for the sale of limited Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages has now been amended at the request of several local restaurant owners, according to Edwards.

The bill, which originally included a provision that the total bill for alcoholic beverages sold in a restaurant with a Class B license to individuals or parties must not exceed the total food bill. The amended version of the bill omits that provision.

Edwards reported that certain restaurant owners pointed out to him that, in some cases, it would be reasonable to assume that the beverage bill would exceed the food bill. One example used was a dinner of pasta along with a bottle of wine.

If passed, the amended bill would have to be presented to the voters of Garrett County as a referendum question.

Correction Noted

It was incorrectly stated last week that Garrett County Commissioner John Brasko requested the legislation for Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages, introduced recently by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer.

In fact, the legislation was not requested by him, but by several persons in the restaurant, accommodations, or beverage industry. Edwards noted that he had received calls regarding the misinformation in the paper and wanted to make it clear that he does not sponsor legislation requested by only one member of the board of commissioners.

"It's not the kind of issue we look to the commissioners for input on," said Edwards.

State Primary Election Slated Next Tuesday

The Maryland Primary Election will be held Tuesday, March 3, when the polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Garrett County voters will have the opportunity Tuesday in the Maryland Primary Election to select Democrat or Republican candidates for U.S. President, Maryland House of Representatives and Congress and delegates to the national conventions, whose names will then be placed on the General Election ballot in November.

Also to be chosen in Garrett County are four primary candidates who will then vie for two at-large positions on the Garrett County Board of Education. The six non-partisan candidates for the board are Helen C. Fitzwater, Wayne R. Johnson, Charlotte Sebold, Hannah W. Sincell, Russell T. Sines, and Charles Teets. Voters will be asked to vote for two of those candidates, and the top four

Edwards Says County Will Fare Well In State Capital Budget Bill

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has reported that Garrett County should "fare well" in its proposed capitol improvement plan for the coming year if the 1993 state capitol expenditure budget clears the 1992 Maryland General Assembly. Just past the midpoint of the session, however, the budget plan has yet to receive a hearing.

The plan has been submitted in the form of companion House and Senate Administration bills (HB 592 and SB 379), and calls for the creation of a state debt of $326,632,000, with a matching fund requirement, in order to fund capitol improvement projects throughout the state.

In the case of Garrett County (whose proposed capitol improvement projects would be covered in large part by capitol funding), $2,731,000 would be allocated to fund numerous building or improvement projects. The largest portion of that funding - $2,639,000 - would be utilized for the construction and purchasing of capitol equipment for the Garrett County Public Safety Center, which will house the Maryland State Police Barrack, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Police headquarters, and the Maryland State Fire Marshal's office.

The remainder of the funds would be used for various other county projects, including $225,000 for the Crellin water system, $200,000 for the Deep Park sewer extension, $200,000 for the Grantsville Senior Center, $200,000 for a sewage handling facility, $150,000 for the Friendsville sewer system, $150,000 for the North Branch Potomac Pollution Control project, $120,000 for the Accident sewer system, and $85,000 for the Bear Creek Fish Hatchery improvement plans.

Edwards noted that the capitol budget "will probably go through unscathed," but made no assurances.

He also reported that the House Appropriations Committee has passed the 1992 Budget Reconciliation Act, which has now been sent to the full House. That plan, he said, calls for only $88.5 million to be cut from the budget which would mean a $400,000 reduction for Garrett County instead of $700,000.

Edwards stated that legislators are still working on the 1993 budget and that it will probably "go down to the wire." He added that there is "not much cohesion" among the legislators to come up with a budget plan for 1993.

Welcome, Ski Train!

Dr. Wm. Kirwan To Address GCC Faculty/Guests

Dr. William E. Kirwan, president of the University of Maryland at College Park, will present a lecture-discussion for the Garrett Community College faculty and other invited guests on March 6 at 6:30 p.m. in room 307 of the Continuing Education Building. The topic of Dr. Kirwan's presentation will be "Moving Beyond Myths--Revitalizing Undergraduate Mathematics Education," the title of a book he recently published.

The book calls for dramatic changes in mathematics classrooms that will necessitate creativity and flexibility on the part of math instructors and administrators. It is the report of a national committee of educators and business leaders chaired by Dr. Kirwan that focused on restructuring undergraduate mathematics. It calls for sweeping change in mathematics education at the college and university level to parallel change

Sex Offender Given 35 Years

John A. Cosner, 29, Friendsville, was sentenced to 35 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections.

Cosner was found guilty of second degree rape, second degree sex offense, and incest in a sentencing hearing before Judge Fred C. Thayer, in Garrett County Circuit Court.

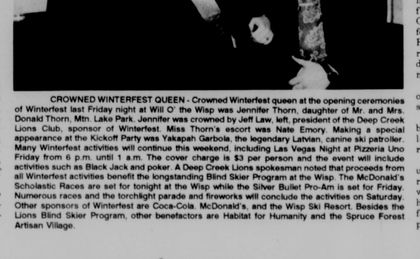
The incident allegedly occurred on the Accident-Friendsville Road in October.

The defendant was remanded to the Sheriff.

John R. Toston represented Cosner in this case.

Second Recycling Site Created For Oil, Anti-Freeze

The Garrett County Commissioners and the Town of Accident announced last week the establishment of a second used oil and anti-freeze recycling facility, located at the Accident town parking lot. This site is in addition to the one located at the Round Glade Landfill on the Oakland-Sang Run Road.



The sites have been developed through a program adopted by the county and sponsored by the Maryland Environmental Service, and have been established to assist the private individual who has no legal, economical, or environmentally safe way to dispose of used oil and anti-freeze, according to Lee Thorne, Garrett County recycling coordinator.

Thorne noted that two separate containers for the liquids now exist at both sites in an effort to alleviate the problem of contaminating the oil with the anti-freeze and vice versa. Originally, only one barrel for oil had been placed at the Round Glade site, and recyclers would occasionally dump oil that had been mixed with anti-freeze.

"We have to be dependent on people to keep things separated," said Thorne.

Other possible sites are being investigated as future locations for additional recycling centers, he added.

Thorne also provided an update on the newspaper recycling effort, stating that while no permanent solution has been adopted, individual farmers are utilizing the papers.

McCain Seeking Third Term As Oakland Mayor

Oakland Mayor Asa M. McCain Jr. announced this week he will seek re-election to that post for a third term.

McCain said his moving to Oakland 25 years ago fulfilled a goal he had set for himself. In 1951, at age 8, when his family began vacationing at Herrington Manor, he said he fell in love with the natural beauty of Garrett County. He graduated from California State University where he received a bachelor's degree in industrial arts, taught in Prince George's County, got married in 1967, and moved to Oakland. He began teaching and coaching at Southern High School.

After completion of his master's degree at Frostburg State College in elementary education and administration, he became a teaching/principal at Crellin Elementary School. He says he has found his 20 years in administration helpful in performing his mayoral duties.

In 1988 McCain received the opportunity to begin public service as mayor. He is currently working on Bradley Manor (plan in last week's paper), the completion of the sewer project, a complete renovation of the water system, and the purchase of the train station. He says he hopes to be re-elected so that he can complete these ongoing projects.

McCain is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church Council, Treasurer of Woodmen of the World Lodges 11 and 112, and director of the Woodmen Summer Camp for MD, NJ, DC, and DE. He serves as vice president of Allegheny Front (an organization that promotes the upgrading of US 219, regional tourism and has been the thrust behind the excursion trains). He was just recently elected president of the Allegany/Garrett Chapter of the Maryland Municipal League.

He resides in Oakland with his wife, Marilyn, and daughters, Lori, a senior at Randolph-Macon College who will be attending the Medical College of Virginia in the fall, and Joy, a sophomore at Chatham College in Pittsburgh studying communications and education.

Helmet Bill Passes Senate

A bill that would require all Maryland motorcyclists to wear safety helmets, has now been approved by the Senate in a 31-15 vote and awaits the signature of Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer.

Besides safety factors, impetus for passage of the bill was based, in part, on the fact that a savings in Medicaid bills for uninsured injured motorcyclists would be realized and that some federal funding for the state might be withheld without the state law.

PLAY ON! is the name of the Rick Abbot comedy that will be presented by the junior and senior classes of Southern High School this evening and this Saturday, February 29. Both performances will begin at 8 p.m. Above, Rory Bernard and Robin Ridder are pictured during a recent rehearsal session. The play is directed by Chuck and Sue Harkins. The price of admission is $4 for adults and $3 for students.

Dr. Sisca Joins Dental Practice Of Dr. Savage

The dental office of Dr. William G. Savage, 323 E. Oak St., Oakland, has announced the addition of Dr. Robert F. Sisca to the staff.

Dr. Sisca comes to Oakland after recently retiring as a clinical professor at the University of Pittsburgh Dental School (Montefiore Hospital), where he taught all aspects of dental procedures.

A graduate of the University of Pittsburgh in 1955, he received his doctorate of dental science degree from the university's dental school in 1962. In 1963 he was awarded a master's of biological science degree from the university.

Dr. Sisca received his Ph.D. in anatomy from the University of Maryland in 1967 and a second master's degree in administration from the University of Texas in 1978.

Since his graduation from the University of Pittsburgh's dental school, Sisca has taught clinical dentistry at the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Maryland, and the University of Texas. During his instruction at the University of Texas, he also served as Dean of Students.

Dr. Sisca will divide his time between practicing dentistry at the downtown Oakland office of Dr. Savage and instructing anatomy classes at Allegany Community College in Cumberland.

Sisca, whose hobbies include tennis, skiing, and gourmet cooking, resides at Alpine Lake, W.Va., with his son.

With the addition of Dr. Sisca to the staff of Dr. Savage's practice, office hours will be expanded to include all day Friday.

Health Insurance Bill Clears Econ. Matters Committee

A bill that seeks to make health insurance more affordable in Maryland by evening out the risk among small companies was cleared by the House Economic Matters committee this week, in a unanimous vote, and will now be sent to the full House for approval.

The bill is known as "small group market reform," and is reportedly a first step in state lawmakers's efforts to contain exorbitant costs and provide universal access to health insurance for the estimated 640,000 Marylanders currently without coverage. The bill will make available to small companies a less expensive policy than has been previously available to them.

In addition, the bill would require guaranteed access to health insurance for all companies with 25 or fewer employees and would guarantee coverage for every individual in the company regardless of their health. It would, however, initially include a provision allowing the insurer to hold off coverage for 10 months for anyone with a pre-existing medical condition.

Delegate Wants Federal Funding For Federally Mandated Programs

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards has cosponsored a House joint resolution (No. 11) requesting the U.S. Congress to initiate a Constitutional amendment requiring federal funding of any future federally mandated laws, programs, or regulations that require state or local funding.

The resolution states that, since Congress mandates new programs requiring state or local funding, and those mandates "exploded in the second half of the 1980's . . . and are continuing to increase," funding should come from federal sources and not from local and state revenues.

The resolution also points out that the 101st Congress in 1990 enacted at least 20 additional mandates at an estimated cost of $15 billion to the states over a five-year period. In addition, it has been reported that a study conducted by the University of Maryland revealed that approximately 24 percent of Maryland's $6.5 billion budget is spent on federally-mandated programs.

"The state has the same concern with the federal government as the locals have with the state," said Edwards. He added that there will likely be fewer state mandates to the local governments in the future.

State Police Investigating Cycle Thefts

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, is currently investigating the reported thefts of two motorcycles.

Dirk A. Yoder, Grantsville, told police that someone removed two motorcycles from his property sometime Monday night or early Tuesday morning. Taken were a 1992 Honda off-road racing cycle and a 1991 Honda off-road racing cycle.

SKI THEFTS

State police also reported that ski thefts continue at the Wisp Resort.

Mary T. Garland, Bel Air, told police that someone stole her Rossignol skis and bindings and her ski poles. Loss is estimated at $550.

Robert H. Riffe, Morgantown, W.Va., said his $400 snow board was stolen.

Both victims reportedly left their ski equipment unattended against an outside building while they went inside to the lodge to eat. State police are again reminding skiers to never leave their skis unattended.

Single-Vehicle Mishap Results In Minor Injuries

Three Friendsville girls were slightly injured Saturday morning when the pickup truck in which they were traveling struck a deep ditch and flipped over on its side at the intersection of Md. Rt. 42 and the Glade Road.

Treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital were Amy Umbel, 14, Stephanie Bittinger, 15, and the 16-year-old driver of the pickup.

State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, said the accident occurred when the juvenile attempted to make a left turn onto the Glade Road and skidded on loose sand before running off the right side of the road.

Tfc. J.E. Foley investigated the 11:05 a.m. mishap and charged the juvenile with driving without a license and with negligent driving.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad transported the injured to the local hospital. The MSP Medevac helicopter was also called to the scene but did not transport any victims. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Friendsville volunteer firemen to the scene.

Questions To Ask about Generic Medicines

In a recent issue of Pharmacy Today, the most commonly asked questions about generic medicines were discussed. Answers to these questions were provided by the American Pharmaceutical Association.

1. What does the term "generic" mean? Generic refers to the common or official name of a medicine. An example is ibuprofen. Brand names for ibuprofen include Motrin, Advil, and Nuprin.

2. Why are generic products used anyway? Primarily because generics are less expensive than their brand-name counterparts.

3. Are generics as safe and effective as brand-name products? In general, yes. The majority of generics must meet the same high standards required of brand-name products.

4. Should the elderly avoid using generic drug products? There is no reason for the elderly to avoid generics just because of their age.

5. Why do some insurance prescription plans pay for generics only? The most important reason is to control drug costs. Exceptions may be granted in some instances, if the physician feels the brand-name product is best in the person's medical situation.

Seifert Files For Oakland's Mayoral Post

Francis D. "Hank" Seifert Jr., Oak Street, Oakland, has filed as a candidate for mayor and will be on the Oakland Municipal Election ballot Monday, March 9.

Seifert, who has been an Oakland resident for 14 years, served on the Oakland Town Council from 1984 to 1988, the latter three of those years as council president.

After completing 20 years of service with the federal government in Washington, D.C., Seifert became a licensed building contractor and moved to Oakland.

He attended the University of Maryland, Southeastern University, and George Washington University and holds degrees in business administration and public administration.

He resides with his wife, Margie. They have a son, Brandon, who is a graduate of Frostburg State University and is employed at Garrett Community College.

Fitzwater also said that she hopes to accomplish a better working relationship between the board of education and the county commissioners and better communication between the administration and the teachers, staff, students and parents. "I want to help the teachers regain the respect and support they deserve," she said.

Candidate Wayne Johnson told the audience that "this may not be the best time to be running" but said he was qualified for the "challenge." He also expressed a need for more cooperation between all parties involved in the school system.

"I want this system to survive," he said, adding, "I want a maintenance and an improvement of the system -- and of the positions -- but I realize this is difficult with limited funds." Johnson stated that one of his qualifications was that, "I do my own thinking."

Charlotte Sebold stated that her involvment and "knowledge of the issues, as well as an understanding of the problems" qualifies her for a position on the board. "I will continue to be a 'why' person, instead of a 'yes' person," she said.

She also noted that she is currently working with the board of education to develop a parent involvment plan. She also hopes to work with the board in addressing public concerns about top-heavy management and work toward "school-based management."

DRIVING FOR EDUCATION is the name of the program currently being sponsored by Team One Chevrolet/Geo Dealers to help local schools earn Apple computers, Magnavox audio-visual equipment, and Compton's Encyclopedia sets. The program is designed to address the growing need for additional computer and high-tech learning equipment in elemental and secondary schools. It is the first of its kind aimed at promoting computer literacy among students nationwide, according to a Chevrolet/Geo spokespersons. A luncheon was hosted last week to kick off the program and among the invited guests were Garrett County Board of Education Personnel. According to Greg Shockey, Team One general manager, the goal of the "Driving For Education" program is to deliver free computer packages and audio-visual aids worth $1,200 to each participating school. "Children are the hope for the future and, in the future, computer literacy will be as basic to a child's education as reading and writing," said Shockey. Team One has already notified the school superintendent, principals, teachers, and volunteer and support groups about the program. School groups, in turn, will encourage their family and friends to simple visit Team One and test drive any new vehicle during the school's designated "Test Drive Week." When a predetermined number of "Proof-of-Drive" certificates are tallied, schools may select equipment from six different award levels. There is no limit to the amount of equipment a school may receive. Shockey noted that the program involves no cost to the school or the taxpayers and that no purchase is required by test drivers. Shockey, shown above addressing school personnel at the luncheon, stated, "We are a local business and have a responsibility to assist the community. The expense of the high-tech learning equipment needed by area schools is too large a burden for the taxpayers to bear. We depend on our customer loyalty to support us and, in turn, we look for ways to make important contributions to our community." Participating schools will be notifying parents soon about "Driving for Education." More information about the program may be obtained by calling Team One in Oakland.

Charlie Sincell stressed the need for "better relations and communication between all those involved in the school system" and the importance of "an atmosphere of openness and honesty."

She also stated, "I will not act on any policy or decision I don't understand, and I will do all I can to obtain a complete understanding." She continued, "All my decisons will be based on one question: Is this what's best for our students?"

Russell Sines told the group of local residents, "It's difficult for one elected board to be somewhat under the thumb of another elected board," continuing, "We should look to our physical [sic] authorities to split the county revenues on a 50/50 basis. I want a three-year projected budget type of operation rather than looking to get a single year appropriation at a time."

He also stated that he would like to see the completion of all the current school capital improvement projects and a new school at Loch Lynn, and that the county should use bonding "or whatever means necessary" to accomplish those goals.

Charles Teets explained that, although he possesses numerous qualifications for the job of school board member, "More than anything, I'm really interested in this job -- I want to do this job. I find the issues fascinating and stimulating." He also noted that "commitment is the key word" in performing this type of job.

He agreed with Sines that bonding should be considered for capital improvement projects in the school system, stating, "if we are constrained by a pay-as-you-go policy by an outside fiscal authority, then we need latitude" in planning for the capital improvement projects. He noted that the county commissioners should set up, on a yearly basis, a fund for those projects, enabling the school board to attend to the needs of each school as they occur.

Teets also stated that, in addition to the "obvious" needs of the school system, he would work to set up a performing arts program in the county school system that, he said, would cost very little.

However, he said, "The basic services -- such as speech, psychological, and hearing therapy -- tend to be shortchanged . . . resulting in giving students who need these services as little as 15 minutes per week."

One question asked by a member of the audience was, "In this time of disastrous budget cuts, what would you do to raise the morale of the board of education employees?"

All six candidates agreed that teachers and other employees of the board of education should be more involved and kept more informed of the budgetary process of the board.

Hannah Sincell stated that morale would also be better, at least among the teachers, if an evaluation process was implemented. "As Charlie said before, there should be an evaluation process -- a lot of the morale problems stem from the fact that teachers are not having enough say in how the money should be spent," she said.

Charles Teets answered the question by stating, "I agree with everyone that there needs to be more involvment and openness, but money isn't everything. We're all faced with having to work with less money these days. You have to feel good about what you're doing and have someone tell you that what you're doing is good."

Wayne Johnson responded by saying that he had been through the same situation in the late 60's. "Morale among the teachers then was about as low as it can get, but everyone worked together . . . when the economy started to turn around, more money started coming in and that helped. I think everybody involved is dedicated, but you can't eat the dedication."

Helen Fitzwater stated that she was bothered by the fact that the board of education is currently not hiring outside teaching substitutes. Instead, the board is using personnel from the administration for substitution purposes.

"If they can spend one day a week or one day a month substituting, maybe we should start cutting someplace there." she said.

Another question asked by the audience addressed some of the public's concern

Get a Grip!...

There was a time when discipline in the public school classroom was simplistic, direct, and usually effective. The teacher had almost free reign when it came to meting out punishment and was rarely challenged on the methods utilized.

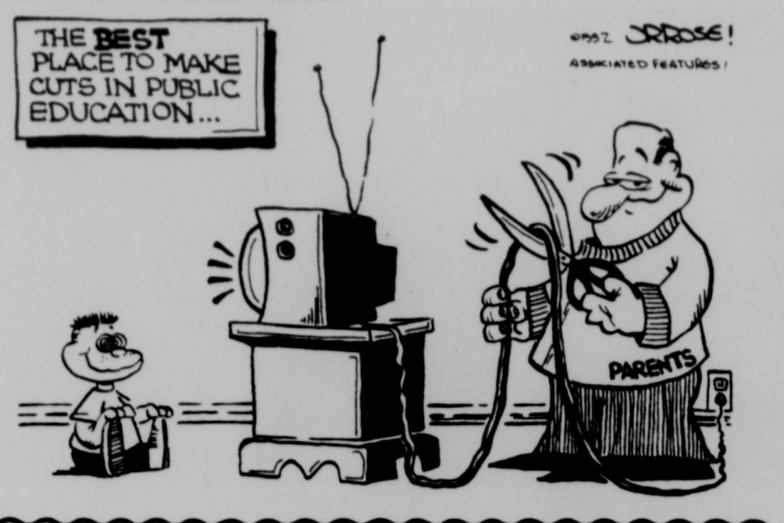
That situation is entirely different today, however, as society has made demands and parents have applied pressure to "protect" their children from such forms of discipline. Unfortunately, the pendulum has swung too far the other way. Nearly every tooth has been removed from the discipline policies, and we are beginning to pay a high price for it.

Corporal punishment is no longer an option for teachers and principals. In fact, teachers are strongly advised never to even touch a student in any way, including a gentle tap or the laying of one's hand on the shoulder of a student while speaking with him at his desk. Such a gesture could result in a lawsuit.

A teacher can no longer have a disruptive student simply removed from her classroom, because the law guarantees every child a free education, almost regardless of their behavior.

The latest ruling that has come down from the powers that be, whoever they are in their infinite wisdom (?), is that all children who have been suspended or expelled from school are entitled to be tested for emotional stability. If they are found to be "emotionally unstable," then the school has no choice but to readmit them to school and the teachers just have to deal with it.

Such a case has evidently occurred locally, where a young person who was expelled from school was determined to be "emotionally unstable" and was re-admitted to school, but his buddy, who is "unfortunately normal," is still on expulsion.



Not only are our teachers' hands basically tied when it comes to discipline, but they are having to deal with increasing unruliness by more and more students, who are certainly smart enough to figure out the system. The real failure lies at home, however, with the parents, who are doing a lousy job of parenting and then blaming the teachers and school system for their child's horrendous behavior.

We have created a school welfare system, of sorts, where students know they can behave just about any way they choose and the consequences will be relatively mild.

Meanwhile, because of the main-streaming philosophy, we have other students in the school system who are so severely handicapped they are gaining little, if anything, by being there. Yet the law says they must be provided for, which requires expensive staffing, equipment, and accessibility requirements.

In the midst of all this bedlam, brought on by total disfunction of the American family and the mandating of some group of alleged educators who have apparently lost all sense of reality, we chastise our teachers because our students are not achieving at the same level as those of many other nations.

Get a grip, people! We have created a monster and if we don't stop feeding it, we might as well forget about upping the scores of our students in the three R's.

School Breakfast Week . . .

School Breakfast in Garrett County represents a healthy, convenient, and economical choice for parents, a choice that pays educational dividends to their children every day. The week of March 2-6, Garrett County Board of Education joins school systems across Maryland and the country in celebrating National School Breakfast Week.

Local organizers of School Breakfast Week want parents to know about the crucial benefits these morning meals offer. The milk, fruit or fruit juice, breads, and protein foods in each day's breakfast provide students with a healthy nutritional start to the school day. The Garrett County Board of Education invite parents to have breakfast with their youngster during National Breakfast Week (March 2-6). Please notify the appropriate school office of the day you wish to have breakfast at school. This is necessary for planning how much food to prepare.

The bottom line: kids who participate in the School Breakfast Program learn more and learn better, and they show significant gains in standardized achievement tests.

Garrett County parents can take advantage of these numerous advantages for a nominal cost, and kids who qualify for free school lunches can automatically receive free breakfasts as well.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In a recent interview published by Associated Press, Mr. James Sherbin responded to a magazine review of the outrageous behavior of investigators during the Paul Ferrell case. Mr. Sherbin described the so called evidence as "overwhelming." That comment just shows the same tactics that were employed by the prosecution throughout this investigation.

For instance, there were comments made by officials to the press and jury about so much blood in the trailer, yet who has seen any of this blood? The prosecution itself said there was such a minute amount that it was used up in "testing." Could it be that there was hardly any blood? Perhaps there was never any human blood at all. We don't know because law enforcement officials (and in view of recent discoveries, I use that term lightly) say they used it all up. It was gone before any independent testing could be done. Can we believe these claims? Since several of these Maryland officials crossed into West Virginia to influence and intimidate the prosecution's main witness into false testimony, I don't think so.

Perhaps Mr. Sherbin would comment on the statement he made to witnesses that Paul's twin brother was not in the Army, but in a "funny farm." This was the kind of slander and trash generated from his office months before the trial. It shows Mr. Sherbin's idea of the sacrifice people in the military make for their country. I have served during both the Vietnam era and the Desert Storm conflict. I resent such slanderous and false statements. That was typical of the "overwhelming evidence" in this case. Maybe Mr. Sherbin and Mr. DiBenidetto could describe their military record, if any, before starting such rumors.

In closing, I would challenge people in the area to demand a criminal investigation into the activities involving Mr. Sherbin and Mr. Van Evans in regard to the intimidation of witnesses in a West Virginia murder trial. What authority do these officials of Garrett County, Maryland, have inside of West Virginia to begin with?

Sincerely,
David J. Ferrell

To the Editor:

This is a viewpoint from the Hotel-Motel and Real Estate Rental Industry.

"The accommodations tax is one that is paid by visitors to this county and does not burden the local residents," as quoted by John G. Braskey in the Cumberland Times on February 18, 1992.

We agree with County Commissioner Braskey that it will not be a burden to the local residents. However, ask yourself, how many times have guests or family come to visit you for a wedding, graduation, funerals or merely a vacation to Garrett County? If you paid for their stay at a motel or a cottage, essentially, you paid a three percent Accommodations Tax to the county.

What about all you business people who have associates and sales people coming to Garrett County? If they require overnight lodging and you pay their expenses, then again, you have contributed the three percent Accommodations Tax to the county.

The Hotel-Motel and Real Estate Rental Industry is not just Deep Creek Lake, we are countywide, encompassing Oakland to Grantsville, Friendsville and Deep Creek Lake. Everyone of us in the industry, voted against the two percent increase of the Accommodations Tax.

For the fiscal year, 1990-1991, the Hotel-Motel and Real Estate Rental Industry have collected approximately $240,000 towards the Garrett County budget. Each one of us is a member of the Garrett County Promotion Council by taking an ad in the Garrett County Vacation Guide, as any other business that places an ad in the Vacation Guide. Everyone's purpose in placing ads, is to attract more customers to their individual business and to promote Garrett County in general, not just Deep Creek Lake.

We agree with Commissioner Braskey that the Accommodations Tax is a "user" tax and is paid by the user of the service. However, we feel that the existing three percent tax is sufficient. We are not aware of any other industry in the county that has such a tax and is facing an increase of two percent.

Our industry is facing a financial burden, just as any other business during these difficult economic times. It may not be a burden to each individual business owner in our industry now, but, if the tourist, which you call the "users" decrease in numbers, then everyone in Garrett County suffers.

Approximately 300 people are employed in the Hotel-Motel and Real Estate Rental Industry to accommodate our overnight visitors, who are currently paying a three percent Accommodations Tax through us to the county.

We ask that all three of the Garrett County Commissioners reconsider their proposal of a two percent increase on the Accommodations Tax. We feel that the current three percent tax is sufficient.

Respectfully,
The Hotel-Motel and Real Estate Rental
Industry
Ruth Beitzel,
Representative

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Delegate George Edwards requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Delegate Edwards:

According to your article in the February 12, 1992 issue of The Republican newspaper, you would like a citizen response to the gasoline tax proposal now being discussed by the general assembly.

If everyone would only realize that each time the gas tax is increased, most consumer products prices also increase. Costs for delivery of everything from coal to mail to food will eventually increase and will be pitifully blamed on "inflation." Principles of economics will show that proportionately the lower middle income group will bear the brunt of the burden on increased gasoline taxes.

The government continued to tell the public that more jobs will result for highway construction projects -- newer, bigger, better highways. Yet the government is also asking us to use mass transit and initiate car pooling. I doubt if that will ever voluntarily happen -- the private automobile is the American way of life and provides for our independence. I wonder how many State of Maryland legislators car pool from their Eastern Shore, Southern and Western Maryland residences.

An Update From The Superintendent

By
Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent
Of Garrett County Public Schools

The School Budgeting Process

The school budgeting process is almost a full-year activity as the process really begins in the fall of one year and does not typically conclude until sometime the following summer. Specifically, the process is begun by asking all 16 schools, as well as central office departments, to develop their requests for the next school year during the November-December period. These requests are reviewed by the respective assistant superintendents during the period December-January. At this time the collective bargaining process is begun with employee groups -- the results of which ultimately feed into the further development of the budget request. During the period January-February the superintendent reviews all of the requests and tries to put his budget request together by the end of February. This year he will be sharing his budget request with the public this evening at 7:00 p.m. at Southern Middle School.

The school board is already involved with the budget even though it has not been mentioned up to this time. The Board is involved first as a party to the collective bargaining process wherein it has to make final decisions concerning negotiation. Secondly, the Board always has a work session or two in early February wherein it spends time working with the superintendent as he develops his request -- this year the work session was held on February 4. Once the public hearing is held on the superintendent's budget request it becomes incumbent upon the Board of Education to review the superintendent's requests and ultimately approve its budget request. The Board's request is then submitted to the fiscal authority, the County Commissioners, for their review and ultimate disposition.

The County Commissioners typically act upon the Board of Education's request, as well as requests from other county departments, in late May-early June. More often than not, the commissioners do not allocate the funding which was requested by the Board. As a result, the school board often has to revise its budget request to fit the amount of funding made available by the commissioners. This typically happens during early summer and once this is done individual schools and departments are then informed as to what their budget will be for the ensuing school year.

What's happening in our schools this week?

• Tuesday, March 3, schools will be closed due to Primary Election Day.

• Kitzmiller Elementary School will be sponsoring a Book Fair beginning on March 5 and extending to March 10.

• Jane Avery, English teacher at Southern High School, was awarded a grant from the Maryland Science Teachers Association and Baltimore Gas and Electric for writing a children's play concerning conservation of energy.

The Garrett County Schools Update can be heard each week on WMSG Radio at 8:35 a.m. each Monday, WXIE Radio at 8:30 a.m. each Saturday, and at 3:30 p.m. each Saturday on WALJ Radio.

GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

– A New Choice For Patients –

The following article was prepared by staff persons at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is the first in a series of articles which will outline the changes for the local hospital to keep the public informed -- to make informed choices.

If you should have to go to the hospital one of these days, don't be alarmed if you're asked a question you might not be prepared for: Do you have an advance directive?

In case you're one of the estimated 85 percent of Americans who do not, you'll be given information about how you can have one.

Advance directives are documents that indicate your choices for future health care if you become incapacitated and unable to communicate. There are two kinds: living wills, which describe your preferences for life-sustaining treatment, and durable powers of attorney for health care, which designate someone else to make health care decisions for you if you cannot.

Their purpose is to give people more control over their medical care. For example, advance directives can keep medical technology from being used on dying patients who would not have wanted it, but cannot communicate their wishes. A clear statement made in advance can speak for the patient, ensuring that physicians and family members have no doubt about how much life-prolonging technology he or she would have wanted.

Hospitals are now required by law to ask patients if they have an advance directive and to give them an opportunity to execute one if they wish. At Garrett Memorial, we give patients an explanation of state law, a question-and-answer brochure on advance directives, and sample advance directive forms. Most patients, we find, are relieved to know they can make these choices for themselves in advance, rather than leaving the burden to their loved ones.

But at Garrett Memorial we can understand why some people might not want to think about such a subject when they already may be apprehensive, or conversely, only entering the hospital for a minor procedure. We think it's better to introduce people to advance directives before they go into the hospital -- at home, in their communities, or in their doctors' offices. We think people need time to think and talk about the kind of care they might want or who should decide for them if the time comes when they cannot decide for themselves.

That's why at Garrett County Memorial Hospital we go further than the law requires. We bring up the subject when patients are admitted, but we also provide speakers on advance directives for community groups and distribute literature at our VIVA volunteer desk in the hospital lobby. We encourage our patients and community to talk over the options for life-prolonging medical technology with their families and physicians before executing an advance directive. We also advise them to be sure to give a copy to their doctor and family members or close friends, and if they travel, to carry a copy with them, if possible.

Advance directives don't have to be frightening. Even though you may not want to think about the subject when you're about to be hospitalized, it is part of our hospital's mission of advocacy for our patients. We want to honor your wishes for medical care even when you cannot tell us what they are. The best way you can be sure we do that is by giving us your directions for that care, in writing, in advance.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

HOME RULE CHARTER FOR GARRETT COUNTY
Article I
NAME AND RIGHTS

In this Article, the legislative power with regard to local matters is transferred from the Maryland General Assembly to the local county government. In plain words, the county is given the right of self-government in that the county will make its own local laws.

Long distance legislation through Annapolis has been difficult and has limited the direct participation of county residents in the discussion and adoption of legislation which affects them.

Today half (12) of the Maryland counties are under home rule and make their own local laws, yet their senators and delegates vote on local Garrett County laws. It is our local government and the citizens of Garrett County who are best able to decide on laws applicable to Garrett County.

The Maryland Constitution requires that the legislative powers of local self-government be vested in a county council. In addition to the legislative powers, the county council under this charter has all the administrative powers formerly held by the county commissioners.

The charter is written so that rights of Garrett County citizens are recognized in all matters under jurisdiction of the county. For example, the citizens will have the right of referendum on local laws and ordinances and to receive information, including financial, budgetary, and operational information, on county government activities.

Senior Citizens' Menus

"Eating Together" sites are now operating two days per week and offer only two menu selections per week.

The menu for the week of March 2-6 is as follows:

Day 1 - Kielbasa, whipped potatoes, sauerkraut, glazed carrots, roll, cookie.

Day 2 - Tossed salad w/broccoli, spaghetti w/meat sauce, garlic bread, ice cream.

Coffe, tea, and milk are served with all meals.

On occasion, a site may opt to make a substitution in the menu. Senior citizens who wish to eat at one of the "Eating Together" sites are asked to call the individual site to check the menu for the day and to make reservations.

Oakland Update

by Mayor Asa McCain

NEW TOWN BUILDING

The City has purchased the Oakland Equipment Building. This will be used to house the current City Hall, Police Department, and the Street Department. When completed, the structure will contain a public meeting room. The area will also provide for public parking, making the departments more accessible for public business and information. The building will be fully accessible to the handicapped which is now required for public buildings and was not possible in the existing building without extensive installation of an elevator. The current City Hall and Street Garage are available for lease or purchase.

SKI TRAIN

A ski train from Baltimore and Washington will be coming to Oakland on February 28. This venture is paving the way for future excursion trains next year. Among those being considered are two ski trains, and an Autumn Glory Train. Historically, the Town flourished because of the train. The potential is present to do it again.

MT. FRESH BUILDING

If you look as you pass the Town parking lot, you will notice the final stages for the completion of the building. The addition was made possible by contributions from the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce, the Mt. Fresh Members, the Town of Oakland, and matching grants from the State Main Street Improvement Grant Program. The Town became eligible for this grant when businesses and services formed the CDMA (Commercial District Management Authority).

NEW TOWN DIRECTORY SIGN

Soon, two new signs will be installed. One will be located on Third Street, and the other in the Town Parking lot. These signs are being made possible by the CDMA, and contain the identification and location of all businesses and services which are members of the CDMA.

OLD FASHIONED TOWN PARK

Planned for the 25 acre site in addition to the Mountain Fresh building and the Washington spring which have been completed, is the addition this summer of a bridge over Wilson Run to a picnic area, the repair of the hotel cold storage cave and a walking path. Future plans include two ponds for fishing and ice skating, a pavilion for band concerts, a covered foot bridge from the parking lot over the Little Yough, a fitness trail and an arboretum.

QUALITY OF CARE - CHOOSING A THERAPIST

GARRETT COUNTY MARYLAND HEALTH DEPARTMENT

by Laurie Bulka, chairperson
Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Board

There are as many types of mental health therapists as there are doctors. Each of us has experienced care from doctors who we respected as well as from those that we decided not to see again. When you are in the very vulnerable position of needing to begin therapy, making a choice of who to see can be confusing. What traits should you look for in a competent therapist?

If you are financially secure or have insurance that will cover the cost of therapy, (which can range anywhere from 40 dollars to 120 dollars an hour), you will have the luxury of having total control of your choice. In this case, you will want to look first for credentials. Advanced graduate degrees alone may not guarantee competence. You will want to know if the therapist has received state or national certifications and if he or she is a member of local, state or national professional organizations. Maryland currently issues Professional Counselor Certification to those who quality.

You may also want to ask about the amount of supervision and peer consultation a counselor receives. Unless you are seeing a Maryland licensed psychologist, your therapist should be receiving some type of ongoing supervision. Ethical standards require this although the actual laws governing private practice may not.

A valuable resource is a referral or reference from a friend or acquaintance who may have first hand information that goes beyond the therapists's reputation within the community. People who have actually been in treatment can help you know what to expect and give you an idea of whether or not you and the therapist would make a good "match." Even a very competent therapist may not be able to develop a therapeutic relationship with everyone.

If finances are a concern for you and you do not have insurance that will cover the cost of therapy, public mental health centers provide sliding fee scales to make services accessible. Some agencies, for example, the Garrett County Mental Health Clinic, conduct an intake interview and then assign your case to a therapist. In these instances, you will not know who your therapist is until you receive a letter to schedule an appointment. You will still want to be assured of the credentials, certifications, and the professional reputation of your assigned therapist and of the type and amount of supervision he or she receives.

After you have received and evaluated this information, you will want to decide how you "fit" with your therapist. This will depend primarily on the therapist's ability to develop a relationship with you that is based on mutual respect and trust. Sometimes people can get an immediate feel for whether or not this is going to happen, but often two to four sessions are needed to allow a relationship to develop. The therapist also shows respect for the client by working out appointments that will reasonably fit into both of your schedules, keeping those appointments, and otherwise showing concern and respect for your time.

When it is your child who is receiving the services, how do you evaluate the quality of care? The therapist/client relationship is still a vital component. The child should feel comfortable with the therapist and should not have to be dragged to the sessions. A comfortable relationship may take somewhat longer to establish with some children, particularly adolescents, but should be established within four to six sessions. Forcing a child to continue therapy with a therapist he or she is not comfortable with is a waste of time and may actually be counterproductive. Children who have been abused, in particular, need to restore their sense of power and competence. Thus, it is necessary for the child to feel that his or her opinion is respected and that he or she has some control over the therapy process. The June 1991 issue of The Atlantic contains an excellent article entitled "Therapy for Children" that further outlines what parents should know about their child's therapy. This article also provides information about the different schools of therapy for children, including the techniques and goals each type of therapist may employ.

If you find that you have questions about the relationship you or your child has with a therapist, do not be afraid to bring them up in your next sessions. Most therapists realize that they may not be able to be helpful to everyone and they will want to help you remedy the situation. You should be informed about the alternatives available and given guidance to pursue the next course. This can, of course, by very difficult for you if you are grappling with other emotional concerns, but it is important that you follow through and get the help that you need. A positive therapeutic relationship can be very rewarding and, in some cases, even life-saving.

If you would like further information about the services available in Garrett County or would like to schedule an appointment for therapy, you may want to call the intake coordinator at the Garrett County Mental Health Clinic, 334-1216.

At present I reside in Frostburg and own a small business in Oakland (Preston Place Gold). I travel highways in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, and Maryland, for buying purposes. I often notice gasoline prices are lower especially in Virginia where I recently purchased gasoline for 93 cents per gallon. I don't know what the tax is in Virginia, but I do know the roads are modern and in good condition.

Added to the proposed gasoline tax, I understand the Maryland General Assembly is considering a law to require the low emission vehicle similar to the state of California. I am told this will add an additional 500 to 1,000 dollars to the price of an automobile sold in Maryland. All this because Baltimore has a high ozone level? Why should we in Western Maryland be burdened with this problem? Why not limit the number of cars traveling into Baltimore with mass transit use? I understand the state of Virginia recently rejected this same type proposal for the LEV.

In conclusion, I hope you will oppose the proposed gasoline tax in Maryland.

Thank you.

Respectfully,
Nancy Screen

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to area clergy requested that it appear in this column.

Honored Member of the Clergy:

As president of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Garrett County, I am contacting you today to introduce our organization and to offer you some of our insight and services to you in your capacity as a religious leader in our community.

AMI of Garrett County is a grass roots, self-help support and advocacy organization of family and friends of people with serious mental illnesses, as well as some of those people themselves. We are an affiliate of AMI of Maryland and the national AMI as well. Our principal mission is to eradicate mental illness and to improve the quality of life for those who suffer from no-fault brain diseases.

Our local goal is to help dispel the myths surrounding those with mental illness and to educate members of the general public on behalf of those victims and their families. It is vitally important to realize that one in every four families is affected by mental illness, making it everyone's problem. That staggering statistic means no social class, race or religion is immune.

The myths, folklore, distortions and outright lies that surround the description, diagnosis and treatment of people with mental illness must be eradicated. These misconceptions have frightened patients and their families away from proper treatment, medication and ... even from admitting there is a problem.

To that end, I am personally inviting you to attend a special informational meeting on Wednesday, March 11, at 7 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the Garrett County Health Department. Our group is dedicated to working very closely with all area clergy regarding members of their own congregations who may need special support in their own lives or in the lives of someone they love.

We plan to make available a booklet entitled the Mental Illness Awareness Guide for Clergy, which we feel will make your counseling somewhat easier when you are called upon by someone in need. These booklets will be available on a personal basis and through our public library as a personal service of AMI of Garrett County.

Please plan to join us and fellow members of the clergy throughout the area for this very special evening. I look forward to meeting all of you.

Warmest Regards,
Carol L. Cox, president
AMI of Garrett County

To the Editor:

You do not realize that Lighthouse in Garrett County helps the people who otherwise would end up in the hospitals or other institutions if they did not have this organization to come to. You become more or less a close knit family and they take up for each other. They know they have someone they can talk to. And if they are in trouble they know who they can depend on. Please do not close lighthouse.

To the Editor:

The bus stops that Michael Sines took away made it unsafe for our children in Garrett County, to walk from one bus stop to the next bus stop.

We all have to work together to get our bus stops reinstated.

If you would like to help, send your name, phone number, address, and bus number to Bob Savage, Rt. 1, Box 235-B, Friendsville, MD 21531.

Please call Michael G. Sines at the Board of Education at 334-8900. Keep the phones ringing all day long. You can talk to Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Sines, or John Morris about your bus stops.

Each one who sends his name and address will be contacted.

Candidates

about where the budget cuts had been made, and asked that the candidates explain their positions on cutting at the administrative level. "Would you be willing to stand up for cuts at the administrative level even if it meant stepping on some important local toes?"

All the candidates answered by stating they would not be afraid to step on anyone's toes.

In particular, Charlotte Sebold responded by reiterating her positive stance on school-based management which, she said, would amount to "putting more control in the hands of the people running the schools at the site location of each school. With that movement, there could be cuts in administration."

Charles Teets, however, shared some statistics with the audience that reflected a need to look elsewhere for more revenues.

"To raise teachers' salaries in this county by one percent would require over one million dollars in new revenues," he said. "I think it's very popular to think that cutting administrators' salaries would go a long ways towards doing away with funding problems. That's a myth."

He did state, though, that he did not feel the current organization of the board is the "best possible organization" but, he said, "there aren't enough administrators to take away to make a significant difference in teachers' salaries. The real source is local funding. Local funding in this county has not increased in ten years, despite what the commissioners have said. Percentage-wise, it has not increased."

Wayne Johnson stated that, after having served as an administrator in the Garrett County school system, he realized there was never enough time to be an administrator and "to do all the paperwork required."

He continued, "It isn't all peaches and cream. I think if people went in and actually spent a day with the administrators, they might have a different outlook."

Hannah Sincell stated that she would be unable to make an assessment about the need to cut funding at the administrative level until she thoroughly researched the issue. "That's one of the rumors that's been going on for years . . . and you can't go on rumors. You have to go there and find out," she said.

Helen Fitzwater stated, "I will not be intimidated by anyone. As I said before, if the administrators can be away from their jobs and not be missed, somewhere along the line there could be some cutting there."

Russell Sines stated that he would examine the budget and make cuts "whatever they could be made."

39th Annual Shrine Circus Dates Announced

The 1992 circus season will kick off on Saturday, March 7, when the 39th annual Ali Ghan Shrine Circus comes to the ARC Center at Hagerstown Junior College, followed a week later, March 14, at the Frostburg State University Field House. Two performances, at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., will be held at each site. This year's event will again be produced by the George Hubler International Circus.

According to Jack Fridinger, director general of the circus, a Ringmaster's Reception, will be held Friday, March 6, in Hagerstown and March 13, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., at Cumberland's Ali Ghan Shrine Club. The ringmaster and producer will be present at the reception, along with selected circus performers. The reception is open to the public and reservations are not necessary. A nominal fee will be charged for admission.

Fridinger also announced that the Shrine, local businesses, and the community have again combined forces to distribute free circus tickets to allow less fortunate adults and children to attend the performances. In past years, up to 3,000 tickets have been provided annually for residents in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

Event though the contract costs are greater this year, Fridinger said the circus committee has decided to keep the circus admission price at the same level as in the past four years. Tickets may be purchased at Marvin's Men's Wear, Oakland, and Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry.

TEGGE

PATRICIA ZERBINI and her trained group of Bengal tigers will be among the acts of the 39th annual Shrine Circus, which will be presented by the George Hubler International 3-Ring Super Circus on Saturday, March 14, at the Frostburg State University Physical Education Center. There will be two performances, one at 2 p.m. and the other at 7 p.m. Advance tickets are available at Marvin's Men's Wear in Oakland and Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry. All proceeds benefit the Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, Cumberland, of which a number of Garrett County residents are members.

The proceeds from the circus are used by the Ali Ghan Shrine Temple to support Temple activities.

American Civil War II Course Set At GCC

Among the Beacon Courses being offered by Garrett Community College beginning in late March is American Civil War II (HIS 292), a course that will emphasize the western theater of the war. It will be taught by the Rev. Steve Yelovich on Tuesday evenings, from 6:30-9:30 in Room 314, beginning March 24.

According to Rev. Yelovich, historians have generally emphasized the eastern theater of the Civil War and the great struggles between the army of Northern Virginia led by General Robert E. Lee, and the army of the Potomac led by various Union commanders. Throughout these accounts, General Lee emerges as the outstanding commander. It is in the western theater of the War that the greatest Union commanders are to be found--Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, and Thomas.

The course will focus on the conflict itself, using the eastern theater as a background for a fuller understanding of the western actions in saving the Union. It will cover the roots and antecedents of the Civil War, Lincoln's war aims, Lincoln's relations with his generals, the war in the East, but especially the American Civil War in the West.

The Rev. Yelovich, who has taught several previous courses on the Civil War, served for seven years as historian at the National Battlefield at Gettysburg.

The American Civil War II course may be taken for 3 college credits, or as a non-credit offering. Students may audit the course, thereby eliminating tests and grades. Tuition will be waived for persons 60 years of age or older.

Students may register for this course at the Registrar's Office of the college during business hours, Monday through Thursday, from 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. Persons desiring further information may call Joan Crawford at the college, 387-6666.

NASTAR Races Set For Today At Wisp Resort

Wisp Ski Area, McHenry, will be a part of the second annual Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR (NAtional STAndard Race) Open this evening, according to NASTAR Commissioner Bob Beattie. The Jr. NASTAR Open is a series of events taking place at 40 ski areas nationwide.

A joint venture between the U.S. Ski Team's development office and Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR, the Jr. NASTAR Open allows junior racers across the country to have their best ski racing times sent to the U.S. Ski Team for review.

"In a sense, we're asking all Jr. NASTAR racers to audition," says Beattie, a former coach of the Olympic and U.S. Ski Teams. "Kids with outstanding results may be asked to take part in U.S. Ski Association sanctioned events," he said.

Young skiers of all ages and abilities are invited to take part in the Jr. NASTAR Open. All participants will receive a certificate of achievement signed by Beattie and Dennis Agee, director of the U.S. Ski Team's alpine program.

Results will be calculated using NASTAR'S unique handicapping system which compares a racer's time to that of the fastest member of the U.S. Ski Team. A handicap is the percentage difference between the two times.

NASTAR is celebrating its 23rd anniversary this year, and its fifth season with the U.S. Ski Team. Adults and children can race NASTAR at 180 ski areas nationwide.

Lakers' Season Ends With Loss To PGCC Owls

The post-season for the Garrett Community College Lakers came to an abrupt halt in an opening round game of the Maryland JUCO Conference Tournament last Thursday at Hagerstown Junior College.

The Lakers fell behind early and went on to lose to the Prince George's CC Owls for the third time this season, 96-80.

Garrett had entered the tourney with a 10-16 regular season record, their worst in over 10 years, and was the 12th seed in the 12-team event. Prince George's was seeded fifth and was ranked ninth in the JJCAA Division II poll.

Shooting only 41 percent from the floor and committing 25 turnovers, the Lakers were down 42-33 at halftime after trailing by only five with four minutes to go in the half. The Owls connected on only 35 percent of their shots in the first half, but found the mark better in the second half to pull away and record their 19th win in 24 games.

Fred Wilson paced the Lakers with 22 points, while Curtis Shepherd was right behind with 21 points, although he hit only six of 20 shots from the floor. Nick Gray finished with 14 points and a team-high eight rebounds.

Leading the Owls' scoring was Scott Stewart with 25 points. Jimmy Walker finished with 20 and Roderick Little recorded 16. Darrell Shortt grabbed 11 rebounds and had 15 steals.

The Lakers played well against the Owls in both of their meetings in the regular season, but were defeated both times by scores of 79-72 and 73-69.

Rams Continue Quest By Topping Petersburg, Embarrassing Allegany

The Southern Rams seem to already have their sights set on College Park and the Maryland State Class 2A Tournament, as they continued to roll over opponents this week and have just one regular season game remaining.

The Rams traveled to Petersburg Friday evening and won an easy 87-63 Potomac Valley Conference contest over the Vikings, then hosted Allegany last night and embarrassed the Campers in one of the most lopsided wins ever on a Southern High court, 77-29. The victories upped Coach Tom Bosley's team's season mark to 19-2 and they will be heavily favored to record their 20th win at home this Friday night against Frankfort.

The Rams are currently, and have been for several weeks, the unanimous choice as the number one team in the area and will be the top seeded team in next week's Region I 2A tournament.

Jeremy Bosley led the Rams' balanced scoring effort against Petersburg Friday night as he finished with 22 points, followed by Brett Rice with 20, Mike Duling with 14, and Britten Martin with 11, as the Rams hit 60 percent of their shots from the floor.

The Vikings never seriously threatened the Rams, as Southern held a 15-8 lead at the end of the first quarter, were on top 37-23 at halftime, and led 64-35 going into the final period.

Shawn Sharp led the 6-13 Vikings in scoring with 18 points. Chad Cooper and Jason Sites hit 13 and 11 points, respectively.

In last night's rout of Allegany, it seemed the Campers had nothing left after falling to arch rival Fort Hill the previous evening and being eliminated from the Class 2A playoffs. The Rams took total command of the contest in the early moments and led 22-6 at the end of the first quarter. They led 48-13 at halftime and scored the first 10 points of the second half to take a 60-13 advantage. They were on top 61-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Rice finished with 21 points to lead the Rams' scoring, Duling recorded 18 points, and Bosley finished with 12. Dave Kurtz was credited with 10 rebounds and four assists, while Martin contributed four steals.

None of the Campers (10-10) finished in double figures, as John O'Neil led with eight points.

Coach Bosley emptied his bench late in the third quarter, as most of his starters did the bulk of their scoring in the first half. Rice scored 18 of his points, Duling scored 10, and Bosley hit all 12 of his points in the first half.

The Southern junior varsity was also victorious last night against the Allegany jayvees, as Mark Dawson led the Rams to a 48-35 win. Dawson recorded 23 points and teammate Mark Elliott netted 11. Robinette and Deremer each recorded eight for Allegany.

With a win Friday over Frankfort, the Rams will guarantee themselves home-court advantage in the regional playoffs next week.

jail term, fined him $100, and placed him on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to make restitution to Gretchen Rush.

Harmke, who was reportedly residing with Gretchen and Jason Rush at the time of the incident, took a 1989 Dodge Daytona belonging to Gretchen Rush without her permission for several days. The Maryland State Police filed charges on December 12 of last year.

Richard A. Wright, 34, Grantsville, was sentenced on two counts of malicious destruction of property after a pre-sentence investigation had been ordered on December 9, 1991.

Wright was given a 60-day jail term (30 days were suspended), fined $50 on each count, and placed on 12 months of supervised probation for his crimes.

He had been arrested on November 3, 1991, after reported putting sugar in the gas tank of a pickup truck owned by Gertrude Wilburn, Grantsville, and in the gas tank of a motorcycle owned by Robert Wilburn, also of Grantsville.

SENTENCE REVISIONS
Two motions for sentence revisions were approved by the judge last week.

Probation before judgement was granted to Michael E. Madigan, 30, Deer Park, who had been found guilty of possession of marijuana on November 4, 1991. At that time, Madigan was handed a six-month jail term (all but 48 hours was suspended), fined $100, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

Madigan had been arrested on August 13, 1991, on the strength of a search warrant executed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Members of that force reportedly found a marijuana cigarette butt in an ash tray in Madigan's residence.

Probation before judgment was also given to Michael B. Flinn, 21, Oakland, who had initially been found guilty of felony theft on November 12, 1991. At that time, Flinn was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $200, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. It was also suggested by the judge that Flinn perform community service to the Garrett County Board of Education.

Flinn completed 100 hours of community service as of January 21 when the judge granted a motion for a sentence revision.

Flinn had been arrested on July 26 following an investigation that revealed he had stolen computer components falsely ordered by another party and mailed to unoccupied homes in the Oakland area.

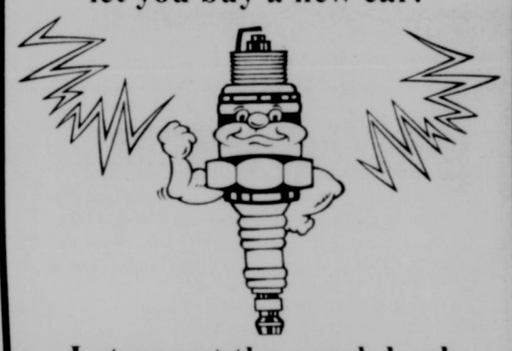
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".



Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Westvaco Reports Quarterly Figures

Westvaco Corporation (NYSE/W), a major manufacturer of paper, packaging and chemicals, reported Tuesday at its 104th annual meeting of shareholders its sales and earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1992 and reviewed its plans in the midst of the current economic conditions.

First quarter sales for the period ended January 31 were $539,794,000, in comparison with $573,343,000 in the same period of 1991, a decline of 6%. Net income for the first quarter totaled $27,104,000 or 41 cents per share. This compares with $16,574,000, or 25 cents per share, reported in the first quarter of 1991 which included a special charge of 24 cents per share to cover the one-time costs of the cost reduction program Westvaco initiated and continues to pursue today.

During the first quarter of fiscal 1992, Westvaco's shareholders received record dividends of 27½ cents per share, which were 5% greater than the 26¼ cents per share in the same period last year. When the company's board of directors increased the dividend rate in the latter part of fiscal 1991, it was the 22nd time in the past 28 years that the dividend was increased.

THE KING AND QUEEN of Hearts Campaign was recently held at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland. The theme for the campaign was "Give a hug, get a heart." The residents asked for hugs and they received a heart in return. The queen, Blanche Frederick, received 163 hugs, while the king, Myrl Evans King, received 33 hugs. Blanche has been a resident at Cuppett and Weeks for six years. Myrl has resided there since September of 1991.

American Diabetes Association Searches For Seven Million Missing Americans

Approximately seven million Americans in the United States are missing vital medical treatment and may be at high risk for heart and kidney disease, stroke, blindness, and amputation. According to the American Diabetes Association, 14 million people in the United States have diabetes, but over half do not know they have the disease. Over 750,000 will be diagnosed this year; 150,000 will die.

The American Diabetes Association wants to locate these seven million Americans, including as estimated 140,000 in Maryland, during the nationwide American Diabetes Alert on Tuesday, March 24. The Association is urging everyone to "Take the Test, Know the Score" and find out if they are at risk for diabetes.

Those at risk include:

- Anyone. Anyone who is over 30, is overweight, or has a family history of diabetes.
- Black Americans. Black Americans are 55% more likely to have diabetes. And estimated three million Black Americans in the United States have diabetes.
- Hispanics. Hispanics are 40%-100% more likely to have diabetes. It is estimated in excess of 2.3 million Hispanics in the United States have diabetes.
- American Indians. The Pima Indians are 300% more likely to have diabetes.

Symptoms of diabetes develop slowly and include: excessive thirst, frequent urination, extreme fatigue, unexplained weight loss, and blurry vision from time to time.

"Our goal is to save lives," said Marvin Cornblath, M.D., President. "Diabetes is a silent killer that affects [illegible] million Americans. Most people fast become aware that they have the disease when they are treated on one of the major complications such as heart disease, kidney disease, blindness, or nerve damage. The Diabetes Risk Test enables people to find out if they are at risk and become aware of the often difficult-to-detect symptoms, before they suffer from its complications."

Diabetes is a serious disease that affects the body's ability to produce or process insulin, a hormone that changes food into sugar that is used for energy. There is no cure for diabetes.

The American Diabetes Associating is the nation's leading non-profit health organization supporting diabetes research and public education services. Founded in 1940 as a medical society, the Association has an affiliate office in every state and activities in more than 800 communities nationwide.

To obtain a free copy of the Diabetes Risk Test, and for more information about diabetes, or how to become a member of the American Diabetes Association, people should call the American Diabetes Association, Maryland Affiliate - 2 Reservoir Circle - Suite 203 - Baltimore, MD 21208; Telephone (410) 486-5515.

Let's Get Denny's Down To Business!

This is a new feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Denny's

The opening of Denny's Restaurant this week in Oakland brings to the area a "proven concept that works," according to owner Don Lemley. This type of restaurant, he says, "is a restaurant of the 90's. We'll get you in and out fast, and while you're here we'll serve you good food in a family-style atmosphere."

Lemley says that in addition to being open 24 hours with breakfast being served all day, the restaurant has a dinner menu, a late-night menu, and a full senior citizens' menu. They will even custom make some food for those on special diets. "All our food is handled by professionals," Lemley says. The 68 new part-time employees spent a week of intensive training before the Saturday preview and the Monday opening to be prepared to serve the public in a professional way.

The Lemleys, Don and Darlene, expect to employ between 50 and 60 persons on a regular basis, and they hope to develop a nucleus, a majority of employees who work full-time. The Lemleys want to reach and serve a local crowd. "We want to be part of the community," he said. "All but one of our employees live here in Garrett County. I think there was a niche here that needed to be filled, and we filled it." He added that he feels confident that Oakland needs and can support a restaurant like Denny's.

Although not originally from the area, Don, a contractor, has lived and worked here for 22 years. He and Darlene are "work-a-holics," he says, and they sat all last winter dreaming and planning this restaurant opening, and will continue working to bring something special to the public. Denny's offers a free meal to those celebrating a birthday, now what could be more special than that?

DENNY'S RESTAURANT NOW OPEN -- Darlene and Don Lemly look forward to a long and successful future in the Oakland area with the opening this week of Denny's Restaurant on Rt. 219 north of Oakland.

Girl Scout Troop 5021 Announces Raffle Winner

Troop 5021 held a raffle recently with the theme of the Girl Scouts 80th birthday, "We Care For The Earth." The winner was Linda Browning, Accident. The winning ticket was drawn by Jack Settle.

Businesses which donated prizes for the raffle were Beachy Lumber Company, Deep Creek Outfitters, Plaza Deli, Microintegration Systems, Diehl's Ford Sales, Old Mill Restaurant, S&S Market, Accident IGA, Fratz True Value, Manor Builders, Dominick's Pizza, Schoolhouse Earth, Menges Trucking, Oester Trucking, Arrowhead Deli, Naylor's True Value Hardware, and the Book Mark'et.

The troop expressed its appreciation to all who participated in the raffle in any way.

A troop leader stated that the raffle helped to teach the Girl Scouts what products in the community would be kind to the environment. They also made the people in the community who purchased tickets aware of the recycling centers in the community.

Local Girl Scouts Observe World "Thinking Day"

February 22 was observed in every Girl Scout and Girl Guide country in the world as "Thinking Day." Joining in the celebration were the Deep Creek neighborhood Girl Scouts who participated in various activities.

Girl Scouts and Girl Guides make a special effort to meet on Thinking Day to exchange greetings with their sisters in other countries and to give contributions to the Thinking Day Fund.

During this past week, Girl Scout troops 5051, 5052, and 5021 were greeted with cards and small handmade gifts from a Girl Guide troop in Japan. Members of the local troops have created cards to send to Girl Guides in Japan and scouting friends in England, Switzerland, and Hong Kong. Troop 5021 is making a photographic scrapbook of their community to present to the troop in Japan.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Pat Williamson, Deep Creek neighborhood manager, will share with the troops a collection of Girl Guide-Girl Scout pins, patches, and memorabilia she has collected worldwide. She will also tell about scouting friendships she has made.

The Girl Scouts will learn about the four World Centers for the World Association of Girl Guides-Girl Scouts (WAGGGS). The centers are: Our Chalet in Adelboden, Switzerland; Our Cabana in Cuernarach, Mexico; Saugam in Pume, India; Olave House in London, England. This year, WAGGGS will celebrate its 64th anniversary.

The pennies collected from the Girl Scout members during Thinking Day will be put into the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. By participating in the JWF Fund, Girl Scouts show they are about linking girls and building understanding and goodwill among people from around the world, said a scout spokesperson.

Deep Creek Girl Scouts Earn Awards

Awards were presented recently to Girl Scouts in the Deep Creek Service Unit who participated in the QPS sales.

In Cadette Troop 5021, Anna Leilich received a patch. Jane Williamson and Heather Malcomb both received a patch, a stuffed animal, and a hardcover book, Reader's Digest's How In The World? The troop also received a free book which will be donated to Northern Middle School Library. Another book will be donated to the Accident Library.

In Junior Troop 5052, Linda Bowser, leader, presented a patch to Ann Sebold and Amanda Bowser.

Both troops are working on the "Be A Reader Project." This year's activities deal with the environment and endangered species, in an effort to encourage girls to read about the world that surrounds them.

"By learning more about our planet and investigating the issues its presents, it's hoped that the girls will develop an interest in the earth's future health as well as a healthy interest in reading," said a troop leader.

Troop 5052 will be going to the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library to research the rain forest. They will then construct a diorama of the rain forest showing animals and plants, especially the endangered ones.

Troop 5021 visited the Accident branch library and located articles that feature a celebrity's environmental activism. Using the library's computer, one of the members Naomi Tobio, wrote summaries of the articles. During the troop meetings, several members will be reporting on the women in wildlife, such as Jane Goodall and Dian Fossey. Others are reporting on animals and plants in danger of becoming extinct. They are also collecting articles on the pros and cons of animals rights.

GCC Classes Seek Sponsor For JTPA Building

Each spring the JTPA Building Trades class at Garrett Community College constructs a small building. In the past these buildings have been sold to the highest bidder at the end of the class; however, this year, Sandy Major, JTPA coordinator, is seeking a person or organization to purchase the building in advance.

Major said this year's building would be similar to those built in the past, but could be built to the specifications of the purchaser. The size of the building would be 24'x12'. It would be frame construction and contain windows and doors, as well as electrical wiring and outlets.

The building would be sold in advance on a best offer basis. Anyone interested in obtaining more information is asked to contact Ms. Major at 387-6666, ext. 180, by March 1.

Elephant Man

Snork; Krysta Stacy, Amanda Bell, and Jaime Jacoby as spectators; Marcie Beiler and Angelica Thayer as pinheads.

Ms. Selvitella recently commented on her work with "The Elephant Man" cast. "It has been exciting for me to work with this cast," she said. "These actors have brought their own life experiences to their roles and have made me see things in the characters that I had missed before. I have learned from them."

Tickets for "The Elephant Man" may be purchased at the box office prior to each performance, and reservations may be made by calling the college at 387-6666. Ticket prices are $5 for adults and $3 for students.

"The Elephant Man" is being funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. The auditorium at the college is accessible to the handicapped.

Spotlight On The Director

Micki Selvitella, director of "The Elephant Man" brings a wealth of theatrical experience to her work.

A resident of Frostburg, where her husband is technical director of the university theatre department, Ms. Selvitella holds a B.A. in theatre arts from Clark University and a technical certificate from the Yale School of Drama. For the past seven years, she has worked with professional theatre groups in various capacities.

Most recently she has been director of student education at Great Lakes Theatre Festival in Cleveland, Ohio, and assistant production manager of the Cleveland Play House. Her directing credits include a number of Shakespearean productions with the Great Lakes Theatre Festival and a variety of dramatic and musical productions at Yale College and Clark University. She has also worked as assistant stage manager for the State Ballet of Missouri and for the Shubert Theatre Opera Program in New Haven, as production manager for the Bigfork Summer Playhouse in Montana, and as stage and road manager for the Cleveland Playhouse.

Ms. Selvitella says she is very excited about directing "The Elephant Man." "It is a wonderful play about humanity and the lack of humanity," she says. "It shows that we are not as accepting as we should be of people who are different, and it makes us think about what we really see of other people and what we allow them to see of ourselves."

She has praise for the cast of "The Elephant Man" and claims to have learned a great deal from them. "When I can keep on learning, that makes me happy," she says.

Senior Citizens' Arts Competition To Begin Sunday

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, has announced that the new Senior Citizens Arts Competition will kick-off March 1. This year's competition is sponsored by the Maryland Office on Aging, Governor Schaefer's "Maryland You Are Beautiful" Program, the Department of Economic and Employment Development - Maryland State Arts Council, regional Art Directors, local tourism directors, WJZ-TV and the Area Agencies on Aging throughout the State.

"For the past four years, thousands of Maryland's seniors have shared their fondest memories of Maryland with us through their participation in the Senior Citizens Creative Writing Contest," said Governor Schaefer. "This year, seniors will have an opportunity to showcase their expertise in the visual arts," he added.

"This is the first time that a statewide competition of this kind has been held for Maryland seniors," said Rosalie S. Abrams. "I encourage our seniors to share their talents and skills, by way of their art creations, with other Marylanders," she added.

The arts competition is open to all Maryland residents age 60 and over. Seniors are invited to submit entries in three fine arts categories--painting, woodcarving and ceramics. The guidelines for the arts competition are:

1. Each person may submit one work of art from only one category: Painting - works on paper or on canvas; Woodcarving - no furniture; Ceramics - hand pottery only, no precast pieces.

2. Participants must reside in the city or county where the artwork is submitted.

3. Artwork must have been completed within the past 12 months.

4. Participants must never have been employed as a professional artist.

5. Participants should securely attach their name, address, zip code and daytime phone number directly on the artwork, and include the title of the piece, materials/medium used, size and fine arts category.

6. Art entries must be delivered to the local Area Agency on Aging (where the participant lives) no later than April 30, 1992.

7. Artwork gathered at local senior centers will be exhibited in May 1992 and judged by a local panel selected by the Area Agency on Aging.

A panel of local judges, which will include a representative from the local Arts Council, will select first place winners in each of the three entry categories, and a "Best of Show" from among the top three winners in each county. Selections will be based on creativity, originality and overall artistic excellence.

The 24 "Best in Show" winners (one from each county and Baltimore City) will be the guests at an awards ceremony and luncheon, hosted by Governor William Donald Schaefer on June 27 at the Baltimore Life Insurance Co. in Baltimore City. The grand opening of the exhibit at the Insurance Company's Life of Maryland Gallery will showcase the seniors' winning artwork. The top three winning pieces (one from each category), will be on exhibit from June 29 through July 17, 1992.

For further information about the Senior Citizens Arts Competition, local persons may contact Adina Brode, director, Garrett County Area Agency on Aging.

vote-getters will then be placed on the General Election ballot, when two candidates will be chosen to serve two-year terms.

Officials at the Board of Election Supervisors have stressed that candidates for the board of education are not affiliated with either the Republican or Democratic party. Therefore, all voters may vote for the education board candidates.

In the presidential race, Patrick J. already underway in the nation's schools.

A number of educators from the Garrett County schools will attend the presentation, as well as representatives of the mathematics departments of Frostburg State University, Allegany Community College, Dundulk Community College, Harford Community College, West Virginia University, and Penn State University--Fayette campus. Any interested persons are invited to attend.

Prior to the presentation, the GCC faculty will host a buffet dinner for Dr. Kirwan and invited guests. Dr. Nancy Priselac, professor of mathematics at Garrett Community College, is in charge of the evening's program.

Counterfeit Bill Exhibit To Be Displayed By GNB

Garrett and Allegany County residents will have the opportunity to test their skill at detecting counterfeit currency the next two weeks. March 2-7 at Garrett National Bank's Main Office in Oakland and March 9-14 at the LaVale Branch in LaVale Plaza. An exhibit of real and counterfeit money, obtained from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, will be on display, according to Wayne R. Johnson, training officer for Garrett National Bank.

Denominations of currency in the exhibit range from $1 to $100, Johnson explained. The bills are arranged side by side so that the viewer may try his luck at deciding which bill of each set is genuine and which is counterfeit. When a button corresponding to the number of each note is pressed, a light flashes. The green light means go - it's real. The red light means stop - it's counterfeit.

"Many people don't stop to look at their money," Johnson said, "and although some bogus bills are very skillfully reproduced, many counterfeit notes are easy to spot." He cited several things to look for when trying to detect counterfeit money, the portrait in particular. The hairline and eyes may be slightly irregular in the portrait on a counterfeit note, and the screening around the portrait may not be well defined. Other telltale signs are irregular serial numbers, off-color numbers and seals, and absence of silk threads in the paper of the bill.

Johnson added that bank personnel become quite adept at detecting counterfeit currency. The overall appearance of a bill will generally be enough to alert these employees after just a quick glance, he said. Frequently an experienced counter can feel the difference.

"The counterfeit exhibit is being displayed at the Main Office and LaVale Branch to give the residents of Garrett and Allegany counties an opportunity to take a closer look at counterfeit currency side by side with genuine currency," Johnson concluded.

Garrett Community College's Job Placement Center Strives To Place Qualified Persons In The Workplace

by Pam Ashby

The Garrett Community College Job Placement Center is striving to meet the needs of area businesses as well as the needs of students and community members, according to Sandy Major, coordinator. The Center provides students, alumni, and community members with a smooth transition into the workplace. It prepares and places qualified employees for the business community.

Finding employees with the right qualifications can be time consuming and costly for employers. The Job Placement Center helps to simplify that task for local employers. The Center maintains a complete database of students and community members seeking jobs.

Lynne Glotfelty, a job placement specialist at GCC, can quickly put employers in touch with appropriate job candidates. She explains that the Center has applicants with skills in office work, business waitressing, and retail sales. It also has a number of candidates who are seeking to learn new skills on the job.

An added bonus of the Center is that it can also provide screening and employment counseling services for employers.

SEEKING CAREER INFO is Sharon DeWitt, seated, who through the Job Placement Center is now employed by the college's Continuing Education Division of Institutional Labor in the work/study program. She will graduate in May from GCC with an AA degree in social and behavioral science. "I've found the Job Placement Center to be very beneficial in compiling information relative to my career interests," stated Ms. DeWitt. Shown assisting Ms. DeWitt is Lynne Glotfelty, job placement specialist at the Center. "I enjoy working with the students and community members who are seeking jobs and exploring career interests," Ms. Glotfelty said.

WHO IT SERVES

The GCC Center provides services for traditional and non-traditional students, as well as for community members. Traditional students are recent high school graduates on a regular student track. These students may be in class from 12 to 15 hours per week.

The non-traditional students are generally adults with families and other responsibilities who are returning for retraining or basic employment skills training.

The Center also serves community members who are not students but are looking for full- or part-time jobs.

ADDED SERVICES

In addition to job-matching services, the Center provides students and community members with free job counseling, job-related resources, and orientation sessions on job skills and job search techniques. There is also a resume writing service available. Professional resumes and cover letters can be prepared at the center for a small fee.

Currently, the Center is working with over 100 job candidates seeking immediate part- or full-time employment. In May, additional new graduates will be ready to start positions in the business or retail markets.

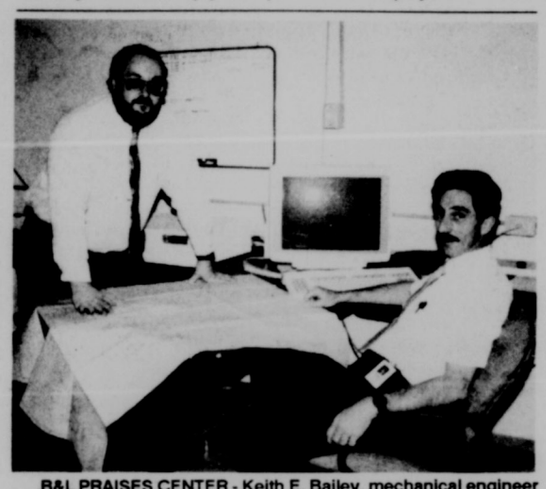
MANY SUCCESSES

The impact of the Job Placement Center has been significant during the past year despite the fact that the economy has been sluggish and jobs have been scarce. They have provided services for 220 clients seeking jobs. These included 102 students, 75 community members, eight high school students, and 35 clients from disadvantaged populations. Services were provided for 101 more clients this year than last year which represents an increase of 100%.

Clients have been referred to 114 jobs listed with the Center by 67 employers. Clients have also been referred to numerous openings listed the Maryland State Office of Employment Service. Those utilizing the Center were placed in a total of 93 positions and Center staff are continuing to work with those not yet placed. This placement rate represents an increase of 47% over last year's placement rate.

For the business community, creation of the center has meant easier, more efficient and cost-saving access to appropriately trained employees. The college is committed to promoting regional development and to enter into partnership with regional government, business, industry, and economic agencies to foster the strengthening of small and big business and industry. The work of the Job Placement Center correlates directly with this goal.

Major expects that the number of students and employers served will continue to grow as the economy improves and more jobs become available. The Center has been important during its first three years in helping Garrett Community College realize its ultimate education and training mission. This role will become even more vital in the future, according to Major.



The success of the Center speaks for itself not only in numbers served, but also in the satisfaction of the people who have benefitted from it -- the employer and the employee.

Some success stories in the county include Bonita Shaffer and her employer, Bernard Orendorff from Rigidply Rafters; Kim Sharpless and Marcia DeBerry employed by Garrett National Bank with Glenna Wyles as their supervisor; John Simpson employed by Bausch and Lomb, Inc, with his direct supervisor Keith Bailey; and Sharon DeWitt who works with Job Placement Specialist Lynne Glotfelty at the Job Placement Center. All agreed that the Center benefitted them in many ways.

Employers or community members who want to learn more about Job Placement Services may call Lynne Glotfelty at 387-6666, ext. 180.

SECRETARY/SUPERVISOR - Bonita Shaffer is shown performing one of her many duties at Rigidply Rafters Inc. -- checking invoices. Ms. Shaffer is one of the many clients of the GCC Job Placement Center who obtained gainful employment. Her employer, Bernard Orendorff, went to the Job Placement Center because he thought they might be able to help him find a responsible person to be an efficient secretary and office supervisor for the business. He was given 12 resumes from which he selected the best and then interviewed those persons. Ms. Shaffer impressed him and he said that he is well-satisfied. "The Job Placement Center helped me out a lot," said Orendorff. "I would recommend it to other businessmen." Ms. Shaffer's responsibilities include answering the telephone, doing the payroll, paying bills, typing delivery slips and invoices - to name a few. Ms. Shaffer obtained her skills in the business program at her high school in Virginia, at workshops, and with on-the-job training. She recommends the Job Placement Center to others and says that she enjoys her job and her employer.

B&L PRAISES CENTER - Keith E. Bailey, mechanical engineer from Bausch and Lomb, Inc., shown left, with John Simpson, had words of praise for the service the Job Placement Center provides. "We were searching for a candidate who had the skills required for the position in an effort to eliminate excess training time. The Job Placement Service matched our requirements to the candidates they had in the system and forwarded their resumes directly to us. We could not have found a better person to fit the job requirements than John has," he stated. Simpson commented, "GCC was very helpful with my retraining effort - especially with computer courses. At a time when the economy was very bad, the Job Placement Center was able to come up with perspective positions. They didn't just come up with one or two. They continued to let me know what was available in the area until I was employed. They did a great job."

Client Profiles

Listed are a sampling of client profiles from eight job candidates of the Job Placement Center. The Center is currently working with 109 students and community members to find employment. The group possesses a wide range of skills, experience, and job interests.

Mature, semi-retired female looking for full- or part-time secretarial position.
Qualifications - Types 100 WPM, strong shorthand and computer skills. Exceptional work record.

Qualifications - Near completion of training in frame and finish carpentry. Extensive work experience in construction.

TRADITIONAL STUDENT:

Qualifications - Work experience in restaurants. Experienced babysitter.

GNB EMPLOYEES, Marcia DeBerry, left, and Kim Sharpless, enjoy working at the local bank under the supervision of Glenna Wyles. The Garrett National Bank chose to use the services of the Job Placement Center to enhance its workforce. Wyles stated, "GCC's Job Placement Center is an excellent service. Garrett National Bank is pleased to have such a service available in this area. Since learning of job placement, we've talked to several people and have had the opportunity of employing individuals with various skills. GNB looks forward to working with them in the future." Ms. DeBerry stated, "I feel that the Job Placement Service at GCC is a very good place to go if you are looking for a job. The people are very friendly and helpful and they have the resources to help you in any field. They also have a very good resume service available." Ms. Sharpless also appreciates the service and commented, "The Job Placement Office is an excellent service which puts every effort into seeing that their clients receive the most suitable job."

Quick and Easy French Creole Cookery

TIPS ON COOKING SEAFOOD

The most important thing to remember when cooking seafood is simply not to overcook it. Cook raw shellfish, shucked or in the shell, very lightly. You can actually see when they are done.

- Raw shrimp turn pink and firm. Depending on the size, it takes about 3 minutes to boil, steam or sauté 1 pound of medium-sized shrimp in the shell.
- Shucked shellfish, such as oysters, become plump and opaque. The edges of the oysters start to curl. Overcooking causes them to shrink and toughen.
- Clams, mussels and oysters in the shell will open when steamed or roasted. Remove them when all are open and the meat is plump.
- Scallops turn opaque and firm when cooking. Depending on the size, scallops take 1 to 5 minutes to cook through.
- Live lobsters, shrimp, crab and crayfish turn bright red shortly after immersion in boiling water. Cook lobster 12 minutes for first pound, 6 minutes for each additional pound; crayfish, 2–3 minutes; crab 5–8 minutes; and shrimp, 3–4 minutes.
- If you purchase pre-cooked products such as crab, shrimp or surimi, plan to serve them chilled or warmed through. Do not overcook.

Fish can be cooked from the frozen state if you double the length of the cooking period. It's not a good idea to thaw fish and seafood in the microwave because some parts may start to cook. Never refreeze seafood.

"Laissez les Bons Temps à Rouler!" ("Let the good times roll!")

Louisiana, on the edge of the salt waters of the Gulf of Mexico, provides a wealth of delicious seafood, with an abundance of blue crab, spiny lobster, reef shrimp, pompano and swordfish. Inland, fresh water lakes yield trout and crayfish by the millions!

Creole Cookery was born of many nationalities: a combination of spicy Spanish seasonings, Italian oils, the culinary art of the French regions such as Paris and Marseilles, with a mix of native American Indian and Black African.

A vital element in the evolution of Creole cuisine was the accessibility of so many ingredients...the best produce came down the river to the mouth of the Mississippi from all of North America and up through the Gulf from South America and Mexico. Indian wild herbs and vegetables were also key ingredients.

Creole Cookery has changed only slightly over the centuries, and it remains hearty, colorful and delectable fare.

Try "Laissez les Bons Temps à Rouler!" ("Let the good times roll!")

Southern Honey Cocktail Sauce for Shellfish

1⅓ cups (12-ounce jar) Crosse & Blackwell® Seafood Cocktail Sauce
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup honey
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
½ cup chopped toasted pecans

In medium bowl, blend seafood cocktail sauce, vinegar, honey, onion and garlic salt. Stir in pecans.

Serving suggestions: Serve over seafood salad or mixed green salad.

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Makes about 2 cups dressing.

Jazzy Seafood Spread

1 cup (8-ounce package) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon Crosse & Blackwell® Worcestershire Sauce
1⅓ cups (12-ounce jar) Crosse & Blackwell Seafood Cocktail Sauce, divided
¼ lb. cooked, shelled and cleaned crab, imitation crab, shrimp or crayfish; well drained, patted dry and coarsely chopped
¼ cup chopped green onions

In small bowl, combine cream cheese, onion, lemon juice and Worcestershire Sauce; mix well. Using a 7-inch dish, evenly spread cheese mixture to edges. Spoon on half of the seafood cocktail sauce and distribute seafood over sauce. Spoon on remaining sauce and sprinkle with green onions.

Serving suggestions: Spread on crackers, cocktail bread or sliced cucumbers.

*For zestier taste use Crosse & Blackwell Zesty Shrimp Sauce (1¼ jars.)

Makes about 30 appetizer servings.

Basin Street Bouillabaisse

Bouillabaisse is one of the most famous of New Orleans' dishes, and its name is derived from the cooking instruction: "Quand ça commence à boullier baisse!" or "When it begins to boil, lower it!"

This recipe, a New Orleans' favorite, simmered to perfection, is rich with fresh fish and seafood. Serve it often for a hearty supper, with crusty French bread.

1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
3½ cups (two 14.5-ounce cans) Contadina Stewed Tomatoes, undrained
⅔ cup (6-ounce can) Contadina Tomato Paste
1 cup water
½ cup dry white wine
1 large clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
1 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ pounds fresh clams in shell
1½ pounds firm white fish, e.g. halibut, red snapper

In large saucepan, heat oil; sauté onion and celery until tender. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, water, wine, garlic, thyme, oregano, salt and pepper. Stir to break up tomatoes. Cover; boil gently for 20 minutes. Scrub clams under running water. Place in saucepan; add ½ inch water. Cover and cook over medium heat for about 5 minutes, until shells open. Strain clam liquid through paper towels; reserve 1 cup. Keep clams warm. Cut fish into bite-size pieces; add to tomato mixture. Simmer for 10 to 15 minutes or until fish is cooked. Add reserved clam liquid and clams. Heat to serving temperature.

Preparation time: 20 minutes
Cooking time: 25 minutes
Makes 8 servings.

Creole Cookery has changed only slightly over the centuries, and it remains hearty, colorful and delectable fare.

Creole Catfish with Pecan Butter

Elegant but easy, this recipe will become a favorite. Toasted pecans and lemon juice accent the flavor of delicately sautéed fish. Lemon, nuts, and parsley garnishes create a lovely platter for family and guests.

⅔ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground pepper
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 egg, lightly beaten
½ cup undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
1½ pounds catfish fillets, or trout, perch, orange roughy, or red snapper
3 to 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
Toasted pecan halves, lemon slices and chopped parsley (optional)
Pecan Butter (recipe follows)

In pie plate, combine flour, salt, pepper and cayenne. In separate pie plate, combine egg and evaporated milk. Dredge fillets in flour mixture, dip in milk mixture and dredge again in flour. In large skillet, melt butter; sauté fish until golden brown on both sides. Garnish with toasted pecans, lemon slices and parsley if desired. Serve with Pecan Butter.

Pecan Butter:

In blender or food processor, blend ½ cup toasted pecans, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 10 minutes
Makes 4 servings.

New Orleans' Pasta Jambalaya

Jambalaya (derived from the Spanish word jamon, meaning "ham") was introduced to New Orleans in the late 1700s by the Spanish. Originally, the dish was made only with ham. However, the Creole cooks added shrimp, chicken and other ingredients.

This classic jambalaya, made with sausage, chicken and shrimp, is so tasty, you'll want to make it again and again.

1 pound boneless, skinless chicken, cut into 2-inch strips
¼ cup all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons olive oil
¾ cup each chopped green and yellow bell peppers
½ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon minced garlic or ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
3½ cups (28-ounce can) Contadina Crushed Tomatoes in Puree
¾ cup chicken broth
½ pound fully-cooked spicy sausage, cut into ¼-inch slices
¾ teaspoon black pepper
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 pound cleaned medium shrimp
8 ounces dry pasta, cooked and drained
2 to 4 drops hot pepper sauce (optional)

In medium bowl, toss chicken strips in flour. In large skillet, heat olive oil over high heat; sauté chicken for 3 minutes. Add green and yellow peppers, onion, and garlic; sauté for 3 to 4 minutes or until crisp-tender. Add tomatoes, broth, sausage, black pepper, salt and cayenne; stir to combine thoroughly. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes. Add shrimp and continue to cook for 2 to 4 minutes or until shrimp are pink and loosely curled. Serve over pasta.

Preparation time: 20 minutes
Cooking time: 12 minutes
Makes 8 servings.

Louisiana Corn Chowder

Centuries ago in the coastal villages of France, each fisherman would throw his catch into a huge copper pot, "La Chaudiere," and the villagers would feast and celebrate the safe return of the fishermen. As this dish found its way to the New World, it soon became named "chowder." This colorful, hearty chowder can be served as a main dish with a side salad and hot crusty bread for lunch and dinner.

1 tablespoon margarine
1 cup coarsely chopped green or red peppers
1 cup chopped onion
3½ cups (16-ounce package) frozen, whole-kernel corn
1 cup chicken broth
4 ounces (¾ cup) cooked lean ham (95% fat free), cubed
½ teaspoon ground cumin
¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
⅓ cup plus 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
3 cups (two 12-ounce cans) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Lowfat Milk, divided
3 to 4 drops hot pepper sauce (optional)

In large saucepan, melt margarine; sauté pepper and onion over medium heat for 5 minutes, or until tender. Stir in corn, broth, ham, cumin and white pepper. Cook for 5 more minutes, stirring occasionally, until corn is cooked. Pour ⅔ cup evaporated lowfat milk into bowl; whisk in flour until well blended. Add remaining 2⅓ cups evaporated lowfat milk; mix well. Slowly pour into saucepan. Increase heat to medium-high; cook, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes until mixture comes to a boil and slightly thickens. Boil for 1 minute. If a thinner chowder is desired, add additional broth. Add hot pepper sauce, if desired.

Preparation time: 15 minutes
Cooking time: 25 minutes
Makes 6 cups.

R
WHY PRESCRIPTION DRUGS CANNOT BE RETURNED

Sometimes a medicine prescribed for you by your physician does not accomplish the desired result, or has a disturbing allergic effect on you which is not beneficial. Your physician will direct you to stop taking that medicine and will usually prescribe another.

Unlike other pharmacy products, which are guaranteed by their maker, prescription drugs cannot be returned for a refund. Pharmacists are responsible for the potency and purity of prescription drugs. Once they have left the pharmacy and are no longer under our supervision, we could not dispense them in a prescription for someone else. You would not want a medicine returned to us by a sick person.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IN A NUTSHELL!
March 1, 1992

Background Scripture:
Mark 1:1-15.
Background Scripture:
Hebrews 12:1-6.

One of the beauties of Mark is the stark simplicity with which he tells us the good news. Matthew and Luke start with some genealogies and birth narratives and John a Prologue. But Mark likes to get to the point quickly: "The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God." Mark is by far the shortest of the four and the most concise. We might well call it the "no-frills gospel" -- not everything we need to know. It is interesting, then, that the essence of this condensed gospel is summed-up in two verses of Mark 1. In the footnotes of my Oxford Annotated Bible the editor says of 14 and 15: "The whole of Mark is an expansion of this verse" -- Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of God, and saying, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent, and believe in the gospel."

EXCESS BAGGAGE

Everything Jesus taught and proclaimed is predicated on this pronouncement. Everything Jesus was and did was based on his commitment to this message. So, if you want to know what Jesus was all about, and what the church and we are supposed to be about, you've got it all in a nutshell.

Sometimes, it seems to me, we make Christianity a lot harder anad more complicated than it ought to be. Sometimes, what we end up teaching and preaching is not just the good news of Jesus Christ, but the good news surrounded by a lot of excess baggage -- or a lot of excess baggage that has entirely supplanted the good news. As Mark reports Jesus quoting Isaiah in Mark 7:07, "...in vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines the precepts of men." Often there are a lot of human precepts that can obscure the good news.

What was the good news? Essentially, Jesus begins his ministry telling us two blockbuster truths about God: "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand." The "time" being fulfilled means simply: no more waiting for the keeping of God's promise. The "kingdom of God" means the reign of God in the lives of people, communities and the world. Paul W. Harrison has said that "Wherever God rules over the human heart as King, there is the kingdom of God established."

PRESENT & FUTURE

What does Jesus mean by "at hand" -- here or almost here? If the answer is "here," then we have a problem, because it doesn't take an astute person to realize that the world we live in is not the kingdom "here" and now or even "almost here." But Jesus means that the kingdom is available to each of us when we let God rule our hearts. Halford Luccock says of the kingdom: "It is in the future. But whenever a human life is brought into harmony with the Father's purpose, it is present." So it can be both present fact and future hope -- if we "repent and believe in the gospel." What holds back the kingdom is not God's reluctance, but ours.

In the days of the czars of Russia, a young man, influenced through reading the New Testament and Tolstoy, declared himself a conscientous objector. Brought before a civil judge, he quoted some of Jesus' teachings. "Yes," replied the judge, "I understand. But you must be realistic. These laws you are talking about are the laws of the kingdom of God; and it has not come yet."

"Sir," the young man replied, "I recognize that it has not come for you, nor yet for Russia or the world. But the kingdom of God has come for me? I cannot go on hating and killing as though it had not come."

COVER STORY

'Happy Days' was no misnomer, says producer

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

According to Garry Marshall, they really were "happy days."

"A very decent group of human beings got together and were making a show that seemed to be successful," recalls the creator and producer of "Happy Days," one of TV's biggest hits ever.

Garry Marshall

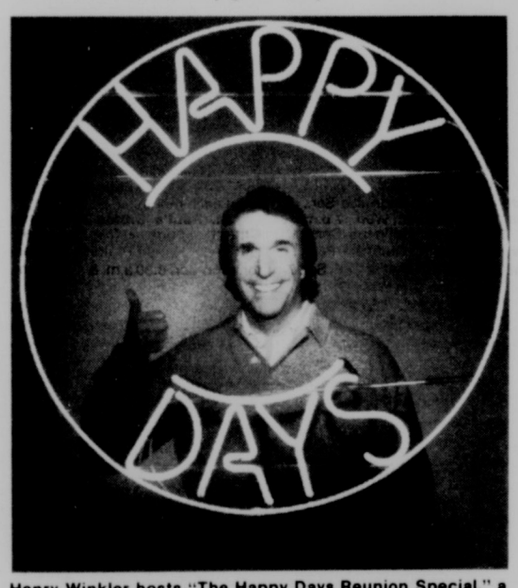
"The Happy Days Reunion Special" airs Tuesday, March 3, on ABC, and Marshall assures us that it isn't a simple collection of clips and behind-the-scenes reminiscences.

"That's what somebody suggested, and we all dozed off," says Marshall. "But we have a special thing that no other series has. Henry Winkler (Fonzie) became a kind of documentary filmmaker on 'Happy Days.' He was always running around with his camera shooting movies of us. So there's a lot of stuff in the special of us behind the camera with our hair down and all that."

The reason a "Happy Days" reunion didn't happen earlier is simple: logistics.

"How can I say it humbly?" says Marshall. "Many of the 'Happy Days' people went on to other lives, and they got very busy. They're roaming all over, directing, writing, jumping around. So when reunion talk came, it was, 'Very nice, but I'm in Montana.' Or, 'I like that, but I'm in Florida.' "



Among the alumni, Ron Howard ("Splash") and Garry Marshall ("Pretty Woman") are film directors, Henry Winkler ("MacGyver") is a producer, and Anson Williams is a TV-movie director.

Marshall gives one reason for the show's phenomenal success: Henry Winkler as Fonzie, whom Marshall had originally planned as a character who would barely speak. "Tough guys are sometimes hard to cast," he explains, "so I said, 'We don't need a great actor here, because he's going to say three words, make noises and be kind of mysterious.' Well, Henry Winkler did that, but he made so many sounds that after a couple of episodes we saw that his gestures and his sounds were carrying a character."

Marshall is also responsible for a very different TV classic, "The Odd Couple."

"It wasn't a bunch of wonderful people getting together and having a good time," Marshall recalls. "It was a bunch of people fighting all the time. But always fighting about the same subject: 'Which is going to be funnier?' or 'Which is going to be classier?' It was a wonderful, rewarding, creative five years. But it was not a day at the beach."

"Happy Days" was. "The 'Happy Days' cast would do anything you asked of them – even if it sounded corny, even if it sounded dull – as long as you did one version that was funny."

Henry Winkler hosts "The Happy Days Reunion Special," a nostalgic look back at the 1974-84 series. It airs Tuesday, March 3, on ABC.

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

PICKFORD'S FILMS – I understand that Mary Pickford was a child star. What was her date of birth? How many films did she star in? – W.S.C., Vista, Calif.

Mary Pickford

Actress and United Artists co-founder Mary Pickford, who would come to be known as "America's Sweetheart," was born Gladys Mary Smith in Toronto, Canada, on April 8, 1893. Sources disagree on which film was her first; some cite "The Lonely Villa" and others "Her First Biscuits." Both films were made in 1909, when she was 16 years old. By the time of her death, she had made nearly 200 movies. (That number includes shorts.) Her full-length films include "Pollyanna" "Little Lord Fauntleroy" "Tess of the Storm Country" and "Coquette," her first talking picture, for which she won an Academy Award in 1929. Pickford also received a special Academy Award in 1975 for her contributions to the film industry. She died in 1979.

'FAMILY' FAVORITE – "All in the Family" has been a favorite with our family ever since it first appeared. We're having trouble remembering what Archie did for a living before he bought the bar and what the name of the bar was. Also, what was the name of the child who played little Joey? – E.O., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Before he took the plunge and became a business-owner, Archie worked as a dock foreman for the Prendergast Tool and Die Company. Archie and Harry the bartender formed a partnership, bought Kelsey's Bar and renamed it Archie's Place. Mike and Gloria's son, Joey, was portrayed by twins Jason and Justin Draeger, and later by Cory Miller.

'HOTEL' PARADISO – Didn't Debbie Reynolds star in an early series that was something like "Hotel"? Also, how old is she? Is it true that the girl who played the princess in "Star Wars" is her daughter? – P.H., Boca Raton, Fla.

Reynolds starred as the manager of a Hawaiian resort in a 1981 comedy called "Aloha Paradise." Like "Hotel" (and "The Love Boat," which was produced by the same team as "Aloha Paradise"), the series featured a string of weekly guests. Her only other series was the 1969-70 sitcom "The Debbie Reynolds Show."

Reynolds, who is 59 years old, is the mother of actress and novelist Carrie Fisher, who played Princess Leia in the "Star Wars" movies.

Meredith Baxter plays a woman pushed too far

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

Betty Broderick, who was recently sentenced to two 15-year-to-life terms for the murder of her ex-husband and his wife, was at the center of an ugly divorce case that escalated to violence. Highly publicized, possibly because it cuts so deeply to the core of American morality and has personal significance for many couples, the drama behind "A Woman Scorned: The Betty Broderick Story," (CBS, March 1) discusses that ugly tradition of trading one's old-model wife in for a shiny new one. Meredith Baxter is Betty, a pampered but willful upper-class wife faced with the dissolution of her long marriage and pushed too far when husband Dan takes up with a significantly younger secretary – who bears a striking resemblance to Betty. While Betty watches her ex-husband's new lover stepping into her shoes, she begins to behave in an increasingly irrational manner. The younger woman, in a sense, erases Betty's existence, provoking a conflict of terror between husband and ex-wife. The film manages to convey Betty's utter frustration and helplessness as she lashes out more aggressively. Most press surrounding the Broderick case plants the blame for the cruelty of the divorce equally or squarely at the feet of Betty's attorney husband (played by Stephen Collins). Dan used his knowledge of the law and friends in high places to methodically wrest away control of Betty's finances and children, destroying her chance for a fair judicial decision – a factor this drama fails to detail adequately.

• "Woman With A Past" (NBC, March 2) could prompt viewers to wonder what lurks beneath that placid housewife veneer of friends and family. Pamela Reed stars as Dee Johnson, a wife, mother and businesswoman who has concealed her past to marry a California executive and quietly raise her two children from her previous marriage. But when the police discover Dee is a fugitive from justice, she is arrested and must finally reveal to her husband her long trek from a West Virginia prison to a California suburb.

• ABC airs a special two-hour pilot for their series "Young Indiana Jones Chronicles" with "Young Indiana Jones and the Curse of the Jackal" (ABC, March 4). Jones travels to Egypt where he meets Lawrence of Arabia and becomes embroiled in a mystery which eventually takes him years later to New Mexico, where he hooks up with Pancho Villa.

Blazers-Bulls game is matchup of NBA's best

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

Game 1 of NBC's National Basketball Association doubleheader on Sunday, March 1, between the visiting Portland Trail Blazers and the Chicago Bulls, may be a preview of May's NBA finals.

The Chicago Bulls have set a torrid pace right from the start of the season. At the midpoint, Jordan & Co. were maintaining a better than .800 pace, which was far and away the best in the NBA. The team with the next-best record was Portland, which was just managing to keep its nose above .700. During the first half of the season, the Bulls were almost unbeatable at Chicago Stadium, where they had lost on two of 24 games. And that doesn't bode well for Portland's chances Sunday.

Still, this year's Trail Blazers offer an interesting contrast to last year's squad, and they are clearly the strongest challengers to the Bulls' bid for a second consecutive NBA championship. The 1991-92 Blazers, which finished with the best record in the NBA, seemed to be headed for a finals showdown with the Bulls last season, until they were surprised, 4-2, by the Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Conference finals.

Although they're a bit behind last year's pace, many observers see a more versatile team this year. To the credit of management, they didn't panic after last year's disappointment and held on to the players who have brought the franchise so much success in recent seasons.

Clyde Drexler, the team's leader and top offensive weapon, is having another MVP-caliber season. At the All-Star break, the Glide was averaging 25 points per game and was chipping in with just over 6 rebounds per game. One pleasant development for the Blazers has been the emergence of second-year player Alaa Abdelnaby as a capable replacement at center for the sometimes underaggressive Kevin Duckworth.

The Blazers' thunder may be a bit more subdued than it was last year, but all indications are that there's the potential for a big explosion in the Pacific Northwest.

Game 2 of the doubleheader features the Utah Jazz visiting the Phoenix Suns.

• In college hoops on the networks, Sunday, March 1, on CBS, Connecticut plays Seton Hall in the Big East and Illinois plays Indiana in the Big Ten; ABC has regional coverage of Duke-UCLA and Vanderbilt-Kentucky. On Saturday, March 7, CBS is back in the Big East with Seton Hall against St. John's.

SOAP SCOOP

Another time, another place, 'Another World'

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Another World" delivered a genuine treat for soap viewers weary of the traditional Sturm und Drang of February sweeps with a special episode on Feb. 12.

Shot in black-and-white, "The Case of the Stolen Heart" was a joyful, humorous and endearing homage to the great '40s detective movies. Head writer Donna Swajeski picked the perfect genre to spotlight the love triangle of characters Cass Winthrop (renamed Cass A. Nova, played by Stephen Schnetzer), his belligerent ex and true love Frankie Frame (renamed Francesca Fame, played by Alice Barrett) and Dr. John Hudson (renamed Dr. Dapper and played by David Forsyth).

In tribute to "The Maltese Falcon," Frankie asked down-on-his-luck detective Cass to find the heart that had been stolen from her years ago, so that she could marry Dr. Dapper. In homage to "Casablanca," the action moved to Rick's Cafe Americain, (where Gerry Anthony, who plays Rick on the show, did a great Bogart sendup).

Other "AW" characters appeared as parodies of themselves: Rock star Dean Frame (played by Ricky Paull Goldin) doubled as club piano-player Dino. ("Where's Sam?" asked a puzzled Francesca, asking Dino to play her and Cass' song. "Sam got canned. He only knew one song," replied Dino.) Vampy villainess Donna Hudson (played by Anna Stuart) became steamy socialite Diana (who told Frankie that she shouldn't fret about her missing heart: "I haven't had one for years, and I'm still ticking.") Mobster manque Lucas (played by John Aprea) finally got the chance to brandish a real gun as goodfella Mr. Lucky. What fun!

The episode needled not only '40s movies, but soaps themselves. For example, when Dr. Dapper was asked what he did in his lab all day, he answered, "I'm working on a serum to rid the world of flashbacks." Executive producer Michael D. Laibson appeared as a comatose surgical patient of Dr. Dapper's. When the bad doctor needed a place to make love to Diana, he unceremoniously dumped Laibson's body off the operating table.

This episode was produced just like every other soap episode: all in one day. Even with those difficult limitations, the "AW" production staff managed to make "The Case of the Stolen Heart" really look like a '40s movie. The sets and costumes were fabulous and meticulous in detail, down to a little statue of a black bird in Cass' office.

IN FOCUS

On "Knots Landing," coping with the tragic aftermath of last week's shooting pulls Paige and Sumner closer together and seems to put their dormant romance back on track. Sumner remains unwilling or unable to verbalize his feelings, of course. Still, Anne (Michelle Phillips, pictured) sees enough to know that her own fling with him is over. The CBS drama, which has regained its form in its past few episodes, airs Thursday, March 5.

IN FOCUS

ABC's "Homefront" moves to a new time slot on Wednesday, March 4, with an episode in which strife over a lockout at the Sloan plant takes a violent turn. Before the conclusion, a gunshot will claim a major character as a victim. The lockout is a particularly divisive issue in the Metcalf family, where Anne (Wendy Phillips, r.) futilely tries to keep peace between her management son Hank and pro-union daughter Lin da (Jessica Steen, l.).

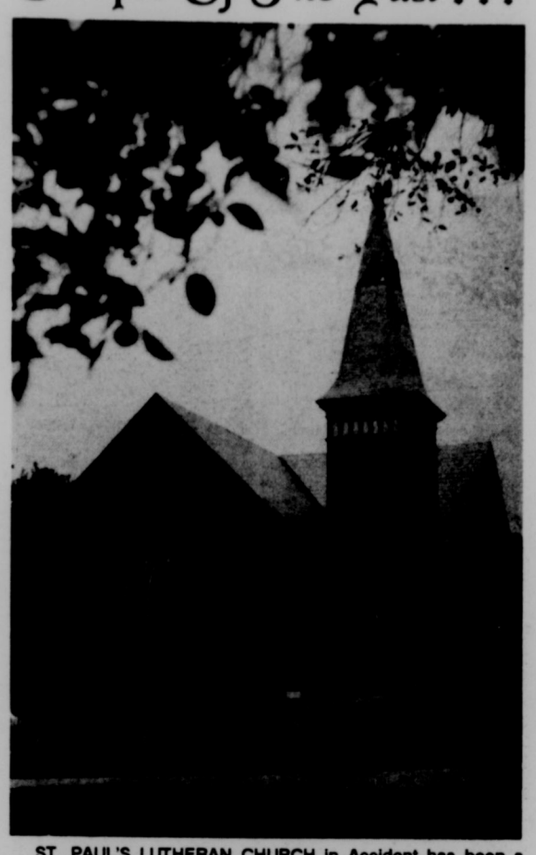
Registration For Kindergarten Set For April, May

The Garrett County Board of Education announces that the comprehensive preschool registration program which began 14 years ago as a joint venture with the Garrett County Health Department will be held again this year. This program is for all children entering kindergarten or first grade for the first time in September, 1992.

This registration program, which will be held in all elementary schools during April and May, has been developed to help identify strengths and needs of children and to identify early any problems that may interfere with a successful start in school, according to Albert Coviello, director of pupil services.

Because of a change in State regulations, parents must register any child who will be 5 years old before January 1, 1993. This new law allows exemptions to the school attendance requirements as follows:

*permits compliance through the home school instruction regulation;



*grant a one-year immaturity waiver if the parent or guardian makes a written request to the local school system;

*allows 5-year-olds to be enrolled in one of three alternative program settings -- a full-time licensed child care center, full-time registered family day care home, or part-time in a Head Start 5-year-old program.

Parents of children who meet the above qualifications are asked to fill out the registration blank at the end of this article and mail it to the designated address. However, parents who choose to use one of the exemptions from the required 5-year-old attendance must complete this pre-registration form and request an appointment so that the necessary exemption forms are completed. All parents registering children for school will receive a registration appointment.

Parents are requested to bring their child's birth certificate, an official immunization record, and social security number and to provide important information for the school's records during the registration. In addition, each child registering for school will receive a general health assessment, dental screening, vision/hearing screening, and a motor development assessment, if needed. Immunization for students will be available at registration upon request and for a fee based on the Garrett County Health Department sliding fee scale. Parents should be aware that a booster immunization for MMR (measles, mumps, and rubella) is required for kindergarten/first grade registrants.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH in Accident has been a congregation since 1842 and has been housed in this building since 1895. This photo of the church building was taken shortly after its dedication on November 3, 1895. The congregation, which is celebrating its 150th anniversary this year, was the first Lutheran congregation in the county. It was organized in Accident by the Allegany Synod. The church building, which is located at the corner of Accident-Friendsville Road and U.S. Rt. 219, will have its 100th birthday in three years. Area Taxpayers Filing Returns At Record Pace

Taxpayers in Maryland and the District of Columbia are filing their 1991 federal tax returns earlier this year based on figures announced by H.J. Hightower, director of the Baltimore District Office of the Internal Revenue Service.

"As of February 18, we've received a total of 680,624 tax returns from Maryland and D.C. filers. This represents a 9% increase over receipts at this same time last year." Hightower said.

On a nationwide basis, receipts are up 7.6% and processing is up 19.6% over last year's levels.

"Electronically filed returns in the Maryland/D.C. area are up 90% over last year. We've received 136,212 electronically filed returns as of February 18. This compares to 71,679 filed at this same time last year," Hightower said. Nationally, electronic returns are up 60% with 4,205,000 received so far this year compared to 2,626,000 received last year at this point in the filing season.

Hightower went on to state that, "as of February 18, we've mailed out 54,590 refund checks to taxpayers in Maryland and D.C. worth a total of $65.9 million so far. The average federal refund check is running at $1,208. That's up 34% over last year's average refund amount of $900."

"I would attribute this trend in filing early to the increase in the average federal refund amount, the speed associated with Electronic Filing (refunds back in three weeks), and the current economic climate wherein people are eager to file sooner to get their refund check sooner," Hightower said.

First Financial Corp. Announces Quarter Earnings

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland, Inc., the holding company for First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, has announced the net income for its second quarter ended December 31, 1991, was $1,540,765.

For the six months ending December 31, 1991, net income was $1,923,236. Approximately $990,000 of this figure was non-recurring income, resulting from the sale in October 1991 of a below investment grade security that was written off at June 30, 1991. The Bank continues to add to its loan loss reserves on a regular basis as a precautionary measure.

Total assets increased to $338.3 million at December 31, 1991, an increase of 2.2% over the balance at June 30, 1991. Total deposits rose to $313.8 million from $309.5 million while loans receivable declined 5.6% to $234.4 million at December 31, 1991. Mortgage-backed securities increased 19.3% to $38.0 million at the end of the period while interest-bearing deposits rose $15.6 million to $26.4 million.

At December 31, 1991, the Bank's capital ratios exceeded all current and fully phased-in regulatory capital requirements with 6.6% tangible, 6.6% core and 12.3% risk-based capital, respectively, compared to regulatory requirements of 1.5%, 3.0% and 7.2% (8% on 12/31/92). At December 31, 1991, cash and investment securities totaled $47,269,837, equal to 14% of assets.

On February 10, 1992, First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland and its subsidiary, First Federal Savings Bank, completed the Bank's conversion from mutual to stock form with the issuance of 1,380,000 shares of stock, which raised $13.8 million of gross proceeds for the holding company and the bank.

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland operates 11 offices in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties in Maryland.

"Bridge Of Blood" To Be Presented At Pleasant View

Word of Life presents the "Bridge of Blood" in readers theatre drama at the Pleasant View Baptist Church, (located 2 miles south of Oakland on Rt. 219) for one night only on Thursday, March 5 at 7:30.

Through music and drama, the events of the lives of Jim Elliot and his four-men missionary team are told. This drama, based on the true life and martyrdom of these men opens with widow, Elisabeth Elliot, recounting the events which lead to the calling of husband, Jim, and the team to Ecuador in South America. Years of preparation, seeking God's direction, fervent prayer, and complete abandon for the cause of Christ culminates in joyous contact with the feared Auca Indians, according to a church spokesperson.

Written by David H. Robey, and based on the events portrayed in the book "Two for Missions," this play is presented in readers theatre-style drama. With the focus in the audience, there is a feeling of being part of the story. Performers are not dependent upon costuming, setting or props.

"Bridge of Blood" is cast with the new Word of Life group, the Impact Singers, who are graduates of Word of Life Bible Institute, located in upstate New York. These students come from all over America. Founded in 1970, Word of Life Bible Institute offers a one-year college curriculum designed to establish young men and women in the Bible.

All tickets for this performance are free and can be ordered by calling 301-334-8515 or 1-800-835-6429 or writing to: Tickets, Word of Life, Box 600, Schroon Lake, NY 12870. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with ticket orders.

AUTO DEALERS DONATE TO SCHOOLS -- The Oakland area New Car Dealers Association, consisting of Oakview Motors, Shaffer Ford, and Team One, has become a "Partner in Education" with Sheila Edwards, educational consultant with Discovery Toys, by donating Discovery Toys products to elementary schools in Southern Garrett County. Bob Stuck, of Oakview Motors, speaking for the association, said that they were impressed with the toys and that the Association wanted to provide the students with some toys and games to help them have fun while learning. With budget constraints an ongoing reality, they felt that these toys might not otherwise be available. Over two-thirds of the product line can be used in a classroom setting, including library checkout, rotation through the grades, and peer tutoring. Pictured above, left to right, front row, are Bob Stuck, Oakview Motors and Herb Lambert, principal at Loch Lynn. In the back, same order, are: Rick Shaffer, Shaffer Ford, Greg Shockey, Team One, and Asa McCain, principal at Crellin. Not pictured is Sandra Nesline, principal at Red House.

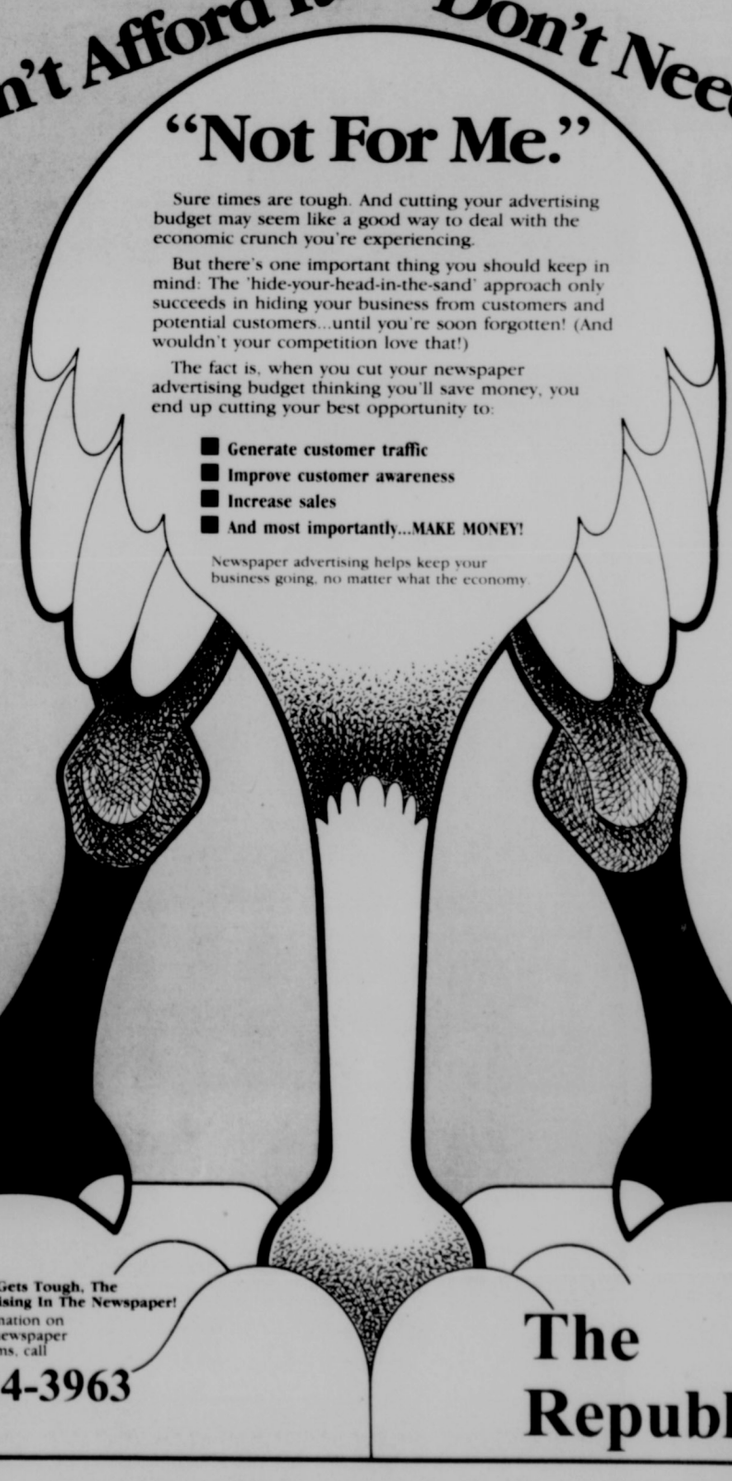
"I'm Doing Just Fine Without It"
"Can't Afford It." "Don't Need It."

"Not For Me."



Sure times are tough. And cutting your advertising budget may seem like a good way to deal with the economic crunch you're experiencing.

But there's one important thing you should keep in mind: The 'hide-your-head-in-the-sand' approach only succeeds in hiding your business from customers and potential customers...until you're soon forgotten! (And wouldn't your competition love that!)

The fact is, when you cut your newspaper advertising budget thinking you'll save money, you end up cutting your best opportunity to:

- Generate customer traffic
- Improve customer awareness
- Increase sales
- And most importantly...MAKE MONEY!

Newspaper advertising helps keep your business going, no matter what the economy.

How To Save Up To $35,507.25 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save a substantial amount of interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage, new from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make ½ a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that ½ a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments—or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly, meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing two checks a month instead of one.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	10.00% A.P.R. (Fixed)
Term:	15 Years
Monthly Payment:	$806.25
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$403.13
Total Paid (Monthly):	$145,125.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$131,823.51
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$13,301.49

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 YEARS AND 7 MONTHS, INSTEAD OF 15!

Mortgage Amount	$75,000
Interest Rate:	8.00% A.P.R.* (Adjustable)
Term:	30 Years
Monthly Payment:	$550.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT:	$275.25
Total Paid (Monthly):	$198,180.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY):	$162,672.75
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$35,507.25

AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 22 YEARS AND 9 MONTHS INSTEAD OF 30!

Extension Veterinarian Explains Milk Quality Assurance Program

The Milk Quality Assurance Program was the topic of discussion by Dr. Doug Carmel at the farm information workshop held February 13 at the Pleasant Valley Community Building. Dr. Carmel, state veterinarian, University of Maryland, reviewed the proper and appropriate use of drugs on the farm, and referred to the additional Pasteurized Milk Ordinance regulations which became effective January 1, 1992, concerning the screening of all bulk milk tankers for drug residues.

The focus of the Milk Quality Assurance Program (MQAP) is voluntary, Carmel said, adding that the program only becomes mandatory for those who have had their permit suspended after being found with drug residues for a third time in a 12-month period. In that case, the producer will not be reinstated by the regulatory agency until the responsible producer and a licensed veterinarian have signed a quality assurance certificate for display in the milk house. This certificate states that the "milk and dairy beef residue prevention protocol" is in place and being implemented for the dairy herd from which the adulterated milk was shipped.

Dr. Carmel stressed that producers should voluntarily participate in the Quality Assurance Program for three reasons. 1. To use the program as a management tool for proper drug use and residue avoidance. 2. To maintain consumer confidence in dairy products. 3. To maintain availability of over-the-counter and prescription drugs.

The new regulations which went into effect January 1 were: all loads are to be tested for beta lactam (penicillin-like) drug residues; random sampling for other drugs; all positive test, whether official or screening, reported to regulatory officials; a two-day minimum suspension for violators.

In addition, as of July 1, 1992, residue violation results in the loss of a Grade A permit, and violators must complete a 10 point Quality Assurance Program before regaining a Grade A permit.

Also, as of July 1, 1993, the SCC limit will drop from one million to 750,000.

The Milk Quality Assurance Program includes having a herd health program in place. The program would cover nutrition, housing and sanitation, reproduction, vaccination and parasite control, biosecurity, and mastitis prevention.

Dr. Carmel said that each herd health program would be unique.

Point two would establish a valid veterinarian, client, patient relationship. This relationship would be mandatory for extra-label use. The producer would agree to follow the veterinarian's instructions. The veterinarian must examine the animal to be treated, and would be available for follow-up.

Point three requires that the producer use only FDA-approved over-the-counter or prescription drugs with the veterinarian's guidance. Dr. Carmel explained that over-the-counter drugs can be bought by anyone; prescription drugs can be dispensed by the veterinarian only. He also said that some drugs are prohibited from use by anyone.

Point four states that the producer make sure all drugs used have labels that comply with state and/or federal labeling requirements. Carmel advised the farmers to know the labeling requirements for over-the-counter, prescription and extra label use drugs.

Point five says to store all drugs correctly. Drugs for lactating cows should be stored separate from non-lactating animals, Carmel said.

Point six requires producers to administer all drugs properly and identify all treated animals. Dr. Carmel said that includes knowing the route of administration, the dosage to give, and developing an ID plan based on need and acceptability.

Point seven advises farmers to maintain and use proper treatment records on all treated animals. This would include the treatment date, how the treatment was administered, the drug used, and the withdrawal time for milk and/or meat.

Point eight advises the use of drug residue screening tests. Dr. Carmel says this means knowing which animals to test and when, which specific tests are needed, and who will do the testing. He added that the quality of the milk is the dairyman's responsibility, therefore it's best to get a milk sample tested at the milk plant.

Point nine says to implement employee/family awareness of proper drug use to avoid marketing adulterated products. Carmel stressed that each person working with the dairy herd know this information to avoid accidents.

Point 10 requires the producer to complete the quality assurance checklist annually.

In conclusion, Dr. Carmel stressed that all dairymen should avoid risk. "If you treat it; withold it; test it. Avoid mistakes: If you treat it; mark it; record it; communicate it."

Workshop Offered On Rural Income Opportunities

Farmers and other rural landowners can learn how to produce additional income from their property at a workshop on "Income Opportunities for Rural Areas Utilizing Your Natural Resources."

Sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, and the Small Business Development Center, the workshop will be held Saturday, April 4, at the Center for Career and Technical Education in Cresaptown, Md., just five miles south of Cumberland on Rt. 220.

"Last year was the first year we offered this workshop, and the response was overwhelming," says Jonathan Kays, a natural resources specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources. "The 180 participants made it clear that private landowners are interested in using their natural resources to meet recreational demands and provide nontraditional products and services."

Kays believes the continuing recession will only increase interest in alternative income-producing enterprises.

The workshop will help prospective entrepreneurs get started by providing them with information on how to produce, market and finance a variety of non-traditional products and services.

The morning program will begin with an evaluation of different possible enterprises. A group of experts will then address such issues as how to develop a business plan, financial considerations, and risk management and liability.

As part of a panel discussion, a professional marketing consultant will explain the marketing considerations involved in establishing or improving a business. Other panelists will describe various marketing scenarios and then respond to questions.

After lunch, participants will attend two hour-long sessions, choosing among such topics as aquaculture opportunities; dried and cut flowers; forest product enterprises; starting a plant nursery; deer farming of fallow deer; small fruits; and grapes, wines and vineyards.

The $9 registration fee includes lunch, breaks and informational materials.

Pre-registration is required by March 27 and is being handled by the Allegany County office of the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources. Call this office at (301) 724-3320 or your local Cooperative Extension Service office in Maryland, Pennsylvania or West Virginia for a workshop brochure.

Kays suggests registering early to ensure getting the afternoon workshop session of your choice.

Miller Named Head Of Md. Ag. Institute

Dr. Ray Miller has been named President of the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources. The institute administers Maryland's Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Miller, who joined the University of Maryland in 1986, formerly served as Dean of the Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences at the University of Maryland at College Park, and Vice-Chancellor for Agricultural Affairs and Natural Resources for the University of Maryland System.

How Endangered Species Act Affects Agriculture

There are two ways the Endangered Species Act affects farmers and ranchers. Through its Section 7, it requires that any time an action involves the participation of a federal agency, that agency must consult with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to determine if the project will adversely affect an endangered species or its habitat. If it does, the project either must be modified or canceled.

"Federal involvement" is defined in broad terms. It can be any action in which the federal government participates financially, any action in which a federal permit is involved or any action involving federal technical assistance. It covers, among other things, participation in farm programs, livestock grazing permits and section 404 permits for dredging or filling wetlands or other water areas.

The second way the act affects farmers and ranchers is through Section 9, which prohibits the "taking" of any listed species or its habitat. "Taking" is also broadly defined to include not only killing a listed species, but taking any action that might affect the breeding, feeding or shelter of any listed species. It also includes any action that might adversely affect the habitat of any listed species. It includes actions taken on private property as well as on federal lands.

Incorporating Pre-emergence Herbicides

There is a potential for some real serious weed problems in many of our corn fields this year, particularly those fields that were under severe drought stress and planted late in the season. It has been shown that most of your pre-emergence herbicides will increase in activity with a light incorporation. There is one exception and that is with the herbicide Prowl. It is important to keep Prowl off the corn seed. So, if you're using other herbicides such as Bicep, Atrazine, Dual, Lasso, Princep, etc., and you think you may have a potential for large weed population, you may want to lightly incorporate the herbicide immediately after application.

Dairy Seminar -- You're Invited!

"Herd Health, Calf Raising, Udder Health, Heat Stress and Balancing Feeding Rations," will be the topics covered by Dr. James Price, DVM Consultant for Southern States Cooperative. Southern States at Mt. Lake Park, is inviting anyone interested in the seminar to attend. The seminar will be held on Tuesday, March 3, 10:00 a.m., at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, south of Oakland. Southern States will provide lunch, however, you need to make reservations right away by calling 334-3121.

Drought Resistant Corn

I am sure you are reading the same articles I am about the potential for another dry growing season in the Mid-Atlantic region. There seems to be a particular continuous airstream that has the potential to keep rain out of our area. There are certain Hybrid corn varieties that can withstand drought conditions better than others. My advice would be to check with your seed dealer for guidance in selecting drought-resistant varieties. The seed may cost a little more, but seed selection is not the place to cut costs.

Private Pesticide Applicator's License

For those of you who missed the pesticide test last month, you can take the test on Friday, March 13, in Cumberland. The test will be given at 7:00 p.m. at the South Cumberland Library. You will need to make reservations by calling the Allegany Extension Office at 301-724-3320. The next exam for Garrett County will be this fall unless enough people contact my office to justify having MDA come up to give the test.

FB Joins Coalition In Opposing Wetlands Manual Delay

The American Farm Bureau Federation joined with the National Wetlands Coalition and others to oppose legislation that would delay final action on a new federal wetlands manual.

During the last congressional session, legislation (H.R. 3578) was introduced that would direct the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to contract with the National Academy of Sciences for a 12-month review of the "environmental research basis for wetlands delineation."

The measure would delay action on a new manual for at least 18 months after the legislation is enacted.

"The bill serves no needed purpose except delay," the coalition said in a letter urging the House Science Committee to oppose the bill. It would add even more uncertainty "to the current efforts of the administration to establish rational rules for delineating wetlands.

"Although intended to provide scientific certainty where little exists, the bill, as a practical matter, can do little more than introduce yet a fifth federal agency into an arena that is already overcrowded with confusion, in-decision and conflicting views," the letter said.

The coalition pointed out that it was not surprising that the 1991 proposal has been subject to considerable controversy and criticism because "the manual it attempts to correct (1989 manual) is itself badly flawed, and wetlands science is not absolute."

Farm Bureau and the coalition told the committee, "Congressional efforts should be lent to encouraging the expeditious completion of this process and not to delaying it. Resolution of this issue is an urgent matter. The result of the last four years of controversy and in-decision has been regulatory chaos."

However well-intended, H.R. 3578 at best will produce additional scientific opinion in an area that is already rich with it, the coalition said.

"What we lack is not 'science,'" the letter said. "What we have lacked until now is a valid public process for examining the enormous body of science that already exists and fashioning from that a clear set of reasonable rules that both regulators and the public understand."

Last fall, an amendment by Rep. Wayne Gilchrest to refer the wetlands manual to the National Academy of Sciences for a study was added to a supplemental appropriations bill. It was defeated 241-181 on the House floor.

Sensitive Resource Stewardship Issue Before Group

Agriculturalists, environmentalists and regulators will join forces to address critical issues at a discussion forum, "Sensitive Resource Stewardship: The Challenge of Achieving The Balance," scheduled for February 29 at the Loews Hotel, 126 West Street in Annapolis.

The event is being cosponsored by the Maryland Farm Bureau, the Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts and the Maryland Land Trust Alliance. This event will offer the unique opportunity to hear and discuss current land use issues from a variety of perspectives. Topics of concern include growth management and sensitive resources.

The forum, open to the public, is slated to begin at 9:30 a.m. and run to 2:30 p.m. The afternoon session will offer four topic-oriented small group discussion. Registration is required.

Endangered Species Act Impacts Property Rights

Editor's note: This article by Joan Waldoch is reprinted, with permission, from the February 24 issue of Farm Bureau News.

As efforts to expand the list of endangered species increase throughout the nation, the threat to private property rights is also escalating.

While the northern spotted owl listing and its effect on the Pacific Northwest have generated the most controversy, the ramifications of the issue have profound effects in other regions as well.

"The escalating number of listings and creations of critical habitat are affecting more and more 'human' activities nationwide," according to Jon Doggett, an American Farm Bureau Federation assistant director of national affairs. "It's becoming clear that endangered species decisions now touch every region of the United States."

Since its origin in 1973, the Endangered Species Act -- aimed at conserving endangered species of plant and animal life -- has been broadened and strengthened to the point, Doggett said, that critics now charge it with being completely out of balance.

"It focuses only on biological matters with no consideration of social, economic or constitutional impacts of listing decisions," he said.

Endangered species listing petitions have been filed in every state and most territories. In total, more than 8,000 petitions have been filed; each listing petition requires prompt action by the federal government.

The current authorization for the act expires October 12. Doggett said it is expected to be reauthorized in some form prior to that date, although reauthorization may be limited to a short extension of the existing law.

Congress could decline to reauthorize the act during 1992 for a number of reasons -- such as the November election and "voter perception of environmental legislation that may affect jobs and the economy," Doggett said. Failure to reauthorize the act, however, likely would be viewed by federal courts as "not barring actions under the law as long as funds were appropriated to carry out the law's purpose."

Rick Krause, AFBF assistant counsel, noted that courts and regulatory agencies have interpreted the law "far broader than anyone ever intended." He said it is no longer used only to protect endangered animals and plants, but rather is being used "as a land use management and zero-growth statute of the most pervasive kind."

During the act's first 15 years, there was only one major human vs. species conflict, Krause said. That was the snail darter case that halted development of the Tellico Dam until Congress eventually resolved the dispute and allowed development -- and numerous snail darters were later found in the area.

In recent years the list of examples has grown to include the spotted owl, the desert tortoise in the Southwest, the Snake and Columbia rivers salmon, the scrub jay in Florida, the delta smelt in California and two amphibians in Texas, to cite only a few.

"In all of these cases, there were major human activities taking place or proposed that would enhance the growth and economic well-being of the area," Krause said. "The cases involving the delta smelt, salmon and the amphibians in Texas threaten to halt necessary water supplies to major regions."

According to Pat Cockrell, director of commodity activities with the Florida Farm Bureau Federation, the scrub jay issue is a threat to landowner's rights -- and their pocketbooks. Last year, about 550 landowners in Highlands and Polk counties received letters from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service informing them that their land is a potential habitat for the Florida scrub jay and, as such, could not be disturbed.

"In order for them to do anything with their land, they must prove that there were no scrub jays on their land for the past five years," Cockrell said. Some landowners have had to hire environmental consultants to determine whether there is a threat to the endangered species, resulting in exorbitant costs, he said -- as much as $20,000 per landowner, by one estimate.

"We feel that if you get a letter saying you can't use your land until you prove there's no threat to endangered species on your land and you have to pay to find out...your property rights are eroding," Cockrell said.

He noted that timber harvests in Florida have been restricted by another endangered species, the red cockaded woodpecker. Its nesting habitat is in mature saw timber (pine trees). With restrictions on timber harvests in the habitat -- as well as in a buffer around the timber areas -- "it really limits the harvest of timber," Cockrell said.

Some of the timber-producing counties have large amounts of federally owned forestland, meaning a low tax base for that county. There is, however, a provision that a portion of the timber sales be remitted back to the county, "so there is an effort to at least give something back to the county and provide a tax base for schools and so forth. But because of the Endangered Species Act, there has been a reduction in the timber harvest and it's having negative impacts on county budgets."

Human health is also a concern in at least one area, Cockrell mentioned. That is due to the presence of the salt marsh snake, an ocean snake found in brackish water and coastal fresh water canals. "Because of this endangered species, there can be no type of mosquito control that may threaten this snake," Cockrell said. "In Florida we tend to have mosquitoes year-round, so we're looking at a human health concern as well as an economic concern. There are at least two or three outbreaks of encephalitis each year."

In Texas, protection of the red cockaded woodpecker is also an issue. It has been particularly restrictive for small, privately owned timber smaller operations, according to Ned Meister, director of regulatory affairs with Texas Farm Bureau.

"Our biggest concern with the act is that no consideration is given to the economic impact on private property owners if an endangered species is found to be threatened," Meister said. "It's had a profound effect on our timber industry."

In Travis County, Texas, plans to create a huge wildlife refuge northwest of Austin, primarily to preserve two songbirds, threaten to cause a major economic impact. Private landowners are being prohibited from doing anything that will disturb the habitat and as a result, property values have fallen, economic development has halted and agricultural operations are in limbo.

In Florida, Cockrell noted, Farm Bureau is working with the Department of Agriculture and other groups on a cooperative project that seeks to find common ground on this issue. The state of Florida developed its own pesticide labeling program under the Endangered Species Act; under way now is a pilot program aimed at integrating protection of the species with use of certain products.

The program is aimed at "identifying the species we can work with and then deciding what can be protected," he said. Currently the project includes three plant species and three animals.

"We hope this will allow both factions to work together," Cockrell said. "If we start talking buffers and total restrictions on the landowner, we have problems. With this program, we hope to at least come to a consensus."

Emmanuel Church To Host World Day Of Prayer

The Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger, will host a World Day of Prayer program Friday, March 6, with registration at 12:30 p.m. All church women are invited to attend.

World Day of Prayer is an annual worship event sponsored in the United States by Church Women United and observed simultaneously in 170 countries and regions of the world on the first Friday in March. Initiated in the United States in 1887, World Day of Prayer "acts as a catalyst to bond Christian women into a powerful community of faith as they participate in this globe encircling petition for peace and justice in the world," stated a program spokesman.

"Living Wisely with Creation" is the theme for the 105th World Day of Prayer. The service was written by women of Austria, Switzerland, and the Federal Republic of Germany. According to the spokesman, it also expresses concern about the threats to the environment through the overuse and misuse of modern technologies. "These European sisters issue an urgent call to women and men in every corner of the globe to make the necessary changes in their lives to restore and heal the resources of this planet," the spokesman said.

Each year Church Women United prepares and distributes the worship resources for more than 6,000 U.S. communities and churches where World Day of Prayer is observed. The responsibility of selecting the themes and writers for these prayer services, however, is done through the International Committee for World Day of Prayer, composed of members from participating countries who gather every four years for that task.

Translated into hundreds of languages and dialects each year, World Day of Prayer is one of the most widely distributed pieces of literature in the world.

WOMEN PLAN PROGRAM -- The Garrett County planning group for Church Women United met at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Accident, on February 17 to finalize the World Day of Prayer service to be held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Bittinger, on March 6. Registration will begin at 12:30 p.m. All church women are encouraged to attend. Pictured left to right, first row, are Helen Silber, Hazel Margraff, Martha Glotfelty, Sally Steyer, and Charlotte Mousch. In the second row, same order, are Helen Keller, Ferne Beachy, Audrey Brennemen and Lori Schmuck.

Coldwell Banker Holds Annual Rally Meeting

Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty associates gathered recently to recognize accomplishments of the past year and prepare for 1992. Broker/Owner Robert Huebner commended the gathered sales associates for their performance in 1991 and asked for a commitment to the concept of "Service" in the coming year. "If you put the thought of service foremost in your mind, and act on it, business will follow," he said.

Sales associates were recognized for outstanding performance in 1991. Leading the company in the highest number of listings sold and the highest number of units (combined listings sold and buyer-controlled sales) was Jim Friend. Debbie Friend was recognized for contributing the highest number of buyer-controlled sales. Goldie Shugars registered the highest number of outgoing customer referrals, and Mary Jo Lyons received the award for the highest gross commission income.

Other Coldwell Banker highlights of 1991 include the introduction of Coldwell Banker University, an ongoing program of education for Coldwell Banker Real Estate professionals. This training system, exclusive to Coldwell Banker, has extensive class schedules available throughout the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico which include a comprehensive series of courses on ways to improve real estate sales and management skills. A graduate of Coldwell Banker University will be uniquely qualified to respond to challenges in the competitive real estate field. Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty associates are involved in both the Sales and Management programs of the university.

Another 1991 highlight was the introduction of the Coldwell Banker Best Buyer™ Home Protection Plan. This leading-edge consumer protection product is the combined effort of Coldwell Banker Residential Group, North America's premier residential real estate company, American Home Shield, the nations's largest and oldest home warranty company and Sears Product Services, America's largest appliance service organization with 800 service centers and over 17,000 technicians.

"The Best Buyer Home Protection Plan gives a new homeowner peace of mind after the sale," said Diane Robeson, sales manager of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty. "It offers one full year of home warranty coverage for items such as heating, plumbing, electrical systems, water heaters and major built-in kitchen appliances. Optional coverage is available for air conditioning, swimming pools, spas and other items. Local home-owners and homebuyers will be pleased to know that since the introduction of the program last summer, the base cost of a service call has actually been reduced, making this coverage even more attractive."

Meese Attends Training School

Area Lutheran Brotherhood registered representative David L. Meese, FIC, Berlin, Pa., recently completed one of the fraternal benefit society's training schools. He serves as an investment product training coordinator (IPTC) for the Joseph Ruisi Agency headquartered in Johnstown.

The school, held Feb. 2-5, emphasized Lutheran Brotherhood's investment philosophy, purpose and provisions, and strove to enhance the role of the IPTC as a member of the Society's training system at the agency level. Participants had the opportunity to improve their presentation skills, fine-tune their investment knowledge, and share sales ideas, product insights, and training issues. Employees from all investment-related areas of Lutheran Brotherhood served as faculty.

As a Lutheran Brotherhood district representative, Meese provides life and health insurance, annuities and fraternal benefits to Lutherans in the area. As a registered representative, he also provides mutual funds and other investment products through Lutheran Brotherhood Securities Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Lutheran Brotherhood.

Environmental Groups Introduce Wetlands Bill

Wetlands legislation that is supported by environmental groups and characterized as an alternative to the Hayes/Ridge bill was introduced in the House last week by Rep. Don Edwards (D-Calif.).

Mark Maslyn, an American Farm Bureau Federation assistant director of national affairs, said the bill has been anticipated. At this time it does not have a Senate sponsor.

The legislation would postpone the revisions to the wetlands manual until the National Academy of Sciences studies the issue. In addition it would clarify exemptions for artificial wetland areas stemming from agricultural irrigation and it would extend the prior converted exemption in Section 404 of the Clean Water Act, if included after a public notice, comment and rule-making process.

GCFT Notes Nominations For Teaching Awards

The Garrett County Federation of Teachers has announced that a team of teachers from Northern High School, headed by Jeff Montgomery, has been nominated by GCFT member Betty Wellborn and GCFT to receive the Readers Digest, "Heros In Education Award" for 1991-1992. The team also includes Eric Perfetti, Scott Stough, Gary Reichenbecher, Barbara Law, Jackie Davis, and Bill Kolbe.

The group was responsible for the construction, furnishing, and marketing of several houses with the help of many of the Northern High School students.

The Federation also announced the nomination of Don Lipscomb for the American Federation of Teachers' "Diamond Service Award." This award recognizes local members who have made outstanding contributions to their organizations and communities.

Lipscomb has taught mathematics for more than 20 years at Southern High School and was president of the Garrett County Federation of Teachers for more than 14 years. Among his accomplishments are a collective bargaining agreement for head custodians and cafeteria managers, and receipt of the John Dewey Award. He also represented a number of school board employees to insure due process and employee rights.

Real Estate Facts

by Robert Huebner, Broker
Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty

What is a Listing?

Listing your home for sale can be an important first step towards its eventual sale. But, what is a listing and how does it work?

A "listing" is an employment contract in which property owners authorize a licensed real estate broker to act on their behalf by procuring a buyer for their real property for a fee. Listings contain various basic elements such as: 1) duration of the listing, 2) price and terms, 3) property description, and 4) commission or compensation.

The duration of the listing is a time period agreed upon by the sellers and the real estate broker. The listing period can be any length of time, and may be based on the average selling time for the property being listed.

A listing should also contain the price at which the owners are willing to sell, as well as any other terms of sale required by the seller. The broker can then work to procure a buyer "ready, willing and able" to make the purchase at that price and on those terms.

In order to properly identify the real estate covered by the listing, the legal description of the property is included. This spells out precisely which parcel of real estate the broker is authorized to represent.

The commission or compensation to the broker will also be a part of the listing agreement. It is most commonly stated as a percentage of the final sale price or as a flat fee, and is usually payable at settlement. Fees are not fixed by the government or real estate licensing authority, but are negotiable between the broker and the property owner.

When property owners give a listing to a licensed broker, a new relationship is created between them, called an "agency relationship." The real estate broker, the "agent," becomes authorized to act on behalf of the owner, known as the "principal," for the sole purpose of procuring a buyer for the property.

Choose your broker carefully. To make an informed decision about listing your property for sale, ask for a detailed explanation of the listing process!

Garrett County Voter's Guide

The Republican and Garrett County League of Women Voters joined forces once again to provide the following information to the voters of Garrett County just prior to the Maryland primary election, slated for next Tuesday, March 4. Hopefully the biographical information and the candidates' responses to various questions posed by the League will assist local voters in making their choices.

On the ballot (see sample inside these pages) will be persons seeking the Republican and Democrat nominations for: President, U.S. Senate (Md.), House of Representatives (Md. Sixth District), and Delegates to the National Conventions of both parties. In the non-partisan category are six candidates to fill two seats on the Garrett County Board of Education. The top four vote-getters in the primary election will vie in the General Election in November for the two seats.

Republican Candidates For U.S. Senate

1. Do you favor a national health care plan? If so, explain why. If not, what alternative would you propose?

2. What measures do you propose to revitalize the economy?

3. What legislation would you favor to implement an energy policy for our nation?

1. On January 10, I unveiled a proposal to provide a basic standard of health care with complete access to everyone. Based on the German system, our plan calls for privatizing the entire health care system. Taxpayer dollars now spent towards maintaining the federal health care bureaucracy will be allocated entirely for patient care. The cost to individuals is based on ones ability to pay.

2. In addition to health care, his question addresses two of our four major campaign themes. First, we must reduce the high rate of unemployment. Elected officials need to attract new business, jobs and opportunities to Maryland and protect the jobs we already have. In addition, restructure Americ's tax system so that it encourages saving, promotes investment and job creation, and is equitable to everyone.

3. Provide investment tax credits for research and development to encourage the discovery and use of alternative energy sources. I would also support programs for low income individuals.

Credited with stopping efforts to legalize marijuana and heroin. Closed drug paraphernalia in shops in Maryland.

1. Prefer revising present system to allow greater choice in care. Would support commission study of systems in Germany, Canada and Great Britain to determine what segments might work for U.S.

Believe we must gear American health care more toward massive prevention efforts particularly in drug/alcohol/tobacco, teen sexuality, early disease detection.

2. Increase deductions for capital gains; reinstate IRA; tax credit for research and development; across the board tax cut, 3-5 percent; tax credit to employers who hire and train welfare recipients.

3. I would encourage conservation and support for legislation seeking alternative energy sources with strong support for maintaining environmental safeguards.

1. Yes. It is important that we develop a joint government/private sector health care program to keep health care costs in check and affordable. It should not be solely dependent on federal funds, but must carry a shared burden to avoid misuse and abuse.

2. Reduction of income tax with ultimate long-term goals to connect to a consumption tax on other than are necessities. Reduction of business requirements to which deter from market expansion, creating new jobs and saving jobs. Legislation that will encourage venture capital and capital investments in restructing current business to meet global competition on the offensive.

3. Legislation that would encourage developing alternate energy resources to include alternative sources for petroleum and coal. Clean burning energy should have the highest priority for future environmental reasons. Tax credits should be available to companies which legitimate research and development of attestative fuels.

HERMAN J. HANNAN

Education/Experience

I have never held political office. However, with business experience transcending the insurance, securities, real estate, restaurant, and seafood businesses, I have met with and testified before all levels of government on behalf of small businesses, generally receiving the response "we just didn't realize the consequences of this legislation." We obviously need more businessmen, and fewer lawyers, social workers, and full-time politicians in elected offices.

1. No. Consider the following reforms to make the current system more affordable: eliminate costly state mandated benefits and legal barriers to managed care; reform malpractice laws and underwriting for small businesses; moderate health-care cost increases; offer full tax deductibility of premiums for all businesses. This will guarantee that coverage already provided to 85 percent of the population, will not be undercut by a government-run program.

2. Revitalizing the economy requires a change in the tax structure so that investors can be adequately and reasonably rewarded: this means a reduction in the capital gains tax. We simply must provide greater incentive to the small investor. Another consideration on the macro-economic scale strongly argues that we reduce the bureaucratic bloat in the federal government: we must downsize and modernize.

3. An effective national energy policy has to be carefully planned and rigorously coordinated. Our nation has the natural resources and wealth to meet our energy needs; the country needs an incentives program that will motivate investors to develop these resources. We should reduce reliance on foreign energy imports and target a national policy of energy independence.

1. Yes, I do favor a national health plan. I am in the process of putting together a proposal for a national health care based on the medicaid/medicare Canadian, German, and Japanese health care systems. I feel that with 36 million Americans lacking proper health insurance, the American taxpayer is being burdened with excessive fees to pay the cost.

2. One of the first most important things is putting people back to work and educating them in modern technologies. We need to cut the capital gains, which will benefit all Americans, rich or poor, and stimulate the real estate and putting more money in the American market. We need tax write-offs for loans to buy U.S. manufactured goods, such as automobiles, homes, large quantities of American made textiles. Tax incentives for employers who create positions for employment of low income. C.C.C. back-to-work program similar to that of early '30s.

3. Tax benefits for businesses and industries that reduce toxic admissions, tax benefits for individuals who buy electrical automotive transportation. All new home owners should be required to have an alternate heat system such as solar, or wind-powered generation. We need to cut the use of fossil fuels by 25 percent by the year 2000.

Member Chapel Hill, Pine Grove PTA's, Learning Disabilities Assoc., and Baltimore County Gifted and Talented Assoc., 17 years semi-pro football.

1. Yes, I do favor a coordinated national plan of health care. It should encompass benefits now covered by Workmen's Compensation, Group Insurance, military, veterans and all public health care programs. I do not trust the federal government to manage the money or collect the premiums. We must reduce the cost escalators of health care. Malpractice, liability, and paper claim forms begin the list.

2. There are no magic buttons controlling our economy. Incessant bad news from the media doesn't help. Consumers aren't voting American with their checkbooks. Americans must turn that around. Inventors should manufacture with American labor who must own an enviable reputation for quality, productivity and profitability. Stability, especially of the tax code, is what businesses and consumers need to have long term growth goals and plans.

3. We need to utilize all conservation means and measures to reduce energy dependence. Legislation mandating the immediate switch to more efficient light bulbs, electric motors, and emphasizing mass transit solutions rather than new roads and parking lots is needed. We should consider the hydrocarbon emission concept proposed by environmental scientists. We should require the biggest polluter, governments, to abide by the law.

Former President of School Board Nominating Convention of Baltimore County, Hampton PTA, Ridgely PTA, former board member Child Abuse Prevention Center of Maryland and Greater Baltimore Medical Center.

1. Health care costs are out of control and basic care must be more accessible, but the answer should not be to create a huge new federal bureaucracy. I favor reform that 1) cuts ever-growing administrative paperwork costs, 2) places greater emphasis on preventive care, and 3) reduces expensive but medically unnecessary procedures doctors now order primarily out of concern for potential legal liability.

2. We must let taxpayers keep more of the money they earn, and stop runaway deficit spending. We need a balanced budget amendment and the line-item veto. Congress should immediately pass a stimulus package including tax credits of up to $1,000 per child for our working families, an IRA-plus plan, a reduction in the capital gains tax, and investment tax credits to create jobs.

3. Just over a year ago, I supported letting the men and women of Desert Storm protect our national interests against Saddam Hussein. It was a dramatic reminder of how dependent we are on energy supplies from a very volatile part of the world. I favor policies that would increase environmentally safe domestic production and promote conservation, encourage market development of alternative motor vehicle fuels and oppose higher gasoline tax.

1. No. Quality health care for all Americans would be impossible with a national health care system. I would introduce the following plan, the Federal Health Assistance Program. This program would cover health care for families with children from birth to 16 years of age and would be based solely on ability to pay. We must guarantee the opportunity for all children to obtain quality health care.

2. Reinstate tax deductions for second home mortgages and interest deductions for personal loans and credit cards. Cap credit card interest rates at five percent above the prime rate with a maximum of 16.5 percent. These measures, stimulating new home starts, would subsequently create employment opportunities across the market base. These measures would also make the people willing to invest and spend money on durable goods.

3. I would support legislation that reduces our dependency on oil and other fossil fuels. Legislation that provides incentives to world industries to develop alternative fuels and power sources. This rush to new power sources, must however be tempered by common sense and with reasonable concerns for public safety. This legislation should also address the efficiency of our automobiles and other energy consuming devices.

ALAN KEYES
SILVER SPRING

1. There is no simple, Socialist panacea for what ails America! While the quality of our health care generally remains high, skyrocketing costs mean limited access for 34 million un-insured. Launching insurance reform, emphasizing preventive medicine, curtailing excessive litigation, and legislating family tax credits will all help make health care affordable again. Nationalized health care is an extreme and probably unworkable alternative!

2. The economy's vitality will be restored when resources are returned to its most productive precinct -- the private sector. That means cutting taxes and billions in wasteful spending at the state and federal levels. Slashing the capital gains tax will help restore rewards for risks and encourage capital investment. We must stop the flood of federally-mandated regulations that put American industries at a competitive disadvantage.

3. Ending American dependence on fossil fuels and encouraging private sector development of cheap and clean alternatives must be a long term goal of any sensible energy policy. Until incentives for developing such alternatives are restored, we must maintain a sensible balance between the interests of an energy-hungry nation and the environment.

Brings 61 years of lifetime experience to campaign. The major reason for his campaign is to request the authority of Marylanders (votes) to change the organization of the federal government. Namely, (A) to establish an American Export Agency; (B) to establish a National Health Agency; and (C) to balance the federal budget.

1. Part (B) of my campaign would establish a National Health Agency. Any and all federal expenditures on health matters would be controlled by one government organization.

2. Part (A) of my campaign plan would establish an American Export Agency. I would expect trade and American goods to be shipped to every nation and the ports therein which would create many jobs.

3. My campaign is limited to the major issues facing the nation. I do not foresee any change in the present policy.

1. No. The main problem with our health care system is that the dollars are not spent wisely. The problem is in the delivery system. Insurance premiums should be made more affordable and should cover preventive care, because the benefits of early detection far outweigh the costs. For example, the emotional and financial costs of breast cancer may be prevented if insurance companies covered routine mammograms.

2. First, as a nation we must learn to live within our means by controlling Congressional spending through a balanced budget amendment and giving the President a line-item veto. Second, I will bring new jobs to the ports, cities, and neighborhoods of Maryland by leading business delegations -- small and large -- to oil-rich states in the Persian Gulf and the new Soviet Union. Finally, investing the "peace dividend" on job creation through an apprenticeship program.

3. Given the reality that the U.S. will be dependent on Persian Gulf oil to the tune of 40 percent within the next few years, legislation calling for an investment in democracy in that region should be a priority. Free democratic governments in that region are the best guarantee for U.S. oil security. Legislation incentivizing energy companies to do R&D in alternative sources of energy, must also be introduced.

1. This should be a plan to effect serious health problems; all minor health care would be provided by participating doctors, hospitals, and clinics at a greatly reduced price.

2. Government agencies should be instructed to assist American businesses in whatever relief that is necessary to allow them to compete without the many hindrances placed on them by government. Remove all capital gains taxes; plan immediately for the removal of national debt; transfer some parts of military and aerospace programs to assist in the invention and quality of American-made goods.

3. Require auto makers, both foreign and domestic, to produce natural gas and electric autos in an amount to become profitable. Instruct our aerospace industry to be about the business of research and development of fuel saving technology and alternate fuel usage. Reward individuals and industry that produce workable solutions and fuels. Initiate a public media campaign to instruct the public in energy conservation.

Garrett County Voter's Guide

The Republican and Garrett County League of Women Voters joined forces once again to provide the following information to the voters of Garrett County just prior to the Maryland primary election, slated for next Tuesday, March 4. Hopefully the biographical information and the candidates' responses to various questions posed by the League will assist local voters in making their choices.

On the ballot (see sample inside these pages) will be persons seeking the Republican and Democrat nominations for: President, U.S. Senate (Md.), House of Representatives (Md. Sixth District), and Delegates to the National Conventions of both parties. In the non-partisan category are six candidates to fill two seats on the Garrett County Board of Education. The top four vote-getters in the primary election will vie in the General Election in November for the two seats.

1. Yes, I do favor a coordinated national plan of health care. It should encompass benefits now covered by Workmen's Compensation, Group Insurance, military, veterans and all public health care programs. I do not trust the federal government to manage the money or collect the premiums. We must reduce the cost escalators of health care. Malpractice, liability, and paper claim forms begin the list.

2. There are no magic buttons controlling our economy. Incessant bad news from the media doesn't help. Consumers aren't voting American with their checkbooks. Americans must turn that around. Inventors should manufacture with American labor who must own an enviable reputation for quality, productivity and profitability. Stability, especially of the tax code, is what businesses and consumers need to have long term growth goals and plans.

3. We need to utilize all conservation means and measures to reduce energy dependence. Legislation mandating the immediate switch to more efficient light bulbs, electric motors, and emphasizing mass transit solutions rather than new roads and parking lots is needed. We should consider the hydrocarbon emission concept proposed by environmental scientists. We should require the biggest polluter, governments, to abide by the law.

1. Yes. It is important that we develop a joint government-private sector health care program to keep health care costs in check and affordable. It should not be solely dependent on federal funds, but must carry a shared burden to avoid misuse and abuse.

2. Reduction of income tax with ultimate long-term goals to connect to a consumption tax on other than are necessities. Reduction of business requirements to which deter from market expansion, creating new jobs and saving jobs. Legislation that wil encourage venture capital and capital investments in restructing current business to meet global competition on the offensive.

3. Legislation that would encourage developing alternate energy resources to include alternative sources for petroleum and coal. Clean burning energy should have the highest priority for future environmental reasons. Tax credits should be available to companies which legitimate research and development of attestative fuels.

1. Health care costs are out of control and basic care must be more accessible, but the answer should not be to create a huge new federal bureaucracy. I favor reform that 1) cuts ever-growing administrative paperwork costs, 2) places greater emphasis on preventive care, and 3) reduces expensive but medically unnecessary procedures doctors now order primarily out of concern for potential legal liability.

2. We must let taxpayers keep more of the money they earn, and stop runaway deficit spending. We need a balanced budget amendment and the line-item veto. Congress should immediately pass a stimulus package including tax credits of up to $1,000 per child for our working families, an IRA-plus plan, a reduction in the capital gains tax, and investment tax credits to create jobs.

3. Just over a year ago, I supported letting the men and women of Desert Storm protect our national interests against Saddam Hussein. It was a dramatic reminder of how dependent we are on energy supplies from a very volatile part of the world. I favor policies that would increase environmentally safe domestic production and promote conservation, encourage market development of alternative motor vehicle fuels and oppose higher gasoline tax.

1. No. Quality health care for all Americans would be impossible with a national health care system. I would introduce the following plan, the Federal Health Assistance Program. This program would cover health care for families with children from birth to 16 years of age and would be based solely on ability to pay. We must guarantee the opportunity for all children to obtain quality health care.

2. Reinstate tax deductions for second home mortgages and interest deductions for personal loans and credit cards. Cap credit card interest rates at five percent above the prime rate with a maximum of 16.5 percent. These measures, stimulating new home starts, would subsequently create employment opportunities across the market base. These measures would also make the people willing to invest and spend money on durable goods.

3. I would support legislation that reduces our dependency on oil and other fossil fuels. Legislation that provides incentives to world industries to develop alternative fuels and power sources. This rush to new power sources, must however be tempered by common sense and with reasonable concerns for public safety. This legislation should also address the efficiency of our automobiles and other energy consuming devices.

1. There is no simple, Socialist panacea for what ails America! While the quality of our health care generally remains high, skyrocketing costs mean limited access for 34 million un-insured. Launching insurance reform, emphasizing preventive medicine, curtailing excessive litigation, and legislating family tax credits will all help make health care affordable again. Nationalized health care is an extreme and probably unworkable alternative!

2. The economy's vitality will be restored when resources are returned to its most productive precinct -- the private sector. That means cutting taxes and billions in wasteful spending at the state and federal levels. Slashing the capital gains tax will help restore rewards for risks and encourage capital investment. We must stop the flood of federally-mandated regulations that put American industries at a competitive disadvantage.

3. Ending American dependence on fossil fuels and encouraging private sector development of cheap and clean alternatives must be a long term goal of any sensible energy policy. Until incentives for developing such alternatives are restored, we must maintain a sensible balance between the interests of an energy-hungry nation and the environment.

Garrett County Voter's Guide

The Republican and Garrett County League of Women Voters joined forces once again to provide the following information to the voters of Garrett County just prior to the Maryland primary election, slated for next Tuesday, March 4. Hopefully the biographical information and the candidates' responses to various questions posed by the League will assist local voters in making their choices.

On the ballot (see sample inside these pages) will be persons seeking the Republican and Democrat nominations for: President, U.S. Senate (Md.), House of Representatives (Md. Sixth District), and Delegates to the National Conventions of both parties. In the non-partisan category are six candidates to fill two seats on the Garrett County Board of Education. The top four vote-getters in the primary election will vie in the General Election in November for the two seats.

Republican Candidates For U.S. Senate

1. Do you favor a national health care plan? If so, explain why. If not, what alternative would you propose?

2. What measures do you propose to revitalize the economy?

3. What legislation would you favor to implement an energy policy for our nation?

1. On January 10, I unveiled a proposal to provide a basic standard of health care with complete access to everyone. Based on the German system, our plan calls for privatizing the entire health care system. Taxpayer dollars now spent towards maintaining the federal health care bureaucracy will be allocated entirely for patient care. The cost to individuals is based on ones ability to pay.

2. In addition to health care, this question addresses two of our four major campaign themes. First, we must reduce the high rate of unemployment. Elected officials need to attract new business, jobs and opportunities to Maryland and protect the jobs we already have. In addition, restructure America's tax system so that it encourages saving, promotes investment and job creation, and is equitable to everyone.

3. Provide investment tax credits for research and development to encourage the discovery and use of alternative energy sources. I would also support programs for low income individuals.

1. Prefer revising present system to allow greater choice in care. Would support commission study of systems in Germany, Canada and Great Britain to determine what segments might work for U.S.

Believe we must gear American health care more toward massive prevention efforts particularly in drug/alcohol/tobacco, teen sexuality, early disease detection.

2. Increase deductions for capital gains; reinstate IRA; tax credit for research and development; across the board tax cut, 3-5 percent; tax credit to employers who hire and train welfare recipients.

3. I would encourage conservation and support for legislation seeking alternative energy sources with strong support for maintaining environmental safeguards.

1. Yes. It is important that we develop a joint government-private sector health care program to keep health care costs in check and affordable. It should not be solely dependent on federal funds, but must carry a shared burden to avoid misuse and abuse.

2. Reduction of income tax with ultimate long-term goals to connect to a consumption tax on other than are necessities. Reduction of business requirements to which deter from market expansion, creating new jobs and saving jobs. Legislation that will encourage venture capital and capital investments in restructing current business to meet global competition on the offensive.

3. Legislation that would encourage developing alternate energy resources to include alternative sources for petroleum and coal. Clean burning energy should have the highest priority for future environmental reasons. Tax credits should be available to companies which legitimate research and development of attestative fuels.

I have never held political office. However, with business experience transcending the insurance, securities, real estate, restaurant, and seafood businesses, I have met with and testified before all levels of government on behalf of small businesses, generally receiving the response "we just didn't realize the consequences of this legislation." We obviously need more businessmen, and fewer lawyers, social workers, and full-time politicians in elected offices.

1. No. Consider the following reforms to make the current system more affordable: eliminate costly state mandated benefits and legal barriers to managed care; reform malpractice laws and underwriting for small businesses; moderate health-care cost increases; offer full tax deductibility of premiums for all businesses. This will guarantee that coverage already provided to 85 percent of the population, will not be undercut by a government-run program.

2. Revitalizing the economy requires a change in the tax structure so that investors can be adequately and reasonably rewarded: this means a reduction in the capital gains tax. We simply must provide greater incentive to the small investor. Another consideration on the macro-economic scale strongly argues that we reduce the bureaucratic bloat in the federal government: we must downsize and modernize.

3. An effective national energy policy has to be carefully planned and rigorously coordinated. Our nation has the natural resources and wealth to meet our energy needs; the country needs an incentives program that will motivate investors to develop these resources. We should reduce reliance on foreign energy imports and target a national policy of energy independence.

1. Yes, I do favor a national health plan. I am in the process of putting together a proposal for a national health care based on the medicaid/medicare Canadian, German, and Japanese health care systems. I feel that with 36 million Americans lacking proper health insurance, the American taxpayer is being burdened with excessive fees to pay the cost.

2. One of the first most important things is putting people back to work and educating them in modern technologies. We need to cut the capital gains, which will benefit all Americans, rich or poor, and stimulate the real estate and putting more money in the American market. We need tax write-offs for loans to buy U.S. manufactured goods, such as automobiles, homes, large quantities of American made textiles. Tax incentives for employers who create positions for employment of low income. C.C.C. back-to-work program similar to that of early '30s.

3. Tax benefits for businesses and industries that reduce toxic admissions, tax benefits for individuals who buy electrical automotive transportation. All new home owners should be required to have an alternate heat system such as solar, or wind-powered generation. We need to cut the use of fossil fuels by 25 percent by the year 2000.

1. Yes, I do favor a coordinated national plan of health care. It should encompass benefits now covered by Workmen's Compensation, Group Insurance, military, veterans and all public health care programs. I do not trust the federal government to manage the money or collect the premiums. We must reduce the cost escalators of health care. Malpractice, liability, and paper claim forms begin the list.

2. There are no magic buttons controlling our economy. Incessant bad news from the media doesn't help. Consumers aren't voting American with their checkbooks. Americans must turn that around. Inventors should manufacture with American labor who must own an enviable reputation for quality, productivity and profitability. Stability, especially of the tax code, is what businesses and consumers need to have long term growth goals and plans.

3. We need to utilize all conservation means and measures to reduce energy dependence. Legislation mandating the immediate switch to more efficient light bulbs, electric motors, and emphasizing mass transit solutions rather than new roads and parking lots is needed. We should consider the hydrocarbon emission concept proposed by environmental scientists. We should require the biggest polluter, governments, to abide by the law.

Former President of School Board Nominating Convention of Baltimore County, Hampton PTA, Ridgely PTA, former board member Child Abuse Prevention Center of Maryland and Greater Baltimore Medical Center.

1. Health care costs are out of control and basic care must be more accessible, but the answer should not be to create a huge new federal bureaucracy. I favor reform that 1) cuts ever-growing administrative paperwork costs, 2) places greater emphasis on preventive care, and 3) reduces expensive but medically unnecessary procedures doctors now order primarily out of concern for potential legal liability.

2. We must let taxpayers keep more of the money they earn, and stop runaway deficit spending. We need a balanced budget amendment and the line-item veto. Congress should immediately pass a stimulus package including tax credits of up to $1,000 per child for our working families, an IRA-plus plan, a reduction in the capital gains tax, and investment tax credits to create jobs.

3. Just over a year ago, I supported letting the men and women of Desert Storm protect our national interests against Saddam Hussein. It was a dramatic reminder of how dependent we are on energy supplies from a very volatile part of the world. I favor policies that would increase environmentally safe domestic production and promote conservation, encourage market development of alternative motor vehicle fuels and oppose higher gasoline tax.

1. No. Quality health care for all Americans would be impossible with a national health care system. I would introduce the following plan, the Federal Health Assistance Program. This program would cover health care for families with children from birth to 16 years of age and would be based solely on ability to pay. We must guarantee the opportunity for all children to obtain quality health care.

2. Reinstate tax deductions for second home mortgages and interest deductions for personal loans and credit cards. Cap credit card interest rates at five percent above the prime rate with a maximum of 16.5 percent. These measures, stimulating new home starts, would subsequently create employment opportunities across the market base. These measures would also make the people willing to invest and spend money on durable goods.

3. I would support legislation that reduces our dependency on oil and other fossil fuels. Legislation that provides incentives to world industries to develop alternative fuels and power sources. This rush to new power sources, must however be tempered by common sense and with reasonable concerns for public safety. This legislation should also address the efficiency of our automobiles and other energy consuming devices.

ALAN KEYES
SILVER SPRING

1. There is no simple, Socialist panacea for what ails America! While the quality of our health care generally remains high, skyrocketing costs mean limited access for 34 million un-insured. Launching insurance reform, emphasizing preventive medicine, curtailing excessive litigation, and legislating family tax credits will all help make health care affordable again. Nationalized health care is an extreme and probably unworkable alternative!

2. The economy's vitality will be restored when resources are returned to its most productive precinct -- the private sector. That means cutting taxes and billions in wasteful spending at the state and federal levels. Slashing the capital gains tax will help restore rewards for risks and encourage capital investment. We must stop the flood of federally-mandated regulations that put American industries at a competitive disadvantage.

3. Ending American dependence on fossil fuels and encouraging private sector development of cheap and clean alternatives must be a long term goal of any sensible energy policy. Until incentives for developing such alternatives are restored, we must maintain a sensible balance between the interests of an energy-hungry nation and the environment.

Brings 61 years of lifetime experience to campaign. The major reason for his campaign is to request the authority of Marylanders (votes) to change the organization of the federal government. Namely, (A) to establish an American Export Agency; (B) to establish a National Health Agency; and (C) to balance the federal budget.

1. Part (B) of my campaign would establish a National Health Agency. Any and all federal expenditures on health matters would be controlled by one government organization.

2. Part (A) of my campaign plan would establish an American Export Agency. I would expect trade and American goods to be shipped to every nation and the ports therein which would create many jobs.

3. My campaign is limited to the major issues facing the nation. I do not foresee any change in the present policy.

Frequent guest analyst for CNN, NBC News, Associated Press, Fox-TV; investment officer at a leading banking institution, managing a multi-million dollar portfolio.

1. No. The main problem with our health care system is that the dollars are not spent wisely. The problem is in the delivery system. Insurance premiums should be made more affordable and should cover preventive care, because the benefits of early detection far outweigh the costs. For example, the emotional and financial costs of breast cancer may be prevented if insurance companies covered routine mammograms.

2. First, as a nation we must learn to live within our means by controlling Congressional spending through a balanced budget amendment and giving the President a line-item veto. Second, I will bring new jobs to the ports, cities, and neighborhoods of Maryland by leading business delegations -- small and large -- to oil-rich states in the Persian Gulf and the new Soviet Union. Finally, investing the "peace dividend" on job creation through an apprenticeship program.

3. Given the reality that the U.S. will be dependent on Persian Gulf oil to the tune of 40 percent within the next few years, legislation calling for an investment in democracy in that region should be a priority. Free democratic governments in that region are the best guarantee for U.S. oil security. Legislation incentivizing energy companies to do R&D in alternative sources of energy, must also be introduced.

1. Yes, I favor a national health care plan, to be funded by innovative plans, to be administered by existing bureaucracies, and private health care companies that have the experience to help provide a streamlined program. This should be a plan to effect serious health problems; all minor health care would be provided by participating doctors, hospitals, and clinics at a greatly reduced price.

2. Government agencies should be instructed to assist American businesses in whatever relief that is necessary to allow them to compete without the many hindrances placed on them by government. Remove all capital gains taxes; plan immediately for the removal of national debt; transfer some parts of military and aerospace programs to assist in the invention and quality of American-made goods.

3. Require auto makers, both foreign and domestic, to produce natural gas and electric autos in an amount to become profitable. Instruct our aerospace industry to be about the business of research and development of fuel saving technology and alternate fuel usage. Reward individuals and industry that produce workable solutions and fuels. Initiate a public media campaign to instruct the public in energy conservation.

1. Cost of medical care has to come down; the profession should lead the way, emphasizing primary care, cost limits on procedures.

Cost of medical insurance has to come down; private insurers should follow medical profession.

If the national electorate is willing to pay for it, state health care trust funds for basic care for uninsured/unemployed people should be federally funded, meet federal guidelines.

2. Jobs network for Maryland residents; 10 percent investment tax credit; restored passive loss provisions for real estate; restored municipal bond tax exemption for banks to help states and localities fund more construction projects; avoid a trade war, get an expanding international economy going, but target Japan with a Super 301 club-in-the-closet; 50 state apprenticeship programs for young people not college-bound.

3. Test each proposed measure by asking whether it would reduce reliance on foreign oil.

Provide incentives for alternative fuels, and to encourage energy efficiency.

Fund studies of coal-to-natural gas conversion, as we have a 700 year supply of coal, but can't mine it or burn it without harmful environmental effects.

VOTER ABOUT TO CLOSE CURTAIN

CURTAIN CLOSED VOTER VOTING

2. Turn DOWN a POINTER ABOVE the name of each candidate you wish to vote for (for each office), as shown:

from this position

to this position

AND LEAVE IT DOWN.

3. Continue in the same manner to the end of the BALLOT, taking care to turn down a Pointer for every candidate for every office that you wish to vote for, and LEAVE THE POINTER DOWN. You may change your vote as often as you like UNTIL you move the Red Handle to the Left. If there are questions on the ballot you wish to vote on, TURN DOWN THE POINTER that indicates your choice ABOVE each Question.

4. When you are finished voting, move the Red Handle back to the left as far as it will go and LEAVE IT THERE. This will register your vote. The Pointers will then return to the unvoted position before the Curtain opens.

A FEW WORDS OF EXPLANATION

No votes are registered until you move the Curtain Lever back to the Left to open the Curtain. You can therefore make as many changes in your ballot as you wish while the Curtain Lever is at the right (Curtain closed). Each candidate's voting Pointer is directly ABOVE his or her name.

The machine is so arranged that you CANNOT TURN DOWN MORE THAN THE PROPER NUMBER of Pointers for each office.

There is no danger of anyone knowing how you vote, as the movement of the Curtain Lever returns the Pointers to their unvoted position BEFORE the Curtain begins to open. LEAVE THE POINTERS DOWN.

This sample ballot shows the machine ballot for this Election. If you will read and remember these directions, you will cast your ballot easily and quickly.

BEFORE GOING INTO THE MACHINE ON ELECTION DAY

1. Examine the Sample Ballot and decide which candidates you wish to vote for, and note where their names are located.
2. Practice a few times on one of the Instruction Models found inside each voting room on Election Day, until you are sure that you know how to cast your ballot.

AFTER ENTERING THE MACHINE

1. Turn down the Lever ABOVE each Candidate's name for whom you wish to vote.
2. LEAVE THE LEVERS DOWN.

I have no interest group or political baggage. I am a candidate with no strings attached.

1. No, any sort of a national program comes real close to communism and as we have recently seen communism cannot work. We should be thankful that we live in a free market economy. The insurance industry and the health care industry must be better regulated and held accountable.

2. All possible steps must be taken to balance the budget. This includes decreased spending, on defense primarily, and increased accountability in all areas. Serious consideration must be given to providing the president with temporary line item veto power for the budget.

3. Tax incentives for alternative energy sources and rewards for increased energy efficiency. I would also seek international agreements on every use.

Education/Experience

B.A., 1958, Mount St. Agnes College, Baltimore; M.S.W., 1965, University of Maryland, School of Social Work.

Baltimore City Council, 1971-76; U.S. House of Representatives, MD-3, 1977-1986; U.S. Senate, MD, 1987-present.

1. We must restructure our health care system to guarantee affordable, accessible, and accurate health care, promoting family responsibility not family bankruptcy. Our program must provide insurance for the tens of millions of Americans who now go without health care services, and contain both cost and greed. I am helping to shape proposals that adopt the comprehensive aspects of national health insurance, but preserve access and choice.

2. Short-term: I am co-sponsoring a middle-class tax cut, to restore consumer confidence and spending. Also working to increase public investments that create private sector jobs, by speeding up programs like highway and mass transit construction. Long-term: Focussing investment in our children's education and in developing new technologies that will allow America to compete on the 21st Century economic battlefield. Also reforming the tax structure to encourage long-term investment and job generation.

3. We need a new attitude, realizing that our environmental and energy policies are an economic agenda. Encouraging development of energy-efficient and environmentally-friendly resources and products means creating new markets and increasing our competitiveness. By promoting alternative fuels, conservation and efficiency, we will leapfrog current technologies and regain economic leadership. I support aggressive research and development, and offering good-guy bonuses to those who lead the way to conservation and efficiency.

I successfully worked with the Congress and Senate in 1981 to ban a cigarette product, "Free Filters," from being manufactured and sold in the United States. I have worked with legislators in Annapolis and legislation was entered on my behalf to ban advertising of cigarettes and alcohol from Maryland's metro system, knowing that the metro buses serve as school buses.

I am a Professional Hypnotist and the Director of the Baltimore County Smoking Clinic. If elected my primary responsibility is to work on banning cigarette and alcohol advertising from outdoor billboards and TV score boards. I will work diligently for our children and our grandchildren. Over 200,000 Maryland children under the age of 12 use tobacco daily. I will speak on their behalf.

1. Same as 1982 platform. Free health care to all citizens and limit of $10.00 on routine doctor's visits (payable by U.S. Government. Healthy people don't turn to drugs as often as others). Smash all drug cartels worldwide and free-up $30 billion a year to put into health and primary school education.

2. Same as 1982. (1) Flat rate income tax on all legal entities of 10 percent; (2) roll back and freeze wages, prices, profit margins for 3-5 years; (3) use CIA and 700,000 military personnel to annihilate every drug cartel in the world; (4) bar further development of any nuclear device whatsoever and the star wars rip-off Reagan initiated; (5) beat the bushes and flush out the quail.

3. Capture all the wasted, self-serving hot air in all three branches of government and save thereby 40 percent of the nation's demand for heating energy. Send George to Siberia, cartels to hell, and read my lips - NO jackass or political party is bigger than the Constitution. I don't know the answers, obviously Barbara Mikulski doesn't either.

1. Yes, and I have proposed a Catastrophic Health Insurance Plan ("CHIP"), targeted at covering overlaps and gaps in existing employer based plans, to reduce overall insurance-premium and health care costs, while expanding coverage to the 38 million Americans presently without health care coverage. The government backed "CHIP" umbrella would insure all citizens against personal financial ruin in the event of serious or prolonged illness.

2. First, we must resist quick-fix temptations and focus alternatively on broader objectives. We must negotiate mutually-beneficial trade with global competitors, balance the federal budget, and correct tax policy to incentivize capital investment and individual initiative. We must implement a joint-council between government, business and labor to develop strategic economic policy, target industries and markets for product export, and coordinate comprehensive worker retraining.

3. Let's use our love-affair with the automobile to our competitive advantage. Today's technologically advanced electric automobiles outperform conventional vehicles. Tapping existing levies, we finance a consumer tax credit towards purchase of American manufactured electrics, thus stimulating demand. Through conversion to electrics, we solve our energy dependency and environmental problems, and rebuild an American industry with an exportable product desperately needed all over the world.

1. No. We don't need any more government social programs, even if self-financed. We are becoming a welfare state. Already, one in four in Baltimore are on Medicaid, government-funded free medical assistance. Socialized medicine is especially wrong. People need to become more self-reliant. The alternative is government-imposed health cost controls, put on hospitals and on doctors indirectly. Hospitals are "natural monopolies."

2. Cause of recession is unfair, corrupt laws. Neither Democratic "pump-priming" or Republican "supply-side" economics will work. Tax cuts, lower interest rates, more spending, restricting imports, shifting funds from defense to domestic programs are ineffective. More basic changes like halt to bank mergers needed. Recent bank merger eliminated 9,000 jobs. I stopped or delayed two bank mergers in Western Maryland.

3. The Persian Gulf War was a vital if unintended element of our energy policy. It kept gasoline prices from rising to $2-3 a gallon. Energy including utility prices are too high and out-of-control. There is price leadership if not monopolies across-the-board. When one gas station raises prices, they all do. Utilities manipulate the states. Price controls needed, as in housing, rents and select other fields.

1. First priority, stop the violence leading to daily murders on our streets, stop the flow of illicit drugs and intensify our research for a cure for AIDS. I favor a national health care plan because the runaway increases in health care costs are leading the nation into health care bankruptcy. We must combine Medicaid, Medicare and a universal health care program under a centralized plan.

2. The economy of our country has been sold out to foreign interests. This must stop. There has to be a reindustrialization of America to put our citizens back to work with a secure future. We met the challenge during and after World War II and we can do it again with proper leadership. Continue severe prosecution of the Savings and Loan embezzlements and thefts.

3. I favor legislation to severely reduce carbon monoxide emissions. We must encourage the development and use of renewable energy sources. Legislative support for hydroelectric power and solar thermal, electric systems is needed to encourage more investors to participate in research and development. Our dependency on the supply of foreign oil must be eventually eliminated. We should never again send our troops to war over oil.

Republican Candidates For U.S. Senate

physicians to the highest ethical standards.

2. A growth-oriented tax policy that Senator Bishop supports would include: A long-term plan to reduce the budget and the balance of trade deficit. Efficiencies must be implemented and waste eliminated. Reduce the capital gains tax, revive the IRAs and reduce or eliminate taxes on interest income. Enact an investment tax credit, rollback payroll taxes. Provide a family-oriented income tax credit = Jobs.

3. Implementing an energy policy does not always require legislation. Policies should be adopted that encourage the oil companies to develop cleaner burning and more efficient fuels. The American automobile industry, because of consumer demands and the need to compete world-wide, should produce more reliable and efficient vehicles. Alternate fuels utilizing alcohol, natural gas, electricity, magnetic levitation, and solar. Industry must investigate alternatives as well.

Lobbyist federal and state criminal law. Advocate for Rights of Disabled Persons.

1. I favor a series of tax credits based on income, family size, and health care costs. This would encourage people to purchase health insurance and become involved in policing their own health costs; thereby, using the power to competitive consumers to drive down medical and insurance costs. I have spent 20 years dealing with the Veterans' Administration. From that experience, I know that we don't want a government-managed health system.

2. Cut taxes so people can use their money for their own priorities. Cut government waste and fraud. Cut useless government programs and turn over to the private sector those functions which it can perform more efficiently. Support a line item presidential veto to deal with "pork barrel" spending. Reduce federally mandated projects which force businesses to be non-competitive and drive them out of the country.

3. I believe that a national energy policy cannot be just a government energy policy. To be successful, any government policy must have a national, popular commitment to energy resource conservation and a realization by each to us that we individually are responsible for how energy is used and the pollution that results from it. We must begin by educating and changing attitudes so that instead of resisting government initiatives, we direct them.

Republican Candidates For House Of Representatives

1. Do you favor a national health care plan? If so, explain why. If not, what alternative would you propose?

2. What measures do you propose to revitalize the economy?

3. What legislation would you favor to implement an energy policy for our nation?

1. We do not need national health care with the efficiency of the Post Office, the costs of the Pentagon, and the compassion of the IRS. With reduced costs of health care affected by such efficiencies as reducing costs incident to malpractice litigation and by controlling costs of prolonging death as compared to prolonging life, a rigorous economy will provide jobs which support health insurance.

2. The economy is being suffocated by an exploding national debt resulting from a bloated and inefficient Federal bureaucracy. Quick fixes will only make the long term economy worse. To provide private capital to expand the economy we must reduce taxes (capital gains especially) and reduce government spending. The deficit must be eliminated and a surplus produced to pay off the debt to eliminate its interest burden.

3. Fossil fuels will not last forever. Clean ones (gas and oil) will go quickly. We are now far too dependent on foreign energy sources, imperiling national security. Thus we need rational legislation (including tax incentives) to encourage energy economy, including gas efficient cars, recycling, less planned obsolescence and lower thermostat settings. Also encourage development of alternative energy sources (wind, solar, geothermal).

1. Yes, because 34.5 million working people cannot afford health insurance and this plan can be paid for by using the 300 billion dollars that pays unearned interest on the national debt as explained in question 2. Under this plan everyone would receive benefits (working and non-working) below the poverty line. The system in question 2 is non-interest U.S. notes.

2. Repeal Unconstitutional, debt interest, "Federal" Reserve Act which will eliminate the interest and wipe out the national debt which has transferred money from the working taxpayer to the "Super" rich that do nothing to earn our money. (Nothing is backing the dollar). Only this can balance the budget, return money to local governments and people through Federal Revenue Sharing. (A gold backed U.S. Note System).

3. By which we produce cost effective energy resources so that our economy is not dependent on foreign interests. Examples: Coal, nuclear energy, electric automobiles, solar energy, shale oil, gasohol, etc. with a safeguard and concern for our environment.

Seven-term member of the U.S. House of Representatives; first woman to chair an Armed Services subcommittee; also a member of House Interior Committee and Select Committee on Aging. Appointed to Leadership Task Force on Health in 1989; member of the Rural Health Care Coalition. Dean of Maryland House Delegation and former Chairman of the Maryland Physical Fitness Commission. Maintains active interest in civic and charitable organizations.

1. I favor a national health care policy that will retain quality care and improve accessibility, all at an acceptable price to taxpayers. I am a member of the Leadership's Health Task Force, AIDS Task Force, and the House Rural Health Care Coalition. I advocate moving our health system more toward primary care with a greater emphasis on cost-efficient preventive health care services.

2. I support legislation to stimulate domestic investment. I favor a reduction in the capital gains tax for long-term investments, such as housing and venture capital for small, job-producing enterprises. I am a cosponsor of legislation to establish enterprise zones in economically hard-hit rural and urban areas, and support increasing the dependent tax deduction for America's families.

3. I favor a combined, long-term national energy policy that will address our nations' need for efficient energy production, offer incentives for nuclear and solar production, and strongly encourage conservation. Consequently, I supported innovative clean fuel programs in the recently Clean Air Act and legislation encouraging clean coal technology. In short, our nation cannot continue to depend on a shrinking supply of oil as the basis of our energy policy.

Maryland Jaycees Ten Outstanding Young Marylanders, 1990.

1. Congress voted itself comprehensive health care. Other industrialized countries provide universal access to health care. Americans deserve no less. Small businesses and working Americans are squeezed hardest by our current system. Yet Byron has consistently voted against expanding health care services. I support a national health insurance plan that includes preventative care and cost containment. It will cost even less than our current fragmented system.

2. The tax-the-middle class and spend policies of Reagan, Bush, and Byron have devastated our economy. Short term: Put people back to work and save businesses through public works such as road and school building. Long term: Help business convert American R&D into consumer products the way other nations do, with such programs as loan guarantees and venture-capital funding (both opposed by Byron).

3. Despite the energy crisis of the seventies and the uncertainties of Middle East oil, Congress has not faced the energy question. New technology increases efficiency, reduces demand, improves the environment, and reduces demand on foreign oil. Development of alternative fuels (e.g., compressed natural gas, renewables, solar) reduces pollution and reliance on foreign oil. We can avoid drilling in sensitive areas like the Chesapeake Bay.

Candidates For Delegate To Democrat Convention

Why do you think you are the best qualified candidate to represent your party at the National Convention?

ANGELA BELTRAM
ELLICOTT CITY

Believe in traditional Democratic values; prefer Democratic presidential candidate, Tom Harkin, who will not permit Bush and Republicans to define who and what Democrats are. Believe in balanced budget. Experience as an elected official in a growing formerly rural county. Understand political and pragmatic decisions to get things done. Understand and feel frustration of old ways of accomplishing Democratic goals.

RANDY G. CHANGURIS
BROWNSVILLE

I am an uncommitted delegate to the Democratic National Convention because I am looking for that one candidate who will propose: 1) national health care reform; 2) tax equity and fairness with an eye towards middle-class tax relief; 3) an industrial policy that promotes economic growth and jobs; 4) a balanced federal budget; and 5) a post cold-war defense budget that meets our military and economic national security.

ALICE H. CORNELISON
ELLICOTT CITY

Being a delegate is a responsibility I take seriously. Serving as an alternate delegate in 1988 prepared me for the hard work required to be a good delegate. I bring experience in organizational, management, and leadership skills from 34 years in health care, 10 years in adult education, and 25 years in community service. I am an enthusiastic, questioning, and confident person who brings energy and commitment to the task.

CORYNNE E. COURPAS

I have been an active participant in Carroll County politics since 1977, serving individual candidates as well as organizations. I believe that my understanding of the process will allow me to represent our state, and especially the 6th Congressional District.

HEATHER N. DONALDSON

As a member of the younger generation, I feel that it is important for the convention to have representatives from many different age groups. The United States needs to start preparing its younger citizens to be tomorrow's leaders.

WILLIAM DOUGHERTY

Uncommitted delegate to the Democratic Convention

JOSEPH PATRICK FONTE
ELLICOTT CITY

I have been active in Democratic Party campaigns on the federal, state and local levels since 1975. I feel that my academic knowledge of the system. My commitment to the candidate, and my enthusiasm and experience in serving my party make me a good representative of my party.

FREDERICK H. HOOVER
HAGERSTOWN

The voters of the 6th Congressional District gave me the honor in 1988 of representing them at the Democratic National Convention. I served as a delegation whip for the 6th District delegation. I believe the experience of having attended a National Convention gives me the knowledge of the process that will be able to look out for the interests of Western Maryland.

CHRISTINE KEMPF
WESTMINSTER

I believe I am the best candidate to represent the Democratic Party at the National Convention because I feel that it is time to reinvest in America. I support Tom Harkin because he is the only candidate with a strong, honest commitment to directly investing in the American worker rather than catering to the interests of the rich.

FREDERICK D. LONGHENRY
HAMPSTEAD

I have been active in the Democratic Party since Jerry Brown's victory in the 1976 Maryland Democratic Presidential Primary. The 1992 Brown for President campaign is a cause, a grassroots movement to change the system. This campaign is about returning America to its heritage as a real participatory democracy, as it is time to elect a government which represents all the people in this country.

GEORGE E. MALONEY

As Western Maryland coordinator I have attended meetings in Annapolis, Cumberland, and Frederick, as well as making many phone calls from home as well as the National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. I truly believe that Senator Kerrey is our best presidential candidate and that I am the best qualified delegate candidate to support his efforts, due to my enthusiasm and belief in his positions. Thank you for your interest.

EVELYN MAPHIS

As a woman delegate I want to represent the Democratic Party at the National Convention to be a part of the process to help select and elect the best candidate to lead the country. The candidate that knows and will do something about the economy (jobs), health care, education, and drugs.

My qualifications are simple, I have the motivation to make the needs of the working people of this country the top priority of my parties National Convention. I feel our real problems (unemployment, crowded schools, expensive health care, high taxes, etc.) have been ignored for too long. This is also why I am supporting Senator Tom Harkin for president. He is the first politician in years to offer real insight and solutions to the problems we face every day.

THOMAS G. SLATER

With this background and my prior activities with the Democratic Party, I believe that I am qualified to represent both the Democratic Party and Western Maryland as a delegate to the convention.

BELINDA TEAGUE-LEVY
FREDERICK

Listening to concerns of citizens is an important part of my vocation. It is imperative that we support the Democratic presidential candidate most sensitive to our concerns, and who will work to resolve current domestic problems while representing us with strength and dignity abroad. I will represent the 6th Congressional District of Maryland with honor and pride if elected convention delegate. Thank you!

KENNETH L. WADE
BOONSBORO

I have been a long-time active Democrat who still believes in the traditional values of the Democratic Party. I have registered many voters, raised funds to help Democratic candidates and the party, worked diligently in Democratic candidates' campaigns, and worked hard to bring those at the grassroots level into participating in the Party. For these reasons, I believe I can represent the Democratic Party.

BRAD W. YOUNG
MT. AIRY

I feel that I represent the average middle-class Democrat. I think that we have been lost in the process at the national level. This needs to change! One reason I choose Bill Clinton is because I believe he represents my views on most issues the best. I am very active in community efforts and volunteer for many activities. I will represent Western Maryland Democrats well.

My goals include improved school/community relations, prioritized funding/spending, and providing quality instruction and environment. The only way to accomplish these or any goals is through realistic plans and persistent effort.

2. My answer is a definite YES and NO. I am not opposed to this concept, but do believe very specific circumstances would first have to exist. The Board's ability to be its funding authority could eliminate many of the problems currently faced. Capital improvements could be budgeted for in advance. Negatively, funding authority without the proper safeguards could be disastrous to many taxpayers.

3. a) Yes; b) The cost of this project would be much smaller then the cost associated with Southern's renovation. If the county government would not be able or willing to fund the local share out of one budget year, a short term bond issue should be utilized.

4. If people, regardless of their position, see that a sincere and thorough job is being done, a positive relationship will evolve. The commissioners need to see and believe a quality educational system is an asset this county cannot lack. Parents need to see and believe their children are receiving a quality education. The Board and teachers need to unite toward this goal.

Education/Experience

Graduated from New Hope High School, Goldsboro, N.C.; attended Central Piedmont College, Charlotte, N.C.

Parent for 13 years, classroom volunteer for nine years, local PTA officer for four years, County Council PTA president for two years, State PTA Board of Director's member for past two years, and attendant at regular and committee meetings of the Board of Education for the last four years.

1. I am concerned about the education of all Garrett County students and I believe that the knowledge I have acquired through my involvement over the past nine years will be an asset to the system. My primary goal is to insure the best possible education for all the students of Garrett County. Gaining the support of the public for the needs of the system is a very important factor in reaching this goal.

2. Not at this time. I believe a lot of research needs to be conducted to see if this method of securing money for education is workable. I understand that in Pennsylvania, where this process is followed, that it is very hard for the poorer districts to keep their schools operating.

3. I believe that these schools should be renovated instead of consolidated and there should be a progressive plan set in place for these renovations. I would make known the situations that exist at Loch Lynn and Red House schools and hope for public support in convincing the Commissioners that this is a high priority issue.

4. If I am accountable for all actions I take, show a willingness to research the existing structure of the school system and make adjustments that are feasible and affordable, I believe, this will promote a positive working relationship at all levels. In order to gain support for the system the public needs to be truly recognized as an important part of the decision making process.

Graduated from Pennsboro High, Pennsboro, W.Va. B.S. degree in education, Frostburg State College, Frostburg. Masters degree in Supervision and Administration, Frostburg. Thirty-five hours beyond masters in education.

Thirty years as a teacher in Garrett County. Delegate to State and National Teachers' Conventions.

1. I have an intense interest in education. Having worked in this field for many years, I am keenly aware of problems and needs. My primary goal would be to afford the best education possible for all. I would make myself available to meetings concerning education, both locally and statewide.

2. This places the Board of Education in competition with the county government as they too, would be seeking taxes for bridges, roads, landfills, etc. However, this may be worth looking into, especially during the tenure of a conservative Board of County commissioners.

3. Encourage the voters of Garrett County to support going to the bond market. This appears to be the only way to acquire enough money to fund capital projects.

4. I would strive to instill in all groups that we are working toward the same goal - that of quality education for all. I would hope to keep the lines of communication open between all groups.

Completed two years of college with an associate's degree.

As a parent, I have been involved with the school system for 35 years. I am now retired and have time to devote to the Board. With seven grandchildren in the Garrett County schools, I'm still greatly interested in helping to improve our educational system.

1. Because I'm interested in helping to provide the best education possible for our children.

My goal: To do everything possible to help students acquire an enriching education. How to accomplish this depends on a lot of different factors. If I am elected, I will make every effort to learn about all these factors, enabling me to be a productive Board member.

2. No.

3. a) No. b) Ask the commissioners again to fund the project. If there is no positive response, I would work to get new commissioners elected.

4. It is time for everyone involved to forget his/her grievances. We need more open, honest communication among all involved, and less backbiting.

Hospice of Garrett County, 1985-1989; Garrett National Bank, 1989-present.

1. There is a need for people with some more of an educational background and a true interest in education. Establish a better working relationship with fiscal authorities and staff organizations and to give every student in Garrett County the best educational background with what resources that are available.

2. No! This would never get through the Maryland legislature any how.

3. a) Yes. It has not been too many years since each of these buildings had considerable refurbishing done; b) Loch Lynn and Red House buildings are not adequate in size, for the number of students, they are not safe, and now with Americans Disabilities Act, they are not accessible for handicapped. I would do as much as I could to achieve a new building in that part of the county.

4. This will be a difficult task. I think much can be done though by involving each of these groups and giving them input. The board however must retain its identity and the final decision as charged by Maryland Annotated Code, Maryland State Dept. of Education By-Laws and Garrett County Board of Education Policy and Procedure. The board is also given direction in many cases by federal law.

RUSSELL SINES
MT. LAKE PARK

1. I feel I can make education better in Garrett County. My interest in the next few years is to work directly towards the need for new school construction, completted renovations and proper education funding.

2. I believe that the Board of Ed. should be well funded. I think that the county authority should allocate 50% of the county's revenues for the Ed. Board. If this can't become policy then the elected school board should be able to be self responceable to the public for its collections and expendures.

3. I bring leadership to this board position. I am a business owner and have been here for nearly 20 years now. Here in Garrett County. I have been and I still am a civic leader serving as Past President of the Oakland Little League, past Cub Master Pack 31 Boy Scouts of America, past V.P. Habitat for Humanity, past Church Board Chairman of 8 years, and currently serving as President of the Oakland Rotary Club. I am used to making tough decisions and have the abillity to influence others. I graduated from Southern High School and have had 2 years of college courses from Garrett County College.

4. I have served as PTA President Dennett Road Elem. School, served on a special committee to re-write the Board of Ed. Discipline policy that is now in use. I have represented our elementary schools and civic organization at rallys in Annap. an equal funding for students accross the state of Md. Served on a committee to write the guidelines for the Chapter I program in Garrett Co.

GCMH Staff Members Pass Sanctioned Examination

According to Eric Tribbey, director of the Cardiopulmonary Department, "Credentialing is a current important issue in the profession of Respiratory Care which has both national and state involvement. Thirty-six of 50 states now require Respiratory Care Practitioners to be licensed and Maryland is the most recent state to legislate this."

Nationally, two different levels of Respiratory Care credentials are available. Garrett Memorial has five staff members on the first level, C.R.T.T. (certifies respiratory therapy technician). Four members of the staff are certified on the top level, R.R.T. (registered respiratory therapist). There are two student employees pursuing national credential eligibility. According to Tribbey, the entire Respiratory Care Staff will be licensed in the State of Maryland later this year.

Message Service Available For Legal Concerns

"Before a legal matter becomes a legal headache, turn to the Maryland Legal Line Service," said a spokesperson for the Maryland Bar Association. "This fully automated message service provides prerecorded information to help you understand your rights and responsibilities in a variety of common legal situations."

"Why Should I Have A Will?,"How Do I File For Bankruptcy?,""Grounds For Divorce" and "What Should I Do If I've Been Sued?" are just a few of the many topics available through the Maryland Legal Line Service. The program offers 38 messages in all on topics ranging from the small claims procedure to how to find a lawyer.

Co-sponsored by the Maryland State Bar Association and Towson State University, the Maryland Legal Line Service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Since its creation in 1985, the Maryland Legal Line Service has become a popular feature of Towson State University's COPELINE program, serving nearly 12,000 callers. The service is available to all Maryland citizens by dialing the toll-free number, 1-800-638-8862.

For a listing of Maryland Legal Line topics, interested persons may send a self-addressed business size envelope, stamped with $.29 postage, to: Maryland Legal Line Listing, c/o Maryland State Bar Association, 520 West Fayette Street, Baltimore, MD 21201.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME NO. 115 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1992 | PER COPY 35¢

The Republican Marks 115th Year Of Publication

Today's issue of The Republican newspaper marks the 115th anniversary of the publication of Garrett County's only second class, audited weekly newspaper. The first issue of The Republican rolled off the presses on Saturday, March 3, 1877, in the same building that currently houses Sincell Publishing Company.

The Republican was founded by Captain James A. Hayden, a veteran of the Civil War who was brevetted a major for his gallant conduct at the Battle of Gettysburg. Hayden sold out the newspaper in 1890 to his 21-year-old employee, Benjamin H. Sincell. The company, which has remained in the Sincell family since that time, is the second oldest business in Oakland (the oldest is Shirer's Tin Shop).

Since its founding, there has never been a week that The Republican was not published, as nearly 6,000 issues have been produced in those 115 years. It is now one of the largest weekly newspapers in the state of Maryland.

The Republican has been a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a national cooperative association of over 2,500 publishers, advertisers, and advertising agencies, since 1946. Its current circulation is approximately 12,000, with an estimated 30,000-plus readers.

Because of its long history, the newspaper has experienced just about every change in method of production, from individual, movable type in the 1800s to the present day use of modern computer technology.

Robert B. Sincell is the present general manager of Sincell Publishing and Donald W. Sincell is the editor of The Republican. The company, which also operates an extensive commercial print shop, has 28 full- and part-time employees.

SPLENDOR ON THE SLOPES - Winterfest activities concluded Saturday night at the Wisp Ski Resort in McHenry with a huge fireworks display and torchlight parade of skiers down Marsh Mountain. The stunning spectacular was illuminated by the snow to create a memorable end to the official ski season. However, the Wisp remains open to ski enthusiasts at least through this weekend (possibly longer is weather conditions permit). While the temperature is expected to reach 70 degrees again today, there is still an ample base on the slopes for diehard skiers. More photos and Winterfest event results will appear in next week's edition of The Republican.

State Official Responds To Delegate Edwards's Questions About Growth Bill

District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards received a response last week from the Maryland Attorney General's office regarding his questions about the Economic Growth and Resource Act of 1992 (House Bill 1195). Specifically, Edwards wanted to know if Garrett County would be required to adopt a county-wide zoning ordinance and if the county would be able to include state-owned lands in the total amount of sensitive and rural areas to be protected.

Maryland Assistant Attorney General Robert A. Zarnoch, counsel to the Maryland General Assembly, responded to the questions by stating, ". . . it is my view that if House Bill 1195 were enacted, it would not require Garrett County to exercise zoning, subdivision, and planned development authority in areas where it has chosen not to implement such powers."

In response to the second question, Zarnoch indicated that while the bill does not "increase county authority over state-owned land" the county would, therefore, not be able to exercise any zoning authority over that land. "The county would be able to include state-owned lands such as forests and parkland in its plan as a sensitive or rural area, even though it could not control the use of that land contrary to the state's wishes," he said.

The second issue is in regard to last year's Maryland Growth and Chesapeake Bay Protection Act, which was not passed by the General Assembly but which designated four areas of protection within each county and the growth limitations to be placed on each one. One of those areas was

U.S. Canoe And Kayak Team Olympic Trials Slated May 16-17

In this last month of winter, when robins return and hillsides begin to green, the anticipation of spring is heightened this year with the excitement of Olympic competition coming to Western Maryland, according to organizers of the event. The U.S. Canoe and Kayak Team Olympic Trials will be held on the Savage River near Bloomington on May 16-17.

Preparations have been underway for several months at Garrett Community College, host for the Olympic Trials, where a local organizing committee has been formed, headed by Don Storck. Storck expects the event to attract thousands of spectators and media representatives who will see about 90 of America's top whitewater slalom athletes compete for 15 slots on the team that will represent this country at the 1992 Summer Olympic Games in Barcelona, Spain.

Tickets for the Olympic Trials are now on sale at designated outlets in Garrett and Allegany counties. Of special interest to area residents and visitors is the "Early Bird Special," whereby tickets may be purchased at half price ($5) at any of the Garrett County outlets by April 15.

These outlets are: Sheetz convenience store and Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland; Arrowhead Deli on Deep Creek Lake; Plaza Deli and Wisp Resort in McHenry; and Grantsville Texaco on Route 495. Price of tickets includes parking at designated lots, shuttle bus service to and from the site, entrance to the races and to the Star Spangled Festival events at the site.

According to Storck, spectators at this year's Olympic Trials will have a better view of the races than at previous whitewater competitions on the Savage because of the shortened 350-meter race course, easily seen from the modern walkways. Athletes will paddle in canoes and kayaks through 25 gates, about eight of which are entered going upstream, with time penalties assessed for hitting or missing a gate.

The Star Spangled Festival will include entertainment for all ages, children's activities, exhibits, displays, food and concessions. Children 12 and under will be admitted free of charge to the races and the Festival events, when accompanied by a parent.

In addition to tickets being sold at the designated retail outlets, they may also be ordered through Ticket Master or by mail from the Olympic Trails Office, Garrett Community College, McHenry, MD 21541. The discounted rate does not apply to tickets ordered in this manner. Ticket price is $10 for each day.

Education Board Votes To Table Decision On Ryscavage's Contract

Four members of the Garrett County Board of Education voted to table the issue of Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage's contract renewal at a public session conducted by the school board last Thursday at Southern Middle School. The session followed a public hearing in which Ryscavage presented his fiscal year 1993 budget recommendations. Details of Dr. Ryscavage's budget recommendations will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Since Mikal Moomau, one of the board members, was out of town, board member Rodney Durst moved that the contract issue be tabled until all members could be present for the vote. The motion was carried and the issue will now be decided at the school board's next regularly scheduled public meeting slated for March 10.

The school superintendent has submitted his intent to accept a renewed contract if offered by the board and the school board is required to take action by March 1. Board member Beverly Sines-Murphy asked Dr. Ryscavage to grant a waiver of the March 1 deadline. Ryscavage agreed to the request.

School board president Carol Clark then opened the session to public comment. Many persons voiced opposing views on the subject.

Mike Pula, principal of Bloomington Elementary School as well as president of the Garrett County Administrators and Supervisors Association, strongly opposed the public debating of such an issue altogether. "I would like to say on behalf of our organization that it is our belief that this board has no business conducting sensitive personnel discussions in

County Turnout In Md. Primary "About Average"

According to an official at the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors, voter participation in the Maryland Primary Election Tuesday was "about average," with a 42 percent county-wide turnout. The board has released its unofficial tally, with 115 absentee ballots being counted today.

In the presidential race, a significant number of Garrett County voters gave their support to President George Bush, who received 2,063 votes. His rival for the Republican nomination, Pat Buchanan, received only 848 votes.

In the Democratic race for the presidential nomination, Bill Clinton led with 636 votes, followed by Paul Tsongas with 522. Jerry Brown picked up 151 votes; Tom Harkin, 127; Bob Kerrey, 79; and Lyndon LaRouche, 20.

In the race for the U.S. House of Representatives Democratic nomination in the Sixth District, incumbent Congresswoman Beverly Byron was narrowly defeated by Delegate Tom Hattery. Hattery received 826 votes to Byron's 811. Hattery carried every county in the Sixth District.

On the Republican side, Frank Nethken garnered the most votes, with 935. Roscoe Bartlett received 643, and Michael Downey, 288. Bartlett, however, received the most votes throughout the Sixth District, and will take on Hattery in the General Election.

Incumbent Barbara Mikulski will be the Democratic nomination for the Maryland Senate, receiving the most votes in Garrett County, as well as throughout the state. Mikulski garnered 744 votes in the county, and was followed by Don Allensworth, who received 236 votes, and Thomas Wheatley, with 121 votes. Walter Boyd and B. Emerson Sweatt each received 67 votes; James White received 35; and Scott D. Britt received 29.

Mikulski will battle Republican Alan Keyes, who received 560 votes in Garrett County. Friendsville native, Joyce Friend-Nalepka, received the second largest vote in the county, with 353 votes. Ross Pierpont received 243 votes; Martha Klima, 214; James Berry, 115; Rob Sobhani, 109; John Bishop, 106; Stuart Hopkins, 87;

Among the other primary election races held this Tuesday in Maryland, Garrett County residents were also given the opportunity to select four candidates for the Garrett County Board of Education. Those candidates will go on to the General Election this coming November, in which two of the four will be chosen to sit on the board.

Of the six candidates vying for positions on the Garrett County Board of Education, the four top vote-getters (according to an unofficial tally by the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors) were Wayne Johnson, with 1,370 votes; Charlotte Sebold, with 1,222 votes; Hannah Sincell, 1,001 votes; and Charles Teets, with 994 votes.

The other two candidates, Helen Fitzwater and Russell Sines, received 905 and 790 votes, respectively.

The absentee ballots, totalling 115, are being counted today, but should have no effect on the outcome of the race.

Garrett County voters will select two of the four candidates in the General Election to serve two-year terms on the board.

Oakland Mayor, Town Council Election Set

The slate of candidates for the Oakland Mayor and Town Council has now been finalized, and the election will be held Monday, March 9, at the Oakland Town Hall. Polling hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In the mayoral race, Francis D. Seifert is challenging incumbent Asa M. McCain, Jr. for a two-year term of office.

Oakland residents will also select three persons to fill positions on the town council for expiring terms. Harold "Moose" Cannon, Peggy Jamison, Dr. Andrew Mance and Mary Lou Stemple are the four candidates vying for the three seats on the council. All but Cannon are incumbents.

Each council member also serves a two-year term.

The three council members who are currently in the middle of their terms are Harvey "Jay" Moyer, Willard Ringer, and Arthur Naylor.

No candidates have filed for town treasurer, including incumbent Carol Gregg.

Funeral Director Donald J. Newman Succumbs Friday

Donald James Newman, 67, Grantsville, died Friday, February 28, 1992, at Meyersdale (Pa.) Community Hospital.

Born February 22, 1925, in Salisbury, Pa., he was the son of the late Edward C. and Lula E. (Livengood) Newman.

Mr. Newman graduated from the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science in 1947.

He served his Pennsylvania apprenticeship at the Thomas Funeral Home in Salisbury and received his Pennsylvania funeral director's license in 1949.

Mr. Newman then joined the Winterburg Funeral Home in Grantsville. After completing his apprenticeship, he received his Maryland funeral director and embalmer's license in 1955. Shortly afterward, he purchased the Winterberg Funeral Home and began operating as the Newman Funeral Home.

A branch funeral home was opened in Friendsville in 1960, while another branch was established in 1985 between Accident and McHenry. Mr. Newman purchased the Thomas Funeral Home in Salisbury in May of 1990.

Mr. Newman was a member of the local Tri-State Funeral Directors Association and the National Funeral Directors Association. He joined the Maryland State Funeral Directors Association in 1977 and held every state office. He was elected state president in 1984, being the only funeral director in Western Maryland to have held that office.

Active in the Grantsville community, Mr. Newman operated the Newman Ambulance Service from 1955-1972, at which time he was instrumental in establishing the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, serving as its first chairman.

Mr. Newman was a member of Christ Lutheran Church; past president and current secretary of the Grantsville Rotary Club; vice president of the Garrett County Board of Social Services; served as manager of the Grantsville Cemetery; a member of the El Fidel Club, Cumberland; Lodge 40, Fraternal Order of Police; and the Grantsville Community

LIONS DONATE TO BAND -- The Grantsville Lions Club recently donated $1,000 toward the purchase of a new percussion line for the Northern High School band. The band attended at least one field show competition each weekend during the fall and hosted its own competition with over 10 bands attending. They were awarded several prizes, including Best Percussion, Best Drum Major and Best Overall Band. They were invited to the Atlantic Coast championships and fared well in that competition. The band is presently seeking financial help from clubs, business, and individuals in purchasing new percussion line instruments. They are presently using instruments purchased used from the Southern Garrett Band six years ago. The new instruments are expected to cost nearly $12,000, and with the recent cuts in aid to education, help from the community is the band's only hope of achieving their goal, according to Jim Boord, director. Donations can be forwarded to the Northern Band percussion line, attending director Jim Boord, Northern High School, Accident, Md. 21520. Pictured left to right are Lions District 22-W Governor Andy Demario; Jim Boord; Grantsville Lions 1st Vice President Mark Watkins; and Lions District 22-W Cabinet Secretary William Stonesifer.

BEITZEL NAILS DOWN GOLD -- Northern High matman Scott Beitzel puts the finishing touch on his heavyweight championship bout with Derrick Poznaniak of North Carroll, in the Region One 1A-2A Wrestling Tournament held last Friday and Saturday at North Hagerstown High School. Beitzel required one minute and 22 seconds to dispatch Poznaniak by pinfall and claim his second consecutive regional championship, the county's only this year and last. Beitzel also distinguished himself this year as one of only two region champions to win all three of their individual contests by pins, with Beitzel requiring an average of one minute and 14 seconds per match. A number one seed in the state tournament, he has now improved his season record to 26-2, and his career record to 52-6. Other county grapplers who will join Beitzel at the State Tournament this Friday and Saturday at Westminster are teammates Chris Rowe (130-pounds), Allen Bittinger (135) and Jason Fazenbaker (189), and Southern Rams Jason Burgess (119) and Pete Strawser (125). Hospital Committee Holds Retreat To Address Local Health Issues

The Strategic Planning Committee of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, composed of members of the hospital Board of Governors, medical staff, and hospital management team, recently held a weekend retreat to discuss the community's health care needs and what the hospital should do to address them.

The four major areas discussed were: specialty services, expansion of the hospital's primary service area, health maintenance organizations (HMOs) and preferred provider organizations (PPOs), and the hospital's role in the community.

The retreat began on a Friday evening with a kick-off presentation by Ted LaLiberty, chairman of the Small & Rural Hospital Section of the American Hospital Association. A special guest was Cal Pierson, new president of the Maryland Hospital Association, who was accompanied by his wife, Trish. Pierson spoke briefly, and complimented Garrett Memorial for its "leadership role" the state association.

Ben Rosenthal, president of the hospital, opened the Saturday work sessions by sharing his vision for the hospital, highlighting its leadership role and the continued need for the hospital to develop new and improved services.

Joyce Bishoff, chairman of the Board of Governors, issued the challenge of planning for the hospital to meet the future health care needs of Garrett County. She reviewed the governing body's role to support the hospital and serve as a link to the community. She stressed the importance of getting community input into the planning process.

Dr. Robert Goralski, medical staff representative to the Board, noted the role of the medical staff and outlined community health needs from the viewpoint of the physicians.

Leading the discussions was Jack Fridinger, chairman of the Strategic Planning Committee.

The hospital recently conducted a community survey, physician survey, and hospital employee survey which asked what new or improved services should be provided at Garrett Memorial. The surveys also attempted to identify the services for which persons leave the hospital's service area to obtain either because they are not offered locally, or it is perceived they are not offered locally. The results of the surveys led to a lengthy discussion on the services that are now available at the hospital and which of those could be added.

The surveys indicated that the greatest perceived need at Garrett Memorial is a gynecologist, while the second most desired service is an ear, nose, and throat physician. These needs were judged immediate by the Board of Governors and recruitment of such services is currently underway.

The hospital will be establishing a physician manpower plan which will be used as a guide to bring additional specialties to the area. It was emphasized at the retreat, however, that already the medical staff of Garrett Memorial includes a solid base of family practice physicians who are able to provide a wide variety of service to their patients. It was noted that many areas have only specialists, so the care is fragmented and much more costly.

The hospital is considering the possibility of expanding its primary care service area in the north end of Garrett County and in nearby West Virginia. It will explore establishing medical offices in communities not now served directly by physicians.

Another discussion at the retreat concerned health maintenance organization insurance plans that have been proposed to a number of area businesses. A committee spokesman stated that these plans initially offer low rates in order to attract customers, however, they do not offer full freedom of choice for their enrollees to select the physicians or hospitals they may desire. The hospital is planning to establish an advisory committee to review future managed care proposals and informing interested parties of the advantages and/or disadvantages of the various programs.

The committee resumed meeting Sunday morning with a wrap-up session to discuss the various services the hospital should consider providing in the future. The hospital and medical staff decided to investigate expanding in other health-related fields in order to provide needed community services locally. An example would be in-patient psychiatry and substance abuse programs. All new programs will be considered based on identified needs and the hospital's and medical staff's financial management and professional capabilities to provide the service.

Other committee members participating in the retreat were: Drs. Margaret Kaiser, Donald Richter, William Fedde, and Karl Schwalm; board members Don Sincell, Jackie Shirer, Ruth DiPaolo, Charles Morris, and Eugene Helbig; and Charlotte Bock, R.N., Don Battista, Terry Weaver, and Jim Harvey, of the hospital's management team.

PSI's Ordered For Three In Circuit Court

Pre-sentence investigations were ordered for three men in Garret County Circuit Court last week.

Eric W. Grahm, 23, Kingwood, W.Va., pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a storehouse and stealing, in a hearing before Judge Fred A. Thayer. The plea was accepted by the court, and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Bail was revoked and the defendant was remanded to the sheriff.

Grahm was originally charged with breaking and entering a storehouse and stealing, two counts of breaking and entering a storehouse, and theft.

On September 3, the defendant reportedly entered Fairfax Sand and Concrete Company and removed several items. A written statement from the co-defendant indicated that Grahm participated in the crime.

Grahm was represented by Robert C. Hesson.

Charles O. Butler, 20, Mt Savage, pleaded guilty to unlawful use of a motor vehicle in circuit court. The plea of guilty was accepted by Judge Thayer and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Bail continued in the amount of $1,000.

The original charges were theft, false statement to an officer, and unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

The incident allegedly occurred on October 27, on Route 38. Butler was a passenger in a 1980 Ford Granada which was stolen from Bryan S. Andrews, Frostburg.

At the scene of the accident Butler reportedly told the officer his name was Bradley Orville Albright, Frostburg.

Ricky A. Weaverling, 36, Johnstown, Pa., pleaded guilty to theft in a hearing before Judge Thayer. The plea was accepted by the court and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. He was returned to the custody of the Maryland Department of Corrections where he is currently serving two years for the same crime.

The original charges were three counts of theft and malicious destruction of property.

On November 27-30 Weaverling allegedly stole merchandise from a vacant residence belonging to Robert P. Murry, Frostburg. $2,599.95 of the stolen household items belonged to Billy Murry, $1,853.95 belonged to Mary C. Murry, and $2,123.45 belonged to Elizabeth M. Murry. There was $233.95 of damaged property which belonged to Elizabeth.

John R. Toston represented Weaverling.

In other circuit court news, Benjamin N. Wilt, 37, Oakland was found guilty of violation of probation.

In a hearing before Judge Thayer, Wilt pleaded no contest to the charge.

Thayer reimposed the original sentence of two years in the Garrett County Jail. The defendant was remanded to the sheriff.

The original charges against Wilt were two counts of distribution of marihuana, two counts of possession of marihuana, and use of drug paraphernalia.

Wilt was represented by John R. Toston.

Clarification Noted

In last week's edition of The Republican it was reported that John A. Cosner was sentenced to 35 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. It should have read that Cosner was sentenced to 15 years in the Maryland Department of Corrections for second degree rape, 15 years for second degree sex offense, and five years for incest. All sentences will run concurrently.

Wildflowers of Garrett County (BIO 111) can be taken for one credit or as a non-credit offering. This course will be taught by Kevin Dodge at arranged times, usually on Saturdays. Students should expect to do some walking over easily accessible trails, according to Dodge.

A three-credit or non-credit course in Civil War History (HIS 292) will be taught by the Rev. Stephen Yelovich on Tuesday evenings, from 6:30-9:30 in Room 314. This course will focus on the Civil War in the western theatre and the Union generals who were in command.

Introduction to Computers (CS 105), a three-credit course, has been included in the Beacon Program. This course will be taught by Pramod Kapoor on Thursday evenings, from 6:30-9:30 in Room 314.

Two music courses are being offered with the Beacon Courses. Instrumental Music: Pipes and Drums (MUS 119 A) will be taught by the Honorable Fred Thayer on Wednesdays, from 7-9 p.m. in the music room. In this course, students will learn to play the Scottish bagpipes or drums. They do not need to have their own instruments. Instrumental Music: Playing the Recorder (MUS 119 B) will be taught by Dr. Dan Muss on Monday evenings, from 6-9 p.m. in the music room. Both of these music courses can be taken for one college credit, or as non-credit offerings.

Anyone desiring further information about any of these courses should call Joan Crawford at the college, 387-6666.

Adventure Sports Tour Packages Being Offered

One of the goals announced by Garrett Community College President Dr. Steve Herman, of the college's hosting the U.S. Canoe and Kayak Team Olympic Trials on the Savage River in May, is to benefit Garrett County economically. Toward that end, the college has organized Adventure Sports Tour Packages that offer visitors discounted rates at Garrett County motels and restaurants, plane and train fares, and various adventure sports activities.

Anyone coming to Garrett County for the Trials May 16-17, or during a 10-day period before and after that weekend is eligible to take advantage of these discounts, provided that reservations are made through Anna Maria Williamson at the college, (301) 387-6666, or (800) 827-1529.

Adventure sports activities that will be available at the discounted rates include canoeing and kayaking, whitewater rafting, horseback riding, mountain biking, hiking, and spelunking. Some of these will be available adjacent to the race site; others will be offered at off-site locations.

Booklets detailing the discounted rates and describing the various accommodations and sports activities are now available from Ms. Williamson in the Adventure Sports Tour Packages office of the college.

THANKS

My many thanks to all for the cards, flowers and prayers. A special thanks to the girls of Southern Rescue Squad for helping me, Dr. Dona Alvarez and staff of Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Slagle Selected As County Tree Farmer Of Year

Bill Slagle, a White Rock area farmer whose official address is Bruceton Mills, W.Va., was recently selected as Garrett County Tree Farmer of the Year for 1991 by the American Tree Farm System. His name was submitted for competition by Ernie Metz, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Forestry Service.

Slagle is part of the White Rock Area Corporation, which owns and operates the White Rock Recreation Area. Beginning in 1984, the corporation, with the help of high school students, planted 3,000 pine trees on a three-acre plot that had been previously surface mined. The planting process was repeated in 1988 -- this time with 11,000 pine trees being planted on 18 acres, with the assistance of DNR.

During the following two-year period, 12,000 more trees were planted, and the total number of trees on the farm is currently at 26,000.

Over the last several years, numerous acres have been selectively harvested for timber, fire wood, and Shiitake mushroom logs.

The 1992 planting by members of the organization will include 1,500 tulip poplar trees and 7,500 white pine trees. A total of 50 acres has been reforested since 1985.

In addition, wildlife habitat enhancement projects have been implemented or planned on the farm, including the future planting of corn for turkey and deer by Russell W. Slagle, grandson of Bill Slagle, and the erection of eight bluebird boxes last year (and plans for more) by his daughter, April. Records from 1991 have revealed that 42 baby bluebirds and nine tree swallows survived to start a new cycle.

Westover, W.Va., Man Sentenced To Three Years In Md. D.O.C.

A Westover, W.Va., man was sentenced to three years to the Maryland Department of Corrections after being found guilty of battery and petty theft. The presiding judge in the case was Timothy F. Finan from Allegany County District Court.

Finan sentenced Michael J. Molisee, 24, to three years for the battery charge and 18 months for the theft charge. The sentences are to run concurrently. In a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office, additional charges of assault with intent to rob and conspiracy were not prosecuted.

Molisee was arrested following a February 4 incident in which he and another man and a woman were involved in an alleged scam to steal money from John Wofford, who was staying at the Board Room Motel in Oakland.

According to court documents, Wofford had received a suitcase of his from a woman Yellow Cab driver from Morgantown, W.Va. A few minutes later, he heard a knock at the door. Upon opening the door, he was assaulted by two men, one of whom was later identified as Molisee. He was reported beat in the face and shoved to the floor when one of the men placed a pillow over his face and demanded his money. The men took Wofford's wallet which contained $180 and numerous credit cards.

Wofford called police after the men fled. Police apprehended the men at Keyser's Ridge in the Yellow Cab, along with the cab driver. The men were reportedly found on the floor of the back seat area of the cab. At a police lineup later, Wofford was able to positively identify both men.

In other District Court news, William M. Tyler, 30, Oakland, was found guilty of making a false statement to police. Judge Jack R. Turney heard that case and sentenced Tyler to six months in jail (three months were suspended), fined him $500, and placed him on one year of supervised probation.

Tyler was charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following an investigation of a January 2 incident in which Tyler, an inmate at the Garrett County Jail told a peace officer he slipped on a piece of soap in the shower and broke his ankle.

After sheriff's deputies investigated, it was determined that Tyler paid another inmate, Gordon Walters, $2 and some candy to break his ankle so he could sue the Sheriff's Office for negligence.

Gordon L. Walters, 19, an inmate at the Garrett County Jail, was found guilty of theft in court proceedings last week. Judge Turney sentenced him to one year in jail (all but 30 days was suspended), fined him $250, and placed him on one year of supervised probation.

Walters had been charged after another inmate, William Tyler, accused him of taking two $5 bills from him. An investigation by sheriff's deputies revealed that Walters had taken the money.

Mark D. Young, 23, Bowie, was found guilty of being disorderly in a public place. Judge Turney sentenced him to a 60-day suspended jail term, fined him $100, and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation. He was also barred from the Wisp Resort for a period of four years.

Young had been charged by Wisp security guards after he was seen urinating in a stairwell at the Wisp Resort Hotel. A second charge of indecent exposure against Young was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office.

Harold E. Dillsworth, 26, and Steven Dillsworth, 25, both of Aurora, W.Va., were both found guilty of battery by Judge Turney, who ordered pre-sentence investigations for both men.

The two had been charged after a January 12 incident when they reportedly assaulted and battered Jesse McRobie with a baseball bat. One also reportedly choked McRobie.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Lori A. White, 20, Oakland, who was found guilty of malicious destruction of property.

White had been charged by David Tressler who stated that White took a snow shovel and repeatedly struck his automobile, causing $300 in damages.

Charles P. Hacek, 28, Friendsville, who was found guilty of animal cruelty was handed a 30-day suspended jail term and placed on one year of supervised probation until he makes $199 restitution to Calvin Shrock at which time his probation will become unsupervised.

Hacek had been charged in December of last year when he shot Shrock's dog in the leg. The dog's leg had to be amputated.

Work release was recommended by Judge Finan for Terry A. Spiker, 30, Grantsville, who had been found guilty of possession of marijuana last October and sentenced to nine months in jail. Five months of that term was suspended.

Spiker was also placed on one year of supervised probation. He had also been given a credit of 79 days credit of jail time served.

Steve E. Ervin, 43, Deer Park, was found not guilty of malicious destruction of property.

He had been charged on January 18 by Patricia A. DeBerry who claimed he had shot her dog at a bar in Deer Park.

MSP Probing Thefts, DOP

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, is currently investigating several reported thefts and destruction of property complaints.

Three female juveniles were reportedly apprehended Monday following a theft of numerous household goods from the residence of Barbara J. Bincet, Friendsville. Police reports indicated that a neighbor of Bincet's witnessed the three juveniles at the victim's house. Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski is handling the case.

Joan M. Schelling, Silver Spring, told police that someone entered her vacation home at Deep Creek Lake sometime between February 23-29 and stole two bottles of champagne and a bottle of beer. Tfc. Scott MacLane is investigating.

Richard and Rebecca Green, Mtn. Lake Park, reported that their home on Fibiwee Lane had been vandalized in the early morning hours of February 23. No further details of the case were released by investigating officer, Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

Tfc. D.W. Broadwater is investigating the report of a vandalized vehicle. Spencer Schlosnagle, Friendsville, told police that someone had sprayed yellow paint on his 1989 Chevrolet Cavalier on February 22 between 3-11 p.m. Broadwater said suspects have been developed in the case.

George V. Futch, Swanton, reported that someone threw an unknown object at his 1986 Dodge Ram pickup, shattering the windshield. The incident occurred on Sunday while he was driving on the Swanton Hill Road. Broadwater is handling that investigation.

Kitzmiller Man Listed In "Stable" Condition Following Monday Accident

A Kitzmiller man remains listed in "stable" condition in the high level care unit of Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, as the result of injuries he sustained in a one-vehicle accident Monday afternoon, according to a spokesperson at the hospital.

Everett A. Harvey, 78, was seriously injured Monday when he was traveling south on the Mt. Zion Road in a 1977 Ford LTD and apparently fell asleep at the wheel and crossed over onto the left roadside. The vehicle then struck a telephone pole and a tree. Harvey was reportedly trapped in the vehicle until volunteers from the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad freed him.

Two passengers in the vehicle, Rebecca E. Reckart, 19, and Robert C. Reckart, 2, were both reportedly injured and treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Harvey was taken to the Cumberland hospital by the MSP Medevac helicopter.

Mrs. Reckart and her son were able to free themselves from the vehicle and walk to the home of Harold Paugh, who summoned help for them. He also rendered assistance to Mr. Harvey before rescue personnel arrived on the scene.

Tfc. W.E. Dixon investigated the 12:55 p.m. mishap.

JUVENILE CHARGED

A 16-year-old juvenile was charged with failure to drive on the right side of the roadway and with speeding following a single-vehicle mishap Monday afternoon on the Turkey Neck Road.

State police said the accident occurred when the juvenile, operating a 1984 Subaru, north on the Turkey Neck Road negotiated a right curve at a high rate of speed. She then traveled into the southbound lane, overcompensated, and when steering back into the northbound lane struck a ditch. The vehicle then crossed the center line and ran off the left roadside, struck a fence, and overturned.

The juvenile was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad where she was treated for injuries and then released. A passenger in the vehicle, James R. Rhodes, 17, Swanton, was apparently not injured.

Tfc. J.K. Moore investigated the 5:36 p.m. mishap for state police.

VEHICLE OVERTURNS

A North Dakota woman and her four passengers from Oakland escaped serious injury Sunday when the 1991 Chevy Blazer she was operating on the Oakland/Sang Run Road overturned after reportedly being forced off the road.

Treated and released from the local hospital were Mary V. Battig, 23, the operator of the vehicle, and her passengers, Jessica Godwin, 7, Amy Godwin, 4, Lisa Warrick, 23, and Delmos Warrick, 10.

The 12:10 p.m. accident occurred when Battig reportedly drove to the shoulder of the southbound lane to avoid a collision with an unidentified motorist who was traveling north in the southbound lane. Subsequently, the Battig vehicle slid in some soft gravel and traveled across both lanes and hit an embankment before overturning.

The injured were transported to the local hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Tfc. J.T. Bentlejewski investigated the mishap and filed no charges against the driver.

DWI WRECK

A Kitzmiller man was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs and with a seat belt violation following a one-vehicle accident on Wednesday, February 26, on Main Street in Kitzmiller.

Charged was Halle B. Hershberger, 80, who was operating a 1985 Toyota pickup and ran off the right side of the road, struck an embankment, continued on, and struck a telephone pole.

Hershberger was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Elk District Ambulance Service where he was admited for injuries sustained in the accident, but has since been released, according to a hospital nursing spokesperson.

Tfc. S.H. Anderson investigated the 6:40 p.m. mishap.

DWI ARRESTS

Four additional motorists were arrested by state police in the county this past week and charged with DWI.

Harry D. Dixon, 24, Mt. Storm, W.Va., was charged with DWI on Saturday by Tfc. R.T. Wilson.

Dennis C. Elson, 46, Bridgeport, W.Va., was apprehended by Tfc. P.R. Brown and charged with DWI on Saturday.

Stephen E. Miller, 34, Falls Church, Va., was charged with DWI by Tfc. Wilson on Sunday.

Tfc. Brown arrested Michael P. Brown, 26, Rockville, for DWI on Sunday.

A Side Show...

The public meeting sponsored and hosted by the Garrett County Board of Education last Thursday evening resembled a carnival side show that never should have happened, as Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage was tossed to the wolves by his own board of directors/advisors. "Step right up folks and take your best shot!" seemed to be the open invitation extended to the audience by the board members, who were trying to decide whether or not to renew Dr. Ryscavage's contract.

Irresponsible, cowardly, unfair, and totally inappropriate are among the words we have selected in describing this action by the members of the board. This was a personnel matter that should have been discussed by the board members in executive session. Only the vote by the board should have been held during a public session, as the law apparently requires.

Regardless of how one judges Dr. Ryscavage's performance as superintendent of schools, to subject him to this type of abuse was outrageous. We believe the board members must have totally succumbed to public and political pressure. Of course the taxpaying public has the right to provide input, ask questions, and voice complaints about the work of a public official such as Dr. Ryscavage. But such questions and complaints should be received and handled by the board in the appropriate, controlled manner - not via a public, emotional free-for-all.

We have not always agreed with the decisions of Dr. Ryscavage and various other school administration officials, and we have said so on those occasions. But we will also state for the record that we believe Dr. Ryscavage has accomplished significantly more positive things for the local school system than has any other superintendent in at least the past 50 years, and he has done so under far more difficult circumstances. He is a dedicated educator and a fine person who positively did not deserve being placed in such a position. Fortunately, he also received considerable praise and support by others at the same meeting.

We fear that the complexity, the importance, and the seriousness of the many problems facing education all exceed the competency level of the majority of the present board members. However, we do not believe they exceed the competency level of Dr. Ryscavage if he is afforded the kind of support he needs from the board, his assistants, county government, and the general public.

Of course, the major difficulty with which the board and administration must wrestle is one that is basically out of their control - funding. We hope that as our county commissioners progress into this "budget season" they will, for once, have the courage to allocate a reasonable level of funding for education, instead of continuing to hold the percentage of Garrett County's budget for education so far below the state average. But, that's another editorial.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a portion of the editorial entitled "Get a Grip" which was published in the February 27 issue of The Republican.

As I read through the editorial I found that the paragraph about the mainstreaming of handicapped children was written in a very cold manner. I am 14 years old and I disagree completely with the fact that handicapped children be put off to the side. I am around these special people every day of my life. No one has the right to underestimate anyone, especially when it comes to special people like them. They deserve opportunity too.

I just hope that when you write another editorial, you will take a broader look before writing anything. It would really make a big difference and save hurting a lot of feelings.

Sincerely,
Lori Sines
Friendsville

Dear Lori,

The handicapped children to which I referred in the editorial are those few whose conditions are so severe that they are basically unaware of their surroundings and thus gain no benefit from being in the school setting. Yet we must pay for staff and equipment to take care of them during the school day.

I realize and agree with you that the great majority of handicapped children do benefit from being participants in the public school system and, in many cases, contribute positively to the lives of teachers and other students. We have good programs in our schools designed especially for these children, which certainly should continue.

The main point I was trying to make with the editorial is that our schools are called upon by society and the government to take on more and more responsibilities and problems, many of which get in the way of basic teaching and learning. The schools are expected to "fix" all of society's ills. School counselors are being totally overwhelmed with case after case of severely disturbed and damaged students, most of whom are made that way by abusive members of their own families. It is my opinion that the majority of these problems should be handled, somehow, outside the school system, a system that was originally meant to be just that - a school system, and not the catch-all "institution" that it has become.

I apologize if my thoughts were presented in a cold or misleading manner and I do thank you sincerely for expressing your opinions.

Editor

To the Editor:

I cannot believe the insensitivity that you have shown in this past week's editorial. The idea that severely handicapped children should not hold a place in our county's school system shows disregard on your part.

I am a parent of a two-year-old handicapped child. He has Downs Syndrome. By your standards should he never be main-streamed? I'm thankful that there are laws to assure that my son will have a chance and I will pursue those rights granted to my child to their fullest extent.

My son is in the Early Intervention Program through the Garrett County Board of Education. As with other children, he receives physical and occupational therapy, infant stimulation, and speech therapy. With this help and the love extended from our family, he is progressing well and has great potential. I needed help and guidance when he was born to handle the problems he would encounter. These teachers and therapists were the help I needed. Along with their experience and caring my son is off to a great start. But I worry about that cruel world held by people who hold ancient standards on the issue. Nothing could mean more than seeing your child accomplish even the smallest task taken for granted with a "normal" child.

Why then do you have such a blunt opinion that is seen by everyone reading your newspaper? To spark response? I challenge you to visit special education or get more informative on a subject you obviously do not know enough about. If you had a personal interest in a child that was born defective by "normal" standards, wouldn't you as a parent try to do everything possible for your child?

A parent who cares will always hope for a brighter future for their child. Given a proper environment the child will grow, maybe not perfect, but at least with self-esteem and a sense of belonging. This should be a gift to any child. The issue is that all our children should get the best education possible. That is why parents and educators who know and understand push for laws to protect their children. Every child, if possible, deserves the chance to sit at the head of the class with his peers. Let's get all children out of the hidden corners of our schools.

To the Editor:

Your "Get a Grip" editorial was very timely! The crux of the problem you state in one sentence, "nearly every tooth has been removed from the discipline policies and we are paying a high price for it and we have been for a long time! It did not start yesterday!

But to say personnel is not to touch a student in discipline, is not to say they don't and get away with it also! I have had two instances related to me recently where a principal shoved and pushed two youngsters at separate times and they landed on the floor. That is abhorrent!

Your paragraph on emotional stability and emotional instability astounds me and I find about the same ignorance in the school structure with all the enormous administrative salaries we pay! I have argued this issue here for 30 years.

If a student is having a problem in school, the reason must be ascertained as soon as possible. Suspension and explusion is not the way to go and whatever help is needed has to be given as soon as possible! You don't educate anyone that way! If, as you say the students are smart enough to figure out the system, then they are smart enough to learn in a school system that is geared to teach "all students" not just the "elite."

Students who are handicapped sufficiently should be in special education classes. To say we

KINDERGARTEN REGISTRATION

This article was written in conjunction with Mr. Albert Coviello, Director of Pupil Services with the Garrett County Board of Education.

Despite being only slightly more than halfway through the school year, the Pupil Services Department already is focusing on the 1992-93 school year. The reason is simple: we must register new students long before the year begins so that the school system will be prepared. The registration process is not a terribly complicated process, but it does take a large amount of planning, coordinating, and processing.

What really happens on registration day? You and your child will be directed in the registering school to the room(s) where all the activities will occur. You will be met by staff from the Pupil Services office and/or the principal who will ask for information, such as where you live, directions to find your house, and who should be contacted in an emergency. At this station you must show proof of birth (birth certificate, baptismal record,etc.), social security number (for the registering child), and proof of residency (if a question arises).

After this initial registration activity, your child will have his/her vision and hearing checked at another station. He/she will move to a different station to have a brief dental check. At this time the kindergarten teacher(s) will meet the child and parent, interview the parent, and discuss any concerns. Normally the final stop will be the health appraisal station where the nurses will check the child's immunization record, measure his/her height and weight, discuss any health-related concerns, and offer to administer needed immunizations. Once this process has been completed, the child will either briefly visit the kindergarten classroom or receive an invitation to come back for a get-acquainted activity later in the spring.

Last year 374 youngsters were enrolled for kindergarten. Typically, 97% of eligible youngsters attend kindergarten. However, with the change in Maryland's regulations, kindergarten will be mandatory beginning this fall. The regulations do allow for exemptions from kindergarten based on enrollment in full-time licensed child care or full-time registered family day care or half-time, five-year-old Heat Start. The regulations do allow a parent to request a one-year delay in starting the child due to immaturity, but they do not waive the requirement of attending kindergarten. Any questions regarding kindergarten waivers or delayed entry into kindergarten can be addressed at kindergarten registration or by contacting the Pupil Services Office at 334-8939.

The staffs of the schools look forward to meeting you and your child during registration and serving your children during the next thirteen years. They also hope that you enjoy your visit to school for registration. Pre-registration forms will appear in this publication and be available in other media sources and through the elementary schools' newsletters beginning around February 27, 1992.

FRIENDS OF THE RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY

FOREL
by Sull McCartney

I know, I know. Well, I've been busy. None of your business. I seem to have misplaced one whole article I had read. My apologies, Betty. Maybe it is in one of the piles on my desk. Yes, I have been reading. I don't get paid for this you know. Enough already.

The following is a list of books that I have read recently with short descriptions. I like all of them.

The Rustlers of West Fork by Louis L'Amour

Originally published in 1951, this is a Hopalong Cassidy novel. Clarence E. Mulford wrote the original Hopalong Cassidy series. L'Amour wrote four additional volumes. The publishers listed the author as Tex Burns because they didn't believe the public would buy westerns written by anyone named L'Amour.

Coyote by Linda Barnes

Another entry into the rapidly growing field of fictional female detectives. Set in Boston with a six-foot-tall redhead, named Carlotta Carlyle as the PI.

Ride With Me, Mariah Montana by Ivan Doig

The last of Doig's excellent trilogy about Montana. I didn't like it quite as well as English Creek or Dancing at The Rascal Fair. The farther you get into the book the better it gets. For a really good read, get all three and read them in the correct order.

Walls of Blue Coquina by Sam Harrison

The description of this book may sound weird, but I really enjoyed it. Bobby Sauls is the patriarch of an inbred family which runs a dilapidated tourist camp on the Gulf of Mexico. Family members have an extra finger on each hand. One of the main characters is Psychic Ike, a member of a motorcycle gang. There are also ghosts and visions. An excellent first novel.

The Last Detective by Peter Lovesey

Lovesey is the author of The Sergeant Cribb mysteries which were set in the 19th century. The protagonist of The Last Detective is named Peter Diamond and the book takes place in modern day England.

The Elephant Man

Review by John R. McEwen

In performance this week at Garrett Community College is "The Elephant Man" by Bernard Pomerance, a true story about a man disfigured by an unknown bone disorder. John Merrick, an Englishman in Victorian times, was reported to look so hideous that even people trained in the medical profession would turn away in horror and disgust. After being forced to display himself in freak shows and carnivals to make a living, Merrick was befriended by surgeon Frederick Treves. The play is the story of how these two men changed each other's lives.

The elephant man is described in the program and the first lines of the play as "the most hideous, repulsive, complete physical deformity . . ." But when Merrick is finally unveiled, all we see is an able-bodied young man with a crumpled hand and a slight limp. No make-up; no disfigurement; no speech alteration. It seems that there was an excellent chance for some great impediment work missed here by actor Alex Hicks. This is an extremely meaty role, reduced to a lean, understated performance.

This is not the responsibility of Hicks alone, however. Director Micki Selvitella surely must have considered the obvious lack of deformity in her elephant man. Did she find the impediment unnecessary? Or did it really not occur to her?

What's more, Merrick, whose condition is said to be visibly deteriorating during the course of the play, actually seems to get better. Early in the play he is said to be unable to walk without the use of his cane, yet after that remark he spends the rest of the performance walking around unaided. The cane, which could have been invested with great significance by Hicks, ends up as merely a set decoration.

Still, Hicks's performance, aided by Pomerance's brilliant script, is respectable and sympathetic. In discussing the final scene of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, Merrick contends that Romeo doesn't really care for Juliet because when she is feigning death, he doesn't bother to check her pulse or get a doctor. "Instead he kills himself," he says. "If I were Romeo, we would have gotten away." This shows the exquisite love dreamed of by the unloved. A tender moment by Hicks.

Dr. Frederick Treves, played by Richard Hill, is beautifully confounded by his patient. Hill's Treves deteriorates emotionally as the play continues, a victim of desperate helplessness. There is no cure for Merrick's affliction, and although Treves elevates the elephant man to a member of high society, he cannot escape the fact that his work is merely a charade, a dressing up of the beast whom he is unable to help.

Another sparkling performance is given by Susan Bell as Mrs. Kendal, an actress who becomes the closest thing Merrick ever has to a lover. The scene where Mrs. Kendal reveals herself to Merrick is touching; Bell makes us love her too.

Notables in the supporting cast are Jane Avery and Bob Leatherbury, who was passionate if somewhat inarticulate. Both these actors, and several others, were forced to play two and three roles, however, an unfortunate choice.

The set was another technical victory by Ben Sincell, and costume designer Joan Sussman did a good job at finding clothing and accoutrements of the period.

All in all, director Selvitella brings us an enjoyable performance in which Hill, Bell, and Hicks shine. Use parental discretion, though; some scenes are not particularly suitable for young viewers.

"The Elephant Man" is showing at 8:00 p.m. tonight, Friday, and Saturday (March 5, 6, and 7) at the GCC auditorium. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for students.

LWV THE LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

HOME RULE CHARTER FOR GARRETT COUNTY
Article II
Legislative Branch
County Council

Under home rule charter, the three county commissioners could be designated as the County Council and, in addition to their present powers, be given the home rule legislative powers to enact local public laws. However, it is believed the County Council should not be limited to three members.

Many in areas such as the Friendsville, Accident, McHenry area; the Swanton, Kitzmiller, Bloomington, Deer Park area; and the Finzel, Avilton, Elbow, Bittinger area feel orphaned without commensurate representation in the courthouse and feel that each of their areas should have a representative on the council.

It is reasoned that a more democratic decision-making process with less special interest influence will prevail by having more members on the council from different areas in the county. Also, with more areas represented on the council, a better overall understanding of the county will prevail.

Can the county afford more than three commissioners, or in the case of a charter, more than three members on the county council? The answer is yes. For example, beginning in 1994, each present county commissioner will receive an annual salary of $28,000 for a total of $84,000 for all three. By dividing five council members into the total of $84,000, their annual salary would be $16,800 per year, a higher pay than now received by commissioners and council members of eight other Maryland counties. Another example is the annual pay of $12,000 by the Allegany County Commissioners. For this amount we could have seven council members.

Would there be civic-minded candidates willing to serve the county at these lower pay scales? The answer is yes. It was never intended that the commissioners of Garrett County should live only on their one- to three-day work week commissioners salary nor that they be professional politicians. For decades, past citizens have served as a civic duty, depending on other income for their total subsistence.

Girl Scout And Brownie Happenings

Girl Scouts To Observe 80th Birthday

Girl Scouts of USA will observe its 80th birthday on March 12. On this day Juliette Low formed the first troop of Girl Scouts in the United States. The week in which March 12 falls is designated as Girl Scout week.

The G.S. movement dedicates itself to the purpose of inspiring girls with the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism, and service that they may become happy, resourceful citizens.

Girls Scouts is an organization for girls from 5 to 18 years of age. It recognizes the need to help today's youth become the successful and productive leaders of tomorrow. G.S. fosters the skills of citizenship, respect for all humankind, loyalty and kinship among family, neighbors, friends, and doing for others in their communities.

The 80th birthday theme is "Girls Scouts Care for the Earth." All troops are encouraged to plan an environmental stewardship project this year and to have each member make the Care for the Earth pledge. The Girl Scout Pledge reads:

I pledge to care for the earth.
As a Girl Scout, my promise to obey the Girl Scout Law means that I will make a difference by using resources wisely and protecting and improving the world around me.
I am a caretaker of this planet.
I can make a difference now and for the future.
I will strive to do my part for the earth in my daily life.
I am part of solutions to environmental problems we face.

I commit myself to the Girl Scout's national service project, "We Care For The Earth," I make this pledge, knowing that caring for the earth is a lifetime project.

The Girl Scouts of Garrett, Preston, and Monongalia counties are in The Girl Scouts of Southwestern Pennsylvania council. The council has an "Adopt a Tree" project this year. Each troop is encouraged to plan a project or participate in the council project and include the pledge in their project.

Letters

have created a school welfare system of sorts, where students know they can behave just about anyway they choose and the consequences will be relatively mild boggles my mind! The students couldn't be this way, without aid and assistance from all the adults involved -- so why are we paying all these millions to create so many welfare clients? At least you have demonstrated by your editorial why we graduate some people (you have to know why now) who can barely read or write!

Why spend more millions now to spend more millions on welfare later as well? As our national debt buries us and I hope a lot of the "Big Shots" go down in the "quagmire!"

I was appalled at the turn of events in the Health Department; specifically, the Mental Health Department, and more direct by "Lighthouse." The letter from the clients at Lighthouse saddened me terribly! To think these lovely handicapped people, through no fault of their own, would be forced to worry by unthinking, cruel people is incredible! That Mike Dennis would be removed from his position as Lighthouse director literally overnight is the most emotionally unstable action I have seen in a series of unstable actions and such as I have never witnessed in 35 years of closely working with and monitoring mental health services. Mike Dennis is the one person in so very long who has been a real director. He is so with it and the "AMI Group" and all I know have for the first time in years felt we are really going to get somewhere for and with our mentally ill and now "whamo"; he's demoted from director after doing a superb job for four months or more.

Queer? Odd? Can't we tolerate excellence in Garrett County?

Are we this bankrupt or corrupt? Dr. Archer, can you explain this one? Justifiably? Thank you, this is my opinion.

Mrs. Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

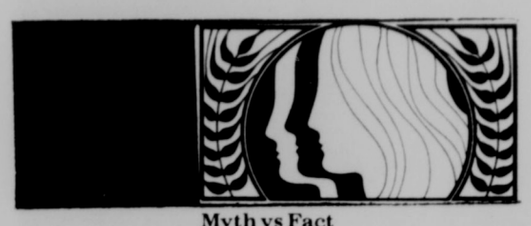
To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to inform the residents of Garrett County the status of the Sines dispute and to inform you that a hearing will take place at the Board of Education on March 10 at 5 p.m. Please come and show your support.

I currently have over 1,400 signatures, and dozens of letters from not only Garrett County, but all over the state. None of these letters have been supportive and in fact very informative about Sines' conduct when attending functions representing the Garrett County education system.

Many of the petitioners have had direct contact with Mr. Sines or his office. These contacts have been concerned mainly with safety matters such as bus stops or discipline matters over the abuse of their children on some buses. For public understanding I would like to give just three of the dozens and dozens of problems that I have now been made aware of.

Instance 1 - Several parents requested an additional bus stop in Mountain Lake Park. This was supported and encouraged by Sheriff Van Evans because heavy traffic and observable safety problems (a previous pedestrian death at this location.) Mr. Sines summarized response was, "Don't blame the Board if a speeder kills a child, blame the sheriff for not controlling speeders or the town for not building sidewalks." Great answer, Mr. Sines, hope you tell it to the dead child.



Instance 2 - This involves restraining of a retarded child. When the mother complained that the restraints Sines insisted be used were not appropriate (the child was coming home bruised and bloody.) Sines informed her that "you are an unfit mother and your son will never amount to anything." The mother had to seek legal action and the restraints were removed.

Instance 3 - Sines ignored the request made by parents, a doctor and a county commissioner to put in a temporary stop because of a student having to undergo surgery. After extensive pressure including a public meeting, Sines decided that he would allow a temporary stop for a week before and a week after surgery. Never mind that the child's doctor requested it for five weeks after surgery.

In using these three examples, I think it's possible to know why Sines is so loved by at least 1,400 petitioners. Where else could you find a supervisor of transportation who knows more than the sheriff about law enforcement and traffic safety, needs of the retarded, who is a fit mother, and so expert that he can over rule a doctor in a case of surgery. The next thing you know he will be a specialist in marriage counseling or sex education.

Sincerely,
Richard Thomas

Out Of The Darkness

Myth vs Fact
Part II
by Carol Cox

Last month we discussed some of the most prevalent falsehoods so wrongly accepted as truth regarding mental illness. Negative stereotypes about mental patients tend to perpetuate themselves; therefore, education is the only key to unlocking the facts surrounding this illness which affects one in four American families.

Myth No. 6 "A person with schizophrenia, manic depression, or other serious mental disorders must be really crazy."

Fact - Those with schizophrenia or manic depression (bipolar disorder), when they are actively ill, may have confused thoughts, suffer from delusions (false beliefs) or hallucinations. Appropriate medication often controls or eliminates these symptoms and any other accompanying unpredictability. With appropriate treatment, people with other serious mental disorders also tend to be calm and reliable.

Myth No. 7 "You can't talk to someone who has been mentally ill."

Fact - Most recovered mental patients are rational and intelligent, and it is certainly possible to talk with them. Even individuals who are actively mentally ill are likely to be rational in many ways.

Myth No. 8 "If a former mental patient has a really bad history there isn't much hope."

Fact - That person's history is important in predicting his or her chances for recovery. Some may be ill for many years before they finally receive effective treatment or their condition improves for other reasons.

Myth No. 9 "A former mental patient is bound to make a second-rate employee.

Fact - Many recovered mental patients make excellent employees. Former patients often outperform other employees in such areas as attendance, punctuality motivation and quality of work. However, some are subject to relapses which may cause them to lose time from their jobs. These individuals should work in flexible situations that can accommodate such interruptions.

Myth No. 10 "If people who recover from other illnesses can cope on their own, recovered mental patients should be able to do so, too."

Fact - Actually, most people who have been through a disabling illness need help, or rehabilitation, to return to normal functioning. Physical therapy often fills this role after physical illness. Similarly, following mental illness, social rehabilitation is usually needed.

Gentlemen:

This past Friday afternoon late our cable was knocked out. The next morning we discovered that the cable was lying in the trees. Upon calling your service department, our call was handled in a prompt and courteous manner.

We were told you would be out in about 2 hours and we wondered if the servicemen would really be there! You might recall it was 18 degrees, windy and snowing; in general, a miserable day.

We just want to say thank you for your prompt service and to your servicemen for their courteous and knowledgeable service on such a nasty day.

To the Editor:

In my letter to the Editor in the Feb. 13 paper, I said the boardwalk in the early 1900's in Sang Run ran from Friend's store to the river bridge. My sister said she meant it went from the Matthew DeWitt store to the river bridge. DeWitt's store was gone before my time.

Sorry I misunderstood.

Beulah L. Mickle

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on some of the information provided by Tom Shaffer, Jim Raley, and Don Douds, supporting their proposals to bus Finzel and Bloomington area students to schools in Garrett County.

I would have more respect for the above named individuals if they came right out and admitted their main concern is a salary increase.

These gentlemen claim the county Board of Education would realize great savings in funds if these eastern county students went to county schools. Never mind the kids having to travel an additional two hours each day, as long as the pay raise is forthcoming.

If Mr. Doud's claim of Maryland's prosperity is true, why is the state budget in the red with proposals for increased taxes?

Mr. Doud states Maryland charges only a 5 percent income tax, but he fails to mention the additional 2½ percent piggyback tax to the county, which, I understand was to have been a temporary two-year increase. Maryland taxes are among the highest in the U.S., not the lowest. My own Maryland and county taxes are nearly double what I paid as a resident of California in 1988.

Now a coalition of teachers has visited Annapolis in support of additional taxes plus an increase in the "piggy-back" tax from 50 percent to 60 percent of our increased tax liability.

To justify their demands, they use that worn out phrase, "How can you deny your children a good education?" Recent worldwide test scores seem to indicate the U.S. already is spending more than anyone for inferior education.

Teachers in Garrett County are some of its highest paid employees. Maybe they're the only ones who can afford all these taxes.

I fail to see how increasing their salaries will benefit the students. If they feel so underpaid, perhaps they might seek better positions elsewhere -- like Prince George's County, maybe.

When you think of it, Garrett County has a lot to offer which is not monetary.

Sincerely,
Carl R. Beachy
Swanton

To the Editor:

This is to express opposition to HB 1336 which would deny or limit additional benefits to women who have additional children after coming under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children programs.

The measure, sponsored by Delegate Richard Rynd (D-Baltimore County), would weaken the financial support for children who are the object of the AFDC program. Children in this state and nation are already among the largest segment of the poor. The proposed measure would only worsen this situation in Maryland.

The proposed measure is blatantly class-baiting. It is directed against families in the lower stratum of the socio-economic structure in the state. (If only they were registered voters and politically organized ...) In our two-tiered welfare system, it would not affect those families who qualify for benefits under Social Security programs. Instead, it would disproportionately affect children and their families who as a last resort have to rely on the state welfare system, even though AFDC is in part supported by federal funds.

Who among us today is not aware of the high cost of rearing children? The additional benefits allowed to AFDC recipients do not compensate for the high cost of rearing those children even at a low standard of living.

If the aim of the measure is behavioral modification among targeted recipients, then incorporate a family planning component in the existing AFDC program. More specifically, include sex education, birth control counselling, and even the availability of pregnancy termination procedures.

Why blame low income families for the fiscal problems of the state and nation? In harsh economic times, it is the lower income families that are the most vulnerable and that are most likely to turn to the AFDC programs.

More fruitful efforts should be directed toward spurring economic development and growth in the state that would insure full employment. Then that would provide good paying jobs so young men who impregnate women would be able to financially support them and their children.

Finally, while I do not support the measure, I do commend Delegate Rynd for putting the proposal on the table for debate. I am sure that there are some out there who support the measure. On the other hand, it may threaten enough unregistered citizens to get registered as voters and then vote. After all, their votes can make a difference.

Sincerely,
Herbert H. Lindsey

To the Editor:

On Saturday, Feb. 29, the local chapter of the American Association of University Women sponsored a bus for seventh grade girls from Bloomington, Northern and Southern Middle Schools to attend a Computer, Math and Science Career Fair in Annapolis. We wish to thank the A.A.U.W. for offering our students the chance to see firsthand that many opportunities are now available to girls.

Our thanks are also extended to the State and County Roads Departments for being out early on Saturday treating the roads. Without their help it is unlikely we would have risked leaving the county.

Sincerely,
Polly Ramsay

Head Start Now Seeking Fall Enrollees

The local Head Start Program is currently recruiting three- and four-year old children for enrollment in September.

Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility guidelines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and services for disabled individuals. The educational program includes learning experiences to foster intellectual, social and emotional growth. Children participate in indoor and outdoor play and are introduced to concepts of words and numbers. They are also encouraged to express their feelings, develop self-confidence and the ability to get along with others.

Children with disabling conditions, participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

Head Start provides each child with comprehensive health and nutritional services. Children are served two hot meals every day in order to meet at least two-thirds of their nutritional requirements.

Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program. Many parents volunteer in the classroom, participate in decision making and in training sessions provided by Head Start. Educational activities that can be implemented at home are also available to parents.

A total of 158 children are presently enrolled in the Head Start Program. Centers are located in Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller and on Dennett Road. A home-based program, which began in December, 1990, is also offered. A wrap around program was implemented in November, as a pilot project. This was in collaboration with the Board of Education's Early Elementary Education Program.

Applications are accepted in May for the fall term. Interested persons should apply as soon as possible. Applications are available at any center, at the Community Action Office, 360 W. Liberty St., or at the Head Start Office, 221 S. Third St., Oakland, MD.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents' social security numbers, and their children's birth certificates when applying.

More information may be obtained by contacting the Head Start Office at 334-5856.

Local Artist's Works On Exhibit At FSU Galleries

Ron Skidmore, associate professor of art at Garrett Community College, will have two exhibits of his work at galleries in Frostburg, from March 7-31. An exhibit of oil paintings will be on display in the Lane Center of Frostburg State University; an exhibit of drawings, prints, and watercolors will be displayed in "The Gallery Next Door," where an artist's reception will be held on Friday, March 13, from 7-9 p.m.

The oil paintings on exhibit in the Lane Center were completed within the last seven years, and are representatives of experiments and experiences with painting techniques and observations of color and light. The paintings began as studies of landscapes and trees, but developed into statements about the effects of light with backlighting, bold shadows, atmosphere, the manipulation of color and form, and certain qualities of time and place. In this direction, linked with a deep appreciation for the works of the American Luminist painters, Skidmore attempts to establish a Neo-Luminist type of art.

The exhibit in the Gallery Next Door also shows Skidmore's experiments with techniques. Of this he says, "My primary focus has been simply 'doing trees' because of the possibilities of linear qualities, intersecting lines in space, lyricism, textural masses, and planarities of landscape imagery. From the miniature etchings of 1977, through expressions of horizontal symmetry, composites, and spatial alternatives, to the more recent concern for light and atmosphere, the images are, above all else, compositions. My primary interest in any object or scene is not mundane identity of the object, but rather how it involves space and its relativity to time and place. The compositions are visual poems, visual chants, skits, or dances. They are arrangements, interpretations, or entertainments."

Skidmore, a 1974 graduate of Frostburg State University with a B.S. in art education also holds an M.F.A. in printmaking from West Virginia University. He has been instructing a variety of art courses for over 10 years, and is also coordinator of the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College.

MILSTEAD WORKS NOW ON DISPLAY -- An exhibition titled "A Children's Exhibit" by local artist Bill Milstead is currently on display in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College, where a reception for the artist will be held tonight, from 7-9 p.m., in the gallery. The reception coincides with the opening of "The Elephant Man," being presented by the GCC theatre department through Sunday, with performances at 8 p.m. A sampling of Milstead's works are shown above, at right, and below. Milstead stated that the exhibit was inspired last year when a group of fifth-grade students at Broad Ford Elementary School showed an interest in some of his paintings. (In fact, the paintings will be hung at a lower than usual level to accommodate the children, said Milstead.) The exhibit is in conjunction with Maryland Youth Art Month and will remain at the gallery through March 26. Gallery hours are between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

In love and in fondest memory of our dad, Grover C. "Cleve" O'Brien who died 25 years ago, Feb. 25, 1967:

MY FATHER

My father was a quiet man
Beloved by one and all.
Everyone who knew my dad
Fond memories can recall.

He lived a very humble life,
Content with what he had.
never heart him once complain,
This man who was my dad.

He farmed the land most of his life,
And planted seeds in season.
The seed he sowed the deepest
Grows in my heart and reason.

Taught me right from infant up
And in his gentle way,
He really drove the lesson home
By living for each day.

He gave me many gifts in life
That money cannot buy.
The gifts of honesty and truth
I treasure very high.

He taught me to be thankful
For whatever things we had.
And best of all I'm thankful
I had him for my Dad.

VOTE

LEADERSHIP AND OPEN GOVERNMENT

FRANCIS D. "Hank" SEIFERT

FOR MAYOR OF OAKLAND
March 9, 1992

March 3, 1992

Dear Oakland Voter:

I am writing again to ask for your support in the upcoming Town election. I have filed as a candidate for Mayor, and will be on the Oakland Municipal Election ballot Monday, March 9.

If you are as outraged as I am over the spending habits of the Mayor and Town Council, and if you are as shocked as I am over the seemingly common practice of spending large amounts of money and making long-term financial commitments without public knowledge, public hearing, and without public approval, I urge you to do as I intend to do on March 9, and vote for someone else. As I see it, some of the basic tenets and principles of democracy as well as the contents of our pocketbooks are equally at risk.

On February 20, I wrote a sarcastic letter to The Editor of The Republican exposing a purchase of property by the Mayor and Town Council without public knowledge and public hearing. I charged the Mayor with poor judgment and abuse of power and public trust. On February 27, Mr. McCain publically acknowledged in The Republican "Oakland Update" column that the Town had purchased the property, and then went on to say that the Town was getting a new dowtown park this summer. I am not impressed with the judgment of a person who tells us something three months after the deal is done, and then only when pressured by a letter to The Editor. I apologize for the sarcasm but I stand by the charges.

I suspect that some of you would be happy with new water lines, and that possibly you might feel as I do that the new City Hall and downtown park could wait until higher priority needs are met. There doesn't seem to be much point in going to the new park for a picnic if you can't bathe the kids when you get home.

I am no different than you. I want good government. I want to be represented by thoughtful, caring people. I want a government who considers me its biggest asset and closest friend, and is mindful of my economic condition, before going further in debt at my expense and without my knowledge.

If I am elected Mayor, with your help, I make the following pledges:

I pledge to place into effect immediately a moratorium on discretionary spending; I pledge to establish a capital improvement committee whose job it will be to examine and evaluate all proposed capital projects and prioritize expenditures in these areas. This committee will report its findings and recommendations at a public hearing; I pledge to veto any proposed non-emergency expenditure that is not covered in the budget, or serves to exceed projected income for the period; I pledge to comply with and follow prescribed public law in the judicious use of public hearings; and I pledge to work diligently to reduce the Town's debt and bring future expenditures under manageable control.

I am very much aware that I have lost the election as Mayor before. I am prepared, if need be, to lose again. Sometimes the price of democracy is high.

Many thanks,

Hank"

Four Huskies And Two Rams Are Statebound

Six Garrett County wrestlers, four from Northern High School and two from Southern, have qualified to compete in the Maryland Class 1A-2A Wrestling Championships, to be held this weekend at Western Maryland College in Westminster. They qualified for the state tourney by finishing among the top four in their respective weight classes at last weekend's Region 1 Tournament, held at North Hagerstown High School.

Northern heavyweight Scott Beitzel was the only one of the six who captured a first place in the regional meet, while Allen Bittinger and Chris Rowe of Northern and Jason Burgess and Pete Strawser of Southern each placed second. Northern's Jason Fazenbaker placed fourth.

It was Beitzel's second straight regional title. Bittinger was pinned in the championship bout of the 135-pound division, while Rowe lost by decision in the 130-pound final. Burgess and Strawser were the runners-up in the 119- and 125-pound classes, respectively, as Burgess lost to Randy Owings of Francis Scott Key in the title bout by a 3-1 decision and Strawser was edged 4-3 in overtime by North Carroll's Andy Rill. Fazenbaker placed fourth in the 189-pound competition.

It was learned just yesterday that Chris Rowe will not be able to compete in the state meet because of an injury.

As a team, the Huskies placed fourth in the regional tourney with 98 points, behind winner North Carroll with 180 points, Smithsburg with 153, and Francis Scott Key with 128. Beall finished fifth.

The tournament records of the other Southern grapplers were: Jason Rush, 1-3; Mike DeWitt, 1-3; Shane Skipper, 0-1; and Sonny Livengood, 0-2.

Preliminaries in the state tournament will begin Friday afternoon, with the championship rounds set for Saturday at 6 p.m. There will be 16 wrestlers in each weight division.

Southern's Burgess, a sophomore, will meet Minh Dang (23-3), a junior from Edgewood High School, in his opening bout, while Strawser, also a sophomore, will face Chris Shelley (29-5), a junior from Damascus H.S.

Allen Bittinger of Northern will first meet Chesapeake's Tom Strong (17-6-1), a junior; Fazenbaker will wrestle Pat Brennan of Hammond High School, a junior with a record of 22-9-1; and Beitzel's first opponent will be Overlea sophomore Mike Khoedler (11-10).

REGIONAL RUNNER-UP AGAIN – Southern Ram Jason Burgess works for a breakdown against Francis Scott Key's Randy Owings in the 119-pound championship bout. Neither grappler dominated the other, but Owings won on points, 3-1. Earlier, Burgess won two other matches, and will enter the State Tournament as a number two seed, boasting a season record of 25-2. His performance at regionals gave him his second consecutive runner-up finish there and improved his two-year career record to 52-7.

NORTHERN VS. SOUTHERN -- A Ram and a Husky met only once throughout the regional tourney, as Southern's Shane Skipper collided with Northern's Greg Miller in the 140-pound class. Pictured, Skipper attempts a near fall with Miller. Miller was leading 2-1 when Skipper suffered an injury that forced him out of the tourney. Miller went on to finish in fifth place, which will allow him to compete at states if a higher finishing wrestler in his weight class is unable to participate.

STRAWSER DROPS HEARTBREAKER -- In the final contest for the 125-pound title, Southern Ram Pete Strawser applies a pinhold to Andy Rill of North Carroll. Strawser dropped the match, 4-3, in overtime. Nonetheless, Strawser recorded his second consecutive regional runner-up finish, and with a record of 23-3, will also enter the State Tournament as a number two seed. His two-year career record now stands at 52-9.

ROWE RUNNER-UP -- In the championship final at 130 pounds, Northern Husky Chris Rowe lifts his Smithsburg opponent, Jason Draper, to claim one of his three takedowns against Draper before falling, 10-8. Draper had been one of only two undefeated entries in the entire tournament and had rapidly pinned his two earlier opponents before going neck and neck with Rowe, who would have entered the states as a number two seed with a season record of 25-4, but will be unable to compete in the state tourney because of an injury sustained in a farm mishap.

Shingles: Caused by the Chicken Pox Virus

Shingles, a painful nerve condition that occurs most often after age 45, is caused by zoster-varicella, the same virus that causes chicken pox. It is thought that after a bout with chicken pox during childhood years, the zoster-varicella virus moves along the nerves to an area in the body near the spinal cord and becomes dormant. It is theorized that physical and/or emotional injury to the body during the middle or late adult years reactivates the virus – only this time the virus causes the condition we refer to as shingles.

One of the early symptoms of shingles is a burning or shooting pain in the skin over the affected nerve. In a few days, red spots appear on the skin at the area of pain. Typically, these spots get larger, become filled with pus, and crust over. Shingles can affect nerves located in the chest, back, arms, legs, or face. Extreme cases may result in paralysis, loss of sight and hearing, and death due to viral or bacterial infection.

Recently the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved acyclovir for the treatment of shingles. According to one study in a recent issue of FDA Consumer, patients who received acyclovir suffered less pain and discomfort during the acute phase of the illness. Capsaicin, a drug being tested in Canada, also reduces shingles pain.

Rams, Huskies Go Into Playoffs Ranked Number One In Region

For the first time in history the Southern Rams and the Northern Huskies will go into regional basketball tournament action both seeded number one in their respective divisions. Both will meet their first opponents in regional tournament action this evening, as the Rams (20-2) will host fourth-seeded Middletown (17-6) in the Region 1 Class 2A semifinals and the Huskies (14-8) will host fourth-seeded Williamsport (13-8) at Garrett Community College. Both contests will begin at 7 p.m.

The Rams are sporting their best record since the 1970-71 team, a member of which was Southern's present coach, Tom Bosley.

Bosley, who is anticipating a tough test for his team this evening, said this morning, "Middletown is a very good transition team and a good shooting team."

Middletown is led by 6-2, 200-pound senior forward Jason Lucas, a three-year starter, who scored 31 points against Fort Hill this week in an opening round game. "Lucas is a strong, physical player who can shoot from anywhere on the floor," Bosley said.

Don Lowe, a 5-7 senior point guard, is the team's best long-range shooter and also possesses a lot of quickness. Brian McMahon, a junior, is the other guard and also a good shooter from the three-point range.

The center is anchored by John Bennett, a 6-7 sophomore, who has "improved dramatically" since the early part of the season, according to Bosley.

The other starter at forward will most likely be 6-5 sophomore Ryan Gebbia who was pulled up from Middletown's jayvee program about a month ago.

It was the same team that dashed Southern's hopes for a state title last year, as Middletown defeated the Rams, 55-44, in the regional playoffs.

"We don't plan to do anything different against this team," Bosley said. "We have been successful all year with what we are doing, so I see no reason to change anything. But they are a good, solid team and we will need a strong performance to beat them."

Northern Coach Harv Speicher has seen Williamsport play twice this year and is also expecting a dog fight tonight in the GCC gym.

"The major thing they have that we don't is playoff experience," Speicher said. "They won the district title last year and went on to play in the state tourney.

"Size-wise, we are a little bigger than they are, but they have good speed and play a tough man-to-man defense."

Williamsport is led by guard Dante Hopkins, who has been somewhat inconsistent, but has often scored well into double figures. "He is their key player," Speicher said. "One night he might score just 10 points, but the next night he'll score 40. He's a good shooter from long range, but he can also penetrate and score inside.

"We're just going to go out, play hard, and try to keep as much pressure on them as we can," he concluded.

If the Huskies are victorious they will move into the Class 1A regional finals Saturday at Southern and face either sixth-seeded Westmar or second-seeded Mt. Savage. That game is slated for 4:30 and will be followed by Southern's game at 7:30, if the Rams win their game tonight.

Rams Destroy Falcons, Prepare For Middletown

The Southern High School Rams, who were this week declared Area Champions for the first time in the school's history, will begin their post-season quest for their first state title this evening at home against Middletown in a Region I Class 2A semi-final match-up.

The Rams, who are seeded first in the region, were awarded a bye in the quarterfinal rounds, which were played Monday and Tuesday nights. Middletown, which is seeded fourth, reached the semi-finals by knocking off fifth-seeded Fort Hill Tuesday night, 91-76. If the Rams are victorious tonight, they will face the winner of the Walkersville-Glenelg contest Saturday night, also on the Southern High court. A win Saturday will send them to College Park next week for the state tournament. (See separate story on tonight's tournament games.)

The Rams, who are 20-2 overall under Coach Tom Bosley, wrapped up their regular season in impressive style before a home crowd Friday night by destroying Frankfort, 91-43.

Brett Rice, who did not play much of the second half, led the Rams' scoring with 27 points, just slightly above his area-leading average, while Britten Martin finished with 16 points. Dave Kurtz recorded eight points and eight rebounds, Rice dished out nine assists, and Jeff Spencer contributed nine points and four steals.

The Rams took the lead and never looked back, as they were on top 21-12 by the end of the first quarter, led 43-21 at halftime, and out-scored the Falcons in the third quarter by a 28-10 margin to lead 71-31 going into the final eight minutes.

Ted Bennett and Mike Whiteman paced the Falcons' scoring with 14 and 11 points, respectively. The loss dropped Frankfort's record to 7-13.

The 20 wins marks only the second time a Southern team has recorded that many victories, as the last team to do it was the 1970-71 squad (20-3), which featured senior point guard Tom Bosley.

The Southern junior varsity team also concluded its season with a victory and a 15-5 record by topping the Frankfort jayvees, 52-45, in the preliminary game. Mark Elliott poured in 25 points for the Rams, while teammate Mark Dawson added 10. Cory Moreland and Todd Pertko scored 14 and 11, respectively, to lead Frankfort.

Curve Tavern Upsets Buffalo In MTL Playoffs

Curve Tavern pulled off the biggest upset in recent history of the Mt. Top Basketball League as they knocked off Buffalo Coal, 83-76. The Curve, which led at halftime, 46-38, led by as many as 14 points in the second half. Buffalo fought back and took a three-point lead with four minutes left in the game, only to see Curve take the lead for good at 68-67 on a Greg Harvey three-pointer.

The Curve went 9 for 12 from the foul line in the last three minutes to secure the victory. Greg Harvey led the Curve attack with 35 points. Brian Selders led Buffalo Coal with 28 points. The Curve faces second seed Martin's Auto Glass tonight at 9 p.m. at GCC.

In other first round action, Ferrell's Mart eliminated Deep Creek Pharmacy, 83-72. Bill Dignan scored 26 for Ferrell's Mart. Deep Creek Pharmacy's Mike Fazenbaker led all scorers with 39 points. Checker's had pulled as close as seven points with five minutes left in the game, but could not get any closer. Bill Mayles led the Miners with 30 points. Kenny Schmidt led Checker's with 17 points.

Razzberry's advanced to the quarterfinals with an 85-73 win over Bausch & Lomb. John Harmke led the Razzberry attack with 25 points. Paul Barnhouse of B&L led all scorers with 26. Razzberry's and Miners & Merchants Bank meet tonight at 9 p.m. at the Armory.

Lakers To Open Baseball Campaign This Saturday At Chesapeake CC

The Garrett Community College baseball team, under the direction of Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt, will open its 40-game regular season this Saturday with a doubleheader at Chesapeake CC. Nesselrodt and the Lakers will attempt to improve upon last season's mark of 21-13, which was fifth best among the 21 teams in Region XX.

Gone from the Laker lineup this season are four outstanding offensive players in Buddy Leichliter, Steve Ujcic, Mick Bayle, and D.G. Largent. Bayle, a two-time All American, finished sixth in the nation last year in the NJCAA with a batting average of .469, Leichliter was a first team All Region player who hit .380, Largent was a second team All Region pick his freshman year and hit .380, and Ujcic hit .429 last season.

"The big question this year is whether or not we can replace these outstanding players," Nesselrodt said. "Only time will tell."

One of the strengths of the 1992 Laker squad should be its pitching staff, which returns four starters who collectively recorded 18 wins and six losses. They include Brian Shaffer, Tony Angelo, Jake Sawyers, and Jerrod Hardy. Also back is reliever Tom McDermitt.

New pitchers this year include: Ryan Harman, a transfer from WVU who was the top pitcher for the Garrett County American Legion team the past two seasons; Mark Rohrbaugh, who posted a 3-1 season in 1990 and missed 1991 because of injury; Mark Bayle, younger brother of Mick Bayle; Jermaine Shy, Bo Bishop, Paul Bowman, Matt Lawrence, and Rob Hottinger. Lawrence, Hottinger, Shaffer, Angelo, Sawyers, and Harman will be the six starters in the rotation.

"Returning experience of the pitching staff combined with an outstanding freshman group give us our deepest pitching staff in many years," Nesselrodt said.

The top offensive player back this year is sophomore Mike Leshok, a pre-season All American selection who was named second team All Region last year with a .381 batting average and eight homers. He also led the team in stolen bases and runs scored.

Other sophomores back this year are Chris Lollis, Rod Freeman, John Cullen, Brandon Biehl, and Southern High grad Kevin Green. Lollis, the starting catcher last year, batted .404. Freeman, starting at center field last season, hit .331 and is expected to move into the lead-off batting spot this year. Cullen batted .381 last year and is expected to play at first and third, while Biehl is described by Nesselrodt as a much improved player who will see time at center and left fields, possibly as a starter. Green, who was a leading hitter in American Legion ball last summer, had to play in a back-up roll to Mick Bayle last season.

Freshmen include Northern High School's Chad Sines, who has the speed

Northern Girls Set Record, But Eliminated From Regional Playoffs

The good news for the members of the 1991-92 Northern High School girls' varsity team is that they have recorded their best record ever with a mark of 18-6; the bad news is that they were eliminated from the regional semifinals last night by Westmar, 56-36, at Beall High School in Frostburg.

The Huskies, coached by Harv Speicher, reached the semifinals by rolling over sixth-seeded Beall Monday night, 69-22. The Huskies went into the tourney seeded third.

Rebecca Fratz, who has led the Huskies in scoring all season, netted 16 points and pulled down 11 rebounds against Beall, while Audra Speicher finished with 12 points and six assists and Lisa Stephens contributed nine points and five steals.

The Huskies took control of the contest right away and led 19-4 at the end of the first period, 33-8 at halftime, and 49-16 after three periods.

The Mountaineers, who were playing without their leading scorer, Jenny Cain, were led by Jenny Price with 10 points. Jamie McFarland pulled six rebounds.

In last night contest against the second-seeded Westmar Wildcats, the Huskies stayed close through the first quarter, but fell behind by 12 points in the second stanza (26-14) and were unable to rally in the second half. Westmar led 46-28 after three periods.

Julie McGowan paced the Wildcats as she netted 23 points, while Dawn Sloan, the team's leading scorer, finished with 14, well below her average of 27 points. However, Sloan also pulled eight rebounds, dished out six assists, and had four steals. Janell Muir also grabbed eight rebounds.

Fratz led the Huskies with 16 points.

The Westmar girls (20-3) are seeking their third straight Class 1A state championship.

"Our girls played hard and did an excellent job controlling Dawn Sloan," stated Coach Speicher. "Then McGowan played probably her best game of the year.

"We played well in the first half until about 10 seconds before halftime. Then we started to come back in the second half, but McGowan hit a three-pointer and Sloan followed with a steal and a bucket. That pretty well killed us."

Speicher noted that the Wildcats came into the game with over three straight years of experience in the playoffs.

In commenting on the overall season, Speicher said, "We set two goals at the beginning of the season: to improve on last year's record (14-8) and to make it at least into the second round of the playoffs. And we accomplished both. We had a great year and a group of just super kids. I'm really going to miss the five seniors who will graduate this spring."

Local Gymnast Wins Title At Parkersburg Meet

The Aerodynes from Garrett Gymnastics Club, Loch Lynn, traveled to Parkersburg, W.Va., on Saturday, February 8 for the annual Bears Meet. Eight local gymnasts competed for the club and Andrea Bender returned a champion, finishing first in the Level 7 All-Around category.

Miss Bender performed her floor routine and received an 8.35, which placed her first in the competition. The local gymnast took third on the vault and second on the bars and the beam, maintaining her overall lead. She finished with an all-around score of 31.65.

Competing in Level 6 were Bryanne Miller and Susie Mosser. Miss Miller placed fifth out of 22 competitors with an all-around score of 30.15, while Miss Mosser finished 14th with an all-around score of 28.1

All three of those gymnasts have qualified for the state meet to be held in Morgantown, W.Va., on March 28. They are coached by Nan Gangler and Tammy Tressler.

During the morning session, unsanctioned gymnasts competed. Megan Lilley, Ruth Martin, and Nikkol Moreland all competed in Level 4 and all showed "great improvement," according to Tressler.

Miss Moreland finished with an all-around score of 25.7, an improvement of 6.9 from her last meet. Miss Lilley had an all-around score of 28.05, improving her score by 5.15. Miss Martin completed the meet with an all-around score of 28.9, an improvement of 1.9. All-around placement awards are not given in Level 4.

Two gymnasts competed in the Level 5 unsanctioned competition. Becca Gangler and Cassie Tressler competed in that level for the first time with "outstanding results," according to their coach.

Miss Tressler placed third with an all-around score of 30.25, while Miss Gangler placed fourth with an all-around score of 24.6. There were 12 competitors in that category where achievement awards were given in events and placement given only on all-around scores.

Southern Girls Win Finale, Fall In Tournament

The Southern High School girls' varsity wrapped up its regular season with a 63-44 win over Bishop Walsh Friday evening in Cumberland, but was eliminated from the Region I Class 2A playoffs Monday evening by North Carroll, 72-62.

The Rams went into the playoffs as the sixth-seeded team, while home-standing North Carroll, of Westminster, was seeded third. Coach Don Stemple's squad concluded with a 12-8 record.

Pacing Southern against Bishop Walsh in the final regular season game was Michelle Duling, who netted 20 points, while Ingrid Carlson and Carrie Newcomb each finished with seven.

The Rams jumped out to a 19-5 lead by the end of the first period, upped their advantage to 34-15 by halftime, and led 49-27 after three quarters.

Leigh Searles scored 15 points to pace the Spartans, who finished with an 11-13 mark.

Depth was the major problem for the Rams Monday evening in their playoff contest with North Carroll, that is, a lack of depth on the Southern team and considerable depth on the North Carroll squad. The Rams trailed 19-8 after the first quarter, but came back to take a brief lead in the second stanza before falling behind by five at halftime, 38-33. They trailed 52-43 at the end of the third stanza and then played evenly with North Carroll the rest of the way.

The North Carroll defense pressed the Rams the entire game to take advantage of a lack of depth on the Rams' side of the court. Meanwhile, the North coach shuffled players in and out of the game to keep them fresh. Nine of the North Carroll players scored.

"Their full-court defense finally wore us out," stated Coach Stemple. "We played very hard, especially after falling behind the way we did in the first quarter. But their size and depth were too much for us."

Duling had the biggest scoring night of her career, as she finished with 32 points on 11 field goals and eight of 11 at the free throw line. Shelli Cannon also reached double figures with 15 points.

Michelle Jeffrey and Casey Rhoten paced the winners with 16 points each and Fran Hewes added 10 points. North Carroll played second-seeded Middletown in a quarterfinal contest last night.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

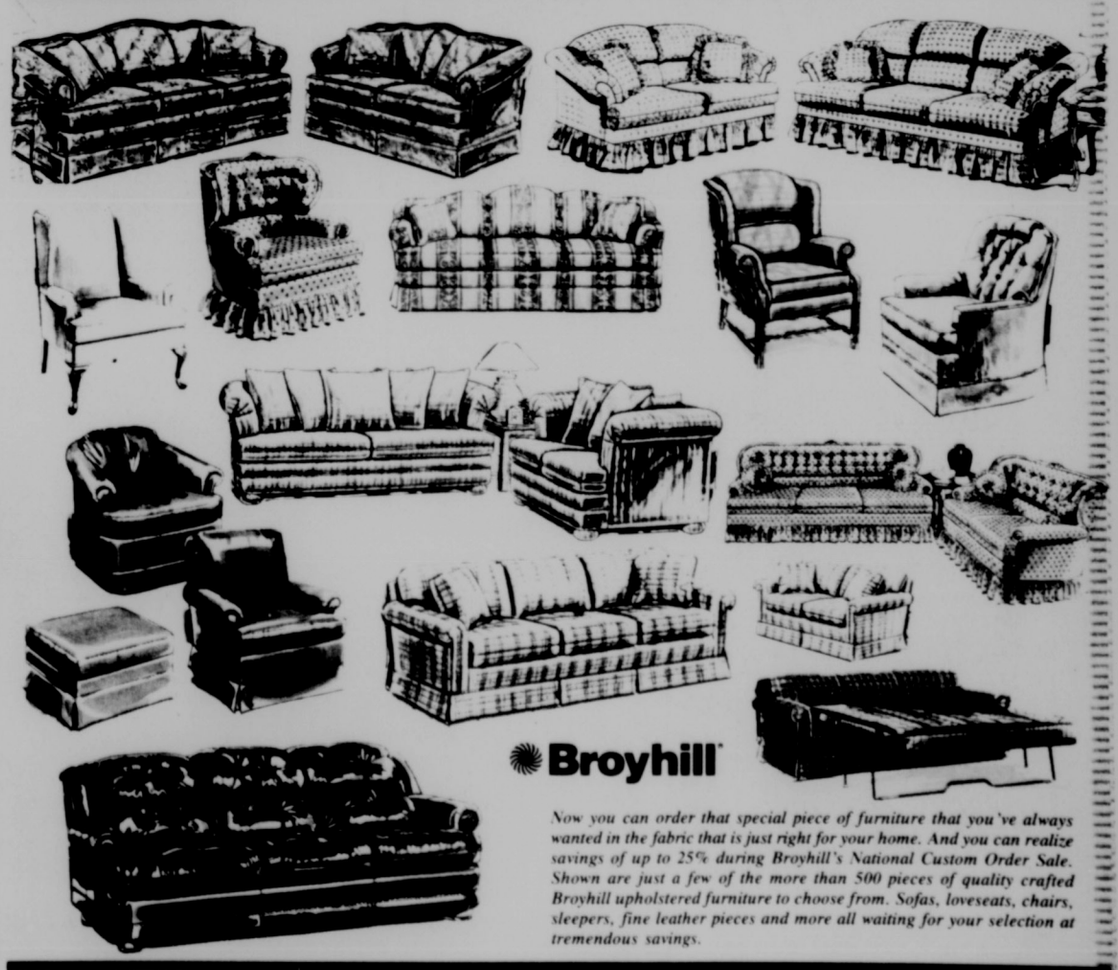
MAPLE SYRUP A BENEFIT FROM OUR TREES

As winter begins to loosen its grip, the late winter sun warms the days. The crocuses and daffodils begin to sprout, the birds begin to sing, children are playing outdoors, and spring fever begin to touch us all. While these sights and sounds may be familiar, there is another activity taking place in the forests of many landowners that we do not really think of. Late winter is Maple Syrup time.

Pure maple syrup and sugar are products we all enjoy that come from our forests. There are many stories and legends about how maple syrup was discovered. The one thing they all have in common is that the process originated with the American Indians. The Indians would collect the sap (sweet water) and boil away the water to make the syrup. By boiling the syrup further, maple sugar was made. The sugar was easier to store and could be used to season food throughout the year.

Over the years, the procedures and equipment used to produce maple syrup have changed dramatically. The practice has moved from wooden buckets hung on a tree and the sap was collected with horses and sleighs to plastic tubing and pumps.

The trees are usually tapped in late February or early March. Holes are drilled in the trees and a spout is put in place. If metal buckets are used, they hang from the spouts. If plastic tubing is used to move the sap to a central location, a special spout is used and the tubing is hooked directly to the spout. Generally, the buckets or collection tank is emptied every day. On a good day it may necessary to empty twice a day.



Between 40 and 50 gallons of sap are needed to produce one gallon of maple syrup. The amount of sap depends on how "sweet" the tree is and how much sugar is in the sap. The sap is poured into large pans called evaporators and boiled to remove the water, leaving sweet chestnut brown syrup. Maple sugar or candy is made by cooking the syrup and removing more water.

The next time you use maple syrup on your pancakes, stop and think where it came from.

To the Editor:

I would like to have your subscribers know that you have consented to publish an Alcohol and Other Drug awareness Box Score for me. This Box Score is for no other reason than to make the public aware that a problem does exist. They will not be subjected to my opinion, but pure facts concerning cases tried in Garrett County District and Circuit Courts.

Four categories will appear in numbers only; (DWI) - Driving while intoxicated, (DUI) - Driving under the influence, the difference is in the blood alcohol content, Possession of a (CDS) controlled dangerous substance and possession with intent to distribute. All categories will indicate the court disposition of fines, jail time in days and referral to medical assistance, such as the DWI Clinic. At the bottom of the Box Score, will be the total number of accidents and the number attributed to alcohol or other drug use, with the percentage of one to the other.

Please remember these facts. If the charged person is found not guilty, there will be no reference to that case. Added cases may not have a disposition because the defendant has received (PBJ) probation before judgement, probation suspension of fines or jail time, some lesser charges may have been Nolle Prosque (not prosecuted) in a plea bargain arrangement or the judge may order a presentence investigation (PSI).

I caution you not to draw judicial conclusions from this Box Score. The convictions may exceed the dispositions at times and may even out at a later date. Note that all possible dispositions are not included under the categories. To do so, would make the Box Score too lengthy.

Keep this thought in mind. The abuse of alcohol and other drugs in not a younger generation problem. It belongs to us. My generation has allowed these problems to escalate and affect the young. There are some solutions available and some good people doing their best to institute those solutions. Be aware, be sure of your facts and get involved with a good organization.

You may know that I am involved with two such organizations, but this letter and the Box Score information is entirely my responsibility.

To the Editor:

As most of the residents of the Town of Oakland are aware, Oakland will be having its municipal election on March 9, 1992. The polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Members of the Oakland Town Council encourage all persons who are registered to come out and vote.

Unfortunately, as is true with politics in general, there are criticisms that appear to surface when election time comes around. As your representatives of the Town, we wish to clarify some points.

First, the Town of Oakland has in fact agreed to purchase the former Oakland Equipment Company Building. Discussion regarding this began back in November of 1991. There were several meetings after the initial discussion, all of which were legally posted meetings and open to the general public. The Town's decision to purchase the new building was based on the following:

1. The size of the present City Hall is no longer adequate.
2. The electrical and heating systems have both become outdated and overloaded, and need to be replaced.
3. Absolutely no parking is available for the employees, and more importantly, the public.
4. The building will not comply with the new federal handicap laws. To comply, thousands of dollars would need to be spent to make City Hall handicapped accessible including the money needed for an elevator to make the upstairs, the Police Department, accessible.

These problems and expenditures are eliminated with the new building, since all entrances and offices are at ground level. There has been no determination made of the costs for renovation of the new building. The Council feels that once the plans are completed for the new City Hall building, the Town employees will be able to do a great portion of the work, thereby reducing the costs. The new building also gives us the opportunity to consolidate several departments and equipment in one building. Many departments are in great need of additional space, and the new structure will supply the needed space.

Based upon all of the above, the Council agreed by unanimous vote to purchase the building. Mayor McCain was not able to attend that meeting; however, all members of the Council were in attendance at the meeting during which the vote was taken.

Second, the Town has recently purchased some new vehicles and equipment. Some of this was required by Federal and State regulations. One of the purchases that has stirred some controversy is a bass boat for the Wastewater Treatment Plant. There are approximately 7.6 acres of aerated lagoons at the treatment plant. These lagoons are the essence of our sewage treatment, and need to be adequately maintained. We also need to safely access the aeration equipment in the lagoons. And so, with the approval of the State, the Town purchased a 15-foot flat-bottom boat. The cost to the Town was $281.63. The John Deere AMT utility vehicle is used for maintenance at the treatment plant, and for moving the boat from lagoon to lagoon. It is also used for the purpose of hauling maintenance and repair equipment to the siphoning chamber in the Oakland Collector System. This chamber is inaccessible to standard vehicles. The backhoe and dump truck were purchased for the reconstruction of lagoons 2 and 3. The federal and state participation in funding of the sewer projects and equipment has, and will, greatly reduce the local cost.

Additionally, the Town has strived in the past couple of years to set aside money in all departments, as a reserve, to ensure the availability of capital money to replace vehicles and equipment as needed. The Town has not purchased any unnecessary items in any department of the Town of Oakland.

Third, there has been criticism that some members of the Council, as well as the Mayor, are abusive of their power, and have held secret meetings. For the record, the Town Council holds its regular meeting the first Monday of each month. In addition, there are occasionally special meetings held for various reasons. All of our meetings are posted for the knowledge of the general public. Any time a problem or concern is brought to the attention of any of the representatives of the Town, we encourage people to attend our meetings to discuss the issue. All of our meetings are open to the public. At our meetings, we discuss issues of the Town, and as a group, we make decisions. Many decisions are difficult and require a great deal of consideration. It is the entire body of the Mayor and Town Council that makes policy, rules, and decisions.

Perhaps the current representatives of the Town have made some unpopular decisions; however, we have gone to great lengths to keep the best interest of the entire Town in mind. Although sometimes we cannot please everyone with our decisions, most decisions have thus far proven to be correct, and of good, sound judgment. We believe that the decisions we have made have been positive ones and have helped to move the Town forward.

Respectfully submitted,
Mary Lou Stemple,
Council President
Jay Moyer, Councilman
Peggy Jamison, Councilwoman
Art Naylor, Councilman

To the Editor:

It appears the unthinkable has occurred.

Members of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Garrett County have been elated for more than four months regarding the appointment of Mr. Michael Dennis as director of the Lighthouse Rehabilitation program.

In that short time, this man has literally pulled that program up from the depths of its own despair and turned it completely around. The members finally had a place they felt belonged to them again. The offices were once again occupied. Plans for spin-off from the Health Department as a private, non-profit entity were well underway. New projects are being introduced. The support of the Mental Health community is 100 percent behind Mr. Dennis -- and all is just wonderful, right? -- wrong!

Suddenly, as of the close of business on Friday, February 28, Michael Dennis is relieved of his duties as director of Lighthouse. He is now "reassigned" to the Mental Health Department. It appears this decision came out of the blue and was railroaded through the system in much the same way as Mr. Dennis himself was shown the exit sign. These are the facts as we know them at this time.

Now we wish to direct a series of questions to Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for Garrett County.

Why, if this was a decision made for all the right and proper reasons, was I not informed as president of the Garrett County AMI and as chairperson of the Lighthouse Subcommittee?

Why was the chairperson of the Garrett County Mental Health Advisory Board also unaware of this decision? We both work very closely with Mr. Dennis and were very engaged in a number of his new plans.

Why were dozens of family members of Lighthouse participants totally unaware of this completely unexplainable behavior?

Why are members of the County Commission unaware of this action? They do, after all, provide $4,500 to Mental Health coffers.

It may not have been your obligation to report this action, but it certainly would have been a professional courtesy at the very least.

Is it possible, Dr. Archer, that because Mr. Dennis openly supported and planned for the separation of Lighthouse from the control of the Health Department, because he openly chose to question and challenge rather than fit into the mold of his many predecessors, because he didn't jump on the Core Service Agency bandwagon with everyone else? Because he had a true open-door policy for members and their families? Because he was innovative and dared to be different? Is that, Dr. Archer, why Michael Dennis suddenly finds himself "reassigned?"

We offered the opportunity for private answers to these questions. We now come before the public to ask for those same answers.

To save you time, we'll already repeat what we expect to hear from you. Correct me if I am wrong, please. "Mr. Dennis does not meet the criteria set out by the state. His past experience does not involve enough with mental illnesses." Am I warm? If that is the case, why was he appointed Lighthouse director in the first place?

Something doesn't add up here, wouldn't you agree?

Carol L. Cox
AMI President

REELECT MAYOR MCCAIN

For the continued revitalization of Oakland.

Election at Oakland City Hall Monday, March 9th

Polls Open 9:00 - 6:00

Paid for by the candidate.

What Is Multiple Sclerosis?

An estimated quarter of a million Americans have multiple sclerosis (MS), with nearly 200 new cases diagnosed every single week. MS is a chronic disease of the central nervous system which changes people's lives, allowing nothing, not even the simplest everyday tasks, to be taken for granted.

Is there a cure? No, not yet. The cause of MS is not known, and research on both a national and international level explores the fields of virology, immunology and the biochemistry of myelin. Close to 50% of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society's budget is allocated to research, but that is not enough to speed the possibility of a cure for that quarter of a million people who suffer from MS.

That is why, each year, the National Multiple Sclerosis Society kicks spring off with "Super Cities Walks" in towns and cities across the nation to raise additional money for research. This year, for the first time, a Super Cities Walk will be held in the Garrett County area. Sponsored by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, the local walk is being organized by Betsy J. Colaw. Groups or individuals seek pledges from supporters for every mile they walk, and the local five-mile hike will begin at 8 a.m. on April 4 at Dennett Road School and wind through Broadford Park. Anyone interested in participating in the fight against MS is invited to contact Colaw for information or registration at 334-4880.

Colaw will also be a guest at the March 18 meeting of the Garrett County MS Self-Help Group at the BPO Elk's Lodge #2481 on Hamill Street in Oakland beginning at 7 p.m. For information on the Self-Help Group those interested may call Judy Smith at 387-4926 or Alana Jones at 334-8540.

For people with MS, whose symptoms can run the gamut from slight blurring of vision to complete paralysis, the support of family, friends and community is important, and the hope given by research can add new dimensions to their lives.

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, the Maryland Chapter and the local Self-Help Group can supply many services to those with MS, ranging from printed information to an understanding friend to talk with.

All aspects of life must be re-evaluated when a person is told he or she has MS. The disease most often strikes people who are in their 20s or 30s, young adults with families and jobs who are just getting their lives started. Women develop it more frequently than men, whites more frequently than blacks or Orientals. The reasons are not yet understood.

The disease is also most frequently found among people in the colder climates, both north and south of the Equator. Scientists don't understand why this is so, but studies strongly suggest that where you were born and lived during your first 15 years are more important than later residencies.

Studies also indicate certain genetic factors within individuals may make them more receptive to the disease, but there is no evidence that multiple sclerosis is directly inherited.

Multiple sclerosis is not always easy to detect or diagnose because early symptoms can be so spotty, because other diseases of the central nervous system have some of the same warning signs, and because we do not yet have a definitive neurological or laboratory test that can confirm or rule out MS. However, recent advances in the technology of imaging the brain are helping to clarify diagnosis.

The cause of MS is known. What causes the cause is not known. Our bodies contain a fatty substance called myelin which surrounds and protects nerve fibers of the brain and spinal cord (the central nervous system) in the same way that insulation protects electrical wires. When any part of this myelin sheathing, or insulation, is destroyed, nerve impulses to the brain are interrupted and distorted -- like a short circuit in the electrical wires.

The result is multiple sclerosis -- multiple because many scattered areas of the brain and spinal cord are affected; sclerosis because sclerosed or hardened patches of scar tissue form over the damaged myelin.

The symptoms of multiple sclerosis vary greatly depending upon where the sclerosed patches are formed in the central nervous system. They may include tingling sensations, numbness, slurred speech, blurred or double vision, muscle weakness, poor coordination, unusual fatigue, muscle cramps, spasms, problems with bladder, bowels and paralysis. These symptoms may occur in any combination and can vary from very mild to very severe. Every person with MS has different combinations and degrees of symptoms. This, in itself, makes research difficult.

The typical pattern of multiple sclerosis is marked by periods of active disease called exacerbations and symptom-free periods called remissions. There is also a chronic, progressive form of MS. Because multiple sclerosis affects people so differently, it is difficult to make generalizations about the extent of disability. Statistics, however, have shown that two out of three people with multiple sclerosis remain ambulatory over their lifetimes. Multiple sclerosis is not contagious and it is rarely fatal.

Remaining ambulatory, however, means just that -- the ability to move around. Being ambulatory with multiple sclerosis, though, means walking short distances with difficulty and not walking long distances at all, another reason for anyone who can walk to join the Super Cities Walk supporting MS research to find a cure for this frustrating, unpredictable disease.

NOW APPEARING AT THE SHELTER! -- This 10-week old, mixed Labrador retriever, who answers to the name of "Bubba," is currently searching for a suitable home in which to grow and love. He may be adopted by calling the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 334-3553.

Editor's note: The writer of this letter to Gov. Schafer requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Governor Schaefer:

Thank you from the bottom of my heart - and lungs - for your recent proposals to ban smoking at the new stadium and to add a 25-cent tax to each pack of cigarettes. And on this morning's news (Feb. 11) I heard of your disapproval of the proposed Tobacco Control Act of 1992. I concur.

I urge you and the legislators who support these proposals to stand firm and keep talking about the dangers of tobacco use and its subsequent health care costs to Marylanders. It's sad, indeed, that Maryland has earned the dubious distinction of having the nation's highest cancer rate for three years in a row.

And I urge you and the legislators to go one step further: Ban tobacco use in the state houses. When I was in Annapolis recently regarding education funding, I was aghast (and gasping) at the tobacco smoke I encountered. For the entire day I walked around squinting and blinking my eyes, waving a fan in my face or covering my nose and mouth, and coughing. I have asthma and allergies -- smoke is one of my worst enemies. When I asked someone about smoking in state buildings, she said the legislators exempt themselves from the controls other state employees have in other state buildings.

The lesson we should have learned when dealing with children and adolescents holds true for adults as well: "Do as I say, not as I do" simply does not work! As we move toward more tobacco controls in general, lawmakers should set themselves up as good examples. To do so would indeed go well with the growing desire to see ethics in government cleaned up. And who knows -- maybe banning tobacco use would help many of those who want to quit to be able to do so!

So, Bravo -- stick to your guns! You have my support and the support of many others who wish to see the risk of cancer and lung disease lessened through vigorous tobacco control efforts. Let's help Maryland be a healthier place for all.

Sincerely,
Donna Aspinall
Oakland

To the Editor:

At the risk of omitting someone, I would like to recognize and thank the people who helped make the Preston County Junior High School basketball season and tournament successful.

Obviously, parents, family members and friends of our county athletes are to be commended for their support, sacrifice and encouragement throughout the season.

School personnel -- coaches, teachers, administrators, counselors, service personnel, etc. -- who provide direction to the athletes in attempting to create a learning situation that goes beyond the mere basketball court.

In particular, the recently completed boys' tournament was made possible through the cooperative efforts of many people including, but not limited to: Jerry Cline, finances and admission; John LoFink, trophies and admission; David Toothman, programs, signs; Sandra Wales, admissions; David Friend, public address, game services; Darrell Martin, game personnel, admissions; Debra Zigray, cheerleaders; Officials: Charlie Buckingham, Mark Bjorkman, Kenny Bolyard, Taylor Runner, Paul Koontz, Dave Cox, Jim Frum, and Charlie Royce; Ted Slagle, clock; Paul Corbin, public address; Bruce Huggins, scorebook and reporter; Brenda Turner, Craig Civic Center staff; Dr. Tim Miller, medical; Rev. Michael Argabrite, invocation; Choir of Grace Chapel Baptist Church and Youth Group; Coach Barry Sanders, awards; Elmer Pritt, superintendent; Dr. William Rosier, assistant superintendent, and members of the Preston County Board of Education for their support in continuing Junior High School sports competitions.

This year there were 22 teams participating, including "A" and "B" and cheerleader squads. Reflecting back upon this past sports season, beginning with football, I believe we can agree that all of our young athletes have been winners as evidenced by their desire and participation.

TA Resident Pleads Guilty To Tax Evasion

Richard D. Bennett, United States Attorney for the District of Maryland, announced last Thursday that Thomas McKee, Jr., 34-years-old, a former resident of Perry Hall who currently resides in Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to income tax evasion for 1987. Mr. McKee faces a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment, and up to a $250,000 fine for this offense. His sentencing has been scheduled for March 30, 1992.

The investigation which resulted in the indictment against McKee was conducted by the criminal investigation division of the Internal Revenue Service, and prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Susan M. Ringler.

According to the stipulated facts, in 1986 and 1987 Thomas McKee, Jr. omitted from his income tax returns for those years a substantial amount of taxable income which was derived from the sale of cocaine. McKee's total unreported income for 1986 and 1987 was $169,061.00, resulting in the evasion of $52,676 in taxes.

For both 1986 and 1987, McKee's expenditures far exceeded his claimed income. In McKee's 1986 income tax return filed with the Internal Revenue Service, he stated that he had taxable income for that year in the amount of $4,872 on which he owed taxes in the amount of $2,664. During that year, McKee was self employed in the motorcycle and airplane repair business and his business income for that year was $19,398.64. In 1986, McKee's purchases included a 113-acre farm and residence in Terra Alta, W.Va for $125,000; improvements to the farm totalling approximately $44,000; and a boat costing approximately $11,000. The farm improvements were paid for with cash and the $100,000 mortgage on the farm was paid off within two years. Also during 1986 McKee paid off a $24,000 loan, which he had obtained for the purchase of an aircraft in 1984.

In 1987, McKee's income tax returns stated that he had a taxable income of $23,911 on which he owed taxes in the amount of $4,443. Again, McKee's purchases during 1987 were far in excess of his declared income. In January of 1987 McKee purchased a 1982 Corvette for $14,000. The $10,000 loan he obtained for this purchase was paid off in 11 months. Later that year, McKee purchased a 20-acre residence for his parents for $60,000.

Edwards's Bill

known as "rural resource" and stipulated that no more than one dwelling per 20 acres be allowed.

Since a large portion of Garrett County includes state-owned land, county officials feared that areas outside the state-owned land would not be sufficient to meet state protection requirements.

However, Garrett county Planning and Zoning Director John Nelson stated that the question of including state-owned land in the protection of sensitive areas is "really not an issue" addressed in the current bill before the General Assembly.

Environmentalists have reportedly stated that the bill makes no attempt at environmental protection in any form, but Edwards stated the bill does one thing: "It does require the county to update its land use plan by 1997," he said.

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey, however, stated recently that the county would like to proceed with an update of the comprehensive plan, although the Board of Garrett County Commissioners has not officially approved of the effort nor has it budgeted money for the project.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to statements made by Mr. Mike Pula on behalf of the administration of the Garrett County Board of Education.

Mr. Pula stated that sensitive personal matters should continue to be conducted behind closed doors. It is this very use of executive privilege that has allowed public concerns to go unanswered and get mad as hell!

Mr. Pula seems upset that the publicly elected Board of Education should be responsive to the public. Question Mr. Pula, who pays for the closed door decisions whether they are right or wrong? Answer -- It is paid for by the people on the outside of that door i.e.; the taxpayers, parents and ultimately the children.

Two major items immediately come to mind that show ineptness of the top administrator of our Board of Education and maybe the need for a change.

The first is the decision to go ahead with the total renovation of Southern High School after their inadequately presented Bond Issue was voted down. Not only were the public wishes totally disregarded but the expert planning by the Board Administrators overlooked minor details such as the roof. Have these minor details cost us millions of dollars of money for instruction? This bad planning has cost this county tremendously in our education quality, teacher and staff morale and even basic items necessary for a sound education.

Secondly, Mr. Pula points out that for almost 20 years Dr. Ryscavage has taken the administrative heat. He should, for the length of his tenure as superintendent, the learning of our students has steadily weakened. Most or all standardized test that our students have taken during our superintendent's reign have shown a steady deterioration. Yes Mr. Pula, it creates heat when the decisions made behind closed doors create a greater tax burden and a proportional decrease in learning of the students that the Board of Education is responsible for educating.

It seems that the Sines petitions (1,400+) are a true symptom of how ineffective this administration is. It takes a long time to build up enough animosity to get that many people to sign petitions in this county. Mr. Pula, it is difficult for the public to hear through a closed door.

Maybe it's time for the Board to tear the closed door off its hinges, or at least change the top hinge.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to one written sometime ago by Betty Brown. In her letter she made it sound like people in Garrett County were unrightfully condemning Michael Sines about the bus stops.

Well, after a lot of thought, I felt that her comments deserved some response. First of all, Mrs. Brown, I personally feel that your opinions are very one-sided. After all, Michael Sines is your employer and if you want to drive a bus in Garrett County then you shouldn't make waves.

It's not just because of the bus stops that people are upset. It's also because of the unfair treatment they have received from Mr. Sines. One example is our aunt, Helen Wolfe, and her son, Jarrod.

Not long after Mr. Sines took his position at the Board of Education, Jarrod, who has Downs Syndrome, started coming home with bruises on his body. He was very reluctant about getting on the bus. The reason for his behavior was understandable. Because Mr. Sines is such an authority on the handicapped, Jarrod was forced to wear a restraining device in which he was fastened in and could not get out of by himself.

As far as the bruises, Jarrod was being pinched (by someone on the bus) because he was sleeping on the bus. He also came home with a busted lip because he was being forced to wear a mouth guard like the ones worn by football players. All of this was going on without his mother's knowledge or permission.

As soon as Helen found out what was happening she went through the proper channels to fight for the rights of her son, and on one occasion was told by Mr. Sines that she was an unfit mother and that Jarrod would never amount to anything.

Well, let me tell you about this unfit mother. She has for many years run her family's small business, raised her son, and also she cared for her father until September of 1990 when he passed away. He had been paralyzed for many years because of a stroke. It wasn't until Helen hired a lawyer that she finally got the problem with Mr. Sines resolved. And for some reason he didn't even have the common decency to show up at Helen's hearing that day.

This is not the only horror story I have heard; there are many, and yes, a lot of parents and families all over Garrett County are angry and hurt because of this man. We need someone who really cares about our kids and is willing to work with the parents. Unfortunately, even though the problem has been resolved, there is nothing that can ever erase the hurtful words that were said to Helen that day, and she will remember them for the rest of her life. God only knows what this experience had done to Jarrod. What happened to Helen and Jarrod should never have been allowed to happen, nor should it ever be allowed to happen to anyone ever again.

To the Editor:

After reading the recent publication of the story of Ford and Ferrell, along with the most interesting letters to the editor in the past two weeks about the publication, I felt it necessary to write this letter and make a point or two myself.

I do not know either Ford or Ferrell personally and can therefore only make my own personal assessment of the facts as I hear them, or read about them on the case. I do however, know first hand what Mr. Yant is saying about the manner in which our local law enforcement conduct themselves. I have never had the privilege of meeting Mr. Yant as yet, but certainly intend to do so in the near future. I feel that he is an honest and decent man, judging from his publication, and that he is not above pointing out crooked politics where they exist.

Yes, Mr. Van Evans, and Mr. Charles E. Pariseau, and Mr. Robinson of the F.B.I., you are the ones who are going to be a great part of what I have to discuss. What goes around, comes around. These three individuals along with many others in our local judicial system here in Garrett County are about to find out that you cannot ignore the everyday tax-paying citizens and get away with it forever. As Mr. Yant said in his letter, it is not him who is making the most serious charges. It is numerous local residents ... numerous is the key word here.

As I have told you three mentioned above, along with many other of our so called "law enforcement officers" and "courthouse clique members," start packing up your desks. Do it now, so you will not have quite so much to do in the very near future.

As long as we citizens here in Garrett County have a local newspaper that is willing to help us in our struggle to clean out our local judicial system so that everybody is treated equal, given fair, swift, and impartial justice, which is something which has been lacking here for many, many years now, we have a chance. I can give for-instances of injustices, but in hopes of getting this letter published, I cannot.

For many years now I have felt that my traveling all over this county telling people how crooked the Oakland big boys were, (which everyone already knew), and all of the letters I have written, (some published, some not), in an all out effort to bring justice back to the people here in Garrett County, I felt that it was just wasted effort on my part. But now there were many others doing the very same thing. As an individual acting alone you can whip us very easily and keep it quiet and you have no problem. But, I can see your days are numbered, and it will be a joyous event to watch you go out the door. Yes, I have been thrown into jail over crooked politicians refusing to do their jobs, and I may very well go back again trying to do things in a legal matter. But, all the time, word is traveling farther and farther, and it is not being kept so quiet.

I would say Mr. Yant is living proof of this by doing such a magnificent job of investigating and reporting what he found in his publication, "The Public Eye." Given time and energy, I certainly hope to be able to expand on getting more literature published about our local "clique members" as they are known locally, and the good Lord willing, I will do just that.

I would like to thank The Republican for helping to make my view points known, and knowing the "clique members," as I do, I would also like to say that I in no way mean to threaten anybody at all. I never make threats. I do, however, make promises.

To the Editor:

Recently I saw in the Cumberland Times/News an account of how Allegany County education group was handling its loss of state aid. Members of the school administration were filling in for teachers for one day a month, and teachers were asked to give up their preparation period for the next three months. At least, administration would foster better relations if they shared in salary cuts.

In other words, it's a sharing proposition. Almost no one minds doing a little extra or sharing a bit if all help. Too, such a plan shows sincere interest in children -- the ones most affected.

Dear Ms. Idleman,

Education Board

public session. This superintendent has dedicated nearly 20 years of his life to serving the people of Garrett County and, at least, deserves to have this issue debated and decided in executive session. After all, he is your superintendent and many of the decisions that he will take heat for are actually yours.

"I leave you with this question: Will this board decide to conduct all their business by public debate in the future or will they do the job they were elected to do and continue to make the hard decisions necessary to operate a school system? Will we, for instance, be debating publicly all the personnel appointments and tenure decisions made by the board in the future?"

Clark responded that Ryscavage's contract renewal was to be decided in public session. "It is my understanding that the issue of this contract is to be addressed in public session. We represent the administration but we also represent the public out there, and the public deserves the right to voice opinions on this topic."

Although the school board is required to vote upon all personnel decisions during public session, it is not required to hear public comment on these decisions.

Among those opposed to Ryscavage's contract renewal was Richard Thomas. Thomas recently initiated a movement to try to force the resignation of Michael Sines, the education board's director of transportation and stated that he had over 1,400 names on a petition supporting this effort. He stated that he represented these 1,400 people and stated that Ryscavage has made many "bad decisions" such as promoting Sines to the position of director of transportation.

Thomas further stated that the Garrett County Teachers Association has passed a "no confidence vote on Dr. Ryscavage."

Northern Middle School Principal Wilda Massi was among those who voiced strong support of Dr. Ryscavage. She stated, "One thing we have in this county is stability. One thing we have is a great superintendent of schools." Massi went on to say that the superintendent is a "hands on" worker who is "nobody's patsy". Massi further stated that "Dr. Ryscavage works tirelessly and never shirks responsibility with difficult decisions.

"My child has received a quality education and I give him credit for that. I have the utmost respect and admiration for the job that he does."

In response to several citizens who voiced dissatisfaction with Mike Sines, Beverly Sines-Murphy stated that the board of education is above Dr. Ryscavage in the line of authority so that the responsibility of the actions of a board employee does not rest solely with Ryscavage but with the board as well.

Rodney Durst voiced frustration with the control imposed by the state board of education particularly in regard to state transportation regulations. He stated that the local school board's "hands are often tied" in such matters.

"Most people don't realize when it comes to safety that the elected board of education has no more right to overturn the director of transportation decision than the board of directors at First United has a right to overturn a decision made by Alan Greenspan. I'm very frustrated; I want to help these people when they come in, but I can't help them."

Durst cited several occasions when the local school board overturned a decision by Sines only to have the state department of transportation threaten to take away state transportation funds. The state currently funds over two million dollars in local transportation costs.

Murphy added that "If we do not comply with COMAR laws state funding could be cut partially or completely. The citizens of Garrett County need to be aware of this. Are we ready to dig deeper into our pockets to fully fund transportation if necessary?"

Murphy went on to cite one example of a costly state mandate: the proposed change in functional testing from the ninth grade to the seventh grade. She stated that this mandate alone would cost the local school board between $75,000 and $150,000.

In a separate interview, Sines-Murphy stated, "The local boards of education are taking a lot of hammering from the public but in so many cases our hands are tied by the state."

As a board member who has often appeared in Annapolis and Hagerstown to testify before the State Board of Education and various committees of the Maryland General Assembly, she urged the public to speak out on all issues that will impact Garrett County. She stated that the general public needs to realize "that they do carry power. By making a phone call, writing a letter or appearing in person they can get people to listen."

In view of the state's grim financial situation, this is timely advice. More state funding cuts appear to be inevitable and the state is continuing to hand down more mandates with which local school boards must comply and for which local school boards must arrange funding.

A Taste of SUNSHINE

It's the middle of winter. The holidays are over. You're probably ready to escape to sunny beaches with warm breezes, cool drinks and light, tropical fare.

If you can't travel to the sunshine, at least you can get a taste of it. Florida cooking is one of the hottest regional cooking trends in the U.S. By combining the Caribbean influence of spicy, tropical dishes with fresh local ingredients, Florida cooking bursts with flavor and is the perfect alternative to traditionally heavy winter meals. Count on new Florida cooking for easy preparation and easy-to-find ingredients that are light and healthy.

Fresh Florida oranges and grapefruit are at their peak availability during the winter, with primary shipping months from December through May. Dan Gunter, executive director of the Florida Department of Citrus, notes that there will be plenty of good citrus to choose from this year. "Florida has a quality crop this year, and fresh Florida citrus and citrus juices are a good value for consumers."

When shopping for Florida oranges, you may notice they sometimes have a yellow-orange or yellow-green peel, which is a result of the state's subtropical climate; but inside, they are always orange, juicy and delicious. Oranges from the Sunshine State are never picked until they're ripe. They may have some blemishes or wind scars from gentle winds blowing the branches against the fruit, but this does not affect the quality found inside. When selecting an orange, check to be sure it's firm to the touch, with no soft spots. The heavier it is for its size, the juicier it tends to be.

Because Florida oranges are the juiciest oranges you can buy, think of them as "cutting" oranges, as opposed to "peeling" oranges, which come from more arid climates. By following the tips located in the box below, you can create simple, unique ways to enjoy fresh Florida oranges.

In addition to providing a tasty escape from traditional winter fare, these recipes also will help you "Strive for 5." The National Research Council recommends that Americans eat five servings each day of fruits and vegetables, especially green and yellow vegetables and citrus. So try these easy-to-prepare recipes, and take a healthy, out-of-the-ordinary escape to the taste of sunshine!

Florida Citrus: Simple and Delicious No Matter How You Slice It

ORANGE SMILES

Do not peel orange. Slice orange in half crosswise. From each half, slice diagonally to get three or four smiles as shown. Eat sections straight off the peel. Pull down on both ends, and the fruit will pop up, just waiting to be eaten.

Smiles are a colorful and nutritious treat for any occasion. They travel neatly for school, office and picnic lunches.

GRAPEFRUIT POINTS

Slice grapefruit in half through stem end. Take one half and place cut side down. Cut this half in half (through stem end). Keep these halves together and slice the other way, across the previous cuts. Perfect points will fall right out. Repeat with remaining half.

Like smiles, points are bite-size, perfectly portable, fun and easy-to-eat!

SLICE AND EAT

Make lengthwise incisions by cutting through the rind. With thumb, peel back the rind, strip by strip. Pull apart the sections and enjoy. Slicing oranges and grapefruit has never been so quick and convenient!

PICTURE PERFECT SECTIONS AND ROUNDS

Chill fruit before peeling. Using sharp knife, cut through rind and membrane in spiral fashion. Trim off remaining pieces of membrane after peeling.

A. For sections, cut with sharp knife alongside, but not on, each dividing membrane to core. Wedges should be membrane-free on all sides, with dividing membrane hidden inside each wedge.

B. For round slices, start at top of fruit and slice through circumference. This surprisingly simple secret of removing the white pith opens up endless possibilities for enjoying fresh Florida citrus. Sections and rounds are ideal for dazzling salads, sweet and savory sauces, desserts and other dishes.

FIVE CLUES TO DRUG ADDICTION

Many a parent has learned to their dismay that one of their children has become a drug addict. Usually by the time this infomration becomes known, it is because the child is in serious trouble as both a drug user and a criminal to procure his daily supply.

Look for these symptoms: 1) A good scholar becomes erratic for no apparent reason. 2) A shy child becomes talkative. 3) A truthful child starts telling lies and plays truant. 4) A healthy child loses weight and is unable to sleep. These characteristics indicate a possible, but not positive drug addition.

The Steps Of Lent

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty days? No, that's not quite right.

Between Ash Wednesday and Easter Sunday there are forty weekdays--and six Sundays. Traditionally, the weekdays were the Lenten fast. The Sundays were festivals of Christian worship.

If your faith has taught you to observe Lent by foregoing pleasures or adding new religious experiences or both . . . those six Sundays are occasions for taking inventory of your spiritual progress.

If yours is a religious background that does not emphasize Lent, those six Sundays are still milestones on the way to the great celebration of Christ's Resurrection--Easter!

And if, perchance, you have never given much attention to spiritual matters, those six Sundays (and the thoughtful days between) are an invitation from your Lord . . . to walk with Him the path He walked for You.

MADE FOR US

March 8, 1992

Background Scripture:
Mark 2:23 through 3:6.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 18:20-30.

There aren't many places in the gospels where Jesus is angry, but Mark tells us clearly of one such instance: "And he looked around at them with anger, grieved at their hardness of heart" (3:5). To me, the amazing thing is not that Jesus got angry on this occasion, but that there were so many others when he did not get angry. So we need to pay attention to what it is that makes him angry.

In Mark 3, it is the attitude of the Pharisees toward the commandments. Previously, they were deeply critical of him because he permitted his disciples to pluck and eat grain as they walked through grain fields on the sabbath. That was work and work on the sabbath was a profanation of it. Later, in the synagogue, a similar criticism was levelled against Jesus because he healed a man with a withered hand on the sabbath. The attitude of the Pharisees was simple and clear up to a point: healing was work and therefore a violation of the sabbath.

SANCTITY OF LAW

Now, before you go jumping all over the Pharisees, let's acknowledge that there is a certain logic in their position. God wants the sabbath day kept holy and Jesus had the other six days of the week in which to perform his healing. We need to preserve the sanctity of the law or life breaks down into anarchy -- people doing whatever they want, when they want because it suits them.

What angers Jesus in this instance, is not that the Pharisees are being reasonable, but that they are being reasonable enough. Two thousand years later and we still tend to make the same mistake -- concentrating on the rules, without considering the purpose behind all this.

Yes, God gave the people of Israel the sabbath. But the purpose was not to please or satisfy God, but to benefit his children: "The sabbath was made for man, not man for the withered hand, Jesus rebuked the Pharisees, saying: "Is it lawful on the sabbath to do good or to do harm, to save life or to kill?" (3:4).

SANCTITY OF LIFE

It is amazing to me that so many people still don't understand the reason for rules and regulations. They are made for our benefit -- our highest benefit, that is -- not to satisfy God. When God says "thou shalt not," his purpose is not to require our obedience, but to get us to behave in a way that is best for our own ultimate wellbeing -- keeping in mind that our personal wellbeing is intricately interwoven with the wellbeing of everyone else. When he commands, "thou shalt not comit adultery," it is not because he simply has a rule against it, but he has a rule against it because adultery tends to break down the normal fiber of life and that ultimately affects everyone. When he tells us not to covet, it is not because our covetousness annoys him, but because we are the ones who are most injured by it. So, if it is bad for humanity, there is a commandment against it. If it is not harmful to us, then there is no legitimate commandment against it. The sanctity of law is important only when law preserves the sanctity of life.

I'm not saying that we always have to understand when God calls us to obey him, but usually, if we are wondering whether God commands it or not, we can determine the answer by asking: this thing we are to do or not to do, is it good for all of us, or not good?

COVER STORY

'Night' mother: Kerns tries on a new persona

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

When it comes to TV series, Joanna Kerns' loyalty is with ABC. She stars as Maggie Seaver on that network's long-running "Growing Pains," and if, as many industry observers suspect, this turns out to be its final season, she already has her next career move planned.

"ABC's been talking about developing another series for me," she says. "So regardless of when 'Growing Pains' ends, I'll probably be going right into that."

When it comes to TV movies and miniseries, however, her allegiance shifts. "Those She Left Behind," "Blind Faith" and "The Big One: The Great Los Angeles Earthquake" all have been on NBC, which is also home to her latest TV movie, "The Nightman" (airing Sunday, March 8).

"I don't know why it's worked out this way," laughs Kerns. "I know it hasn't been that ABC hasn't come to me with projects. But timing is everything, and the ones that have come to me from NBC are the ones that I've kind of fallen into."

Kerns fell into this project via its director, Charles Haid. "We met in the 'Hill Street Blues' days (Haid played Andy Renko), when I was a guest star," says Kerns. "He came to me with this piece almost four years ago."

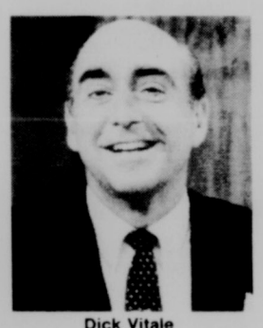
"The Nightman" has an unusual history: It was originally a radio play by Lucille Fletcher. "She wrote 'Sorry, Wrong Number' and a number of other very well-known pieces," says Kerns. "But it was basically a 15-minute play. James Poe, who wrote 'They Shoot Horses, Don't They,' had started a screenplay on (it) that John Wells, who comes to us from 'China Beach,' found and said, 'I need to update this and finish it.' "

In "The Nightman," Kerns plays a character 180 degrees removed from the understanding mothers she usually plays. This time, she's a mother on a collision course with her 17-year-old daughter, who considers her mom a Grade-A floozy but seems to be following in her footsteps, as they vie for the attention of the same man.

"I had for some time been looking for a piece that would definitely show another side of me," says Kerns. "I saw Eve as not only being tough and predatory; I saw her as being a lonely woman, afraid of getting old in a place (a sleepy Southern hotel) where there were no options left and time was running out."

In spite of a few steamy scenes, Kerns reports few problems from NBC censors. "Often in TV we're forced to whitewash things so much that it's very hard to make movies that are different," she says. "I think this is a departure, and I'm glad we went for it."

Joanna Kerns stars as mother on a collision course with her 17-year-old daughter in the steamy thriller "The Nightman." It airs Sunday, March 8, on NBC.



SPORTS CALENDAR

ESPN carries conference finals great and small

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

The only nine-day week on the 1992 calendar continues through next Sunday, March 15, as ESPN presses on with its Championship Week of college basketball conference title games.

The "week" began Saturday, March 7, with the final games of the Big South and the Mid-Eastern Athletic conferences. Dick Vitale, ESPN's PTAist

Dick Vitale

(our own Vitale-esque coining for "prime-time analyst"), will be joined by Jim Valvano, Larry Conley, Clark Kellog and Bill Raftery to break down the on-court action.

This is the seventh year that the all-sports cable network has provided extensive coverage of season-ending conference title games around the country. Lending urgency to the proceedings is the fact that the winners of most of these tournaments receive automatic berths in the NCAA tournament, which begins Thursday, March 19.

The highlight of Championship Week is the ACC title game, next Sunday, March 15. ESPN scored a coup in landing the ACC tournament, which will feature defending national champion Duke. After airing one first-round game on Thursday, ESPN will carry all four quarterfinal games on Friday, both semifinal games on Saturday and the championship game on Sunday. Sunday will also feature regional coverage of the SEC and Big Eight title games.

By Thursday, 14 other championship finals will have aired: Sunday – Ohio Valley, Southland, Southern and Sun Belt; Monday – Metro Atlantic, Missouri Valley and West Coast; Tuesday – Patriot and Mid-Continent; Wednesday – Trans America, North Atlantic and Northeast. Leading into Thursday's ACC first-round game and a Pac-10 matchup between Arizona and UCLA is the Atlantic 10 championship.

Saturday, March 14, is the busiest day, with more than 14 hours of hoops. The Mid-American title game airs before both ACC semifinals. And they're followed by the championship games in the Midwestern, Great Midwest, Western and Big Sky conferences.

An interesting sidelight to the week is the first indication that conference tournaments may be going the way of college football's bowls: Watch closely on Tuesday, March 10, and you'll notice the Phar-Mor Mid-Continent Conference Championship. As far as we can tell, it's the first instance where a corporate sponsor's name has been attached to a conference's championship tournament.

THIS WEEK

On Thursday, March 12, "The Mark Russell Songbook" presents the satirist's favorite song parodies from the past four seasons of his PBS specials. • On Tuesday, March 10, cable's A&E airs "Avenue Z Afternoon" on "Playwrights Theater," a comedy starring Anne Meara and Lou Diamond Phillips.

IN FOCUS

Among the topics covered in "Dolphins: Close Encounters," which stops in Hawaii, the Bahamas and Brazil, are the use of dolphins by fishermen to help locate schools of tuna, the ongoing effort to communicate with the sea mammals and the controversy over how captivity affects them.

SOAP SCOOP

Four very hot plots in fore on 'Guiding Light'

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

In the 10 years we have been writing this column, we can't recall a more exciting week of soap opera than the one that "Guiding Light" presented from Feb. 10-14 – during sweeps month, naturally!

Sure, "General Hospital" 's Luke and Laura (played by Anthony Geary and Genie Francis) were hot and suspenseful back in November '82, when they were wed, but that was only one story line on an hour-long show. Hour-long soap episodes traditionally include secondary plots, which soap watchers have to endure to get to "the good stuff." But "Guiding Light" 's memorable sweeps week presented four hot front-burner plots, all of which came to story-line climaxes or resolutions at once.

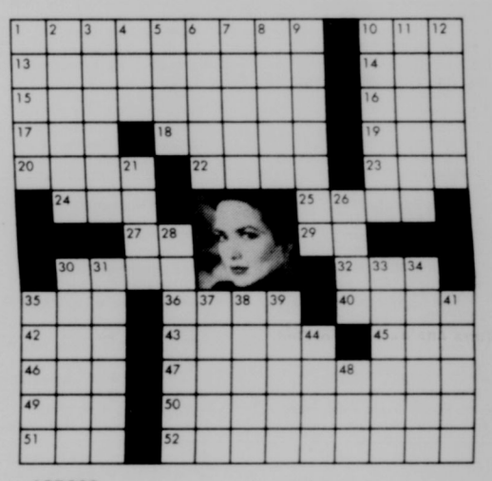
A week of hour-long soap episodes with no filler scenes – clearly, after all these years, this was soap-opera nirvana!

Plot No. 1 presented incredibly gripping suspense. (Provided, of course, that viewers avoided advance plot summaries in fan magazines!) Newly revealed murderer Dr. Daniel St. John (David Bishins in a sensationally psychotic performance) held his fiancee, Holly (played by Maureen Garrett), hostage during their wedding ceremony in a secluded cabin. At the plot's climax, St. John was killed by Holly's true love, the usually villainous Roger Thorpe (played by Michael Zaslow). (Bishins shouldn't worry – he's got a big future playing his look-alike, Richard Nixon).



In Plot No. 2, St. John had left amateur snoop Harley (played by Beth Ehlers) for dead in a freezing root cellar. When stoic detective A.C. Mallett (played by Mark Derwin) rescued her, she finally, after months of plot buildup, declared her love for him – in a hypothermia-induced trance. (Don't ask.)

In Plot No. 3, back in Springfield, Alexandra Spaulding (played by Beverlee McKinsey) presented Nick McHenry (played by Vincent Irizarry) with hard evidence that she is his birth mother.

In Plot No. 4, in Greece, bride-thief Alan-Michael Spaulding (played by Rick Hearst) remarried virgin Eleni (played by Melina Kanakaredes) in a religious ceremony – thus ruining any reconciliation Eleni could have with her real love, Frank Cooper (played by Frank Dicopoulos).

Such a week isn't a result of dumb luck; all this intricate plotting was meticulously planned out and timed by the writers and producers of "GL" months in advance. Here's to the art of finely woven soap storytelling at its best. Bravo!

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

THE MIGHTY QUINN – Is Anthony Quinn still alive? How old is he? Is he of Italian descent? Did he ever star in a TV series? I can only remember seeing him in films. – W.C., St. Paul, Minn.

Anthony Quinn

Quinn, 77, still with us. He is a native of Chihuahua, Mexico, and is of Irish and Mexican heritage. He was a regular member of the cast of only one series, "The Man and the City," which aired from 1971-72. In the '50s, however, Quinn, like many other film actors, appeared in some dramatic anthology series on TV. His autobiography, "The Original Sin," was issued in 1972.

JAMIE'S BABY – Is it true that Jamie Lee Curtis adopted a child? If so, when? What is the child's name? – A.C., Laramie, Wyo.

In 1986, Curtis and her husband, Christopher Guest, adopted a baby girl, whom they named Annie.

LOVIN' JOHN – Who sang the theme song for "Welcome Back, Kotter"? I've often tried to place the voice. – D.G., Redding, Calif.

That popular theme was sung by singer-songwriter John Sebastian, who was once the leader of the folk-rock group the Lovin' Spoonful.

'BLONDIE' AMBITION – I have often stayed up late at night to watch old movie series. "Blondie" is one of my favorites. I'd like to know how many Blondie movies were made and when, so I can try to keep track of them and get to see each one. – P.R., Milwaukee

Blondie first moved from the comic strips to the silver screen in 1938 in a movie of the same title. Between 1938 and 1950, 28 "Blondie" movies were filmed, all starring Penny Singleton as the perky beauty and Arthur Lake as her bumbling husband, Dagwood.

SOTHERN EXPOSURE? – Was it Ann Sothern or some other actress who starred in "My Little Margie"? I can't visualize the actress's face. – W.F., Hartford, Conn.

Ann Sothern starred in the series "Private Secretary" (1953-57) and "The Ann Sothern Show" (1958-61). She was also the voice of a 1928 Porter in "My Mother the Car" (1965-66). Gale Storm had the title role in the series "My Little Margie" (1952-55). Storm also hosted "NBC Comedy Hour" (1956) and starred in "The Gale Storm Show" (1956-60).

Kerns is disappointing in 'The Nightman'

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

A tight black dress does not necessarily make a sexpot, as Joanna Kerns proves with her departure from her role as the wholesome mother on "Growing Pains," in "The Nightman" (NBC, March 8). Kerns plays Eve Rhodes, a va-voomy single mother who owns a lakeside hotel in steamy Georgia and has a daughter, Maggie, on the cusp of womanhood. All seems dandy in this slightly wilted paradise until Tom (Ted Marcoux), an irresistible young Vietnam vet, ambles into town and takes a job as the new night manager. But, as the title implies, Tom's an M-A-N, and that spells trouble for the Rhodes women, who spend a sultry summer vying for his affection. Nineteen years after that fateful summer and after Tom has been jailed for Eve's murder, he is paroled and Maggie is convinced that he is following her. Though she is now a highly paid doctor, Maggie spends a luxurious amount of time lounging around her apartment smoking and having flashbacks to that Georgia summer when she and her predatory mom engaged in a tawdry courtship duel. Though this entire production could be written off as a waste of time and money, it is Kerns who is to blame for the failures of "Nightman." As co-producer and star, Kerns' shameless Kathleen Turner "Body Heat" rip-off wears the movie down as she addresses her young hunk with lines like, "I'll make it feel better, baby," and the uproarious ultimatum delivered to Tom to, "Take your stud fee and GET OUT!" Someone involved in this production has been reading too many trashy novels.

• Recent movies seem to be warning us that there is danger lurking everywhere and not even your own home is safe anymore, as indicated in the CBS domestic drama "In Sickness and in Health" (CBS, March 8). Lesley Ann Warren stars as a wife suffering from a degenerative illness, whose husband (Tom Skerritt) hires a neighbor and single mother (Marg Helgenberger) to care for her. The household is thrown into emotional disorder when husband Jarrett begins to develop a fondness for the young live-in.

• In the 1987 buddy-hit "Lethal Weapon" (ABC, March 9), Mel Gibson stars as a suicidal daredevil cop who gets paired up with family man and force veteran Danny Glover, who prefers to enforce the law by the book. But opposites soon attract and after a few shoot-'em-ups they become devoted fast friends while fighting the bad guys.

In Danielle Steel's "Kaleidoscope," which is rebroadcast Monday, March 9, on NBC, private detective John Chapman (Perry King) is hired to fulfill the dying wish of a wealthy businessman – to reunite three sisters, whom he placed with different families. Chapman tracks down Hilary (Jaclyn Smith), the oldest sister, and in his attempt to learn why she is reluctant to meet her sisters uncovers old secrets that could destroy them all.

IN FOCUS

Alan Jackson (shown) leads with three nominations, as the "Music City News Country Songwriter Awards" airs Wednesday, March 11, on The Nashville Network. Jackson's "Chasin' That Neon Rainbow," "Don't Rock the Jukebox" and "I'd Love You All Over Again" face Vince Gill's "Never Knew Lonely" and "Pocket Full of Gold," among other 1991 country hits. IN FOCUS

For some odd reason, HBO is reluctant to make "Andrew Dice Clay: For Ladies Only" available for preview. According to press materials, however, this is a new, egalitarian Diceman, who "turns the tables on men, taunting, 'You like it when I take the chicks apart, but you can't seem to take it.' " As an added treat, "Clay ends the show by ... crooning a tender love ballad." Well, move over, Phil Donahue. It airs Saturday, March 14.

REALTORS ATTEND LEGISLATIVE DAY – Five Garrett County realtors traveled to Annapolis to participate in Legislative Day activities sponsored by the Maryland Association of Realtors on Wednesday, February 19. The day's activities included a morning session led by Ed Hilley, executive director of the Maryland Association of Realtors, concerning the various pieces of legislation that affect real property and realtors; an afternoon State Board of Directors meeting; and a reception for the realtors and legislators in the evening. One of the issues in the legislature centers around a property disclosure requirement that would be mandated for every seller to present to a buyer of a 1-4-family residential property. The new version of the 2020 legislation was also reviewed and brief outlines of the bill were given to all attendees. The Maryland Association of Realtors reviews every bill proposed in both the Senate and House of Delegates each year to determine what impact, if any, it would have upon property owners as well as real estate professionals. Pictured left to right above front row, are Goldie Shugars, Public Relations and Political Action committee member; and Karen F. Spiker, District V.P. for Western Maryland and Issues and Mobilization Committee member; in the back row, same order, are: Jeremy Thayer, President of the Garrett County Board of Realtors; Delegate George Edwards; and Tom R. DeBerry, Legislative Committee member. Not pictured, but also attending, was Earl George.

Fire Marshal Notes 1991 Fire Death Statistics

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced the fire death statistics for calendar year 1991 for the State of Maryland.

According to data compiled by the fire marshal, 98 people died in fire incidents throughout Maryland during 1991. This marks the third consecutive year that fire deaths have remained below 100 for the state, which Gabriele said is unprecedented.

The fire marshal said careless smoking, or the misuse of smoking materials, was once again the leading cause of fires resulting in death in Maryland. During 1991, there were 26 deaths recorded as a result of smoking related fire incidents, or approximately 26.5% of the total fire deaths. During 1990, 37 people died as a result of smoking related fires.

Arson fires were another leading cause of fire where deaths occurred during 1991. Ten people died as a result of arson fires, which was a sharp increase from only one arson related fire death in 1990.

Eleven fire death incidents remain a mystery to fire investigators. In these cases the exact cause for the fire has never been determined.

Some good news found in the fire death data was that only five children died in fire incidents in Maryland last year, as the result of playing with matches or cigarette lighters. This is a sharp reduction from the 10 such fire death incidents which occurred in 1990.

The majority of fire deaths occurred in homes and apartments during 1991. Of the 98 fire deaths, 81 occurred in these occupancies.

The living room was the leading area of origin for fire deaths, with 31 fire fatalities recorded in this area or a total of 31.6% of all fire deaths. The bedroom was the second leading area of origin, with 20 fatalities recorded in this area.

The high risk victims of fires, continued to be the very young and the elderly in 1991. Twenty-nine of the fire deaths last year were children 15 years of age and younger. Similarly, 28 of the fire deaths were victims 61 years of age or older.

The early morning hours was the most deadly time period of the 98 fire death victims, 44 died as the result of fires which occurred between midnight and 6 a.m. Ten of the fire deaths were attributed to fires which occurred between the hours of noon and 2 p.m.

The colder months of the year resulted in the majority of deadly fires. During the months of January, October, November and December, 44 fire deaths occurred.

Lack of smoke detectors, and smoke detectors that were present but did not activate because of poor maintenance, was also a significant part of the fire death equations in 1991. In 26 of the fire deaths, investigators found no smoke detectors present. Additionally, 13 of the fatalities occurred in areas where the detector was present, but did not function.

An examination of the fire fatalities by jurisdiction revealed that 42 of the fire deaths occurred in Baltimore City. This was an increase from the 28 fatalities which occurred during 1990 in Baltimore City. Baltimore County has the second highest number of fire deaths in the State last year, with 12 fire fatalities recorded.

There were five counties in Maryland which recorded zero fire deaths in 1991. Those counties were: Calvert, Dorchester, Howard, Washington, and Worcester. It was the sixth consecutive year that Calvert County recorded zero fire deaths.

Commenting on three straight years of fire deaths below 100, Gabriele stated, "We are very pleased at the progress which has been made over the past few decades in reducing our fire deaths. However, we must continue to strive to lower these losses. If our citizens use and maintain smoke detectors, and if more residential sprinkler systems are installed in our homes, apartments and condominiums, then I am confident more of these tragedies can and will be avoided."

Westvaco's Board Declares Dividend

Westvaco Corporation, a major manufacturer of paper, packaging and chemicals, announced that its Board of Directors, during a meeting held last week in New York, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 27½ cents per share on the company's common stock.

The dividend is payable April 1, 1992, to shareholders of record March 10, 1992, and is the 386th consecutive quarterly common stock dividend paid to Westvaco shareholders.

The current quarterly rate of 27½ cents per share is five percent greater than the rate in the same period last year. When the company's Board of Directors increased the dividend rate in the latter part of fiscal 1991, it was the twenty-second time in the past 28 years and the seventh time in the last eight years that the quarterly dividend had been increased.

Westvaco has one of the longest records of uninterrupted quarterly cash dividend payments among any of the companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Orientation Set For Mon Valley Leadership Course

The Mon Valley Tri-State Leadership Academy will launch a two-year program beginning this spring to strengthen the skills of potential community and economic leaders in the region.

The Academy will hold an orientation conference April 3-4 at Nemacolin Woodlands in Farmington, Pa. This conference will provide an overview of the Leadership Academy and its mission. Participants will have a chance to meet with instructors and others in the program. Classes are scheduled to begin April 6.

For information on the conference or on the Leadership Academy, persons may call Kemp DeVille, program associate, at (304) 293-2552.

The Academy curriculum consists of four modules, which will provide an in-depth look at the Mon Valley's socio-economic and institutional settings. Interactive instruction will help participants acquire the skills, concepts and analytical tools they'll need to function as leaders.

The Academy's purpose is to equip its graduates with the knowledge and skills to become more effective leaders--leaders with a vision of the future extending beyond their immediate communities or counties. Cooperative leadership can produce viable regional plans to enhance the quality of life and lead to a more prosperous Mon Valley.

Sessions in each module meet weekly for 10 evenings; four modules will be scheduled over the next two years.

To serve the entire region, modules will be taught at four sites: West Virginia University in Morgantown; the University of Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh; the Pennsylvania State University--Fayette Campus, Uniontown, Pa.; and at a combined site, Garrett Community College, McHenry, and Allegany Community College in Cumberland.

Housed at WVU in Morgantown, the Leadership Academy is a project of the Mon Valley Tri-State network. The Network is an independent, non-profit organization of volunteers committed to cooperative economic and human resource development in the Monongahela River Valley. The region encompasses 7,400 square miles in 18 counties of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland.

Directing the Academy is Paul F. Fendt, a nationally known authority on adult learning and continuing education. Dr. Fendt joined the program in 1991 from East Tennessee State University, where he was dean of the School of Continuing Studies. His educational career of more than 25 years also includes teaching and administrative posts at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina State University and Duke University.

"Hire The Older Worker Week" Set For Next Week

Governor William Donald Schaefer has proclaimed March 8-14 as "Hire The Older Worker Week" in Maryland.

This observance marks the 33rd anniversary of the national effort to recognize older persons as qualified employees, and to encourage employers in the public and private sectors to hire the older worker. In fact, employment records of most older workers demonstrate positive job-related characteristics that many employers value, such as stability, punctuality, dependability and productivity.

"There are many persons in Maryland, age 55 and over, who wish to join or rejoin the workforce," said Governor Schaefer. "Some older people seek employment because of financial need, while others are motivated by their desire to be engaged in meaningful activity."

"We encourage all departments of state, county and local governments, as well as all other Maryland employers in the public and private sector, to remember that the dependable older worker is a good choice," said Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging. "Our office administers programs to help approximately 1,000 senior citizens train for and be placed in a variety of positions each year."

To promote the observance of "Hire The Older Worker Week," the Maryland Office on Aging is working with many Area Agencies on Aging, senior centers, and private industries throughout the state to host activities that extol the virtues of Maryland's senior citizen employees.

Employers interested in knowing more about hiring older workers in Maryland may call the Maryland Office on Aging at (410) 225-1100 in the Baltimore Metropolitan area, or (800) AGE-DIAL, toll-free. Persons interested in knowing about programs or activities for "Hire The Older Worker Week" in their community should contact their local Area Agency on Aging.

HEARING AIDS

DO YOU HAVE FEEDBACK OR WHISTLING WITH YOUR HEARING AID?
ARE YOU CONTINUALLY ADJUSTING THE VOLUME?

This is a common complaint that we hear from many hearing aid users. With the new Cleartone hearing aids you will not have feedback once the hearing aid is completely in your ear. You will not have to continually adjust the volume control, because the hearing aid will automatically reduce the loud noises for you.

We have found that it even helps those who have Tinnitus "ringing ears".

Come in today for a no-cost hearing evaluation and demonstration of the hearing aid!

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE PRESTON LUMBER COMPANY sawmill, located in Crellin, was constructed in 1903, was powered by three steel boilers, and could process 75,000 feet of lumber daily. It replaced an earlier mill built in 1892 that was destroyed by fire in 1902. The Youghiogheny River next to the mill was dammed to allow logs to be floated to the mill as shown in this photo, published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. Several splash dams were constructed along the river and opened at various times to float logs to the mill. Nearly 100 miles of railroad track also brought logs to the mill via steam engines. During its years of operation, the company employed from 275 to 750 men in the mill, woods, railroad, and related jobs. The mill closed in 1925. (The above information is from Robert C. Shaffer's book, History of Crellin.) Correction: In last week's Glimpse of the Past photo, it stated that St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident was the oldest Lutheran congregation in Garrett County. In fact, St. John's Lutheran Church in Red House is the oldest congregation in the county, having been organized soon after 1800, with a log church constructed in the Sunnyside area by 1820. The congregation relocated to Red House in 1860.

CANARY CAGE PRESENTED TO HISTORY GROUP -- An authentic miner's canary cage was recently presented to "Coal Talk," a history group collecting the oral history of local coal mines, by Shirley Panther, Oakland. "This is the kind of cage my father and other miners would carry into the mines," said Panther, whose father, Roy Beals, worked in the coal mines in Somerset County, Pa. "If the canary died or got sick, it meant there was gas in the mine, and the miners had to leave," she said. The cage is estimated to be between 80 and 100 years old, and will be displayed in the Garrett County Historical Society's museum, Oakland, along with other coal mining artifacts. The "Coal Talk" group was organized and conducted its first workshp this summer at Garrett Community College. Dr. Gail Herman is the director of the group, and Rev. John Grant serves as assistant director. In addition to conducting oral history interviews, the group is collecting photographs and objects associated with the mining industry.

FSU's Cultural Series To Close With "Barnum"

"Barnum, The Three-Ring Circus Musical" will be presented for one show only, Wednesday, March 11, 8 p.m. in Frostburg State University's Compton Auditorium. This is the final offering of the year's FSU Cultural Events Series.

"Barnum," winner of three Tony Awards, features music by Tony-Award winner Cy Coleman (City of Angels, Sweety Charity), Tony-nominated Lyrics by Michael Stewart (Hello Dolly!) and book by Mark Bramble (42nd Street)

"Barnum's my name and miracles are my game," said the Prince of Humbug, P.T. Barnum at the start of this production framed loosely on his infamous career. This musical really is a three-ringed circus, complete with clowns, acrobats, jugglers, and bands.

The New York Times called Barnum "pure exhilarating fun! Barnum simply burst with melodies--ballads, marches, ragtime strut numbers and burlesque turns--orchestrated to raise the rafters."

Tickets for Barnum are available at The Book Centre, downtown Cumberland; Main Street Books, Frostburg; and at the Lane Center. For information, persons may call the Lane Center ticket office at 689-4411.

Maryland Ag Secretary Named To Fund For Democracy And Development

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has been appointed to serve on the National Advisory Council of the Fund for Democracy and Development. The Fund is a non-profit organization designed to mobilize and to coordinate private sector humanitarian and development assistance from the American people to the peoples of the republics of the former Soviet Union.

The Fund's National Advisory Council is co-chaired by John W. Kluge of Metromedia and includes representatives of major U.S. corporations and businesses.

Walker is an expert on agriculture in the former Soviet Union. Most recently he traveled there as part of a World Bank mission to study the food processing and distribution system. He also is responsible for engineering numerous exchange agreements between agriculture officials in Maryland and their Soviet counterparts.

"The collapse of the Soviet political and economic systems has caused serious hardships for millions of people. It is both in our national interest and part of our humanitarian duty to do what we can to help," Walker said.

Walker currently serves as the chairman of a National Association of State Departments of Agriculture Task Force on the Commonwealth of Independent States and former Eastern Bloc Countries.

"I think the goals of the Fund are crucial. The immediate objective is to help alleviate human suffering. In the long run the goal is the support of democracy and a free market economy," Walker said.

Oakland FFA To Hold Ice Cream Social March 6

On March 6 the Oakland FFA will hold an ice cream social beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Southern High School Agricultural Building.

The FFA invites and encourages everyone interested in agricultural education to attend. During the evening, the efforts of first year members will be recognized, and Greenhand Degree recipients will be honored.

"This will be an excellent opportunity for the public to become more familiar with the agricultural program and the progress of its members," said FFA Advisor Steve Kisner.

In parts of Europe, it was once believed good for the crops to plant chicken feathers.

Farming In Maryland..... Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Farm Families Needed To Host Russian Agriculture Students

The Maryland Department of Agriculture and the University of Maryland are looking for Maryland families to host agricultural students from the Commonwealth of Independent States (the former Soviet Union) for the fourth straight summer as part of an exchange program. The students would spend two months in Maryland during the summer of 1992 working on farms and learning American customs.

"Maryland was one of the first states to host these exchange students and the program gets better and better each year. Many of the farm families who have hosted students continue to participate and find the experience extraordinary rewarding. I view this as a tremendous opportunity for both the students and the families," Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker said.

"With the many upheavals taking place in this part of the world, these exchanges present a chance to learn first-hand about how these governmental changes have affected the lives of ordinary citizens as well as agricultural operations. It's a chance to be part of history," Walker said.

Each host family would be required to provide room and board for the exchange students and a small salary for their work on the farm. Transportation expenses to and from the United States will be paid by the students. Host families in Maryland need not be able to speak Russian as all the students will have an excellent working knowledge of English.

Anyone interested in being a Maryland host for a Soviet agriculture student should contact Robert L. Walker, Secretary, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, telephone (301) 841-5881 or Dr. John R. Moore, Assistant Dean for International Programs, Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences, University of Maryland, College Park, MD 20742, telephone (301) 454-6407.

1992 Farm Programs Open

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is currently accepting applications for the 1992 Feed Grain program. The signup period opened February 10.

"All farmers with an established crop acreage base are eligible to participate in the voluntary programs," Garrett ASC Chairperson Kenneth R. Bachtel said. Program benefits include price support loans and target price protection.

To qualify for these benefits, producers must reduce their acreage bases by at least five percent for corn and zero percent for oats, according to Bachtel.

"At signup, farmers may request a 40 percent advance cash payment for feed grains," Bachtel said. Estimated deficiency payment rates for the 1992 crops are $.48 for corn and $.15 per bushel for oats.

"The 0/92 and 50/92 planting options are still available at the discretion of producers," Bachtel said. Under these provisions, wheat and feed grain producers may devote all or a portion of their maximum payment acres to conservation uses, and get guaranteed deficiency payments on 92 percent of these acres, minus the actual acres planted to wheat or feed grains. "The planting of industrial and other crops on this acreage will not be permitted."

As with the 1991 programs, farmers will have planting flexibility on up to 25 percent of the crop acreage base. Bachtel said crops prohibited on the 1992 flexible acreage will be the same as those prohibited in 1991, except that mung beans will be allowed. "Because the national average price for soybeans during the 1992/93 marketing year is projected to exceed 105 percent of the soybean price support level, farmers will be permitted to plant soybeans on their optional flex program acreage."

The ASCS official said targeted option payments will not be available to producers. The 1992 programs also prohibit producers from: planting designated crops on half of the announced acreage conservation reserve (ACR); planting oats for harvest on ACR, harvesting conserving crops on ACR and producing black-eyed peas for donation on cotton ACR and CU acreage.

Additional program details may be obtained from the Garrett County ASCS office.

Hybrid Corn Trial Results Published

Results of the "1991 West Virginia Hybrid Corn Trials" are now available from the West Virginia Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

Each year, station scientists test hybrid corn seeds for their performance under field conditions at research farms in Morgantown, Kearneysville, Reedsville, and Wardensville.

Lack of moisture had a pronounced effect on 1991 trial results. Average yield was 68 bushels per acre, eight bushels less than in the droughty year of 1988. In 1989 and 1990, average yields were 133 and 114 bushels, respectively.

Growers can use the two- and three-year averages provided in the report to help them make planting choices for 1992. Data regarding percent moisture and percent erect plants should be considered also.

The report was prepared by John A. Balasko, station agronomist; Charles B. Sperow Jr., former Extension specialist, agronomy; and E. Hyde, station research assistant.

"We hope that weather conditions during 1992 will be more typical of the long-term average so that trial results will be more representative," said Balasko.

The report, Circular 156, is available at no charge from Mailing Room, WVU Communications Building, Morgantown, WV 26506, or from county Extension offices.

Farmers Reminded To Report Operation Changes

"We urge producers to report any changes in their farm operations which could affect farm program benefits during 1992," Michael Kozier, director of the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said.

Farm records must be up-to-date to assure that producers get full program benefits, he said. If a change is made in the operation of an existing farm unit, or if a farm will have a new owner effective for 1992, producers should contact the Garrett County Office.

"Requests to combine or divide farms should be filed early because reconstitutions require special processing as well as county committee approval," Kozier said.

Any changes in land owned or operated should be reported to ASCS as soon as possible.

ASCS Accepts Disaster Claims

Farmers who have suffered a loss of their crop production in 1990 or 1991 because of drought, floods, and other natural disasters, may apply for disaster payments at the Garrett County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The 1990-91 crop disaster program opened February 3, and will close March 13.

The program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton, and rice; nonparticipating program crops; peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, sugarcane and tobacco; and all commercial nonprogram crops.

Kenneth R. Bachtel, chairperson of the Garrett County ASC Committee said that producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent, while those without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent.

Before filing an application for disaster payments, farmers must submit crop production records for disaster-related damage. Bachtel said payments for qualifying farmers could be made in April.

He explained that producers will select the year for filing. "They may not file on one crop on a farm for one year and a different crop on the same farm for the other. However, the farmer may request benefits for 1990 on one farm and for 1991 on another farm."

The ASCS official said disaster payments would be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill. Further disaster payment program details may be obtained from the Garrett County ASCS office.

THANK YOU

I wanted to express my appreciation to those who administered to my needs during my recent illness. They include the Garrett Memorial Hospital Emergency Room Staff, the Cardiac Care Unit Staff, Dr. Donald Richter, and Freeman's Ambulance Service. The care was superb and fortunately, the test showed that I have no heart problems. A special thanks to all the many well-wishers for their prayers and expressions of concern.

Mountain Fresh Pavilion In Oakland Is Enlarged, Finished For Start Of Season

Despite the economic hard times of the state and local economies, Mayor Asa McCain was able to pull enough funds together for the completion of the Mountain Fresh Farmers' Market pavilion in the Oakland Town Parking Lot, according to the organization's secretary/treasurer, Jim Fearer. The north-east end of the building was extended to add eight spaces and there is a dropping grade so that tall vehicles will be able to get in. The light fixtures were also raised to give extra clearance. With this extension completed, Fearer says there are now 18 total spaces for vehicles and six spaces for setups not using vehicles.

Funding came from three sources: a grant that Mayor McCain was able to obtain through the Main Street Improvement Grant Program of the Department of Housing and Community Development, the Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce, and the Mountain Fresh Marketing Association.

"We are grateful for the continued support by the mayor, chamber and the Mountain Top community," Fearer said. "To see all of these folks behind us when economic times are this tough gives us all a good feeling and the incentive to keep the tailgate market growing bigger and better," Fearer stated.

"We were really glad to get completion of the pavilion done," added Mayor McCain. "With the enlargement and the space provided, we hope to be able to have several community activities here when the Mountain Fresh Association is not using the structure," he said.

The Mountain Fresh Producers Association is looking forward to another good season. The 1991 season was excellent despite the drought, Fearer concluded.

Anyone having any questions about Mountain Fresh Producers should call the Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-1990.

THE MOUNTAIN FRESH FARMERS' MARKET PAVILION in the Oakland Town Parking Lot is bigger and better than ever after being extended to add eight more spaces for tall vehicles, giving the building a total of 18 spaces for vehicles and six spaces for setups not using vehicles.

Extension Offers Programs On Indoor Fish Farming

by Daniel E. Terlizzi
Sea Grant Area Agent
Cooperative Ext. Service

Like most people I am fascinated by new technology, especially new methods of agricultural production. Unfortunately, we seem inclined to believe that traditional crops produced in a "high tech" setting, for example hydroponics or indoor fish farms, are superior, and have guaranteed markets and profitability. It's as if all this investment in mechanization eliminates risks associated with crop production when in fact risks are increased.

These production methods do offer reduced environmental variability, hence the term Controlled Environment Agriculture, which may lead to very high production rates. But sometimes the technology involved can seem silly from a realistic production viewpoint like lettuce growing on conveyors in a supermarket produce department or shrimp being grown in individual cells so they won't cannibalize each other. To follow this reasoning to the extreme, we might well consider grazing cattle on artificial turf. Texas longhorns grazing in the Astrodome during the off season may be the ultimate in Controlled Environment Agriculture but clearly belongs to the realm of fantasy. So are a lot of the promises made by less scrupulous proponents of Controlled Environment Agriculture.

Indoor fish culture in recirculating systems has been with us for decades but until fairly recently was considered by most to be economically unfeasible. University researchers pursed the technology, refining and improving, hoping to do for fish and chips what Jules Verne did for space travel -- if only in concept. It can't be denied that indoor fish culture has made a lot of progress, in fact it may be that this technology is on the threshold of becoming a profitable reality. However, in getting to this point of economic potential, Aqua-shysters, as these "new-age" snake oil hucksters have come to be termed, have bilked the unwary out of millions.

The University of Maryland Sea Grant Extension Program has maintained a position of cautious optimism concerning recirculation aquaculture. After all, in some cases it does appear to operate profitably, for example in crab shedding, and there are encouraging reports from some fish culture operations as well. Unfortunately, the highly publicized failures taint the entire industry and may hinder future development of both traditional and indoor aquaculture.

To assist those who are interested in recirculation aquaculture make informed decisions about investment potential. The University of Maryland Sea Grant Extension Program is offering several educational programs. The first program consists of seminars, scheduled April 6 and 7, on recirculation aquaculture featuring Dr. Tom Losordo of North Carolina State University. Dr. Losordo is a nationally recognized expert on design and operation of recirculation aquaculture systems. The second part of this program is a visit on July 10-11 to the "Fish Barn," a demonstration recirculation facility operated by Dr. Losordo at N.C. State in Raleigh. This trip will involve an overnight bus trip to Raleigh, N.C., and a full day seminar and demonstration on indoor fish farming. The cost including transportation, seminar materials and lodging is expected to be under $200. We expect space to be limited for the "Fish Barn" field trip. If you would like additional information on these programs please contact Terlizzi at the Harford County Cooperative Extension Service by calling (410) 838-6000, ext. 255.

EPA Ruling Of Fungicides A Win For Agriculture

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency last week announced it is restoring the use of EBDC fungicides on 29 crops while canceling outright use of the product on 11 other crops.

The decision is generally good news for American farmers, according to American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner.

"Despite a lot of political pressure, the decision to reinstate these crop uses was based on sound science," Kleckner said. "The test results leading to this action should reassure the public that these important fungicides can be used safely.

"The review and reinstatement process was unique. It was the most extensive review ever of a chemical and represented unprecedented cooperation between industry and the federal government," Kleckner added.

The decision to reinstate compounds containing EBDC (ethylene bisdithiocarbamate) comes after two years of precedent-setting efforts by growers, industry and government interests to prove that the previous method of risk assessments was "excessive and totally unrealistic," said Mark Maslyn, an AFBF assistant director of national affairs.

Reflecting on the decision's importance to the farm community, Kleckner said, "This demonstrates that industry can successfully intervene on behalf of a vital chemical, and that registration reviews can weigh and balance benefits against actual risks."

EBDCs are used to combat mold and mildew on a variety of fruit, vegetable, nut and grain crops and a number of ornamental crops.

Weighing heavily in EPA's announcement were the results of a $10 million market basket study, funded by manufacturers and monitored by EPA. This study revealed what Farm Bureau has contended all along, that "there were no detectable residue levels of EBDCs reaching produce on the grocer's shelf," Kleckner said.

"The market basket results show the original risk assumptions and methodology were flawed," he said. "Previous decisions were based on misinformation and assumed too great a risk. Industry was successful in demonstrating that the assumed use levels were far too high. This demonstrates the importance of market basket residue testing and farm record-keeping."

The survey involved the collection and analysis of almost 6,000 food samples, including both fresh and processed foods, collected from hundreds of supermarkets throughout the United States, according to a statement released by EPA.

Despite the overall good news, the AFBF president said he is concerned for the producers of the 11 crops that were singled out by EPA for EBDC cancellation. These crops include apricots, carrots, celery, collards, mustard greens, nectarines, peaches, rhubarb, spinach, succulent beans and turnips.

"For some of these crops there are suitable substitutes, but for crops such as spinach, producers are going to be facing serious production challenges due to this ruling," Kleckner explained. "The use of the EBDC fungicides has been crucial to crop chemical rotations, decreasing reliance on and resistance to any one fungicide. Using such a rotation is environmentally friendly in the long run, allowing producers to use fewer chemicals."

Measuring Value!

What does the old "bird-in-the-hand" philosophy have to do with selling your home? Plenty - if you are serious about selling and are a realist at heart.

One of the biggest advantages to owning real estate is the ability to sell at full value to an ever present supply of potential buyers. This means that, given a fair amount of time, a "ready, willing and able" buyer can always be located to purchase your home.

The "full value" which that buyer will pay for your home is a subjective figure though, based on the individual's own value system when applied to your property. The "full value" price offered by a buyer may not match the "full value" figure expected by the seller.

Sellers who price their home at "fair market value" may find that qualified buyers immediately offer full price. On the other hand, what should sellers do if an unqualified buyer offers full price? What if a qualified buyer offers less than full price?

Here is where the "bird-in-the-hand" concept pays off. Wise sellers will analyze each offer to purchase as though it were the only one they would ever receive, since there may never be "two in the bush." If the offer is made by an unqualified buyer, at an unreasonably low price, with an unacceptable settlement date, rejection of the offer might be appropriate.

On the other hand, a low offer received from an obviously qualified buyer with a settlement date that is a perfect match to the sellers' moving plans may deserve close scrutiny. Even though the offer may appear low, the buyer may not require the seller to participate in the payment of closing costs, discount points or other costs usually associated with a sale, resulting in "net proceeds" close to an acceptable level.

The net effect could be an acceptable transaction with the added benefit of a closing date that relieves anxiety about an unsold home. When selling your home, ask your agent to explain both the pros and cons of every offer received. The result can be both an early and acceptable sale.

Spring Gardening Tips

Jim Simms, Extension Agent
Agriculture Science

Simple Steps Are Recommended For Successful Vegetable Gardening

The days are getting longer, temperatures are rising, and the yearly ritual of preparing the family garden is upon us again. But before you get your hands in the soil, plan ahead to make your gardening venture a success.

Making a diagram to specify land use and plant placement is a great way to get started, according to Denise Sharp, a horticulture specialist at the Home & Garden Information Center of the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"By forcing you to organize your thoughts, a diagram can help you avoid some common pitfalls later," she explains.

Sharp recommends locating the garden where it will receive full sunlight throughout the day. If this is not possible, pick a spot that gets a minimum of six hours of sun daily.

Because water is essential, she advises locating your vegetable garden where running water is readily available.

But be sure your plot is far enough away from competing plants.

"Trees and shrubs can be a problem when located near a garden," Sharp notes, "because their roots absorb moisture and nutrients from the garden while their branches add unwanted shade."

Also, certain trees or shrubs -- most notably walnut -- exude substances from their roots that are toxic to tomatoes and other vegetables.

Once you've decided on the optimum location for a vegetable garden, you're ready to begin the physical preparations.

If you haven't already tested your soil, Sharp recommends doing so right away. The test will tell whether your garden needs lime and fertilizer to provide your plants with proper nutrition.

Maryland residents can get a soil test kit from their local Extension office and have their garden soil tested for $5. Analysis of soil samples usually takes a week or two.

Cool-season plants -- those that can withstand frost -- may be planted about mid-March to early April, says Sharp. Examples include cabbage, radishes, spinach, lettuce, onions and potatoes. Hold off on planting frost-sensitive plants like tomatoes, beans, corn, peppers, cucumbers and squash until May.

Almost all traditional crops do well in Maryland's temperate climate, according to Sharp. Among the "new" plants available to home vegetable gardeners are crossbred squash varieties, super-sweep corns, seedless watermelons, edible-podded peas and potatoes with unusual skin or flesh colors.

When sowing seeds and placing your plants, take care to avoid some common mistakes made by many recreational gardeners. Don't plant individual seeds or plants too close together. As they grow, thin the plants to reduce competition and encourage optimum growth. Don't forget to tend your garden regularly, and don't plant more than you can handle.

The Cooperative Extension Service has several publications that can help you in your gardening endeavors:

L 15: 1992-1993 Vegetable Cultivars for Maryland Home Gardens; EB 220: Vegetable Gardening in Maryland ($1); EB 252: Control of Insects & Diseases in Home Vegetable Gardens ($2); FS 555: Controlling Weeds in Home Vegetable Gardens; FS 550: Container Vegetable Gardening; FS 551: Growing Vegetable Transplants; and FS 552: Hardening Vegetable Transplants.

These publications are available from the Home and Garden Information Center at 1-800-342-2507 and the Garrett Cooperative Extension Service office at 334-1990.

Legislation Pending To Prevent Break-Ins Where Animals Are Used

Legislation is pending in the U.S. Congress that would impose stiff new penalties on animal rights extremists who break into farms, stockyards, circuses, schools and medical research labs.

Several years ago, Texas Congressman Charles Stenholm introduced similar legislation. His bill, however, died in the 101st Congress, after being delayed in a House Agriculture Subcommittee by North Carolina Congressman Charlie Rose, an animal rights supporter.

This Stenholm's bill (H.R. 2407) has gotten through Rose's subcommittee and has been referred to the full Agriculture Committee (and the Judiciary Committee) without change.

The Stenholm Bill would:

Give federal protection to farmers, cattlemen, dairymen, and ranchers of sheep, mink and poultry; medical researchers; rodeos, circuses, zoos and aquariums; dog and other pet breeders and pet stores; 4-H and FFA; biology teachers, and other places where live animals are housed, bred, exhibited or sold.

Make it a federal crime (if terrorists cross state lines, or use a phone or the mails) to break in, vandalize, steal or release animals, steal or copy records, materials or equipment, or trespass on property if they intend to do these things.

Set up stiff criminal penalties with fines of up to $250,000 and jail time of up to 10 years in jail (20 years if a human's life is placed in jeopardy). If an organization, like PETA, were convicted, it could be fined up to $500,000.

A few months ago, the Senate passed, without opposition, the Heflin Bill, S. 544, a similar piece of legislation, except it limits its protection to biomedical research laboratories. If H.R. 2407 passes the House and reaches the Senate, Senator Howell Heflin may possibly ask that the Stenholm Bill's language be substituted for his own, extending protection to non-medical animal facilities.

It would then be up to Senate conference leaders Patrick Leahy (D-VT) and Bob Dole (R-KS) to refer the Stenholm language to the full Senate for a vote.

Kathleen Marquardt, chairman of Putting People First, says those interested in seeing the Stenholm Bill pass should contact other animal-use groups at events, meetings, conventions and shows; write letters and articles to newspapers and magazines; inform as many people as possible of this opportunity, and ask them to write their congressmen.

Farmers And Ranchers Inherit Good Land Stewardship Practices

Farmers see environmentalism as more than a cause; they are true stewards of the land who want to leave it better than they found it. This stewardship has been passed sown from fathers and grandfathers, American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner told a Yale University group last week.

Speaking to the Yale Political Union, Kleckner said, "It is not an exaggeration to say that farmers feel a respect for the environment and work to improve it. We depend on and work with nature to produce the bounty that makes our country the envy of the world."

Some disagree on how the environment should be treated, Kleckner conceded. "Farmers believe in an interdependent environment, but one that is used to benefit people," he said.

Farmers engage in innovations that help them improve their farming methods to keep pace with their needs and those of others, the farm leader said.

He cited studies by Farm Bureau to verify that pesticide use is being reduced to what is necessary, and that other pest controls besides chemicals are being adopted when possible.

Listing examples of good stewardship, Kleckner referred to 216,000 miles of erosion-preventing soil terraces, 1.3 million acres of grassed waterways to divert water to rivers and away from creating gullies in the fields, and more that 45 million acres under some kind of conservation tillage. Kleckner said farmers' efforts also include 26 million acres that are contour plowed, 60 million acres idled for wetland protection, another 227 million acres devoted to soil conservation purposes and 100 million enrolled in the conservation reserve program, designed to remove fragile land from cultivation.

Kleckner contrasted these views to those of other environmentalists who would return more land to wilderness and, though excessive regulations, strip American farmers of their ability to produce an abundance of safe, nutritious products at prices consumers can afford.

Wheat Only Small Part Of Bread Cost

The nation's largest bread-making companies have boosted the price of bread from five to 10 cents in recent months. But while wheat prices have risen -- due in part to an agreement to sell more U.S. wheat to the Soviets and to a tight supply situation -- the rise in bread prices is more than can be accounted for by the increase in wheat farm prices.

According to Terry Francl, an American Farm Bureau Federation economist, the value of wheat used to make a loaf of white bread is somewhere between four and five cents.

When wheat prices hit extremely low levels in 1990, that value dropped to 3.7 cents per loaf. Now that prices are higher, Francl estimated the current value at about five cents.

"The increase in the price of wheat paid to farmers over the past year would translate into a little more than one cent per loaf increase in bread prices," he said.

The increase in the cost of bread to consumers has been due almost solely to a higher farm-to-retail spread in the past, he explained. The farm-to-retail spread was 25 cents per loaf in 1971, and increased to more than 40 cents per loaf in 1979, to 50 cents in 1985, to 60 cents in 1989, and finally to 65 cents per loaf in 1990.

Over that span of time, the farm value share of wheat has ranged from a high of 14 percent in 1974 to a low of five percent in 1990, the latest year reported.

"Unfortunately, millers, bakers and retailers often use the slightest increase in wheat prices as an excuse to raise the farm-to-retail price spread," Francl said.

For example, the farm value of wheat used to produce a loaf of bread rose 0.8 cents in 1988, the most recent year in which there was a significant rise in wheat prices. However, the farm-to-retail price rose 5.6 cents per loaf. Although the value of wheat used to produce a loaf of bread rose only one percent relative to the retail price that year, the farm-to-retail spread rose 10 percent relative to the retail price.

In 1990, Francl said, the value of wheat utilized in a loaf of bread actually declined 0.7 cents per loaf, but the price of bread still increased three cents per loaf.

"Clearly, the value of the wheat utilized to produce a loaf of bread accounts for such a minuscule share of total costs that it has little, if anything, to do with the final retail price," he said. "History has repeatedly shown that those who say rising wheat prices are responsible for higher bread prices are just creating a smokescreen to enhance their own margins and profits."

David Harlow, chairman of the Washington Wheat Commission, said wheat prices have stabilized in the past year rather than increased.

"It would be more accurate to say that wheat prices have normalized, since 21 months ago prices were bottomed out," he said.

Maryland Food Companies Have Trade Show Opportunities

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's International Marketing Office is recruiting Maryland food companies interested in participating in three major upcoming trade shows. The shows are the Canadian Fine Food Show in Toronto May 24-26; the U.S. Food Festival Trade Show in Mexico City August 4-6; and the SIAL '92 Trade Show in Paris, France October 25-29.

"These trade shows offer an excellent opportunity for Maryland Food companies to expand into the international market," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker.

"Maryland companies who have participated in these shows in the past have made a number of important contacts that directly translated into sales," Walker said.

"We have an aggressive international marketing program at the Maryland Department of Agriculture and I urge Maryland businesses to contact us so that we might be of assistance in expanding market opportunities," said Walker.

Those companies interested in more information on these three trade shows should contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD.

MARCH 15th - 18th

Dear Friend,

Please consider this your personal invitation to attend our Spring Bible Conference here at Victory Baptist Church, located 3 miles west of Oakland on Rt. 39. The dates are Sunday, March 15th thru Wednesday, March 18th. The Sunday services are at 10:00 and 11:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. All other services are at 7:00 p.m. each evening.

Our THEME is "Bible Preaching On The Church and Home". Revival messages will be given to the church, while inspiring, instructive messages will be delivered to help our Homes. Surely, we all need help in the area of the Home. Satan has attacked the home today as never before. Divorce and teen suicide are at their highest. Something is missing, come and find out what.

Our SPEAKERS are Dr. Don Jasmin from Greenville, SC. Dr. Jasmin is an Evangelist and also Editor of the new "Fundamentalist Digest" magazine. He is one of the most informed preachers in America today and will be bringing the messages on the Home. Our 2nd speaker is Dr. Gil Massengil from Hickory, NC, one of the most enjoyable and exciting Revival preachers you will ever hear! One of his meetings went for nine weeks this past fall! Don't miss this one!

Come every night! Bring your family, especially your teens. They need to hear these messages on Marriage, Home, and Children. They will also enjoy Brother Massengil. Be our guest, come as you are! It will be our privilege to have you in our church.

YOUR FRIEND,

PASTOR DOUG SEHORNE 334-1631

P.S. If you are looking for a solid, sound, Bible-believing Church to attend, give us a try. We promise to help you as best we can. All visitors will receive 3 free helpful booklets. God bless you.

Seventh Grade Girls Participate In Career Day

Thirty-seven seventh grade girls from Garrett County participated in the Computer Math and Science Career Day Fair, which was held Saturday by the Maryland State Association of University of Women at the Annapolis Mall. According to the teachers who accompanied them, Polly Ramsey and Linda Mosser, the girls "never lost their enthusiasm" even though they boarded the bus in the snow and had a two-hour delay en route.

The girls and the six mothers who served as chaperons had the opportunity to attend science shows, talk to women role models, and take part in "hands on" demonstrations which would introduce them to the needs and opportunities in careers in computer math and science.

The girls received stars from the role models for each exhibit they attended. When the girls had collected 10 stars and filled out an evaluation form they received prizes from the Mall merchants and an "I Did It" button.

One role model remarked that she was "impressed" by the fact that the Garrett girls were already considering careers in science-related fields.

LOCAL STUDENTS ATTEND AAUW CAREER FAIR - Some three dozen seventh grade students from three local schools traveled to the Annapolis Mall Saturday, courtesy of the Garrett County chapter of the American Association of University Women, to participate in the AAUW Computer Math and Science Career Day Fair. Pictured above are some of the local students and a teacher who attended. In the front row, left to right, are Andrea Sweitzer, Lauren Newcomb, and Jennifer Barnard. In the back row, same order, are Jenny Finkel, Autumn Newcomb, Sara Fike, and teacher Polly Ramsey. Above right are students and staff of Garrett Community College who operated the college's booth at the fair. Pictured left to right are Crystal Filer-Ogden, GCC financial aid coordinator; GCC students Linda May and Amy Blubaugh; Nancy Priselac, assistant to the GCC president; and student Barbara Jenkins. Below is a photo of the GCC booth.

The girls advised their teacher that they enjoyed hearing about careers they had never considered, such as mechanical engineering.

One of the girls' favorite exhibits was their own Garrett Community College's computerized display which was presented by Nancy Priselac, assistant to the president, and Crystal Filer-Ogden, financial aid coordinator. Assisting in the display were GCC students Linda May, Barbara Jenkins, Amy Blubaugh, and sixth grader, David Filer-Ogden.

An evaluation of the Career Day will take place at the next meeting of the Garrett Maryland Branch AAUW, which will be a covered dish luncheon held on March 7 at the home of Sheila Edwards. Guests of honor will be teachers Linda Mosser and Polly Ramsey, Nancy Priselac, and the speaker, School Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage.

A hymn sing was held Sunday evening in the Underwood United Brethren Church with opening introduction by Hazel White, a congregational hymn, and prayer by Keith Cummings.

The pastor, David Kisamore, then gave a short talk and selections by the Underwood Choir. John and Carolyn Foster had two selections and the trio from New Life Church in Nest Lick was introduced. The trio includes Janet Wilt, Debbie Gaither, and Douglas Gaither at the piano. Several congregational hymns followed.

Mrs. Hazel Upole returned to her home this weekend after spending two weeks with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Stiles, in Baltimore.

John Canan, who is employed in Pennsylvania, spent Thursday night with his father, Larry Canan, and visited his grandmother, Bessie Canan, on Friday.

The name of Jeffrey Rush was omitted from the list of birthday group at a dinner in the Underwood Church.

The Underwood Aid meeting was held Wednesday in the community building in Crellin. The business meeting was opened by Arlena Dilley with prayer and scripture reading by Pastor Michael Mudge.

ACCIDENT BRANCH RECEIVES DONATION - Julie Fratz, owner of Oakland SuperValu, U.S. Rt. 219 North, Oakland, recently donated The Gateway to Imagination book club set from Discovery Toys to the Accident Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library. The book club is a unique collection of 30 of the world's finest, most beautifully illustrated books that have been carefully selected to address the development and interests of children 2 1/2 through 5 years, according to a Discovery Toys spokesperson. Each book comes with a newsletter that gives a detailed explanation of each story theme, along with child development information and suggestions for other types of play activities for sharing with children. Janet Otto, branch manager at Accident, expressed her appreciation to Ms. Fratz for the donation stating that it couldn't have come at a better time, considering the current budget constraints. Ms. Otto added that she especially liked the colorful illustrations throughout the series. A complete listing of the book club by age will be kept at the front desk. Recognizing the importance of reading for continued success in school and beyond, Ms. Fratz said she hoped that her donation of the set will encourage and stimulate reading by children in her hometown community of Accident. The book club was purchased through Sheila Edwards, educational consultant with Discovery Toys. The Accident Branch of the library is open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.; Wednesdays from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.; Fridays from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.; and Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. The library is closed on Sundays and Mondays. This spring, the library will feature a weekly pre-school story hour from 11:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m., beginning Wednesday, March 18, and continuing through May 20. During the summer, a reading club is offered for eight weeks. Pictured above are Julie Fratz, left, presenting the book set to librarians, Ruth Miller, Janet Otto, and Eva Lou Harman.

Park Service Issues Warning Concerning Ice

The occurrence of the recent mild weather conditions has promoted the State Forest and Park Service to issue a cautionary warning to the public concerning use of the surface of Deep Creek Lake at this time of year.

Prior to mid-February, there were many individuals using the lake for ice fishing, particularly on weekends. The recent rains and warm weather conditions have caused a gradual erosion of the ice thickness, and the surface is cracking and breaking up in some locations. Ice thicknesses are unsafe in many areas, the service said.

"We are encouraging all users to exercise common sense and good judgement when using the ice during this time of year" stated Paul Durham, manager of Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area. "We have had a relatively incident free winter season, and would like to finish it without any additional accidents or emergencies."

Information regarding recreational use of Deep Creek Lake may be obtained by contacting the Lake Management Office at 301-387-4111.

Heralds Of Hope Program Slated

The public is invited to a complimentary dinner sponsored by Heralds of Hope, Inc., to be held March 12 at the Salisbury Fire Hall, Salisbury, Pa., at 7 p.m. A multi-media presentation will be presented, using the theme "Go Ye."

For reservations, persons may call Henry Eli Yoder at 301-895-5448.

Economic Overview Presented By Jones To Planning Group

Garrett County Director of Economic Development Tom Jones presented an overview of economic development in the county during 1991 to members of the Garrett County Planning Commission last week at their monthly meeting, telling them that, although construction activity had fallen since the late 1980's, other barometers of economic stability were above the average seen in the rest of the northeast and mid-Atlantic regions.

Jones stated that agriculture has "basically stabilized over the past decade," adding, "We tend to have a growing trend of more part-time farming while the full-time farm units are shrinking in number and are primarily categorized as fluid milk production units. The inevitable pricing swings have both benefitted and harmed this sector in the past several months."

The timber industry, he said, has generally experienced an upswing, both in demand and pricing, during the past year "Traditionally, this industry has been one of our best and most reliable early signals for foretelling better economic times," stated Jones.

On the subject of coal, however, Jones reported that a record amount has been produced in Garrett County and Western Maryland over the past several years but the number of people directly or indirectly employed as a result of that production "continues to decline."

Jones also noted that the "profit margins continue to shrink in this super-competitive global energy industry. Only the most fit producers/marketers are able to survive." He added that Garrett County produces only one-half of the surface-mined coal it produced four years ago and less than 20 percent of what it produced prior to the United Mine Workers of America strike of 1977.

In terms of manufacturing, Garrett County has not been the victim of major layoffs, according to Jones, who noted that this sector has remained "amazingly stable in this recession in terms of total employment,

A BLAST OF WINTER this week was hard to accept, as local residents have been recently enjoying temperatures well into the 70s. The thermometer climbed above 70 degrees on Monday, but didn't manage to reach much above 15 yesterday. The photo above was taken last night on Glendale Road, where high winds caused a large tree to fall across the road and down power lines. Electricity was off in a wide area around Deep Creek Lake for over four hours as Potomac Edison crews braved windchill temperatures of some 30 below zero to make repairs. The cold weather is tc continue at least through Sunday, however there is no significant additional snow predicted. Nearly 10 inches of snow fell on the Mountaintop during yesterday's storm.

Grant Awarded For Mtn. Lake Housing Project

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced the award of a $78,750 grant from the Maryland Appalachian Housing Fund (MAHF) for a housing project in Mtn. Lake Park.

"I am happy that we are able to provide this money to help Garrett County meet some of its housing needs," said Governor Schaefer. "We are proud to be a part of a partnership that will bring much-needed affordable housing to low-income Marylanders."

The MAHF grant will be used toward development of a $180,000 demonstration project targeted to households with annual incomes below $15,000. The Garrett County Community Action Agency will construct four units of housing in the Woodbridge Park subdivision and will own and manage the units. After five years, tenants may purchase the homes. Other partners in this innovative project include the Maryland Association Community Action Agencies and First Federal Bank.

Tenants will receive in-depth counseling and services to help locate mortgage financing. Renters will provide routine maintenance to prepare for the responsibilities of homeownership. Units will rent for $315 per month and $10 of each payment will be placed in an interest-bearing escrow account to help tenants save for future downpayment and closing

Public Hearings Scheduled On Savage River State Forest Management Plan

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will hold two public hearings on the revised Savage River State Forest Ten Year Resource Management Plan. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, March 18, at Southern High School, Oakland, and the second one on Thursday, March 19, at the Barn Theatre, Catonsville Community College.

An informal question and answer period will take place between 5-7:30 p.m., at which time forest maps will be available for review. At 7:30 p.m., the formal part of the meeting will begin with citizens being able to comment on the draft plan.

The draft plan has been revised based on comments made at public meetings in 1991 and an extensive public review process. A prominent feature of the plan is a large water management zone -- a largely natural area with the primary function of enhancement and maintenance of water quality. In addition the plan designates 21 large natural areas. Many trails and roads throughout the forest will be enhanced by expanded scenic buffers. The balance of the forest will be carefully managed to integrate wildlife, economic and recreational considerations, according to a spokesperson.

Copies of an executive summary are available free of charge by contacting the Maryland State Forest and Park Service at (410) 974-3771. A summary sheet, which lists the key charges from the initial to the revised draft, is also available. The full plan is available for review at Maryland State Forest and Park Offices and at most county libraries. The plan may be purchased for $18 from the State Forest and Park Service, Tawes State Office Bldg., E-3, Annapolis, MD 21401: Attn: Resource Management Division.

Oakland Man Charged With Attempted Murder

An Oakland man has been arrested by the Oakland City Police Department and charged with attempted murder, reckless endangerment, and assault.

Arrested and charged was Woodrow H. Tasker, 48, who allegedly cut his wife, Dawn M. Tasker, 32, in the throat with a knife. She was reportedly treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and received 28 stitches in her neck.

Tasker is being held in the Garrett County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

McCain Returned To Mayoral Post In Monday Ballot

Asa M. McCain Jr. was re-elected mayor of the city of Oakland by residents in Monday's municipal election. McCain was challenged for the position by former council president Francis D. Seifert, but edged Seifert by 33 votes, 189-156.

In the race for three council seats, incumbent Dr. Andrew Mance was not re-elected, while incumbents Peggy Jamison and Mary Lou Stemple were selected to return to their seats for another two-year term. Mance will be replaced by newcomer to the council, Harold Cannon.

Jamison led the council race with 275 votes, Stemple was second with 263, and Cannon collected 193 votes. Mance finished with 142 votes.

Also up for election was the town treasurer; however, incumbent Carol A. Gregg decided not to seek re-election and no candidates filed for the post. Elected by write-in with 12 votes was Blair Glass. Glass has agreed to accept the position.

Holdover councilmen include Harvey "Jay" Moyer, Arthur Naylor, and Willard Ringer.

Tax Increase Bill Killed In Committee

The Senate Budget and Taxation Committee, in a 7-6 vote, this week killed a bill that would have generated a reported $430 million in new taxes from the increase and expansion of the state sales tax, and by raising taxes on cigarettes, alcoholic beverages and long-distance service.

It was expected that the tax bill would be approved by the committee but would be on shakier ground in the full Senate. For the time being, however, the bill is not scheduled for the full consideration of the Senate.

One ramification of the unexpected vote is a delay of the proposed six-cent increase in the state gas tax, as well as on other allotments.

Additionally, the budget remains unbalanced, and is reportedly $275 short of that goal. Tax increases or cuts in spending are the only alternatives in bringing the budget into balance, and the Senate's plan already includes over $390 million in cuts to local programs and state agencies.

The Senate proposal would have allowed local governments the authority to raise their local piggyback income tax rates from 50 to 60 percent to make up for the approximate $230 million that would be collectively lost by the 24 subdivisions.

House leaders have reportedly criticized the Senate proposal, claiming it is too heavy with tax increases and too light with

Dr. Ryscavage Presents Budget Recommendations

Garrett County Schools Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage presented his fiscal year 1993 budget recommendations in a recent public hearing.

In view of the bleak and uncertain financial situation of the state of Maryland, Ryscavage has drawn up two sets of recommendations, one based on optimistic revenue assumptions, the other based on more pessimistic assumptions.

In making his recommendations, Ryscavage stated, "I have attempted to place as much emphasis as possible on those needs which support the Maryland School Performance Program (MSPP) within the limited resources possibly available."

Ryscavage stated that his state revenue estimates, derived from the Maryland Department of Education, include full funding of the Action Plan for Educational Excellence (APEX). Ryscavage also projected a lower amount of other local revenue due to lower short-term interest rates. The local levy request would amount to a 2.6 percent increase over the revised local allocation for fiscal year 1992.

The Optimistic Plan

An increase in administrative funding will be used to help implement MSPP through Lead teachers meetings and various workshops; to implement a property inventory system; and to offset an expected increase in legal fees.

Instructional funding increases in the area of salaries will be used for incremental increases--no new positions will be requested. Additional instructional funding will be directed toward the purchase of textbooks, classroom supplies and materials, media equipment, and $50,000 of new equipment following the renovations in Southern High School.

One school nurse and one half-time secretary position have been requested. Ryscavage stated that these are the only new positions being requested in this budget. Currently only two school nurses are serving both middle and high schools.

Transportation funding increases will go toward contractors for mileage and driver's pay. Funds are also budgeted for field trips, athletic and band trips, the health occupations program and the College and Me program.

Operations funding increases will cover depleted supplies and materials and projected utility and heating charge increases.

Fixed charges represent the most significant increase in the budget. Ryscavage cited three main sources of these increases. Firstly, He budgeted for a 30 percent increase in the school board health insurance program (approximately $508,000). Secondly, he noted a significant increase in workman's compensation rates (approximately $20,000) due to more injuries having been incurred in this year than in other recent years. Thirdly, retirement costs increased as a result of state legislative action. The state will no longer cover retirement and social security costs. The state legislature did, however, increase salary and wage

...imously Renews Contract Of Dr. Ryscavage

The Garrett County Board of Education voted unanimously to renew the contract of Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage at the school board's monthly meeting held Tuesday evening at the local board office.

The vote to reinstate Dr. Ryscavage received a round of enthusiastic applause from many of the citizens who attended the meeting.

The vote was cast after board members discussed the issue in executive session. Board President Carol Clark did, however, ask for comments from the floor after a motion was made, and seconded, to approve Ryscavage's contract renewal. Only one member of the public responded at that time, questioning the legality of Ryscavage's reinstatement after the March 1 contract deadline. Beverly Sines-Murphy responded that two weeks ago she had asked Dr. Ryscavage to grant a waiver that would allow the board additional time to deliberate and that he had granted the waiver.

The issue of Ryscavage's contract renewal was initially tabled at a February 27 public meeting because Mikal Moomau, one of the board members, was unable to attend.

Concerns About the Director of Transportation

Citizens were, however, much more vocal when asked to comment on their past experiences or problems with the school board's director of transportation, Michael Sines.

Richard Thomas, a local school bus contractor, presented a petition signed by 1,400 persons which called for the immediate removal of Mike Sines from his position at the board.

Thomas, along with a dozen other citizens present, alleged that Sines' decisions regarding the placement and removal of bus stops put the safety of school children in jeopardy.

Several others alleged that Sines acted in a "vengeful" or "abusive" manner. Dr. Ryscavage requested that any complaints be submitted to him in writing, and asked for documentation of specific events.

One person spoke out in strong support of Sines abilities and knowledge in the area of transportation.

Hafer Criticizes Proposed State Budget Plan

In response to the proposed Maryland budget plan, District 1 Senator John J. Hafer recently blasted the State budget bill that originally included $430 million of new taxes and now has been amended to include $264 million in tax increases. Senator Hafer considers this bill to be another attempt by the "giant state spending machine" to continue to "waste taxpayers dollars."

Historically, targeted tax dollars have been misspent and diverted to the general fund in order to balance the budget, said Hafer, who maintains that there needs to be "a reconsideration of public spending so that we can prioritized critical programs and ensure that necessary educational, health and safety programs be continued."

"These are difficult times for everyone, but this is not the time to be raising taxes," Hafer continued. "Because of the economic state, there will probably be additional taxes at the local levels and, therefore, people cannot afford any new state taxes."

Senator Hafer agrees with Speaker of the House, R. Clayton Mitchell, that government spending must be reduced, and in doing so the necessary and worthwhile programs will rise to the top. "I truly believe that the resolve to this situation will require a combination of options focused around a balanced spending reduction plan," says Hafer.

Referring to the Governor's "doomsday budget," Hafer criticized the process of holding hostage the funding for vital services. "It is absolutely outrageous to cut services to the disabled and

NEW COUNTY MAT RECORD SET - Northern High School's Allen Bittinger returned home with a third place finish in the 135-pound division at the Maryland State Wrestling Tournament, held last Friday and Saturday at Westminster. Bittinger becomes the first grappler in county history to earn three place finishes at the state level, having finished third in 1990 and fourth last year. The only other Garrett County wrestler to place finish at least twice is Bittinger's older brother Blair "Pete" Bittinger, who in 1989 became a state runner-up and in 1990 took the state championship before graduating from Northern. Above, Allen immobilizes Region III champion Chris Mercurio on the way to a 9-4 victory, one of four wins Bittinger recorded in five contests. Other Garrett County wrestlers participating but not placing were Southern Rams Jason Burgess, Pete Strawser, and Jason Rush, and Northern Huskies Jason Fazenbaker and Scott Beitzel. More details and photo coverage will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

IT WAS A PACKED HOUSE at this week's Garrett County Board of Education meeting, at which a vote by board members was taken on whether or not to renew Superintendent Dr. Jerome Ryscavage's contract. The vote was unanimous to renew his contract for four years. Many of those in attendance also voiced complaints about Michael Sines, the board's director of transportation. See story.

"Waiter A La Heart" Event Set For March 20

Final preparations are underway as the Western Maryland Division of the American Heart Association prepared for its second Celebrity Waiter A La Heart event on Friday, March 20, at The Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake.

Celebrity Waiter A La Heart will feature people from all walks of life serving as waiters for an evening to help raise funds for the local division of the Heart Association. Garrett County was the first county in Maryland to sponsor a Celebrity Waiter event in November 1990.

Robert Kurtz, executive vice president of First United National Bank and Trust, has booked several celebrities to serve as waiters for the evening. "I'm proud to live in an area where people are so generous with their community service," said Kurtz. "The people we have lined up are busy people but they made time for the Heart Association and for that we are grateful."

The following people have volunteered as waiters: Karen Spiker and Bill Weisgerber, of A&A Realty; Dr. John Porcaro, physician; Bob Frazee and Francis Grimm, First United National Bank; Max Messenger, Garrett National Bank; Robert Shahan, Checker's Lounge; Tommy and Jerry Thayer, Garrettland Realty; Ben and Carmen Rosenthal, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Sandy Flanigan, Railey Realty; and Tom and Jo Janes, Burnett, Eiswert, Janes, Conger and Green.

Additionally, Jerry Geisler, of the Wisp Resort, and Patrick Gregg, of the Garrett County Weekender, have agreed to serve as guest bartenders for the evening.

"Last year the antics the waiters used to generate tip money (donated to the Heart Association) were fantastic," noted Elaine McDonald, who is chairing the event. "Looking at the list of waiters, I see the names of a lot of creative people, so it looks like 'anything goes' on March 20."

For more information on Celebrity Waiter A La Heart, or for a free pamphlet on heart disease persons may call 334-5865.

Local Artist To Lead Symposium At GCC April 11

Donald Cook, a visual artist from Oakland, will present a symposium sponsored by Maryland Art Place (MAP) at Garrett Community College, Saturday, April 11, from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Artists will be introduced to site-specific projects that utilize native resources including materials, personnel, private and public businesses and agencies, and arts organizations.

The symposium will also introduce the basic concepts of networking, resource development and a survey of similar projects completed internationally. Divided into two sections, Cook will present a slide/lecture during the first half and discuss a project completed last year, "Artists Among Us," which made use of the concepts. A drawing project, titled, "Drawing in the Natural World," will be introduced as a participatory final segment of the program.

The symposium is open to the public and free of charge.

MAP, a non-profit Baltimore artists' organization, is sponsoring the symposium as part of its New Regions program which "addresses new possibilities in alternative arts programming for the rural arts community," according to a spokesperson. The program will also be presented at four other sites throughout Maryland this spring. Interested persons are asked to contact Charlotte Cohen at 410-962-8565.

Funding for this program was provided in part by the Maryland State Arts Council. MAP is supported by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Maryland State Arts Council, the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation, and from numerous corporations and private donors.

Travel Writers, Photographers Tour County

A group of travel writers and photographers from various areas recently participated in a familiarization tour of Garrett County to gather ideas and information for future articles and stories about the area.

The two-day, three-night "fam" tour was sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources and Office of Tourism Development, with local coordination through the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council. Those participating in this tour were Stephen J. Ackerman, Washington, D.C.; Bobby Allen, Eldersburg; Ted and Janet Podolak, The New Herald, Willoughby, Ohio; and Scott Shalaway, Ph.D., Cameron, W.Va.

While in the county, the group visited a variety of sites, including the state parks, the race site of the 1992 U.S. Canoe & Kayak Team Olympic Trials on the Savage River, and the Wisp Resort. During their visit, the group also participated in a tour of the Flying Scot, Inc., Sailboat Company in Deer Park and the Stained Glass Gallery in Oakland. A highlight of the tour was a presentation by Dr. Stephen J. Herman, president of Garrett Community College, on the 1992 Olympic Trials and the newly-formed Adventure Sports Institute at the college. While on tour, the group expressed interest regarding possible future articles on topics ranging from the Olympic Trials to the annual American Indian Pow Wow.

According to Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, this tour is one of several planned during the year to offer writers and media representatives the opportunity to explore different areas of the State of Maryland. Fam tours planned in the near future for Garrett County include spring fishing and whitewater sports excursions.

WM Bancorp's President and Chief Executive Officer Donald E. Stone, announced this week that at meetings held on March 9 at Garrett National Bank and Liberty Bank of Maryland, the board of directors of each institution voted to approve a merger and consolidation of the two banks under a National Banking Charter.

Stone stated that an application to merge the two banks is being prepared for submission to the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency and it is expected that it would be filed within the next 10 days.

"The merger should provide extensive opportunities to consolidate duplicate functions, improve market penetration and expense control, resulting in improved productivity and profitability," Stone said.

It is anticipated that the merger will be consummated by the end of the third quarter.

Two W.Va. Women Found Guilty Of Making False Statements To Police

Two Gormania, W.Va., women were found guilty in Garrett County District Court last week of making false statements to police.

Found guilty by Judge Jack R. Turney were Diana K. Doman, 33, and Teresa L. Kitzmiller, 28. Both were sentenced to 90-day suspended jail terms, fined $250 each, and placed on six months of unsupervised probation.

The two had been charged by the Maryland State Police on February 3 after Doman told police her car had been stolen from Shorty's Bar on U.S. Rt. 219 South on the night of February 2. Kitzmiller told police she also knew nothing about the stolen vehicle. An investigation revealed that Kitzmiller had been with the female who was driving Doman's car when it was wrecked and she and Doman told police the next day that the car had not been stolen and that they knew a friend of their had taken the vehicle.

In other District Court news, Phyllis V. Ziler, 33, Westernport, who had earlier been found guilty of making a false statement to police was sentenced last week.

Turney sentenced Ziler to a six-month suspended jail term, fined her $500, and placed her on one year of supervised probation.

Ziler had been arrested last September when she told police that she had been kidnapped and raped repeatedly. An investigation indicated that Ziler had been with a man, but that the act was voluntary.

Jerry R. Minnick, 20, Friendsville, has his earlier sentence revised in court last week. He had initially been found guilty of felony theft, petty theft, and malicious destruction of property. At a December sentencing hearing he was given a one-year suspended jail sentence, fined $25 for each count, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Last week, Judge Turney granted Minnick probation before judgment.

Minnick had been charged with those crimes on August 20 by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after he stole two motorcycles and damaged one of them. The stolen motorcycles belonged to Edward Carl and Carl Edward Schmidt.

An Oakland man was sentenced last week after being found guilty of being disorderly and disobeying police and of resisting arrest in January court proceedings. At that time, a presentence investigation was ordered by the judge.

Frederick L. Gregory, 27, Oakland, was handed a 60-day jail term (all was suspended but 10 days), fined $25, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation.

Gregory had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office following a November 26, 1991, incident in which Gregory was being disorderly at Highview Apartments. Police reports indicated that he was intoxicated and resisted being put in the police cruiser at the time of his arrest.

At another sentence revision hearing last week, Ronald R. DeWitt, 40, Oakland, was given probation before judgment after earlier being found guilty of two counts of battery. In December court proceedings, DeWitt was handed a 90-day suspended jail term, fined $100 for each count, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation.

He had been arrested in December by the Maryland State Police following a dispute at his home in which two persons were battered. A charge of child abuse against DeWitt was not prosecuted.

Shingles: Caused by the Chicken Pox Virus

Shingles, a painful nerve condition that occurs most often after age 45, is caused by zoster-varicella, the same virus that causes chicken pox. It is thought that after a bout with chicken pox during childhood years, the zoster-varicella virus moves along the nerves to an area in the body near the spinal cord and becomes dormant. It is theorized that physical and/or emotional injury to the body during the middle or late adult years reactivates the virus – only this time the virus causes the condition we refer to as shingles.

One of the early symptoms of shingles is a burning or shooting pain in the skin over the affected nerve. In a few days, red spots appear on the skin at the area of pain. Typically, these spots get larger, become filled with pus, and crust over. Shingles can affect nerves located in the chest, back, arms, legs, or face. Extreme cases may result in paralysis, loss of sight and hearing, and death due to viral or bacterial infection.

Recently the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved acyclovir for the treatment of shingles. According to one study in a recent issue of FDA Consumer, patients who received acyclovir suffered less pain and discomfort during the acute phase of the illness. Capsaicin, a drug being tested in Canada, also reduces shingles pain.

Swanton Man Hospitalized After Mishap

A Swanton man was hospitalized Monday following a one-vehicle mishap on Md. Rt. 135, west of the Lee Road. According to a nursing spokesperson at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, Kenneth H. Tichnell, 68, was listed in "good" condition Wednesday and was expected to be released from that facility.

Tichnell was injured when the 1987 Lincoln Continental he was operating was reportedly run off the road by an unidentified vehicle and into a ditch. The vehicle then re-entered the roadway and crossed both lanes, struck a culvert, came back into the road and again struck a culvert and an embankment.

Tfc. R.T. Wilson investigated the 4:50 p.m. mishap and filed no charges. Tichnell was transported to the Cumberland hospital by the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad.

GIRL SCOUTS CELEBRATE 80TH -- The Girl Scouts of the United States of America is celebrating its 80th birthday today, March 12, 1992. Girl scouting was begun in Savannah, Ga., by Juliette Low on March 12, 1912. From the vision of one woman, "Daisy" Low, the Girl Scout movement has expanded to touch the lives of millions of girls across the nation. Through its informal education programs, Girl Scouting provides opportunities for partnerships between girls and adults. As girls widen their horizons and explore their world, they gain knowledge and skills, confidence and self-reliance that will carry them forward to a productive adulthood. For 80 years, Girl Scouts has contributed its influence and leadership to American society, becoming the largest and most popular voluntary organization for girls and women in the nation. Local troops have many events planned for the week of March 8-14. Troops located in the southern end of the county are Loch Lynn, Swanton, Dennett Road School, Broad Ford School, and Kitzmiller. THREE-CAR MISHAP

A three-vehicle mishap Monday sent a Grantsville man to Meyersdale (Pa.) Community Hospital where he was treated and released, according to a nursing supervisor there.

Injured was Charles M. Livengood, 65, who was reportedly operating a 1988 Chevrolet Celebrity north on Rt. 219 North, near U.S. Route 40, when he struck a 1978 Dodge Magnum, operated by Mildred Blocher, 81, Salisbury, Pa. Blocher was stopped in the northbound lane preparing to make a left turn into the Grantsville Shopping Plaza. Upon impact, the Blocher vehicle was pushed into the southbound lane and struck a 1985 Ford pickup truck, operated by Timothy L. Bender, 28, Grantsville.

Neither Blocher, Bender, nor a passenger in the Bender vehicle, Michael D. Shelley, 27, Grantsville, were reportedly injured in the 2:15 p.m. mishap.

Tfc. J.W. Hare investigated for Maryland State Police and charged Livengood with failure to control speed to avoid a collision and with driving without a required license.

Livengood was taken to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

TWO HURT

A Salisbury, Pa., woman and her son were slightly injured Sunday as the result of a two-vehicle mishap on an off-ramp from Interstate 68 at Chestnut Ridge Road.

Treated and released from Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, were Patricia A. Garlitz, 27, and Christian Garlitz, 1, according to a hospital spokesperson.

The 9:05 p.m. accident occurred when Garlitz, operating a 1988 Chevrolet Spectrum, attempted to make a left turn onto Chestnut Ridge Road and struck a 1989 Chevrolet pickup, operated by Michael L. Bittinger, 35, Grantsville, which was traveling north on Chestnut Ridge Road.

Tfc. Scott MacLane investigated and charged Garlitz with failure to yield right of way at an intersection yield sign.

The Garlitzes were transported to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

HAS SEIZURE

A Deer Park woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital Monday after suffering a seizure at the wheel of her 1986 Plymouth as she was traveling south on the Sand Flat Road, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Donna M. Tusing, 34, told police she suffered a seizure and drove off the left side of the road, struck a fence and then a utility pole.

No charges were filed in the 6:45 a.m. mishap by investigating officer, Tfc. G.R. Chaney. Tusing was transported to the local hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

JUVENILE DWI

A 16-year-old female juvenile was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, failure to reduce speed to avoid collision, and negligent driving following an 11:20 p.m. mishap Friday.

The juvenile and her two passengers, aged 14 and 15, were all taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where they were treated and later released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

According to Tfc. G.S. Becker, the accident occurred when the juvenile, operating a 1991 Ford south on the Avilton-Lonaconing Road failed to negotiate a left turn, ran onto the right roadside, struck a tree, and continued south. The vehicle then struck a second tree causing the vehicle to overturn. The vehicle came to rest on its wheels.

The injured were taken to the Cumberland hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

levels. These legislative actions will cost the local board of education approximately $85,000.

The requested capital outlay funding will provide for the first phase of locker renovation at Southern High School including architect and engineer fees; the proposed new consolidated elementary school; and for repayment of loans for asbestos removal work.

Increases in special education funding are due only to incremental increases for the teaching staff.

The Pessimistic Plan

The most significant possible funding decrease is that which could occur in the area of transportation, resulting from Governor Schaefer's budget recommendations. In this case, the loss of $499,473 would have to be made up locally.

In order to balance the worst-case fiscal scenario, Ryscavage would submit the following recommendations: 1. Eliminate paying Regional Education Service Agency (RESA) dues for one year. 2. Reduce workshops and meetings. 3. Reduce the scope of the property inventory system. 4. Reduce staff development work. 5. Eliminate summer school. 6. Reduce number of teachers through attrition. 7. Reduce allotment schedule. 8. Reduce funding for media equipment and Southern High School furnishings. 8. Eliminate school nurse and half-time clerk positions. 9. Reduce health insurance, workman's compensation, retirement and social security. 10. Eliminate special education supervisory position.

In summation, Dr. Ryscavage stated, "It does not appear reasonable to think that we can come to consensus around any one budget form at this time. Very probably, the final board budget decisions will represent a compromise between these two forms."
